D. R. Peacock with 1,625 votes, H. G. Aits with 1,377 votes and R. J. Wilkinson with 1,037 votes will sit on council for a one-year term. This is Mr. Fraser's first bid for council. Mr. Aits is not on council last year and Mr. Wilkinson has been absent from the body.

The unsuccessful candidates for council were as follows: N. J. McNair, 988; Charles Hilton, 967; Thomas Fisher, 957; John H. Ferguson, 797; J. Roy Brown, 781, and James F. Day, 645.

ADAIR LED POLLS

T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the Board of Education last year, led the polls for re-election for that body with 1,623 votes. George Grover, seeking election to the board after an absence of a number of years, was second with 1,376 votes. Frank Filion, 1,167; F. J. Aziz, 1,161. Unsuccessful were Colin Crewe with 874, and Lou E. Kennedy with 832.

Clifford A. Baker was re-elected to the Public Utilities Commission, and will hold office for two years.

This year, over 50% of the eligible voters went to the polls to vote, which is a record. Last year's 30% vote, was sparked by the contentious issues and the efforts of the Retail Merchants' Association, which has conducted an intense "Get Out to Vote" campaign.

RESULTS BROADCAST

Voters were tallied at the town hall. Results were broadcast from the municipal office by The Holder over CJBQ.

Following the tabulation of the final results, Chas. W. Lerry, clerk-treasurer of the town of Trenton, called upon mayor-elect MacDonald to speak to the crowd in the town hall.

Mr. MacDonald said that he was gratified at the confidence the voters had shown in him and he hoped that that confidence was well placed. He paid a tribute to the services of his predecessor, Mayor Burtt. Mr. MacDonald said that the new council combined the virtues of experience, youth and economy.

Mayor Ross Burtt stated that he had no regrets about his defeat. He said that he had served the town for 17 years as a member of council and for six years in the capacity as mayor, and he felt that the voters had made a wise choice in their selection of his replacement. "We can't all win," Mr. Burtt said, "you have chosen a wonderful mayor."

FRANK SUPPORTERS

Councillors Bradshaw, Lange, Graham and Aits thanked their supporters for making their re-election possible. Each paid a grateful tribute to his colleagues in office and to the electors, and said that he hoped to serve the town in a like capacity for many years to come.

N. J. McNair, who stood seventh in the people's choice for council, said that he was pleased at the result of the election. He said that he had allowed his name to stand for election on the strength of a conviction that the town should wait for a new police and fire station before building.

Lloyd Weese thanked the people who had supported him. He said that he felt his defeat was a good thing inasmuch as he had been busy and could now devote his time to his business. He also takes a months needed vacation.

James F. Day congratulated his successful opponents and stated that he might be in the field again next year.

Successful candidates for seats on the Board of Education expressed their thanks to their supporters. Mr. Lerry thanked the voters on behalf of Geo. Green, who is a patient in the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Clifford A. Baker also thanked the voters for returning him to another term on the Public Utilities Commission.

World's Biggest Liner Delayed By Mighty Storm

Twelve Members Join Foresters

TRENTON (Special)—Twelve new members were initiated into the Court Trent, No. 474, of the Canadian Order of Foresters at an impressive ceremony held at a recent meeting in the Odd Fellows' hall by Sir John Tory, the candidates were also initiated into the Court Moira, No. 1897 at Northbrook under the capable o:e:n:plification by Deputy Doug Pinkney of the Court Belleville, No. 724, degree team.

Both Mr. Reed and Mr. Mc-Carney gave very interesting messages concerning the work of the order and its part in the fight against cancer. District manager Ross Button was on hand to congratulate the new members.

Court Trent also held a benefit dance party last Friday evening to raise funds for the Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants' Inc. at Phelpfield, Ontario. Special entertainment was provided by Miss Prudence Smith and her group of five Belleville with tap dancing, acrobatic dancing and acrobatic numbers. Stephen Chorus and his Rita Blue Birds provided both modern and old-time dance music with Sam Turcotte of Belleville calling the old time quadrilles.

Leonard Velleman, director of the home, was a special guest at the occasion which saw a very good attendance, with every one enjoying the evening's activities.

Alter Frankford, Wooler Phones To Dial System

TRENTON — Telephone dials are spinning this week in Frankford and will be in use in Wooler in these centres are already used to the hum of the dial tone which has replaced the operators' familiar "Number, please."

It took less than two minutes early on Sunday morning for Bell Telephone technicians to take the two magneto exchanges out of operation and introduce dial service. In Wooler the new facilities were placed in operation enabling calls among Trenton, Frankford and Wooler to be dialed directly by telephone users. Incidentally the long distance charges were eliminated from these calls.

The cutover of Frankford and Wooler telephones was accomplished without a hitch. Shortly before 2 a.m. on Sunday when calling had fallen to a low point, the signal was given for the cutover to begin.

In the words, "Pull coils", a group of men wearing goggles and standing behind the main frame in the old Frankford and Wooler exchanges pulled the fuse strings they had in their hands, and almost immediately the air was filled with tiny fuses — one for every telephone served by the two exchanges. Approximately hundreds of the fuses littered the floors. With the fuses removed, the old exchanges were dead.

At the last fuse fell to the floor, the men responsible for special telephone line to the new exchange building in Frankford began to throw the switches placed in operation.

The new equipment room another group of men were stationed in front of the rows of switching equipment, ready to also holding cards, attached this to the switches. Other men, holding tools, little plastic insulators which kept the wires from the equipment frame functioning. When the signal was given, the insulators were removed from the cords. The blocking tools fell to the floor and the new Frankford exchange was in service.

At the same time additional lines were placed in service connecting among Trenton, Frankford and Wooler were placed in service in the Trenton exchange building.

Although the work of connecting local Frankford and Wooler lines with the dial system was an intricate dial equipment, telephone operators in Belleville will not handle long distance calls because calls and assisting persons desiring help in obtaining or dialing a number.

Telephone men themselves contributed largely to the success of the cutover, according to J. E. Pratt, Bell Telephone engineer for the Trenton region. Mr. Parker praised the understanding of Frankford and Wooler people of residents in the two communities.

Prior to the cutover last week a group of city officials and other prominent citizens toured the new dial exchange building in Frankford with Messrs. Pratt and Mr. Parker. Those taking part were: Steve H. W. Ross of Frankford; Reeve Gerald Nichols of Murray Township; George Montgomery, Frankford Public Utilities Chairman; Dr. C. E. Hare, general manager of the Bata Shoe Company of Canada; Ed. Loucks, Frankford printer; and A. G. Austin, of Wooler, former owner of the Austin Telephone Company.

Lights Turned On to Open Festive Season

It was at the signal of Dr. C. K. Herz, vice-president and managing director of the Bata Shoe Company that thousands of Christmas lights were turned on to mark the beginning of the festive season in the village of Batawa, Ont., on Sunday night. Batawa now, the Christmas lights of Batawa have become a tradition and people travel for miles each year to see the welcome designs worked out in Christmas lighting. From Highway 401, four miles away, people can see the artificial Christmas tree reaching to the top of the five-storey-building. Completely decorated from fifteen feet high flank the entrance road to the village and the recreation hall and shopping centre buildings are completely outlined with Christmas lighting.

While the company has given considerable to the newest over the years, schools, churches and homes in the village have joined in the project, with each seeming to be striving for the best decorated home. The possibility of cash awards plus the general desire for keen beautification add to the incentive of friendly competition. Christmas home decorations in the village are already well underway. Various designs of lighting effects, outdoor Christmas scenes and Nativity scenes in life size, have already been erected adjacent to Sacred Heart School and on the lawns in the new building subdivision.

In a brief address at the lighting ceremony, Mr. Herz said "he hoped the Batawa Christmas lights were a symbol of the spirit of the village and the success of the people within for all days to come."

Within a few days, practically every building and home in the village will be part of the decorative scheme. Among the workers already lighted Christmas are: Arthur Bamber, Pat Hennessy, A. Stewart, Frank Dunphy, J. Janecka, W. Arbuckle, F. Markvart and A. Duncan.

Rescued Pilots Former Members Of Rescue Unit

TRENTON—William Silburn and Decoy Leblanc, pilot and navigator of the Fairchild Bercherall Super 18, which was forced down in the Bay of Quinte River, 15 miles northwest of Victoria Harbour, Lake Simcoe, after pilot of the Trenton rescue unit which located the crash and brought them to safety.

William Silburn was the hero of the adventure. Forced to land his aircraft to gently some of the passengers didn't realize they were in danger.

With the windshield heavily iced, he was forced to stick his head out of the window to see and he was forced to wear his protective goggles since they, too, quickly became covered with ice.

Lieutenant Silburn is attached to Air Transport Command No. 1 Trenton, under the command of Squadron Leader Bob Oliver. When first alerted by a phone call from the lower observation at Val d'Or airport, Flight Lieutenant Hunter of 109 Composite Unit of Trenton, Ontario, by Val d'Or and Ottawa search headquarters was established this on Friday night into action. Flight Lieutenant Hunter, Lieutenant F. A. MacLachlan, Flight Sergeant Bill Hamilton and Sergeant Bill Hamilton and Sergeant King of Trenton.

Friday was a busy day for the Trenton co-ordination Centre at Trenton, just prior to the time when the Fairchild Bercherall left at Val d'Or, word was received that a Fokker monoplane aircraft from Malton airport was reported crashing on a Flight to Toronto. Shortly after this the aircraft had landed nearly out of gasoline on Lake Simcoe, some miles northeast of Percy Soutar. Neither the pilot, Mr. Van Brien of Toronto, nor any of the four passengers were injured in the forced landing.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

DANNIFTON-CORBETVILLE

Members of the Scout Committee visiting the newly-former Cub Pack were delighted at the progress made, in one month Cubmaster John Middleton and A.C.M. Kay Putman have brought the Cubs to the point where, as an outsider, they are an old established Pack. The boys are well disciplined and they all enjoy every minute they are there.

Mrs. Putnam is very popular and a natural leader. She has had previous experience with Cubs and her two sons are both Scouts. We are fortunate, indeed, to have such leaders who put all their efforts and experience into making this Cub Pack a successful and efficient venture. They have our thanks and good wishes. There are 23 Cubs at the present time.

A.D.C. Mac McClelland praised the boys and leaders and will be back soon to induct the two leaders.

GROUP MEETING

Chairman Harvey Putman opened the meeting with prayers and welcomed the twenty members present. Secretary Allen Courlette was kept busy and all present that elected to the office was a very good choice.

The new Pack will need financing and to avoid soliciting it was decided that group membership cards be printed and a small annual fee made. These cards will be available at the next meeting.

Mr. Clarence Reynolds and Mr. Bob Hannah volunteered to make a cupboard for the Cubs and Scouts. Cinnifton-Corbett Group is very active Scouting activity. It is a pleasure to attend a meeting where everybody is "for" and none "against."

A tentative plan was discussed to invite Candiffon's first Scoutmaster, Mike Rush to an informal dinner meeting sometime next June, depending of course on the acceptance by Mike Rush and the date which seems best. We hope the guest of honor will be with us for a variety of the village and stories of our respected citizens be-lieved as boys.

Scoutmaster Stan Kerr announced that Divine service on February 21st will be attended by all members of the Scout Group. Also that the Scout Father and Son banquet will be held Easter-Tuesday, Monday, February 22nd. A busy time for the Boy Scouts' Auxiliary.

5TH BELLEVILLE CUBS

Cubs Rodney Reid, Bob Hamilton, Brian Raymond and Ronnie Wardell were then presentals in the recent "going up" ceremony. Rodney has 13 hedges on a amazing feat in the shortened span of a Cub's life. The boy was reduced to almost five a Scout so that a boy can be a Cub for only three years. We looked for a picture of you Rodney, but Mrs. Gelshorpe forgot to include it in the report. Maybe she will get it later. Akela Miss Marion Gilmour and Scoutmaster Ted Webber conducted the ceremony. After the Cubs had repeated the Cub Promise and "Grand Howl" for the last time they were introduced to their Scoutmaster and A.S.M. Bill Post who in turn introduced them to their Patrol leaders. The boys are very active in having such a capable Scoutmaster as Ted Webber. He has done and is doing a wonderful job with his Scouts.

Drivers Stage Horn-Blaring Motor Cavalcade

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal taxidrivers staged a horn-blaring cavalcade through the downtown Montreal today in a protest against a public ban on cruising for fares.

About 100 cars were reported to have taken part in the cavalcade. It assembled about 2 a.m. downtown Claude de Mare and proceeded to Mayor Sarto Fournier's home on Mount Marcil Street.

There the cabbies are reported to have leaned on their horns until the mayor appeared on his porch and told them the city administration would look into the existing ban.

Then they headed downtown and headed for Cabarrie Street, —a main central artery—by driving three and four abreast.

Police are reported to have issued a number of tickets for traffic violations.

A Magnificent Response

Heartening, indeed, was the response on Monday of the citizens of Belleville to the challenge which faced them. They left not the slightest vestige of a doubt that they are vitally interested in the welfare of their city, as they swarmed to the polls in record numbers. In doing so they gave the lie to the suggestion, advanced in some outside quarters, that the election of a mayor by acclamation was indicative of apathy. The large list of candidates for the fourteen vacancies as aldermen, and the record turnout of voters, provided positive proof that Belleville residents have been aroused by the sad state of the city's financial affairs and that they are determined to see this condition remedied promptly.

The officers of the various ratepayers associations have reason to be jubilant about the support given their candidates. Not only did nine candidates for aldermen supported by the Belleville Voters' Committee be elected, but their monopoly on the top nine positions in the voting was broken only by an ex-alderman, Lorne McDougall.

To Leslie Reid, who headed the poll from the very first returns and never relinquished this early lead, must go the congratulations of all. No more impressive tribute to the esteem which he has won for himself as principal of one of the city's three secondary schools could be imagined. The other eight candidates supported by the Voters' Committee included three of this year's aldermen: Walter Hall, Ellis and George Wishart, and they, together with Aldermen Robert Temple and Jack Ireland and ex-aldermen Lorne McDougall and Donald Whalen, give the council the necessary balance of experience to go with the enthusiasm and ideas of the new members.

After the report by Judge Willmott, The Ontario Intelligencer said editorially that an ideal council would include representatives from all walks of life and it is, perhaps, to be regretted that those elected do not include any candidates who could be considered to represent the viewpoint of the working man. It is understandable, though, that at this time voters should have been primarily concerned with selecting men who had business experience likely to be of value in dealing with the difficult financial problems which must be solved in the year ahead.

A Community Effort

Last Saturday residents and visitors in this community saw one of the finest non-commercial Santa Claus parades which they could ever hope to see. Aside from the bands which were present the major contribution towards the success of the parade was the unstinting work of the many persons connected with the parade committee and of the various businesses which sponsored floats. There were also the many contributions which many of the city's individuals made to the parade fund.

We feel that the parade is something quite special because of this. No person or firm was expecting any particular recognition because of his or its participation or contribution towards making the event the success it was. If one were to point a finger at a particular group we might offer our congratulations to Fire Chief Gerald Vance and the members of the Fire Department. But there also is appreciation due to employees from several other departments and a great number of private citizens who contributed much of their free time as well.

But one thing is quite evident. The parade was a success and those connected with it in any way, shape or form should certainly find a great deal of satisfaction from having done the job so well.

With this sort of civic interest and co-operation we look forward to Belleville's citizens putting on an even greater display next year.

THE DREAMER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The dreamer sighs in his city lodge
For fields of green and a running brook,
For life in the open away from men
Who wear a wearied and jaded look.
He yearns for life where all are free
From the taint of vice and stain of sin,
And the cheery dreams of the good he'd do
If the city walls didn't hem him in.

He treads the city's crowded streets
With his pavements white in the sunlight's glare,
And views the struggle for gold and fame
In the faces of men he reads despair.

And hope and envy and lust and pride,
Determination to die or win,
And he dreams of the love and faith he'd find
If the city walls didn't hem him in.

The dreamer lives in a world of dreams
Where flowers bloom and the skies are blue,
Where the purpose of life is love, not toil,
And hearts beat warm and are ever true.
But I sometimes think, as I pass him by,
And wonder, while noting his downcast chin,
If he wouldn't be a dreamer still,
Though the city walls didn't hem him in.

In Defence of Suburbia

Montreal Gazette

Suburbia has been coming in for a lot of harsh criticism these days. Many an exposé has been written stating that the communities outside the big cities have become traps for the unwary.

These suburbs, according to these critics, always are "spreading." They have no civic spirit. Each one does only enough to keep down only to look out on the street, or into a neighbor's picture window.

Life is unreal, dull, conventional, in its every way, it is overcrowded and intensive. There is no true privacy, no independence of spirit, or freedom. Suburbia is filled with those who wished to escape from the city's crush. But now they dwell in quiet seclusion, although the interest of the brave is shackling the dust of suburbia from their feet and they are heading back home to the big city.

But those who live in these new suburbs do not feel nearly so sorry for themselves as the critics pretend to feel for them. Most of them live in extremely well content, and have good reasons for the way they feel. In their suburban home they have gained much of what they sought, and they have in addition wholesome freedom of fleeing back to the city when there is a sandlot to be had.

Most people who live in suburbia have, either for the first time in their lives, a real satisfaction of owning their own property. They have a sense of belonging to their homes and having their homes belong to them. They have a bit of garden (rare in town), where the kids can play freely. Even when suburbia is not quite the ideal that its inhabitants would be supposed to be, it is at least a good deal nearer to the sense of real living than the city.

The dweller in suburbia is far more likely to feel that he has a part in the government of his community than has the dweller in the city. He knows his mayor, his alderman, his reeve, even his mayor, as neighbors.

If the snow is not removed as he thinks it ought to be, he knows where to go and has a considerably better chance of having his grievances redressed. The old city-man's cynical saying that "you can't fight City Hall" is far less likely to be accepted by the suburbanite, and he is right in that, to be true.

He may also have a far closer and more responsible feeling towards the other institutions of his community. He has "seen the school built. He knows where his school board is, and he has met the children's teachers and the principal. The sense of belonging to a society is probably a very practical and lively organization.

The critic may groan about the vast wastes of land in the suburbs. But those who live in the suburbs are likely to see a great deal more effective planning than those who live even in the centre of the city.

The suburb is likely to have its planned shopping centre, with parking privileges. Zoning, which in the city is a vague and wobbling thing, is very real in the suburbs. The people who know about Montreal have done a remarkable job in keeping the different areas for different purposes and in preventing overlapping of districts.

When a person from suburbia goes to the centre of the city, he is scarcely likely to be impressed that he has moved for that day into a garden of delights. He is more likely to come home to his suburb with a refreshing sense of relief.

No doubt those who live in suburbia would all prefer to have ranch homes built in estates, with access to the country, but trees, lakes or mountains, and with a curving motor road from the gates to the main entrance. But such things do not come to many anywhere.

What the suburban dweller has found is a place of his own where the air is less poisoned with exhaust, smoke and soot, where there is a bit of grass and garden, where springtime and summer are more manifest, where summer is not long wait about winter, the snow, strange to say, melts.

There the suburban dweller, energetic and independent and carrying out many responsibilities, has put down his roots as a citizen and has found roots and is strongly attached to the place where they grow. Whatever the critic may like to say, his roots nourish him and he has no desire to be uprooted.

Perhaps and not least, it is only after living in suburbia that many people have learned what it is really to be a citizen. And that is the greatest thing for the person, it is a wonderfully worthwhile discovery.

Strength for The Day

We frequently find people of pronounced Christian character who are members of other faiths.

Gandhi, the Hindu leader and mystic, was such a person. Probably he was not a Christian in the strict or theological definition of that term goes, but there was much about Gandhi that was Christian.

Probably you and I do not read his writings as regularly or as eagerly as Gandhi read his. He never became a Christian. He kept faithful to the Hindu faith of his forefathers. But he was unquestionably in his praise of Jesus. He regarded the New Testament as the greatest book ever written. He studied it with a devotion which would shame a large majority of Christians.

One of the things he loved most was Christian hymns. At his funeral service the hymn "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" was sung.

"Were the whole realm of nature mine,
That were a present far too small;
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all."

It is certainly not true to say that any one religion is as good another. Each of us feels that his religion is best. But we should not look at it in the way that there is some good in all religions.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 8th, 1918

Generosity of Canadian folk in sending their hard-won dollars and cents has touched London. The latest gift of three cheques received today by honorable Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, will be used to buy Christmas gifts for evacuated children. A small community of Mennonite Brothers at Niagara-on-the-Lake sent a cheque for 4 pounds 3s 8d. ($27.40) as a result of a community collection. School children of Belleville, Ont., sent 2 pounds 8s 4d to the fund, a plan for raising funds for the Empire by shilling contributions was used lately. The third cheque in today's mail totaled 8 pounds 15s 4d for the proceeds of a Nova Scotia church concert.

Mr. Hanna and fifty chessmen of Ontario and Quebec, Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture representatives, prominent dairymen, and officials of the Belleville and district and provinces and their wives toured dairy convention cares last night, to pay tribute to the "best Cheese Exhibition at any held in the Dominion of Canada" at the banquet that illuminated the three-day convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and the Third British Empire Dairy Show. The meeting was interrupted as they listened in almost reverent silence to the stirring of appeal of Lieut.-Col. Sidney Lambert, brought out all the best qualities of his well-known eloquence. "I would give fair warning to Hitler, that if he sends his men on Canada soil he seeks to do it the same as he did to Poland and to Czecho-Slovakia, that he cannot do so. And the reason is the combined might of Canada's glorious young manhood has once again risen to the need of freedom, and is marching to suppress the forces of Tyranny".

The special campaign in the re-organization of the Belleville Board of Trade closed last evening and the report showed that 239 new members have been secured. It is expected that this number will be increased to 400 by the end of the month.

The members of the G.W.V.A. will give a Christmas tree party to the soldiers' kiddies, in the Armouries on the evening of December 23rd. To date cash subscriptions of $50 have been received from citizens in aid of the Christmas entertainment of $431.77.

At the closing meeting of the Hastings County Council for this year, a motion was passed, unanimously thanking the retiring warden, Mr. Judson Clapp, for the able and courteous manner in which he had presided over the deliberations of the council.

50 YEARS AGO

December 8th, 1888

It is a long time since the oldest residents of this city have seen dust flying on the streets in December as is the case now. So far the snow crop is a failure.

Everyone, especially the poor, should endeavor to see that sleighing from now until Christmas.

There is talk of a shipbuilding industry being established in this city. A proposition made in this connection is being investigated by a committee composed of representatives of the city council and the board of trade.

An old timer has brought to attention the following item of news ago, in 1822, a man and his wife were hanged in the county house here for murder; it was the outcome of a feud between neighbors in the north. It was a bitterly cold day according to those who saw the execution took place in the open in sight of thousands of spectators from all parts of the country.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A year ago, when I took my favorite winter sunlo boots in to the shoemaker for half soles, he waved them frantically.

"Just listen to them!" he said, nodding his head towards his left hand bench. I did as I was told. "Yak, yak, yak, all day."

They were a lively and blustery crew, a mixed lot of Europeans and Anglo with the accent. They talked loudly over the thump of their hammers and whir of their machines.

"Tuesday," said the shoemaker, handling me my coupon.

Last week I went in again, with the old sunlos.

Except for the sounds of industry, not a sound was coming from the four workers in the back shop. I remarked on it.

"It is the advice of my bank manager," said the shoemaker, "I get rid of those blockheads." That is why I am wasting too much time in talk. I got quiet workers now."

He handed me my coupon.

"When can I pick them up?" I asked.

"A week next Friday," said the shoemaker.

It could be these quiet fellows are slow and take the paisley ease. There is a certain gusto in gab that might impart its salt to the job.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ANY INFECTION IS A DRAIN ON THE BODY

"Dear Dr. Molner: How much damage can a pair of badly infected or neglected wisdom teeth do? I've had several blackout spells, extreme dizziness and fainting, as if my breath is being cut off. My family has a history of some sort of pressure, I have lost weight, and am extremely nervous." (Mrs. R. R. T.)

Infected teeth come under the heading of "focal infection." It doesn't matter, scientifically, whether the seat of infection is in a tooth or some other convenient cranny in the body.

If you had a boil, or an infected finger, or something you could see, you would have it treated because it is painful, and also because a drain is in sight. But if the infection is hidden you are inclined to "wait and see." So far as your body is concerned, it's infection, wherever it is.

With teeth, if the nerve of the tooth is alive, it hurts — as you would expect. But if the nerve is dead, then you don't have the trouble to which you are inviting toothache. Of course, if the tooth has a double set of roots, and finally die, and other white cells take them over, the tooth gradually will be removed by the blood stream, if given time enough.

Should the germs have overwhelm the defences, and go sweeping into the blood stream, then what you would have "blood poisoning" would result. You usually actually see both of the infected areas, just as a police force isolates the worst spot in the city.

All the same, this steady battle is a drain on the body's total resources. If you can find the abcess, locate it, drain it, and let the whole area return to healthy, normal tissue, you benefit the whole body.

When a focal infection continues to be a drain, the protected period, neurits, fever reactions, joint pains, and general feeling of poor health are likely eventually to appear. Symptoms you listed could be from the same cause, or could be from other causes. If I were you, I'd find out — and one way to find out would be elimination, getting rid of the tooth infection and seeing whether the symptoms don't clear up.

Whether the infected teeth should be removed or can be treated by draining the abscess is for your dentist to decide.

Whether an abcess is in a tooth, or (like a boil) on the surface, or in the sinuses, nose, tonsils, gall bladder, prostate, Fallopian tubes or elsewhere, it is putting abnormal strain on your body. It should be searched out — and then cleaned out.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter sent for a health book that says to take two spoonfuls of cider vinegar in a glass of water every day. Don't take it because you're told so and vinegar and cider don't go together." (Mrs. H. T.)

I agree with you and your doctor. An ulcer is a sore; don't irritate it. Give it a chance to heal. There is no reason why anyone wants vinegar for health, anyway.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I asked once before what you think of plastic surgery to increase the size of the bust, but have seen no reply as yet. I am flat-chested, age 22, 32." (Miss M. D., Dundee, Ill.)

The plastic surgeon has to have something to work with. I don't like to give a yes or no answer, and the best I can say is that I am not convinced of its wisdom.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. I. SCOTT

Residents of Belleville turned out to the polls in record numbers yesterday in the city's municipal history was polled. Just over 50 per cent of the 17,000 eligible voters cast their ballots. Shown is the crowded scene at a West Hill residential polling sub-division as residents lined up waiting their turn to cast ballots. One man said he had waited an hour to vote.

ALL RATEPAYERS'

THREE ALDERMEN

Elected

Three of last year's aldermen who went down to defeat were Leslie Digby, 2395; Mrs. Hattie McCabe, 1328 and Claude D. Tice, 936. Others who bowed were Frank Ketcheson, 2210 who topped the 12th position, Mrs. Enid Pointon 2,892; ex-alderman Harold Armstrong, 1,667; ex-alderman Douglas Moxam 1,693; Carl Rose 1,547, 1,526; Frederick Hagerman, 1,506; Arthur Cole 1,511; James D. Hunter, 1,464; Robert Dawson 1,427; Mrs. Vera Rixie...1,073; Douglas Grant 1,033 and J. R. Roth, 974.

The recently-formed Belleville Voters' Committee was successful in sending all its aldermanic candidates, its separate school trustee and its two public school trustee and its two public school trustees elected was the public utilities race.

There candidates were aldermen-elect Barlow, Corke, Deacon, Elliott, Ellis, Harrison, Jarrah, Reid and Wilson; separate school trustee Callaghan and public school trustees Glass and Valeanne. The public utilities choice, Mr. Fred Beeby, was defeated.

SUNDAY SPORTS BEATEN

The Sunday sports question was doomed to defeat shortly after the returns started to arrive at the city hall tabulating office. It followed a brief lead at the start then faltered and eventually crashed to a decisive 4,810-2819 demise.

Sitting public utilities commissioner Allan Bonter meets a worried moment. He took over the lead with the first return and never looked backward. His majority piled up as returns came in and he was sent back to office with a commanding 5,685 votes to his opponent's 4,258.

The race for public school trusteeships were close. Elected Ward One George Gore and James Ritchie staged a close battle with Mr. Olsen returned the victor with 613 votes as against his opponent's 572.

It was the same in the Ward Six contest with Erwin R. Valcamp taking the early lead to outlast his opposition, William Ironside, and win with a 426-413 vote.

The successful team on aldermanic candidates, the first seven of whom will serve a two-year-term will meet a newly-coming up for election next year, took the lead with the re-election of the fourth polling return.

ORDER CHANGES

Mr. Reid swept into the lead which he never relinquished. The remaining thirteen changed in the electoral running but the fortunes of the ballots caused several pendulum changes. Never-the-less they never dipped beyond the fateful "14."

The early top four with the exception of Mr. Reid gradually slipped down the scale with the reverse happening to the lower brackets.

Perhaps the closest race was that for separate school trustee in Ward One Maurice J. Callaghan and M. J. Lynch staged a see-saw battle until the final ballots which gave Mr. Callaghan the victory with a 70 vote lead as against 198 for Mr. Lynch.

The number of candidates for all offices, 37, kept the Sunday sports vote, keen city hall tabulators busy until the early hours of the morning. The first return did not arrive via phone until 4.13, an hour and a quarter after the polls closed, while the last arrived at 2.13 a.m.

Fifty of the fifty-one polling subdivisions sent in their returns. The other one, at the Quinte Skating Club, was not forwarded last night and was not received until this morning. Figures given here are complete, but not official.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS QUIET

The returns were promulgated in the at-times morgue-like atmosphere of the city council chamber. There was little or no excitement and as one wag remarked upon entering, "What's this, an election—or a wake?"

Only a scattering a dozen people present outside of the press and radio representatives and a visiting television motion-picture cameraman when the first return arrived a few minutes after eight. At ten-thirty, there were 26 people, by actual count, in the chamber. Toronto newspapers were represented.

People strolled into the cham-at two a.m. just a few of the

We've heard of people standing in line for the football games and even waiting to buy tickets for the show but it is seldom that residents wait in line for their turn to cast ballots in municipal elections.

But this was exactly what happened in Belleville yesterday as residents of this city turned out in record numbers to elect its 1960 council.

The exceptional interest in yesterday's vote was featured by the fact that $119,000 of the taxpayers' money was unwittingly gone to pay the salaries of playmen on the world champion Belleville McFarlands hockey team, and also by the fact that the city has been revealed to be approximately $600,000 in debt.

This was the figure indicated as result of the judicial inquiry into the city's finances held before Judge A. R. Willmott last October.

Heightening the interest in Monday's election was the fact that the four Belleville ratepayers' association came up with a slate of candidates for council.

Faced with wet, slushy conditions, Belleville voters were slow in turning out at the polls Monday, but by mid-afternoon the lineups had formed and then until closing time at seven o'clock the line at the residential polls were jammed.

At one time around six o'clock at the West Hill residential poll the group of voters extended to the sidewalk and some voters stated they had been standing in line for an hour waiting to cast their ballots.

MARMORA AND LAKE TWP.

MARMORA—John Willes was elected reeve of this township yesterday by defeating his opponent, George Fox, by a vote of 224 to 252 at the polls.

Four council members were also elected from the five candidates in the field. Graham Bateman had a vote of 271, the highest polled by any candidate. Ross Carman polled 269, Emerson Empire Theatre and to meet Sania, and get their autograph. Clarke 263 and Ernest Dedora (283) were elected to the remaining three seats. Charles Clements was the defeated candidate.

Public school trustees were elected by acclamation at an earlier date.

ber, looked at the tabulation board and strolled out again. Not a candidate was in evidence before eleven o'clock with the possible exception of one.

Mayor Gerald Hyde, who is retiring, was an interested visitor. His Honor sat all through the proceedings taking notes and keeping a personal record of the returns as they filtered in.

FILLS UP LATER

Shortly after eleven o'clock the chamber began to show some life, and at 11.30 the place was comfortably filled.

Candidates, the majority of them, the successful ones, or their wives, appeared to be well on the way to election, were present, and perhaps a sudden exclamation as a return was chalked on the tabulation board in the rooms of this newspaper when the augmented political staff stood by a battery of telephones which rang steadily for hours.

Nehru Praises Ike But Sticks To Neutralism

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today the heart of India goes out to President Eisenhower, "a great leader of a great nation . . . a messenger of peace to the whole world".

Nehru was speaking to the Council of States, India's upper house, on the eve of Eisenhower's visit here.

In the speech Nehru reaffirmed his belief in India's policy of nonalignment with military blocs.

"This very policy is today meeting a large measure of success in important capitals of the world. Broadly speaking the world is moving toward an attempt to put an end to the cold war and possibly even to these military blocs ultimately."

KEEPERS TO BORDER CRIMES

He said the border crisis with Communist China is long-term, not short-term, and because Ladakis and China are neighbors bordering each other for thousands of miles we have to live in long-distance terms.

Nehru said he believes the leaders of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain are determined to find a way out of war.

In the present world context it was regrettable that India could be "confronted with a situation which threatens military conflict and war."

"It is not of our seeking, the world knows. But whether it is of our seeking or not we have to meet it and prepare ourselves for it."

C of C Sponsors Fine Santa Claus Parade

MADOC — One of the most successful Santa Claus Parades was held in Madoc on Saturday afternoon. The weather, the community, warm and all the children near and far were on hand for the fun show at the Empire Theatre and to meet Santa, and get their autograph. 1,700 and 1,800 bags were given away.

Bellamy's Majorettes were on hand as well as Bancroft High School Band and school band.

Several of the business men had floats in the parade and everyone enjoyed it all going by.

dishards and newsmen were present.

The "city hall" election ended as quietly as it started. There were no "post-mortems". Radio men of CJBQ quickly packed their broadcast equipment and as quietly slipped away.

The lateness of the hour did not permit the usual broadcasting of the winning candidates' acceptance speeches and words of "thanks for voting for me."

Candidates, for the most part, with no demonstrations. It was a businesslike affair—with a record-breaking vote, with the election apparently conducted in the same manner as usual, and with the "election machine" via radio or phone functioning smoothly.

Eddie Corneal, CN Engineer, Retires With 36 Yrs.' Service

Service in all phases of operation, freight, passenger and yard—has been the experience of Eddie Corneal, Canadian National Railways engineer who retired recently as engineer following 36 years' association with this railway.

Mr. Corneal ended his railroading career as engineer in the Belleville yards after running both freight and passenger trains out of Belleville and Toronto. As a yard engineer he was on swing shift putting in a straight eight hour day.

A one-time farmer in the North Hastings district near Deloro, Mr. Corneal moved to the south of the county shortly after World War 1 and worked for two years with Dominion Bridge before coming to Belleville in 1923. He signed on as fireman with the CNR in June of that year.

Although he has since made his home in the city, during his years as fireman he worked out of many Ontario divisional points and saw service at Oshawa, London, and Stratford. He has been running engine on the passenger since late in the last war.

Being a fireman back in the days before oil was used before stokers were the rule on steam locomotives, Mr. Corneal according to Mr. Corneal.

On an ordinary freight run between Belleville and Toronto a fireman would shovel anywhere up to 12 tons of coal into the engine firebox. And the trip would take anywhere up to 11 hours as freights were put "in the hole" for anything up to two or three hours to allow passenger and other faster trains to pass.

What to the future, Mr. Corneal hasn't yet quite made up his mind. But next summer he will have all the time he wants to keep the weeds out of his vegetable garden.

Newly-Elected City Fathers Thank Citizens for Support And All Promise Good Govt.

Whatever may befall the new city fathers they have to score, last night 14 successful men left with literally unanimous on one plot.

Almost all expressed surprise at the final results.

Only four stalwarts remained on the job when Mayor Hyde's flags assured, the four new aldermen-elect, Temple, Wilson, Corke and Elliott — called it a day at about two a.m. Deputy-Reeve Ketcheson had remained to be heard from).

Walter Elliott summed it up: "we have a really good council, and the ratepayers are to be congratulated putting them in office.

"I appreciate all the generous support they gave me.

"School will ship it forward and get council back in shape. It is a challenge and it is up to us now."

Mr. Elliott thanked those who placed their confidence in him, saying it was a surprisingly generous election.

Mr. Corke also thanked the general public for putting him in office and said: "I think the most of the aldermen gave no thought to the fact they were on the ballot."

He said he was waiting to see what new plans the mayor might have in store. "I'll be up from there." He said council will act as a team.

ENJOYED CAMPAIGN

Ben Corke, who will be serving his first term, said: "I enjoyed all here, said he was extremely gratified by the results. He said he would now take a good deal of time at his new job to give of his best.

"I enjoyed the whole campaign, especially the last night," Mr. Corke commented. Aid. Robert Temple pointed out — in a humorous vein — like the other three aldermen who entered the city hall with results — that the people of Belleville had spoken in no uncertain manner.

"The volume of the vote," he said, "indicates that the people of the city have taken a much greater interest than previously in the affairs of the city."

He congratulated the successful candidates, the unsuccessful ones, and thanked those who had supported him during the election.

"I will continue to work for the best interests of the city as I see them," he concluded.

With these sentiments the four wearily left a by-this-time packed city hall.

This morning the other candidates expressed their thanks for the support that had placed them in office. The general opinion appeared from all seems to be confidence.

THANKED VOTERS

Confidence in the new mayor, the new council and the attendant at city hall for a short period was the keynote. Every confidence in their fellow aldermen, and confidence in the ability of the city through the presumably experienced hands to be soundly administered.

James Barlow said he was pleased with the results of the polls and thanked the voters who had placed their confidence in him, as did Ross Bailey who said he will represent all the people, even if they did not vote or him.

John Deacon said there had been a wonderful turnout as he polls and it was flattering to be elected.

"Now let's get on with the job," said Mr. Deacon.

Jack Ellis, another present alderman, said he was pleased with the result, but had fully expected Messrs. Deacon and Reid to head the polls.

"It shows that when the people get behind a task, they are going out and work, there can be a good turnout at the polls."

He said those elected formed one of the most highly qualified councils ever, with a better than average task to be looking forward to seeing a successful year in council.

Eugene Harrison said he was glad so many turned out at the polls and Leslie McDougall said he was satisfied with the results and there was lots of work ahead for the council.

Those elected, said Mr. McDougall, are ready to put their shoulders to the grindstone and solve the city's problems.

LED FROM START

A new man on council is Leslie Reid, Belleville high school principal who led from the start as the returns rolled in and ended with an unprecedented 5,045 votes.

Mr. Reid said he was gratified and humbled by the returns.

"I had no idea I was going to be this successful," said Mr. Reid. "I hope I merit the voters confidence. We have a good start, and it looks as if there will be some good years ahead."

Jack Ireland said he was pleased with the results, considering he had no organizations behind him. He had his supporters, and maintained, "the people have spoken."

White's Church Holds White Gift Service

WHITE'S DISTRICT — White Gift service was held at White's Church, Bayside, on Sunday evening, Dec. 6th, with Rev. Ralph A. Ward giving a splendid pre-Christmas message.

The choir sang, contributed, "Away in the Manger", and "Silent Night" with Mrs. Ward and Mrs. W. Jeffery as pianist. The Nativity Scene was placed on the communion table by Mrs. Lorne Hunt.

Those offering went to the Missionary and Maintenance while the "White Gift" was given by children and adults are being sent to Miss Elsie Hunt, Reg. N., Burns Lake Island Hospital, B. C. Quiet music was played by Mrs. Burns as the offering was received.

In the Sunday School service which followed, the Misses Lorraine and Joan Hunt, who are leaving soon for their new home in Toronto, were presented each presented with a book an behalf of the Sunday School by Mrs. Ward, who also sang for the junior choir for the past year.

"TIGHT MONEY" SITUATION HELPING TO STEM INFLATION —SAYS B OF M PRESIDENT

G. Arnold Hart Says Monetary Restriction Lays Foundation For Future Economic Growth

R. D. MULHOLLAND, GENERAL MANAGER REPORTS UNPRECEDENTED CREDIT DEMAND, WITH LOANS AT ALL-TIME HIGH; PAID-UP CAPITAL NOW LARGEST OF ALL CANADIAN BANKS

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 — Tight money, with all its attendant problems both for those seeking and those granting credit has been the price of stemming all-out inflation, according to G. Arnold Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal.

But, Mr. Hart told 3 of Montreal's largest most useful contribution that shareholders at their 42nd annual meeting today, "by putting up with the discipline of tight money effects" Canada has already "laid a solid foundation for orderly, stable and healthy economic progress."

Shareholders also heard R. D. Mulholland, the bank's general manager, present a statement reflecting an unprecedented demand for credit, with loans rising more than 23 per cent during the year to an all-time high of $1,777 million, while deposits, including income taxes, amounted to $13,191,000.

Nevertheless this year liquid position was maintained and the bank's capital structure was enlarged so that paid-up capital of the B of M is now the largest of any Canadian bank.

"STRONG HEALTHY RECOVERY"

Mr. Hart said the recovery experienced by the Canadian economy from the 1957-58 recession was "strong, healthy and long-lasting." The gross national product has been rising steadily, he said, and is well on its way to reach $35 billion in 1959, compared with $32.3 billion in the previous year.

Tracing the history of life in the Canadian banking business, "the B of M president recalled that the Bank of Montreal has shared in the nation's money supply to increase from 4 per cent in 1867 to 14 per cent in the months to October, 1958, after which restrictions were taken with "the deliberate purpose of diminishing reasonable inflationary influences that were then very apparent."

ANOTHER SHARP TURN

Since October, 1958, official monetary policy has been to withdraw sharp turn and the central bank has maintained the money supply on a virtual plateau. In this period, the rapid recovery of business has created substantial demands for credit from all types of large and small borrowers all over the country, he said.

In attempting to meet these widespread credit needs, the banks have not created new money, but the time came when they could grant further credit only by disposing of their liquid securities at a loss, Mr. Hart said.

"— — apart entirely from the loss factor, this process a banker describes as dictates of ordinary prudent banking policy will not permit any bank to disinvest itself in government securities. It is clearly in the interest of this point is reached a well run bank has no alternative but to mark as sharply as possible further significant additions to its loan portfolio."

NO "MAGIC WAND"

Nevertheless, so far the B of M is concerned, "considerations of profit and loss would not be allowed to stand in the way of a desire to meet the essential normal requirements of a customer with whom we have long been associated," he said. But, Mr. Hart added that the knowledge that credit was not available to bank to meet all the requests made "has undoubtedly had a beneficial effect on the whole credit-worthy."

Financial as it may be to look for scapegoats in the present tight money position, the chairman does not call for retribution in Mr. Hart's opinion, for "we have been responsible for the orderly recovery at stable prices that has taken place during the year.

"In such event, much more stringent restrictions would be necessary at a later date, or, alternatively, the boom would end in the form of an inflationary culminating . . . in recession and widespread unemployment.

Recalling that this year's increase in bank loans had to be accomplished largely by reducing holdings of government securities, Mr. Hart said: "Expressed in pounds which the banks had sought only the year before — the figure would be considered by many as a dangerously low level. "how long a national money supply that happened to be determined by a government deficit should be expected to satisfy the needs of a subsequent business recovery?"

ADVOCATES FLEXIBILITY

"And now that the need for massive governmental outlays to combat recession has passed, the 1958,

BETHEL-ZION 4-H CLUB

The seventh meeting of Bethel-Zion 4-H Club was held December 4th at the home of Mrs. Fred Wellman.

A discussion, led by Mrs. Fred Wellman, was on frozen meats. The members discussed thawing and cooking frozen meats.

Different menus of breakfast and supper were handed out to each member and each member filled in the dinner menu to agree with the other menus. Mock duck was demonstrated by Mrs. Wellman, and "Shepherd's Pie" by Mrs. Fraser.

The next meeting of the club will be on the morning of December 11th at the home of Jean McMullen.

St. Andrew's W.A. Elects 1960 Officers

WELLINGTON — The December meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held on the evening of December 1, at the home of Mrs. Eric Tripp.

Mrs. G. Upton, the president, opened the meeting. The Scripture reading by Mrs. Broadbridge was taken from St. Matthew 4: 18-22.

Reports were read from the treasurer, Mrs. Davern, from the prayer partner secretary by Mrs. Codling, from the G.A. by Mrs. Tripp, from the J.A. by Mrs. Blower, and reports of the calendars by Mrs. Ogilvy.

Correspondence was read by Mrs. Tripp in the absence of Miss Nash.

The business of the day was attended to, Mrs. Upton thanked Mrs. Tripp for opening her home for this meeting.

The nominating president, Mrs. Upton, thanked the officers for their co-operation to her during the past term of office.

Mrs. Rogers was called to the chair to declare that all offices were vacant. Mrs. Rogers then read the slate of officers prepared by the committee.

It was decided that the new slate of officers be accepted. They stand as follows:

President — Mrs. Reid Blower; vice-president — Mrs. Pritchard; Mrs. Codling; Mrs. Smith; rec. secretary — Mrs. Hare; correspondence secretary — Miss Nash; Dorcas and calendars — Mrs. Ogilvy; "Living Message"— Mrs. King.

Mrs. Blower took the chair and business was completed including the list of hostesses for 1960.

A social hour was enjoyed while refreshments were served by the hostes, after the meeting closed.

Fashionable Footprints

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Shoes share in the general excitement and interest of this outstanding fashion season. Spice and dress cobbles is used for a nice pump with stacked leather heel, perforations around collar and on vamp and an interesting overlay and tongue treatment. Black suede for a late day pump. It has a section of grosgrain ribbon terminating in a soft bow. Completing this trio of fashionable footwear is a "spat" shoe of dark brown suede with brown calf trimmings, open and smoky pearl.

Wedding

NEWMAN — PETERSON

BONARLAW — Springbrook United Church was the setting on Saturday, November 26th at 1.30 p.m. for a pretty wedding when the Rev. H. R. Beer united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony, Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Peterson, of Springbrook, to Duncan Bruce Newman, of London, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Newman.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. John McKeowan, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Linda Wellman as she sang, before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love" and "I'll Walk Beside You," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of floor-length nylon net featuring a fitted bodice of nuptial lace having long sleeves and Sabrina neckline accented with sequins and seed pearls. She wore a finger-tip veil with crown style headdress encrusted with seed pearls and sequins and carried a cascade of white American Beauty roses mingled with tulle and white ribbons.

Mrs. William Reid, as matron of honour was attired in blue net over taffeta with lace bodice. The senior bridesmaid, Miss Doreen Bosworth, was gowned in mauve net in waltz-length, with tiers of Chantilly lace, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Carol Peterson, in pink net with lace bodice. All the attendants were matching headdresses and carried white and mauve mums tied with ribbon matching their gowns.

Little June Solmes, flower girl, was sweet in her floor-length pink frock, with floral headdress.

Master Gerry Reid, the natty ring-bearer, wore grey flannel trousers and a navy blue blazer.

Mr. Murray Ledlow, of London, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Lloyd Davern and Mr. Peterson ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlor which was adorned with pink and white mums and streamers in pink and white.

Mrs. Peterson wore a blue dress accessorized with white and wearing navy crepe with navy accessories. Her corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in turquoise blue brocaded with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, the bride chose a suit of charcoal and blue with black accessories, and grey fur jacket.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Newman will reside in London, Ontario.

Those who served at the reception included girl friends of the bride: the Misses Marie McMullen, Jerrine Spry, Cleo Wiley, and Lalubelle Bosch.

Guests attended from London, Oshawa, Windsor, Marmora, and Springbrook.

Many Parents At Pr. Wales Open House

Prince of Wales School found the auditorium packed for its High School meeting on December 1st.

The president, Mrs. Locke, presided with Miss Hoar at the piano.

Mrs. Orr read the Scripture Lesson.

Room count was taken and new banners which are to be presented to the room with the most parents present in both junior and senior grades.

Thanks go to Mrs. G. Digby, who did such fine work on such short notice in making these banners.

Due to the fact that this meeting was "Open House" night, there was no program and directly after the National Anthem the parents left to visit with the various teachers in their rooms.

Refreshments were served by grade eight and the two kindergarten classes.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Many Friends

WELLINGTON — Between 30 and forty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Callow on Friday evening to honor her granddaughter, Miss Marilyn Callow, (a bride-to-be) with a miscellaneous shower.

A merry time was spent first ringing Christmas carols with Mrs. D. Murphy at the piano.

Several happy games were enjoyed by all with prizes going to, Mrs. Charles Broadbridge, Mrs. Reed; Mrs. Sid Broadbridge, Mrs. R. Moore; Mrs. D. Greenfield and Mrs. McKenzie.

After the contests, Marilyn was seated at a table and Mrs. F. Tripp read an appropriate address to her and the Misses Susan Callow and Patsy Greenfield carried in many lovely gifts. Mary Callow, sister of the bride-to-be, helped her unwrap the gifts, after which Marilyn thanked everyone and invited them to come and see her in her new home in Belleville. Refreshments were served by the sponsors of the lovely party.

Trinity WMS, W.A. Hold Joint Meeting

MADOC — Madoc Trinity Women's Missionary Society and Women's Association held their annual Christmas meeting jointly at the home of Mrs. R. Tanner, on Wednesday afternoon.

The W.M.S. retiring president, Mrs. A. Empey, was in charge and opened with the hymn, "Silent Night." Mrs. Hatched Their Flocks By Night" with Mrs. Empey telling the story of the hymn before it was sung. She passed along a hearty welcome to all present and read

A short business period was held by each society and this was followed by the Worship service. Mrs. Joe Ashe read the Christmas Story from Saint St. Matthew, comment being made by Mrs. Perry Brooms.

The members of the W.M.S. had the program. With the singing of Christmas hymns a varied and interesting program was enjoyed. Taking part was Mrs. E. Moore, who gave a reading, "Christmas"; Mrs. Bennet "Legends of Christmas"; Mrs. Hayton "The Legend of the Christmas Stocking"; Mrs. R. Tanner, "A Joy No Earthly Wealth Can Give"; Miss Annie Holmes — "A Favorite Christmas Story"; Mrs. A. Empey, "Christmas Is Coming"; Mrs. George Fox, "A Christmas Prayer" which closed the meeting.

A social hour was enjoyed with the hostess and her assistants serving refreshments.

Short and Sweet

By ALICE ALDEN

The floor-length evening dress did fairly well last winter, but so far this season it is mostly the short-skirted variety that scores in the pageant of fine evening clothes. From Nettie Rosenstein comes an exquisite evening dress of green and rose printed silk satin, a model worthy of this distinguished house. The surplice bodice is marked by a red silk rose at one side, but the emphasis is on the sideswept skirt silhouette.

Rocking Chair Lacks Appeal For 80-Yr.-Old

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—A rocking chair in a sunny window has no place in the life of Mrs. E. P. Wellwood, who at age 80 has recently returned from a trip that would have exhausted many younger people.

She visited Mexico City for the world meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, then made a tour of Mexico and the Caribbean.

This was only one of many interesting trips for Mrs. Wellwood.

She lived in Japan from 1925 to 1930, teaching in a school for the children of missionaries. She then became executive director of the Edmonton YWCA, retiring in 1945. That year, as president of the Alberta Council of Women, she attended a meeting of the World Council of Women at Helsinki. In 1948 she was in England for a meeting of the Soroptimist Club.

Her most recent tour included visits to a Salvation Army home in Kingston, Jamaica; the YWCA in Nassau, Bahamas, now a teacher at the school.

Mrs. Wellwood found a former member of the Edmonton YWCA for Trinidad, now a teacher at the school.

SMALL CHANGE

BRADFORD, England (CP)—News-vendor Davis Fern paid off half of his 4,000 pennies on the counter of the rent office, and five clerks were called in to count them—amounting to £9.

MONTREAL (CP) — When Albert Wilmot tailor shop with his wife, he is talking to the vice-president of the shoe company of which he is general manager. He joined the company nine years before he did.

Mrs. Wilmot, who wears a size 6½ shoe, said it was her small foot that got them into the business.

One of the founders of the company (Tanino Shoe Company Limited) was the Wilmots' landlord. "When I heard he was in the shoe business I told him I had trouble finding shoes to fit," she recalled. "My 6½ is a rare size, so he brought home shoes to check them for fit and appearance on my foot."

Next step, she was working in the company's office. "I helped a bit of all office work, including bookkeeping in which I had no experience," she said. "I used to bring ledgers home at night and my husband would help me." Gradually she assumed administrative work.

Her husband joined the firm in 1936, when she became vice-president.

"We're pleased to be working together but the worst of it is that we find shoes all the time," Mrs. Wilmot said. "It's a natural for a woman. The buyers, mostly men, ask my advice on colors and ask my opinions on

HARTE-RIGGS W. I.

MADOC — Harte-Riggs Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cecil Weeks.

After the usual business procedure Mrs. Leonard Trotter gave an interesting paper on "Things They Died That We Might Live." The guest speaker of the afternoon was the district president, Mrs. McCrimmon who gave a talk on "Public Relations."

This particular branch of Institute work needs considerable explaining to a young Institute like this and a question and answer period followed Mrs. McCrimmon's talk clarifying knowledge of this department.

Mrs. Franks led a lively singsong in which those present divided into three groups according to their birthdays.

The speaker and the hostess were thanked for their part toward making this a pleasant afternoon.

Refreshments were served.

Harmony S.C. Holds Yuletide Meet

The Christmas meeting of the Harmony Studio club was held at the home of Mrs. K. Veley who welcomed the members, 18 in all, and guests.

Mrs. Scott expressed sympathy to Mrs. Veley and family in the death of Mrs. Veley's mother, Mrs. N. Mangold, who was a faithful member of the club.

Three pupils having completed the work in their grade were successfully passed into the next grade by playing three compositions for the Studio Club. From grade one to grade two Diane Belanger played Study No. 1, Telemann's "Minuet" and "Air" by Handel. From grade two to grade three, Deborah Carruthers played "Invention No. 1" "Lavender Blue" by H. Willan and "Bourree," and also Penny Rose who played "Invention No. 1", "Choral" by Bach and "Slumber Song" by Schubert.

Mrs. Veley presented the above pupils with cards of congratulations.

PART II

The second part of the program consisted of grade work.

Jim Hoskins played "Gavotte" Gemmell "Scherzo," by Hayden, Roger Lloyd, grade one, played "Minuet in G" Wedge, "Bach" by Bach; and "Bagatelle No. 10" by A. Tchaikovsky and Wayne Vance, grade six contributed "Sonata (Pathetique) Beethoven.

The final part of the program featured supplementary work in the form of hymns and carols, when Stephen Ling played "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The following Sunday Sunday-school classes were presented, Marlo Hoogard, "Evening Prayer"; Karen Tyndall, "Bernard's Sunset"; Marilyn Huntley, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus"; Doreen Rush, "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus"; Sandra Burns, "When They Ring Those Golden Bells"; Eileen Hancock, "I Am Thine, O Lord"; Wayne Vance, "Make Me a Blessing," and Irma Embury, "Ping Ong Hanman."

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Christmas carols were rendered by Jim Noakes, "Deck the Halls With Boughs of Holly"; Bryce Christopher, "We Three Kings" and Irma Embury played a special arrangement of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

This same carol was played in duet by Deborah and Michaela Carruthers. Garfield and Stewart Smith also played in duet, "Deck the Halls With Boughs of Holly" as did Jim Noakes and Mrs. Veley who played "O Faithful Fire."

Mrs. C. Scott led in a sing-song of Christmas carols.

David and Sharon McDould played "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" in duet and Steven Ling and Mrs. Veley brought a most enjoyable program to a close with a duet, "Jingle Bells." Christmas parents were exchanged and refreshments were served.

QUESTION BOX

Question: When writing a card to present a gift, or including a Christmas card (any kind of card for that matter), should it be written in same words as the gift? Seems to be quite a difference of opinion as to how it should be. Also write about etiquette matters. Some say that the person signing the card, whether it be the husband or the wife, should put their name first. Others say that the woman's name should come first. What do you think?

Answer: This is a case of "ladies first," in my opinion. For anybody, when signing a Christmas card (or having your names imprinted) unfortunately upon it) it should be "Elizabeth and John Doe," not the other way round. In other words, it should be followed in all cases. In passing, I'd like to comment again that it is always wise to include the Christmas season, even if you are a good friend of the person to whom you are sending the greeting. This is just to make sure that the recipient will know which "Elizabeth and John" sent the card!

Question: It annoys me when friends arrive bearing hostess gifts. Dinners when you invite them to a party. It means that the hostess has to make a fuss, also everything, and see that the flowers are placed in a vase. What do you think about this?

Answer: This is a misplaced desire on the part of the guest to extend appreciation for your hospitality. Actually it is not right place, but the timing is bad. To begin with, the hostess has undoubtedly purchased floral decorations for the party and the attractive arrangements at the last moment are superfluous. So much better if a guest arrives with her thanks, is to send the flowers the day after the function, enclosing a note of appreciation. Actually, a note is far more appreciated once you have been the guest of honor.

Question: If a wedding is to be formal, but not elaborate, is it acceptable to have five bridesmaids—one matron of honor and four bridesmaids? A bride who does not want to have a large procession by having too many, instead of too little in the showing-off procedure, is also afraid of having her sisters and two close friends if she does not include them in her bridal party. Would it help any to have two matrons of honor?

Answer: It is perfectly correct to have five attendants at a formal wedding, whether it be small or on a large, elaborate scale. However, you should not have two matrons of honor, and one. Why not have a sister as maid of honor (usually the eldest one)? This would leave three bridesmaids, and they may be either married or single, ambiguous as this sounds.

Many Women Win Council Seats in Ontario

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mrs. Bernadette Smith, who was Woodstock's first woman mayor in 1953, swept back into office Monday after a lapse of one year.

Mrs. Smith, wife of Michael P. Smith, defeated veteran mayor and ald opponent George T. Lawson by about 150 votes. Mrs. Smith held the mayoralty from 1953 to 1956 and before that had served on city council.

The town of Durham also got a new woman mayor, Miss Marion Calder.

MANY ON COUNCILS

Many women were councillors seats throughout the province. They included Helen Moffatt at Chatham, the city's first woman alderman.

Others are Mrs. Doris Acheson, Lindsay, who polled the most votes for the six councillors elected; Mrs. Isabel Post, Orillia; Ruth Bonham, Sarnia; Mrs. Jean Fisher, Cobourg; Mrs. Cecile Bechard, Wallaceburg; Elvie Lowell, Ingersoll; Mrs. Anna M. Hughes, Waterloo, and Mrs. May Mooney, Goderich.

Not all the women candidates, however, tasted victory. At Stratford, where Mayor R. E. Mountain did not seek re-election, Mrs. Evelyn Moore lost in her bid for the office by a substantial majority to C. H. Meier.

Councillor Effie McCabe was defeated in her bid for re-election at Belleville. She was trying for her fifth term.

DEPUTY TAKES OVER

Two women played a part in elections at the Sudbury area townships of Drury, Denison and Graham although neither contested an office. Noreen Graham is in hospital.

Returning officer Mrs. Selma Nyyssa was injured in a traffic accident and deputy Mrs. Frank Fraser took over. The deputy didn't know the ropes, however, as she had been an understudy to the job for four months. Mrs. Fabella becomes town clerk Jan. 1, succeeding Mrs. Nyyssa who has announced her retirement.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a nurse-poor editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lucy J. — Bernice has turned away from us.

Bernice D. — They didn't let me marry.

Lucy J. — My sister and I are in our early 30's and were both unmarried until recently when my sister married a man she had known for nearly ten years.

Since she has married, Bernice's personality has changed completely. She is entirely under the domination of her husband. He is very nasty to her and tells her that my mother for reasons I can't imagine. My sister now sticks with his family.

Bernice has stopped contributing to my mother's support as a widow and needs this money and I don't see why I should have to take on the whole burden. I blame Bernice's selfishness on her husband. She is working full time, but he is very stingy. He won't let her pay anything.

Bernice D. — I don't see why I have to contribute to my mother's support just because I happen to be working. I am married woman now and if I weren't working I couldn't ask my husband to help my mother, could I? We need this money to set up our own home.

Now that I am married I realize that I sacrificed everything for my mother and sister and I didn't get everything until so late because of them. I didn't want to leave them alone and they didn't want to let me go. If not for my husband's persistence I never would have married.

My mother and sister have treated my husband very coldly and that's why he doesn't want much to do with them. But his family has been wonderful to me and I love them more than mine.

The Council: Bernice's story that her mother and sister kept her from marriage is a rationalization that should have gone out with hooped skirts. A modern young woman is subjected to a barrage of influences which encourage her to marry and break the chains of any evil persons who attempt to hold her back. It takes a lot of emotional resistance for a mature person to withstand all the powerful forces favoring it.

As for the idea that Bernice was afraid to leave her mother and sister alone, we don't buy that either. Economic and social opportunities are immense in our country today. Bernice would not have to leave her family alone in a barren shack miles from the nearest neighbor.

If Bernice will recognize her own responsibility for the course of her life, she will be able to look at her mother's and sister's situation in a more lucid and sympathetic spirit. The two women were undoubtedly fearful of being left without her and were wrongly antagonistic toward her suitor. But this doesn't absolve Bernice from the need to accord them fair and decent treatment. We don't think it is fair for her to place the entire burden for the mother's support on her sister. Whether or not she continues to work, she should try to arrange some contribution to her mother.

Lucy, on the other hand, should try to recognize that her own hostility is provoking an unfriendly attitude on the part of her brother-in-law. She should try to rid herself of her resentment toward him and her sister and seek fulfillment in life for herself.

Women's Activities

BETHANY W. M. S.

The Christmas meeting of the Bethany W.M.S. was held at the Church hall.

The theme of the meeting was "A Christmas Carol is Born." Quiet music was played to open the meeting. A short meeting about the Christmas Night, Holy Night" was read by Mrs. Harold Pound. Prayer was said by Mrs. Pound.

"The Story of Silent Night, Holy Night" read by Mrs. Russel Ritz and Mrs. Doug Martin.

The offering was taken and dedicated.

Mrs. Vernon Hamilton and her group had charge of the program which opened with several carols. A short Scripture reading by Mrs. Hamilton and a hymn were followed by prayer said by Mrs. Hamilton. "No Room in the Inn" was read by Mrs. Vernon Hamilton, the singing of "Away in the Manger," "A Christmas Thought" was read by Mrs. Arthur Hamilton. A solo was rendered by Mrs. Clayton Eggleton. "The Faithful Reindeer" was read by Mrs. Harold Ritz and "The Christmas Story" was read by Mrs. R. Hines.

Mrs. Pound took over the business portion of the meeting, presiding over with a Christmas tree, gifts and lunch served by Mrs. Vernon Hamilton and her group.

Note the Sugarless Variations

The price of eggs is down and with Christmas coming on

So I turned the good news into a sample of one of my old favorite Lemon Snow and not so common Grape Sponge. Both are served with soft custard. But to make these useful dishes I made up two separate batches of each using sugary instead of sugar. This way our diabetic readers and our dessert-craving reducers can eat them with a clear conscience and no deleterious after effects.

Song Chaser, Helen Creighton

For many years Helen Creighton's search for songs was basically a labour of love. Recent years have brought her national and international recognition as well as 3 Rockefeller fellowships and 3 Canada Council grants to enable her to continue her valuable work.

In the Public Archives of Nova Scotia, Dr. Creighton checks some of the 400 odd tapes deposited there. Originals are lodged in Canada's National Museum in Ottawa. Thanks to her tireless efforts, a colourful part of Canada's storied past has been preserved.

In her study overlooking Halifax harbour, Dr. Creighton spends the winter months collating her summer's work. Folk songs are typewritten and checked with tape recorder; folk tales, superstitions, remedies and ghost stories are classified and entered on index cards.

Dr. Creighton feels that Canadian writers and musicians would do well to turn to their country's rich store of folklore for inspiration, as C.B.C. producer John Hobday did. Here they discuss one of a series of dramatic presentations based on her book, "Bluenose Ghosts."

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Nova Scotia's famed folklorist, Dr. Helen Creighton, has been chasing songs most of her adult life and in the course of a rich and rewarding career she has uncovered a wealth of musical treasure scattered throughout Canada's colourful maritime provinces. In her quest for authentic folk songs and folk tales she is a tireless traveller to the provinces' many ports and fishing villages where old-timers readily record their repertoire of old songs for her, or into sun-drenched fields where farmers sing their work songs as the golden grain is lifted onto wagons. She has scoured many of Nova Scotia's wave-lashed off-shore islands to track down a song, travelling about Bon Portage Island by ox-team, and trundelling her modern tape recorder around Devil's Island in a wheel-barrow. Above, on a jetty strewn with lobster pots, William Gillie of Sambro, N.S., records some songs. Above, left, Helen Creighton displays a "Seaman's Puzzle"—part of her folklore collection. Sailors were given puzzle when imprisoned, kept prisoner until cord was removed. Right, a playful kitten poses on the keys of her melodeon—a miniature organ which Dr. Creighton took along in the early days of her song gathering. She picked out the tune as singers sang their age-old songs, adding to her prized collection.

Dr. Helen Creighton has delved into the folklore of Canada's Maritime Provinces, and especially her home province of Nova Scotia, for the past 31 years, uncovering sagas and songs which, but for her efforts would be lost in the dust of the passing years. Born in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, at the turn of the century Dr. Creighton attended the University of Toronto until ill health forced her to abandon her chosen career of social work. Following this she free-lanced for newspapers and magazines in Mexico City, Ottawa and Halifax. Then she heard of old Ezos Hartian at the mouth of Halifax Harbor and thought that anyone who sang pirate songs would be a good subject for a story. He sang for her saying "me teeth is gone and me voice is rusty," but she was captivated by the beauty that still lived in his music, and songs have held her captive ever since. Through backwoods, up mountains and to lonely islands Helen Creighton made her way by ox-cart, shank's mare and fishing dory to seek out the last disappearing folk songs of the old timers. Her first book published in 1928 established her international reputation. Following this she gave lectures in New York and Montreal and went on to publish more books, one of which, "Folklore of Lunenburg County" is esteemed as an important anthropological text. Another book, "Bluenose Ghosts" is an eerie collection of ghost stories that Nova Scotians like to tell at nightime when lamps flutter in the darkness and shifting shadows move spookily over hearth and countryside. She has recorded for the Library of Congress, Washington, and since 1947 the National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, has supported her work. A host of learned societies and clubs have honored her. This summer she travelled to Roumania to attend UNESCO's International Folk Music Council. Recently she was elected a vice-president of the Canadian Folk Music Society. A Canadian ballet, "Sea Gallows" and an opera, "The Broken Ring" have been composed, based on her wonderful collection of folk music.

Dutch Group Refused Right To Charter Plane

TORONTO (CP) — Eighty-four Dutch immigrants counting on a cut-rate air trip to their homeland for Christmas had the deal washed out during the weekend by the United States Civil Aeronautics Board.

Lucas Koops of Burlington, the Dutch-born travel agent who arranged the trip, said:

"There is a definite possibility that someone torpedoed the whole thing."

The board refused to allow a British Overseas Airways plane, chartered by the Canadian Holland Club of Burlington, to take off Friday from Buffalo, N.Y. It said the club was not "charter worthy."

One of the reasons given was that international aviation regulations require that a club be well established before it can charter flights for its members. The board said the Burlington club, founded last year, had grown too fast and was unable to prove it had been formed for any other purpose than arranging charter flights.

The return charter fare to Holland would have been $250, compared with $375 on regular flights.

Canniffon

CANNIFTON — On Wednesday evening a number of friends and neighbors from Moscyneore gathered at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews to present them with gifts, as it was impossible to do so prior to their moving.

The address was read by Mrs. Roy Vance, saying how much the members will be missed in the community, in church work and other activities.

Mr. Ray Vance and Mr. Stanley Webb then presented them with a fireglow table and table lamp, for which Mr. and Mrs. Andrews expressed their thanks for kind thoughts and for the gifts.

Several readings were then given by Mrs. Joe Cuckler, Mrs. Frank Cuckler, Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. Earl Alexander, Miss Ann Kincaid and David Dean.

A contest led by Mrs. Stan Webb was won by Mrs. Elaine Kincaid. A social chat of past times together was enjoyed, while the men played euchre.

A pleasant evening was then closed by many varieties of good things to eat and the exchanging of Christmas greetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews have purchased their new home from Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bonkowskis, of Point Anne.

On Friday evening a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Bell, Bellrose, R.R. 6, Belleville, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Beal's and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Keesey's wedding anniversaries, which were in November.

The evening was pleasantly spent playing euchre; favors going to Mrs. Percy Alkey, Mrs. Reid Bell; low, Mrs. Annie Akey; men's, Mr. Cecil Keese, Mr. Percy Akey; low, Mr. John Beale. Ladies' lone hand, Mrs. Mabel Keese; men's lone hand, Mr. John Botting; lucky plate, Mrs. Mary Clapp.

Later Mr. and Mrs. John Beale and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Keese were escorted to the table which was spread with a lace cloth and centred with two wedding anniversary cakes. Mrs. Keese donated the one cake for the Beale and Mrs. Annie Akey and Mrs. Percy Akey donated the other one to Mr. and Mrs. Keesey. They were suitably decorated.

After refreshments Mrs. Clarence Holmes read a pleasing address to the happy couples, and Mr. Reid Beale with them gave a set of dishes, for eight.

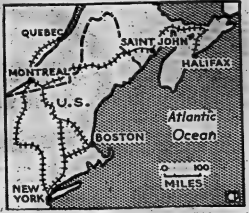
Mrs. Holmes then read an address for Mr. and Mrs. Keesey and they received a rocking chair. The presentations were made by Mrs. Mabel Keese and Mrs. Percy Akey.

The surprised couples thanked every one for their nice gifts, after which all joined in wishing the happy couples many more years of married life together and for good health.

All exchanged Christmas greetings and sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

COLLISIONS ON BRIDGE

NEW YORK (AP)—Two traffic collisions 12 minutes apart on the rain - swept Queensborough Bridge injured 16 persons Sunday night, two of them critically. In the first accident, a taxicab and a car collided near the east end of the bridge which spans the East River. Three cars in a line collided in the second crash when the leading auto stopped sharply.



Local man, 70, asserts "There is a real Santa Claus"

Recently at a family gathering to celebrate his 70th birthday, Mr. H. B., emphatically made this statement—"There is a real Santa Claus". Later, when asked what he meant, he replied that he was going to be Santa Claus as of Christmas 1960.

You see, last week Mr. H. B. enrolled as a member in Imperial Bank's new Christmas Club. With regular weekly deposits of 50¢, $1, $2, $5, or $10 (whatever sum he decides on) come Christmas 1960, why he is indeed going to be Santa Claus to all his family and friends!

Why don't you drop into your nearby Imperial Bank Branch? Ask about the Christmas Club. If you join soon, you can be Santa Claus next year to all your relatives and friends.

SEEK CANADIAN TRADE — Boston port officials are seeking more Canadian business during the winter months.

Officials of the Massachusetts Port Authority met with Canadian shippers in Montreal, December 1, in an attempt to attract new shipping to Boston.

Port Director Frank L. Orlandella said he hoped to convince Canadian shippers to use Boston during the winter months when the St. Lawrence Seaway is icebound.

Bulk of the diverted shipping during these months usually goes through Halifax, St. John, N.B., or New York. The authority claims that Boston is a day nearer to Europe by sea and freight rates are similar to New York's.

Elder Refuses To Wed Couple Of Mixed Color

TORONTO (CP)—An elder of the Seventh Day Adventist Church refused to marry a West Indian man and his Canadian bride Saturday night on grounds of mixed color.

Later a Baptist minister married Alfred Irving Greaves and Gloria Marilyn Woods.

Kenneth L. McComas, elder of the Seventh Day Adventist Church which conducts its services at Carman Memorial United Church, said his refusal was his own personal decision.

"My denomination neither encourages nor discourages marriages between persons of different color. However, I would have done the same if it had been a white person and a Japanese or a white person and a Chinese," he said.

He said a mixed marriage was wrong if only from the standpoint of the couple's offspring. "The children of such a union are rejected by the white race because they are not white and by the black race because they are not black," he said. "They can even end up feeling badly towards their parents."

IN GOOD STANDING

Mr. McComas said the couple who had come from British Columbia where the bride was born, are both members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in other locations and are both in good standing.

The groom is a graduate of the Seventh Day Adventist College, College Heights, Alta.

After Mr. McComas refused to perform the ceremony, the minister at Carman United Church service the wedding party of about 30 was assembled was approached but said he was not entitled to marry persons outside his denomination.

Two hours after the ceremony was to start the church organist appealed by Rev. Frank J. McMillan of First Baptist Church who came to the United Church and performed the ceremony.

PLASTIC CONTAINERS

EDMONTON (CP) — Beer in plastic "squeeze bottles" was suggested at the annual convention of the Alberta municipal districts association. Delegates complained about bottles and broken glass littering ditches on country roads.

Saturday night at the local "Y" was a big success for the boys and their parents. Above may be seen one of the many displays put on for the visitors as the Prep members indulge in a tumbling and running game. These activities were arranged by the physical education director, Doug Paton, with the assistance of the members of the "Y's" Leaders' Corps.

Fathers Enjoy Activities Put on by Boys on 'Y' Night

Saturday night was parents' night at the Belleville YMCA for the boys. Several hundred people were present to see a display of a few of the many boys' activities which are conducted during the winter program going on in the ancient brick building at 20 Campbell Street for Belleville's youth.

Messrs' Jack Dickens and Bill McMurtery, representatives of the Y's physical education committee, extended a welcome to parents and visitors at the opening of the evening's program, which started off with a vigorous floor hockey game amongst a group of the junior members of the "Y".

This was followed with a games display by about 60 prep members. The excitement and enthusiasm of the boys for this sort of recreation was quite evident and they put on a very good show. Following this a demonstration on the flying rings by the members of the Junior Leaders' Corps was well received by the audience, especially by the antics of the "janitor".

A number of Public Schools Beginners' Certificates, which had been earned by former members, juniors in the grade eight of the local schools, were presented on behalf of the Public School Board and the Ontario Water Safety Council. Classes for these and other non-swimmers are being held at the YMCA during school hours as a part of education in water safety.

WELCOMED BY CHAIRMAN

Mr. Jack Ireland, chairman of the board of directors of the local "Y", gave the official welcome to the visitors and spoke briefly on the new building program which the "Y" is undertaking in order to provide facilities adequate to the demands which local citizens are placing on the YMCA in Belleville.

A demonstration of swimming by the prep members and a gym training display using various pieces of apparatus concluded the evening's program. In the latter display, members of the Junior Leaders' Corps gave instruction on the rings, spring board and box horse, trampoline and mats to groups of Juvenile members.

Following the evening's events refreshments were served to the parents, visitors and members. Everyone agreed that it had been a most successful evening.

New Aggression by Red China Foreseen by Panel of Experts On U.S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A panel of foreign policy experts warned Monday night of the danger of a new aggression by Red China and said Russia's current peace drive is a tactic aimed at expanding Soviet power.

It also called on U.S. leaders to stop "jolting along from crisis to crisis" and develop daring and inventive foreign policies to help shape a new and peaceful order in world affairs.

The 30,000-word report was prepared under the sponsorship of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. It laid special emphasis on the need of U.S. leaders to obtain maximum public discussion of foreign policy issues by providing full information. Otherwise, the report said, negotiations with the Soviet Union tend to become simply "sterile or dangerous bartering."

The report warned against any retreat from West Berlin or any agreement which would dissolve North Atlantic alliance or allow West Germany to fall within the Soviet orbit.

Premier Khrushchev's new tactic, it said, is more subtle and complex but no less menacing than the old tactic of threat and force in the Stalinist years.

Turning to Communist China, the report said it is "in a posture which, in past historical experience, has almost invariably led to aggression."

China has a rapidly growing population, a shortage of vital resources and a fanatical ideology, while "soft situations" exist in many of its neighbor countries.

Furthermore, Red China looks upon the United States as its "supreme enemy, the one major obstacle" to its domination of all Asia. Its "overriding political and strategic aim is undoubtedly to undermine American influences, to separate the United States from its friends and supporters in Asia, and to force the withdrawal of United States defensive forces."

The report suggested that eventually Red China's growing strength—especially if it acquires atomic weapons—may put heavy pressure upon its relations with Russia.

Two former assistant secretaries of state, Dean Rusk and Adolf A. Berle Jr., are among the members of the foreign policy panel.

The report was written principally by August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund.

Soldiers Find It 'Real Good' To Be Home

HALIFAX (CP) — Nearly 700 soldiers, their wives and children arrived here Monday aboard the liner Ivernia, bound for communities across the country and Christmas in Canada.

Scores of wives and children—some who had never seen Canada before — lined the starboard deck of the Cunard liner.

"I liked Germany but it's definitely good to be home," said the wife of service corps Pte. George D. Polvin of Valleyfield, Que. Mrs. Polvin is the former Nancy Freeman of Kingston.

Guardsman James Holden of St. John's, Nfld., his German bride and two-month-old son planned to head for Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Corporal D. M. Giroux of Ottawa is looking forward to everything—television, Canadian style. "I don't know," he said, "but I seem to miss TV most of all." With him were his wife and daughter Sharron, 13.

The Ivernia, bounded by heavy seas, was four hours late docking. After periods of heavy ranging from 15 to 30 days, the soldiers will be posted to army units throughout Canada.

One Sitting Mayor Returned In Elections in Six Ontario Cities Held on Monday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Only one sitting mayor will be back in office next year in the six Ontario cities that held municipality elections Monday.

He is Gatt's A. W. A. White, who was re-elected for another term. He defeated E. M. (Ted) Griffiths by more than 1,000 votes.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Stratford and Waterloo, the sitting mayors didn't seek re-election and still contests produced new chief magistrates.

The mayors of Woodstock and Kitchener were unseated, one of them by a woman. She was Mrs. Bernadette Smith, former Woodstock mayor who upset C. LaFlair by about 100 votes.

In Kitchener, Clifford Reitzinger was beaten by Harry Wambold by about 200 votes in heavy balloting.

Sault Ste. Marie's mayoralty post, left vacant when Walter Harry decided not to run again, was filled by James L. McIntyre. He defeated three other candidates, leading his closest opponent by more than 1,000 votes.

James Bauer easily defeated Norman Ratz in Waterloo, where Mayor Harold Paikin withdrew but stood for a council seat and polled the highest number of votes.

The Stratford office was vacated by R. E. Mountain and the new mayor is H. Maller, who polled a 2 to 1 majority over Mrs. Evelyn Moore.

Interest in the other Ontario cities that voted Monday lost some zing when the mayoralty had been returned earlier by acclamation or still had a year to serve. Those acclaimed were A. McLean Haig, Belleville; Carson Ings, Guelph, Franklin J. Miller, Niagara Falls, and Fred Johnston, London. Mayors Jean Walker of Sarnia and Mrs. Catherine Seppala of Fort William still have a year to serve.

Civic election in Belleville had a particular interest because of a royal commission inquiry into the city's financial affairs.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde did not seek re-election and three of the eight members on the 1959 council were defeated. Five others retained their seats—Walter Elliott, Jack Ellis, Reginald Wickett, Robert Temple and Jack Ireland. Defeated were Les Digby, Claude Tice and Mrs. S. E. McCabe.

There were few upsets in other municipal elections throughout the province. The exceptions included Whitby, where Stanley Martin defeated Mayor Harry Jerwyn, who had held the post for nine years.

In the town of Preston, Ivel Sharrt was defeated in a bid for his sixth straight term as mayor. His successor is James MacIlwaid, who was defeated when he tried the mailbox two years ago.

Mayor Julian Ferguson of Collingwood, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Simcoe North, was unseated by less than 50 votes by Gordon Brandif.

The first municipal elections in 43 years were held at Erie Beach, a small village 17 miles southeast of Chatham. D. G. McGregor beat reeve Clarence Moulthorpe, who had won the office by acclamation for the last 20 years.

All but one of Hope Township's five-man council were unseated when voters protested imposition of a subdivision control bylaw. The 60-per-cent turnout was the township's highest in years. The new council was pledged to repeal the bylaw.

At Chatham, Mrs. Helen Moffat became the city's first woman alderman. She was the last of a four elected, polling 3,164 votes.

Reeve Lea Baird was re-elected for another term in sprawling Tuck Township in Northern Ontario, outscoring his only opponent by a more than 3 to 1 majority.

Robert M. Simpson, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, was re-elected as mayor of Arnprior, on Ottawa Valley town. But in only just made it, with a majority of 11 votes over Hugh T. Cranney.

Kenora's Mayor Peter Raiuki did not try for re-election and all voted on allowing Sunday shopping in Dunnville and Kitchener this was favored, but in the Belleville vote it went down to defeat.

Band grants were approved in Casimir, Dunnville and Port Colborne. Expenditures for bus systems were approved in Guelph and Stamford.

Kitchener voters balloted against making the town council term a two-year one. Stamford residents approved a two-year term for reeve and civicing one half of council annually. They also voted to enlarge the council to seven members.

In Chatham, voters favored allowing the city to approve debentures up to $250,000 for additional classrooms at two secondary schools.

London electors voted 2 to 1 in favor of ending daylight time in October rather than September. Orillia voters were in favor of keeping dogs tied up throughout the year.

Vote for Liquor

SUDBURY (CP) — Voters in Hanmer Township voted Monday in favor of liquor consumption on licensed premises and for licensed dining rooms.

The vote was 312 for and 182 against in the first instance and 311 for and 178 against on the dining room question.

PRIME MINISTER QUITS

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wijayanda Dahanayake resigned Monday as a member of the governing Sri Lanka Freedom party. He said his cabinet he chooses to go into elections in Ceylon next March with a new party. Dahanayake will remain as leader of the Sri Lanka Freedom party.

Canadian Music Has Made Progress But Still Lots to Be Done Says Noted Director

MONTREAL (CP) — At the tender age of 36, musically speaking, Jacques Beaudry is well known as conductor as a symphony orchestra conductor.

The Montreal musician says Canadian music has made a lot of progress in the last few years, but adds that there still is a lot to be done.

"The prestige of a country is in its arts and artists," he said in an interview. "This gives a country its character.

"We complain we have no cultural tradition because this is a new country. I realize that when the first settlers arrived his problem was the subsistence problem, not concerts. But we have resolved this problem. We should have had cultural ties with Europe for many years."

WORLD HORIZON CULTURE

Mr. Beaudry says Canada should borrow from nations more culturally advanced.

"Those responsible for arranging cultural life in Canada, especially in Quebec, haven't an understanding of the real value of culture to a people. You can't buy culture. You have to deserve it. You have to work for it."

Mr. Beaudry has crammed much in his five-year career as a conductor. His first public professional appearance as a pianist was with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in 1936.

His entire conducting experience was with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and schools in Belgium and Holland where he won several first prizes. It was at the Royal Conservatory of Music of Brussels that he took his first lessons in conducting.

GAVE UP PIANO

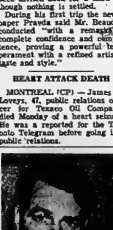
He had been a piano student. "But I became more and more interested in conducting and little by little I dropped the piano."

Many qualities combine to produce a conductor, he says.

"A conductor has special gifts. He's only musical but social. You especially have to know how to work with an orchestra. It is a question of psychology. It's a public career and you have to have a feeling for your public."

On his two Russian tours, one in the fall of 1958, the other last spring, he conducted in 10 Soviet cities including Moscow, where the Moscow State Symphony orchestra came under his baton. He has also filled engagements in other European cities and this winter will conduct in Central and South America and Europe a feeling for your public."

He has also filled engagements in other European cities and this winter will conduct in Central and South America and Europe as well as in Canada.



Mr. Beaudry is a native of Sorel, Que., but now lives in the Montreal suburb of Hampstead.

LITTLE KNOWN ABROAD

He believes Canadian music isn't well known outside Canada. "We don't do enough to make it known."

"Other conductors do not spontaneously put Canadian music in their programs," he said. "I conducted Canadian music in most countries and in many it was the first time it had been heard there."

Extension of Franchise Wins Solid Support of Electorate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Extension of the franchise won solid support in Monday's municipal scities held along with civic elections in many communities.

The franchise questions appeared on ballots at the cities of Stratford and Chatham, the town of Leamington and the township of York West and Etobicoke in Ontario's essex, extension to all adult British subjects, the residence for at least a year was favored by majorities of nearly, or more than, 2 to 1.

In other plebiscites, Leamington voters rejected a suggestion that the town switch to daylight time during the summer months; it will remain on standard time through the year.

Two Windsor suburbs, Tecumseh and St. Clair Beach, voted overwhelmingly against amalgamation with Windsor. The Township of Greenbush also voted against annexation by the City of Welland.

Chinese Reds Renew Attack On Ike's Tour

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today renewed its attack on President Eisenhower's goodwill tour.

The Peking People's Daily, official organ of the Communist party, charged that "while Eisenhower was visiting Turkey, ostensibly as a messenger of peace, the Turkish government was stepping up its active war preparations."

Peking's unfriendly attitude to the Eisenhower mission has been in sharp contrast to that Russia and the Communist nations of eastern Europe have extended to the president, the Russians have given his trip sympathetic and objective news treatment and the Indian Communist party described his impending arrival in New Delhi as an event of great importance.

C. A. Bergman took the office with a substantial majority. At Fort Frances, another northwestern Ontario town, Joseph T. Livingstone became the first mayor of the town to be elected for a two-year term. He had served one two-year term.

Monday's third-luck election story came from Windsor where Wilbert Routley lost out in a bid for a fourth year on suburban Sandwich East council—by only one vote. During the morning his wife was called to the bedside of her seriously ill father and was unable to go to the polls.

Dutch Immigrants Exhibit More Enterprise in Getting Established Says Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Dutch immigrants who arrived in Canada in the nine-year period from 1950 to 1959 exhibited more enterprise in establishing themselves on farms and in small businesses than other new Canadians.

Figures provided by the immigration department show that of 5,032 immigrants helped in settling on farms in the period, more than 67 per cent or 3,384 were Dutch. Of 3,257 aided in establishing small businesses, 79 or about 23 per cent were from the Netherlands.

German immigrants settled on farms were in second place, ranking far behind the Dutch but substantially ahead of nationals from other countries.

During the period, 627 German immigrants, or 18.5 per cent of those aided, received assistance from the department in becoming farmers. A total of 402 Germans, or 20.2 per cent, set themselves up as independent businessmen.

A department official said the figures indicate only immigrants who received assistance from departmental settlement officers.

Belgian immigrants settled on farms were in third place at 194, followed by Poles at 178, British at 123 and French at 108.

Of the 3,384 Dutch immigrants who became farmers, 2,276 bought or rented farms in Ontario.

Of the 627 German farmers, 206 settled in Ontario.

Most of the 739 Dutch immigrants who set themselves up in business also selected Ontario. A total of 396 bought or rented businesses in the province, followed by 149 in B.C. and 58 in Manitoba.

May Be Reasonably Confident About Immediate Outlook

TORONTO (CP) — Chartered banks gave forceful leadership in stabilizing financial markets when leadership was lacking elsewhere, Neil J. McKinnon, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said today at the bank's annual meeting.

Dealing with financial developments of the last year, he stated: "The rapid increase in bank loans in the early part of the year, stepping up its active role in the absence of leadership through a central bank rate or otherwise, to move to stabilize a situation which was then creating an impairment of confidence in capital markets. In May, an announcement by the Canadian Bankers' Association warned of the tightening monetary situation but because of a lack of public endorsement in official quarters, it failed to have influence."

Interest rates continued to move up sharply.

"In August a point was reached where the banks, again acting through the Canadian Bankers' Association, had to exercise forceful leadership and control in order to avoid immobility in the banking system and to re-establish confidence in the market for public bond issues.

"The action then taken became effective with beneficial effects to the economy and to financial markets. The selling of government bonds by the banks was greatly diminished, banks then became able to lend more and in some cases to add to their holdings of government treasury bills, interest rates on treasury bills and short-term bonds tended to decline, and a vitally necessary condition of stability was restored.

"There now are some indications that the federal government is moving towards a balanced budget which, if it is included in capital as well as current expenditures, will take much weight off the new issues market."

Mr. McKinnon's comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. McKinnon said economic trends at home and abroad suggest "that we may be reasonably confident about the immediate outlook."

Mr. McKinnon warned that "the road ahead is likely to be much more conscious than formerly of the benefits to be built in servicing obligation which in less buoyant conditions may well become burdensome."

Business expansion before long will depend on the right labor situation, he predicted.

Another Day Of Hiding for Tokyo Rose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pearl Harbor anniversary was another day of hiding for Iva Toguri d'Aquino.

The world knows her as Tokyo Rose, convicted of treason. She still denies it.

Now 43, she runs a small health food store, assisted by a few acquaintances. She wants no more interview with Paul Coates, Mirror-News columnist.

"Maybe before I leave this country," she said, "but it isn't a person really exiled."

Mrs. d'Aquino has been free since January, 1956, after serving 6½ years of a 10-year sentence. A jury acquitted her on seven counts of treason and convicted her on one, which charged specifically that she broadcast the following words after the battle of Leyte Gulf in 1944:

"Now you fellows have lost all your ships. You really are orphans of the Pacific. Now, how do you think you will ever get home?"

Through all the years of her notoriety and punishment, Mrs. d'Aquino clung to her U. S. citizenship. She was born in Los Angeles and at the outbreak of war she was visiting in Japan.

Some people believe she is innocent. They have offered considerable evidence. These are some of the things that Mrs. d'Aquino, now second in her behalf:

Radio Tokyo announcer ever identified herself as Tokyo Rose. There were 18 English-speaking Radio Tokyo women announcers during the war.

Captured Allied officers asked her to broadcast. They were writing the programs. None of the officers was punished for participating.

In 1945 and 1946 her activities were investigated by the army and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Each time she was cleared.

SAHARA EXPLOSION

ALGIERS (Reuters) — All the major installations are in place in the Sahara for France's first atomic bomb explosion, informed sources say. The date of the explosion awaits a "technical and political decision," these sources said. The general belief here is that the first test may come any time between now and March 13 —the date of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to France.

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the plagued a part in some of the men who would like to go hunting deaths caused by gunshot wounds. A hunter who has narrow side vision, is color blind, or can't see distant objects clearly and sharply, is a danger to other hunters because his sport exposits every part of the faculty of vision.

"Eyesight is one factor," says Dr. Hatter, "but good eyesight doesn't necessarily make a good hunter. Even a man with perfect vision might be so excitable that he'll shoot at the first moving object he sees.

"The gravest cause of these accidents is sheer carelessness. You're more likely to be shot by accidental discharge of a fire-arm in your friend's car than be mistaken for a deer by a Tiger-happy Harry."

Gene Kiniski Assaults Cop, Fined $99

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) —Toronto wrestler Gene Kiniski, 30, was fined $99 today for assaulting a policeman during a bout in the local arena Oct. 19.

Crown Attorney Tibbs F. Forrestell earlier had asked the court for a penalty that would show wrestling promoters "that they cannot excite the tempers of patrons."

Kiniski, who pleaded not guilty, protested that the conviction had deprived him of his right to defend himself.

"This means anyone can come up and hit me," he said.

The court was told three times that Kiniski left the ring to chase a boy who had thrown a wad of paper at him. When Constable Robert Gillies asked him to return to the ring, he hit the officer with his elbow and forearm.

POLICEMAN ARRESTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven men, including a policeman, have been arrested in a crackdown on a ring that annually bought and sold stolen goods worth millions of dollars. The seven were charged with criminally receiving 7,000 postal money orders, each negotiable for $100, which were stolen Oct. 31 from a Bronx post office. Police said the men are members of a ring that bought goods stolen from New York piers by longshoremen.

Retains British Feather Crown

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) —Percy Lewis of Trinidad Monday night retained his British Empire featherweight title by knocking out John O'Brien of Scotland in the second round. Lewis weighed 124½ pounds and O'Brien 126.

O'Brien was dropped in the second round by a left hook. He didn't seem in trouble but surprised the crowd by remaining down for the full count.

Afterwards O'Brien said he made a mistake on the count.

"I thought I was getting up at nine," he said. "I was shocked when I found I had made a mistake. I was in little hurt that I could have got up at four."

Shoots a Buck, Makes 143

Friday the Thirteenth unlucky? Phooey. Ask Don Foster.

While superstitious folk were eschewing black cats and observing other "unlucky" practices, Foster was collecting one buck, live and 143 of the folding money kind.

As for the "Unlucky 13" Foster was a member of a hunting part of that number that shot its quota within a few days.

Foster's "live" buck was a beauty. It weighed 240 pounds minus the "innards," but plus the head and a ten-point spread.

The other "bucks" didn't weigh much but they had plenty of color in ones, fives and tens.

This buck bonanza came in the form of a hunting pool conducted under the aegis of Cec Towes Sports Shop at Bancroft.

It seems the hunters toss a "buck" into the pool pot and he, who shoots the biggest deer rakes in the spoils.

Foster's name will be engraved on a plaque in the Towes shop while he will receive a miniature as a permanent possession.

His party was camped on the shore of Vanallen Lake near Detlor.

"We never had it so good" said Foster. "We must have run into a deer convention. Almost everywhere you looked a deer was scuttling for cover. We had our quota within the first three or four days."

D'Amato Takes Case to Supreme Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Curtis D'Amato, whose manager's license was revoked by the state athletic commission, has moved in state Supreme Court for a review and annulment of the commission's decision. A hearing on his motion was set for Dec. 15.

D'Amato is the manager of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson. The commission revoked his license after holding an inquiry into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the Ingemar Johansson - Patterson title fight at Yankee Stadium last June 26.

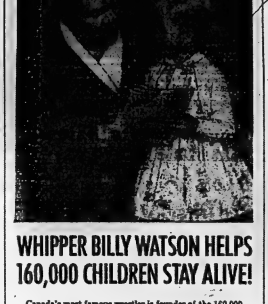
OTTAWA (CP) — Sharpshooters of Sudbury Wolves and Montreal-Royals are closing in on Ottawa Hilly Carter of Rail-Oh-Canadiens in the Eastern Professional Hockey League's individual scoring race.



Sam Pollio of the Wolves picked up nine points in the last week to shave Carter's lead to seven points, league statistics covering games up to and including Dec. 5 show. Carter, who has gone 18 games without scoring a goal, had an 11-point lead a week ago but now has 49 points to Pollio's 42.

Claude Evans of Trois-Rivieres as the top goalie with a goals-against average of three a game against 3.3 for Evans.

fourth with 40 apiece. McCarthy got nine points in the week, Sutherland eight.

Top goal - getters are Carter and Sutherland with 21 apiece, while Carter and Morton are the leading playmakers with 28 assists each. Most-penalized player is Dino Mascotto of Trois-Rivieres Lions with 67 minutes. Morton has spent 33 minutes.

Charlie Hodge of Montreal replaced Claude Evans of Trois-Rivieres as the top goalie with a goals-against average of three a game against 3.3 for Evans.

Syracuse Named 1959 College Grid Champions

NEW YORK (AP) — Syracuse University — unbeaten, untied and virtually unchallenged — is the 1959 college football champion, winner by a sweeping majority in The Associated Press' poll.

The Orangemen from upstate New York, who completed their perfect season with a 36-6 rout of UCLA in Los Angeles last Saturday, drew 44 of the 361 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters.

Mississippi, which took runnersup honors, received the next highest total—37—and no other team, including 1958 champion Louisiana State, got more than six.

LSU finished third in the final standings, followed by Texas, Georgia, Wisconsin, Texas Christian, Washington, Arkansas and Alabama, in that order.

Syracuse will receive The Associated Press Trophy emblematic of the national championship for the first eastern team to win the honor since Army in 1945.

The Orangemen swept through a 26-game schedule impressively, scoring at least three times in every foe and dominating final college statistics.

They led in total offence, rushing offence, total defence, defence against rushing and scoring. They piled up 385 points and yielded 31.

The Orangemen were the only major team to complete the season without defeat or tie. They will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Canucks Not Interested in Ronnie Howell

VANCOUVER (CP) — General manager Frank Hall of Vancouver Canucks said Monday night he is not interested in Ronnie Howell, 22-year-old Toronto football star Ron Howell join the Canucks in Hockey.

Pastrano Wins Over Pavlis

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Henry Pastrano, 175, of Miami, Fla., scored a unanimous decision over Jimmy Pavlis, 174, of Cleveland, Ohio, in a scheduled 10-round middleweight boxing match here Monday night.

Pastrano, donating the heavyweight crown where he's ruled since 1952, for light heavyweight competition where he figures a better chance of a title shot, weighed 160 to 176 for Pavlis.

Pastrano left Pavlis much less than he once was but he had his left hook and did his scoring well and did all his scoring with them.

Pastrano scored in the late rounds with a quick right that hurt Pavlis and the latter had to be followed up. There were no knockdowns.

Eskys Finished In the Red

EDMONTON (CP) — Provincial government aid and ticket prices couldn't keep Edmonton Eskimos out of the red for the 1959 season, a second-place finish in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The Esks' finances, announced Monday night at a public meeting, showed a loss of $38,017. Last year the club lost $19,624.

Provincial legislation had wiped out amusement taxes in 1958, last year's $25,000 amusement taxes cost the Esks $24,385. Gate receipts rose $27,000 and the reserved seat price in 21,000-seat Clarke Stadium.

The club's total receipts amounted to $460,936, a gain of $11,936 over 1958, but expenses came to $497,953, a $50,371 increase over last year.

The surplus dropped to $85,126 this year from $119,040.

Indians Lead American League Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Even with two of their three top players held pointless last week, Springfield Indians continued to lead the American Hockey League's scoring race.

In three games, neither leaguer leader Floyd Smith nor runnerup Art Stratton scored a point. Smith added an assist. Their total points remained at 42 and 34, respectively.

Bill Sweeney, the third man on the Springfield attack, picked up three points, raising his total to 31. League statistics released today show he is tied with Hershey Bears' Willie Marshall for third place.

Smith and Ray Ross of Providence Reds split the six Indian goals scored with 16. Smith and Stratton are tied for the lead in assists with 28.

The loop's No. 1 goalie is Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens who has allowed only 2.39 goals a game.

Illegal Stocking Often Harmful

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

This "rushing in" is a constant headache for the professional biologists attached to State and Federal conservation agencies.

A great many of our imported pests are in the United States because some well-meaning but ignorant individuals thought it would be nice to bring them to this country. Consider the Ring pheasant and the starling; among the plants, the water hyacinth and the water chestnut; among the fish, the gold fish and the German carp. All of these were introduced by people who simply did not know what they were doing.

Many States have found it necessary to establish strict penalties for any fish-stocking operations carried on without a State permit. The many lakes and streams have been ruined, temporarily or permanently, by unwise stocking on the part of thoughtless or wilfully malicious individuals. Even so, now and then some illegal stocking will be done and the work of many years ruined. Here is a sample from Wisconsin.

Back in 1864 Yellowstone Lake was created by damming the Yellowstone River. Used as experimental water, with no bag or size limits, the lake has been an outstanding producer of large-mouth bass. It has been one of the more popular fishing spots in northeastern Wisconsin. Then some clown tossed into those productive waters a pair of black crappies.

That note already have turned the seven fingerlings of this unwanted species," a sure indication that the bass population will cut down to their job of perpetuating the species. The probability is that it is only a matter of time until the lake is overrun with crappies, reducing the food supply to the extent that bass will be few and far between.

Then what? To restore matters to their former status, the lake must be drained, undesirable fish netted out or poisoned, and carefully-selected species of natural food fish and insects, and their food fish, put in. Only then will the work of a good many years, not to mention the necessary cost, be considered a good job well done.

Added to all this is the fact that the fishermen and fisherwomen who use this lake, numbering well up in the thousands, must lose good fishing time, all of which would rather did not know any better or because he thought he knew more about fishing than he actually did, and the biologists who had the lake in their care.

The Wisconsin law provides that illegal stocking can carry a fine of $500 and six months in jail. When you consider the cost of time, effort, money and outdoor enjoyment caused by such a thing as this, it seems to us that the penalty is far too light.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD —

Here and there about the world records fall. While it belongs to the camp, usually, the adult of the species is a very fallow around here to six inches long. In Paris, France, the greater part of the year the banks of the Seine are lined with men and women who spend countless hours fishing for gudgeon.

Now this was the little fish as bait, others fancy them as table fare, but there is the ultimate disposal when a gudgeon is hooked. Then the lucky angler is complimented, bottles of red wine appear from baskets and hampers, and toasts are drunk. It is a custom.

To illustrate the sad fact that there is little justice in this world, the match between fishing clubs, held on the Seine in England a gudgeon was caught. As gudgeons go, it was a whopper, but it was not large enough to impress its captor who was other bigger fish. At the close of the match when the fish were being weighed in, the angler who knew his gudgeons discovered the prize fish, a new world's record.

Now comes the sad one, what would happen on the banks of the Seine should one of the fishermen land such a fish. Surely there would be cheers, and then celebration would be in order. Yet in real old Yankee fashion the monster of the species rested only a sub-record and a scant inch of room in the Angling Times of Paris. Incidentally, do I say, there is no room in the world.

Last September, while waiting in the car for high tide so we could go fish hunting on the Patuxent Marshes, I was leafing through the Synopsis of Maryland Game Laws that is issued with the sale of each license. At the bottom of page 5 of this little brochure, this startling bit of legislation greeted my eyes:

Body Boating: It shall be lawful to hunt all waterfowl by Body Boating only on the Susquehanna Flats. No Body Boater may be on the Flats before 3:15 a.m., on any morning before the first legal shooting hour. Sounded as though it might be fun. I asked the assembled gables about it. None of them, believe it or not, knew the meaning nor could any of them throw even a small ray of light into the darkness of my ignorance.

My curiosity kept on prodding me so, on return home, I wrote to my old friend, Talbot Cormorant-Killbird, secretary of the Maryland Conservationist. This, in substance, is what he told me: The only conslets of setting out decoys on the Susquehanna Flats, in water a foot wide, shallow areas at the river's mouth, in four or five feet of water. Then the body boater, dressed in unsightly, mottled garments among the decoys, shotgun in hand, waiting to assassinate any waterfowl foolish enough to come within range.

A bushwacking rig consists of a flat-bottomed punt, skiff, suitably adorned with rushes and such, so that it looks something like an island. This rig, occupied by one hunter and one oarsman, is staked-out down wind to pick up any dead ducks or body boaters. Then the fun begins.

That's all there is to it — simple, isn't it? Except for one duck shooting. With the implied promise that an active imagination can turn this into a fine sport — body boating in a bushwacking rig on Susquehanna Flats preserves only as a profound anticlimax. Anyway, I'll take your word for it, I suppose; after all, how many things in this life actually do live up to expectations?

SPORT IN BRIEF

RANGERS MAKE CHANGES

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers Monday sent defenceman Jim Ingarfield to Springfield Indians, their American Hockey League farm club.

Ingarfield joined the Rangers midway through the season after officials said he was sent down to make room for Bob Nevin, called recently from Vancouver of the Western Hockey League.

The National Hockey League club also said that Ron Howell, who finished with the Toronto Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, will join the team today to work out. Howell probably will go to Vancouver next week for the club's publicity, officials said. His brother Harry is a Ranger defenceman.

RETAINS GOLF TITLE

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Defending champion Willie Collins of Fort Worth, Tex., shot a par 70 Monday to win a three-way playoff for the U.S. senior golf championship and $2,000. Smiley Quick was second with 283 and Dick Mayer third with 284. Collins had 69-71-70-74. The three played after 72 holes with 288.

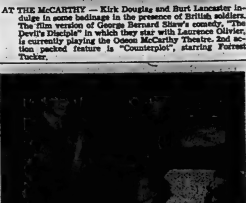
ACCEPT INVITATION

LONDON (AP) — The Scottish Soccer League decided Monday to send a club to New York next summer to play in a proposed international league tournament. Included in the new British Overseas Football Association's proposed League.

TO MANAGE MARLINS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Al Vincent, a coach five years with Baltimore Orioles, Monday was named manager of the Miami Marlins of the International League. Vincent, 52, succeeds Peppe Martin.

GM OF NEW YEAR



NEW YORK (CP)—Steve Sebo, fired a week ago as head football coach at Pennsylvania, Monday was named as general manager by the New York Titans of the new American Football League. Sebo got a three-year contract. Salary terms were not disclosed but it is believed he will receive about $25,000 a year.

Dan Dailey Rated One of Best Horsemen in South California

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dan Dailey confirms that his recent surgical operation was for removal of a cyst on the crab nerve.

"It's what they call a crab cancer," Dailey explained. "I had been treating it with radiation for five years but it wouldn't go away. It started spreading towards my glands, so I decided that it had better come out."

"They got it all," says Dailey. "And I'm raring to go."

Dailey is about to make one of the most important pictures of his career. Co-stars him and Cantinflas, the Mexican comic included in the cast are Ted Jacques as Dean Martin, Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Sammy Davis Jr., and others to be signed.

"I think they should call the picture Around Mexico in 80 Days," he says.

FINE HORSEMAN

It's not generally known but Dailey is rated one of the best horsemen in Southern California. But he has yet to make his first western star.

"I came out here in 1936 as a song and dance man from Broadway. For the next 10 years all I ever got was a western star. Then I got a three-year contract. Salary terms were not disclosed but it is believed he will receive about $25,000 a year.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

At the time of the year, the Canadian Press polls sportswriters and sportscasters with a series of questions, some of which are said to have a real sting about the "strikes" to rank their brains, or reasonable facsimilies.

The current poll arrived the other day and contains ten questions, and in each year's memorial, the quiz is more rigged. As it is, a little rigging would not go amiss on some of the queries.

One of the most important—and toughest—questions is "Name the best three individual Canadian athletes (male.)

Before we go into any of the queries, we concur with a few sports writers that they lean to the proposition that usually achievements at the world conference level outranks victories in the Dominion or provincial field.

In the list of possible candidates are Gordie Bell, of the McFarlands; Frank Mahovlich (why, we'll never tell you), Ken Howell, the 22st footballer, Johnny Bright of the Eskimos; certain chaps and sobbing at football there's Russ Jackson, of the Ramah Riders.

Then there's Bob Hayward, who brought the Harmsworth Trophy to Canada and Ed Leemans who set a world record in sports car racing at Bonneville Flats. If you're nautically-minded, there's Walter Windmeyer, Canada's International yachting champion.

There's another issue that sticks in our mind, one which will likely not be resolved by a number of writers' conclaves. It is Jean Paul Lamirande, formerly of the Maes, who was judged the best defenseman in a field of eight national hockey championship teams at the Prague tournament.

The best women athletes' question should not be so hard with Anne Holgrott, Sara Barbor and Ernestine Russell in the field.

The greatest sports thrill of the year? Some will likely pick the Maes' overall victory at Prague. It was to a certain extend like "Dr. Livingstone, I presume Charlie" that Canadian 3-1 victory over Russia made the subsequent world title victory a little anti-climactic. It just of "how it is for beer" as to speak.

The greatest sports disappointment of the year? Well, in this corner's opinion, it happened right here in this city. You can guess, or name it yourself.

- The three outstanding teams of 1936? The typewriter-mitts above should not have much trouble with that section of the order of merit. What clubs or teams were there outside of the Maes, the Blue Bombers and the Canadiens?

"Punch" Imlach's let hooks and right crosses parked in Toronto Maple Leaf hockey uniforms are strong contenders for the "biggest sports surprise" and the "greatest comeback" of the year. The Ottawa Senah Riders should get considerable in the latter question. In fact they should get plenty.

The poll asks "What do you think of Canada's hockey chances in the 1940 Winter Olympics?"

At the risk of being called "un-Canadian or a traitor" we're going to be brutally frank. Unless the Rickenacker Defenders can acquire the skill and speed of the "A" players, as near to the equivalent of the "old pros" as possible, and knowing that Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden will use strongest teams they can muster, placed in the world tournament, we cannot see the Maple Leafs finishing better than third.

While on hockey, the poll wants to know if the writers-casters agree with some Olympic officials that the winter games should be abolished because they are tainted with professionalism?

There is nothing wrong with the winter games. But there is with the newery hypocritical Olympic standards by which they are governed.

The story of the Irishman viewing his first giraffe applies to amateurism in Canadian hockey. Said Pat, looking at ole longneck, "It's a dom lie. There ain't no sich thing."

We do not believe either branches of winter sport are so startingly professional as skiing. But they could be "tainted" under the Amateur Olympic standards. Any member Barbara Ann Scott who had to return the gift of an Ottawa automobile because acceptance would make her a "pro."

The Canadian Olympic officials who charge professional "taint" in their own winter sports, would do well to look into the European interpretation of "amateurism" and how the Olympic standards apply over there.

Injury Holds Him to Goal While Pursuers Get Points; Bobby Hull in Fourth Spot

MONTREAL (CP) — There wasn't much sympathy for Maurice Richard and his big-nose miseries, judging by the way his surrogates gleefully picked up points last week in the National Hockey League scoring race.

The slim centre of Boston Bruins missed one of his teams three games because of his toe injury, His scoring output in the other games was one goal.

Bronco is still setting the pace with 25 points, made up of 21 goals and 14 assists, but the NHL official statistics today show his lead has dwindled to five from seven points of a week ago.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers each counted three goals and two assists and remained deadlocked for second place. Howe now has 14 goals and 18 assists and Bathgate a 19-36 count.

FOUR NOTCHERS

Bobby Hull, young Chicago Black Hawks' winger, came up with six points, seven goals and two assists—to bounce from sixth place to lone occupancy of fourth. Bobby now has 20 and up 24 goals and 15 assists for 39 points.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens and Vic Stasiuk of Boston each picked up three points, Beliveau on two goals and one assist and Stasiuk with three assists, thus remaining fourth and fourth - place deadlock to fifth. Beliveau now has 17 and Stasiuk 16 with Bobby 9-18 for 27 points.

Bracketed at 26 are Dean Prentice of New York Rangers and Don McKenney of Boston. Prentice scored three goals and one assist; McKenney had two of each.

Henri Richard of Montreal collected only two points, on a goal and an assist, and dropped from a seventh-place tie with Howe 24 points he now is only one ahead of teammate Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion. The Boomer, back after an injury layoff of seven games, collected three assists last week.

Russ Athlete Runs Afoul Of Red Press

By A. L. GOLDBERG

MOSCOW (AP) — Another Soviet athletic hero has run afoul of political censors.

Accused of having succumbed Dmitry Karasyov, Red Bill Bonthe blunt edge of an attack in Komsomol Pravda, organ of the Communist Youth League.

It took up where Leonkikin notice on the Moskve gymnastic team left off, in a letter demanding that Leonkin be stripped of his title of master of sport and "kicked from the team."

"He is interested not only of being snooty but of disgraceful goings on with two pretty ladies described in the story as having "violet lips." Why they are privileged to have done is explained in the paper's article only with asterisks.

Record books here don't show it but the censors says Leonkin won gold and silver medals for his country's team in wrestling gymnastics at Helsinki in 1952 and rates him as one of the six best gymnasts in the country. The records show he tied for third in the all-around event.

UPSTAGED TEAMMATES

The Komsravda correspondent, chiming in an agreement with the Lenin Sovar sidelet's Pravda's criticism, reports that some of Leonkin's mates' feats were likely to be upstaged fellow teammates—for one thing insisting that when he practiced there should be no one else in the gym.

He also is accused of continually bathing his young wife and child, striking teammates, failing to lead leagues in front of girls and brawling.

Any member he managed to acquire an apartment in the centre of Lenvov, the complaint ran on, and to exist without other working or studying.

But the friends of the girls with the violet lips — "whose meeting was certainly opposite to that of a nunnery," the paper said — were most of the ire.

"Do you really think we need these stars?" the correspondent queried of the rhetorically. "You know the answer, but the sequel hasn't been written yet."

AFTER INGEMAR

LONDON (CP)—British boxing promoter Jack Solomons announced Monday he is going to Sweden to try to persuade Ingemar Johansson to defend the world heavyweight crown against British champion Henry Cooper. Solomons plans to fly to Gothenburg today. He said he hopes to come to terms with Johansson for an outdoor fight at London's Wembley Stadium next summer.

Big Soccer Clubs Face Lowly Teams

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The biggest clubs in English soccer got their toughest assignments and potential disaster Monday with the third-round draw in the Football Association Cup competition.

The third - round matches, played Jan. 2, send the aristocrats of the First and Second divisions into the knockout campaign for the five time against the survivors of two lower divisions and a few upstarts from non - league ranks. This year's draw offers a few fearsome possibilities.

Tottenham Hotspur, the whitehot Second Division goals leader, are condemned to scant glory and considerable danger for a trip to Wales to face Newport County, an undistinguished Third-Division club.

Nottingham Forest, the Cup holders, have little consolation in home territory for their draw against Reading, another Third Division club. Reading, the fastest finalists, are away to Chester City of the Fourth Division.

Arsenal, most glamorous of Second Division clubs, Aberdare Unified, one of the leaders of the Third Division South. Manchester United, twice finalists in the last three years, travel to the Second Division club Leeds United.

Sheffield, most dismaying prospect confronts Brighton and Hove Albion of the Second Division's tail-enders.

Aston Villa, the most powerful of the non-leaguers, has a promising away match against Ipswich Town, a nondescript Second Division club.

Offer Fullmer $100,000 to Defend Title

BOSTON (AP) — Matchmaker Silverstein announced Monday night he has offered NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer $100,000 to defend his title against the winner of the Sugar Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight.

Robinson, recognized as the middleweight champion in Massachusetts and New York, has signed to defend his version of the title against Fender in Boston Jan. 22. The aging Robinson stripped himself of the World Boxing Association title, which controls boxing elsewhere, for inactivity.

Chatham Plays McFarlands Here Tonight

Chatham Maroons, the only club in the OHA Senior "A" hockey league that the McFarlands have not been able to defeat this season, will be the guests of the Maes here tonight at the start of a week of fixtures.

Two of the locals have played below par against the Maroons dropping 5-3 and 5-3 decisions at home and 6-3 and 6-4 games in Chatham. The second game here tonight Chatham, a defensive team allowed the Maroons to score the winning goal with 38 seconds left to play.

Coach Pat Hitchenord and his charges have other ideas about tonight's game however and are confidently expected to pick up a couple of badly-needed points.

The club proved it could score goals last week, potting 16 in three games on Saturday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday; the defence was vastly improved in the Saturday-Sunday tilts and Goalie Mike Rizzo is in fine conditional good. The club management has supplied assurance that the team will win its share of games this season, but the fully realizes that a difficult task faces the team if it hopes to win tonight's fixture.

Floyd Crawford, who has been out of league games with a bad knee injury, is hopefully recovered but expects to give it a gruelling test. Paul Paycheck and Ted Topalanski, who were injured in weekend games on the road, are also likely to be back in the Maroon lineup.

The Chatham club, coached by Johnny Horeck will have Johnny Allsop in goal and Copper Leyte, Don McGregor, Lou Greenwood, Douglas and Elmer Shoy on defence. Joe Donnelly mid-ice, Frank Bedrage working with Joe Melo and Billy Forbes while scoring duties are handled by Ted Power, Jim Connolly and Frank Bedrage. The Hotel line has Fred Pietsch, George Allsop and Alf Casey working with Doug Kenzie and Ken Ireland from Kitchener for Mike Eik duties.

Members for the Maes Booster Club are also requested to attend the club meeting at City Hall Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

Head Blow Kills Boxer

ROMFORD, England (AP)—An 18-year-old amateur boxer died from a brain injury after receiving a straight left between the eyes, it was stated at an inquest Monday.

Coroner L. F. Beccles commented:

"It was a heavy blow and severe damage was caused to the brain as a consequence. What puzzles me is why it does not happen more frequently, but apparently it does not."

A witness said LAC John Jardine, 23, of Wellington, was boxing in a trial bout in a ring in a service club in the Royal Air Force at Romford last year.

The blow came at the end of the third round. Keen went down on one knee for a count of six but was ready to box then. The line fell heavy and he was given the verdict.

He said after he became drowsy and was hospitalized with concussion. He underwent brain surgery but died three weeks later.

Coroner Beccles recorded a verdict of accidental death.

SUCCEEDS MOSS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Bill Peterson, 39 - year - old offensive line coach at Louisiana State University, was named head football coach at Florida State University Monday. He succeeds Perry Moss who left last week to take over as football coach and general manager of the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

Minor Hockey Notes

Browns, Red Wings, Rangers and Barons picked up victories in the squirt division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena last night.

Brian Baker scored a pair of goals to spark the Browns to a 5-1 victory over winless Black Hawks. Henry Clancy, Larry Moore and Paul Goodfellow added single markers while Eric Lane potted the visitors goal.

Red Wings took a 53 victory as Red Wings took a 5-2 victory Barnes LaRue firing three of the Wing goals. Ted Drumm and Paul Wallace scored the others. Pat McKenzie, Greg White and Ron Ridley were the Leaf marksmen.

Calvin Wilson's three-goal hat trick provided the Rangers with a tight 4-3 triumph over the Canadiens. Ken Ireland contributed the winners' other goal. Mark Acquafredda, Pat Wheeler and Doug Keenan scored for Canadiens.

Barons piled up the highest score of the night, a 7-3 victory over the Bruins. Ted Berestyn, Paul Tommy Boulter potted two goals apiece with Greg Kaye, Terry Yeates and David LaRue getting the others. Neil Goyer, Bobby Lay and Rick Savage replied for the Bruins.

Alonzo Stagg Yale's Oldest Living Grad

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Alonzo Stagg, 74, famed football coach, notified that he is Yale's oldest living graduate, Monday telegrapsed A. Whitney Griswold president of the university:

"Thanks for your good telegram and for the distinction which has befallen me. I shall try to behave myself for the rest of my days as 'best dressed old Yale will not suffer.'"

Stagg graduated by Yale in 1886. There is only one other living member of that class, Amos Alonzo Waite, Cincinnati railroad attorney, who will be 74 years old next Sunday.

"That was a brilliant run, Hotchkiss—but don't try to deny you went out of bounds!"

Indefinite Stand of Majors Causes Rickey Much Regret

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Branch Rickey was expected today to voice public regret over what he regards as major league baseball's indecisive stand on expansion.

The president of the embryo Continental League received with mixed feelings Monday night the announcement that the American and National leagues that they are not considering expansion "at the present time." Their refusal affirmation to favorably consider the new league's application for major league status if it gets eight cities and meets other club requirements didn't appease Rickey.

"I am disappointed but not surprised," he said. "The decision announced by the two leagues are the same as before. We had hoped for a definite stand on the part of the majors.

"The National made it clear it has no thought of expanding. The American is playing the same guessing game it has played in recent months. While it acknowledges it is not feasible to expand at the present, it hastens to add it has not given up the idea of expanding in the future."

PRESS CONFERENCE

Rickey did not indicate what rebuttal or action, if any, he would take at today's scheduled press conference. He planned a meeting with William Shea, founder of the new league, and its five founding members.

"The National and American leagues decided on their joint meeting today, instead of December as originally planned. The majors had no intention of meeting with the Continental League.

Not everybody interpreted the joint statement as a declaration in the path of the Continental League's rocky road to big league recognition. Chairman Jacob Ruppert Frick called the announcement a green light for the embattled five-team circuit.

"We have not established how far we can go with a dim view of immediate expansion, the American made plain it favors such expansion but did not want to try it now.

CRONIN'S VIEW

"We can't take the position we never are going to expand," said Joe Cronin, American League president. "We believe expansion is inevitable, but recommend the possibility of going to nine clubs at this time but that is impossible without the National League. We also do not think it is feasible to go to 10 clubs because the National remaining at eight."

Cronin made it clear that the consideration of America's League expansion would not delay the Continental League in going forward with the completion of its organization and making the necessary arrangements to fulfill the requirements to qualify as a third major.

The Continental League's five franchise holders are Toronto, Houston, Denver, New York and Minneapolis - St. Paul. Cities under consideration as prospects "at the present time" by the new baseball league are Buffalo, Atlanta and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Bilts' Stars Lead Junior Points Race

TORONTO (CP) — Rod Gilbert and linemate Jean Ratelle, both of Guelph Bilts' corner of the Eastern Hockey Association Junior A series, continues to lead the league in both scoring and penalty after nearly six weeks of competition. But Dave Keon and Jim Pappin have narrowed the gap.

Gilbert, after 17 games, has accumulated 15 goals and 26 assists for 41 points while Ratelle has 37 points on 18 goals and 19 assists.

Keon, centre for St. Michael's College Majors, holds a comfortable edge over Pappin and has a game in hand. He has 15 goals and 21 assists and is third. Lancaste Maslboro' Pappin has 16 goals and nine assists.

Official statistics released today which include Sunday's games show Wayne Roddy and Walter Connolly of Peterborough Petes with 30 and 28 points respectively.

St. Michael's defender Jerry Cherry has played his defensive position in all 17 games of the season.

'Ex' Stadium Has to Be Rehabilitated

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Donald Summerville Monday night warned city council that Toronto's football field at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium is going to have to be rehabilitated.

Costs of football facilities at the stadium are already $80,000 above the city's original estimate of $420,000.

Mr. Hall replying to a question by Ald. Fred Beavis who asked if the pools re water on the sidelines when the Grey Cup game was played Nov. 28 meant the city would have to provide even more funds for installation of proper drainage.

Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union this season played their home games at the CNE stadium for the first time, started, has a 2.67 goals against average and a record of nine. In second place is Ken Broderick of Marlboros who has allowed 48 goals in 17 games for an average of three goals a game.

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Peterborough Latos - Canucks tightened their grip on the Eastern Junior "B" hockey league's top spot here last night, proving themselves the opportunists as they took advantage of Belleville penalties for a 6-2 win over Lambert - Rollins.

The locals travel to Kingston tonight for a battle for second place.

Belleville scored the opening goal but a minute later the Canucks tied the score and thereafter never looked back. It was 1-1 at the end of the first and 4-3 after forty minutes of play while the visitors potted the only two goals of the third period.

Rick Embert triggered two goals and added an assist to spark the winners to their eighth victory in nine league starts. Norm Barron had one goal and two assists while Grant Heffernan, Bill Watson and Jim Villneff also scored. Stu Mahood and Ron Jewell assisted on two goals each with Nicholls, Morris, Wright and Bryan Watson adding on one apiece.

Gary Clegg fired his 12th goal for the Lambert-Rollins with Ralph Plaxe scoring the other. Jack Tzinski, Dennis Learned and Bucky Ethier had a single assist each.

Belleville lost the services of defenceman Larry Mavety for an undetermined length of time when he suffered a shoulder injury the result of a body check in the final minute of the second period. The shoulder will be X-rayed today but the injury is not thought to be a separation.

Penalties numbered 21 in all with Peterborough drawing the odd one in that number, a misconduct to Larry Kish for interfering in a fight between Gary Rowbotham and Norm Barron. The three majors, Larry Mann and Muirhead got majors for another bout of fisticuffs in the third stanza.

As in past the penalties to Belleville proved costly, the Canucks scoring four goals, including all their second-stanza markers, while playing with a man advantage. Gravelle's crew was unable to find the range despite the winners' 11 penalties, Sizzling Barry Randall a tough man to beat between the leaders' pipes.

Both clubs struck early in the early part of the game, Goyer sinking a backhander for Belleville at 2.30 and Embert lugging the equalizer at 9.32. No penalties were assessed until 17.05 when Watson was thumbed, followed by the Barron-Rowbotham-Kish affair at 19.26.

The first of Mann's three minors in eight minutes left the Lat squad playing four men to five at 1.05 of the second and Heffernan gave the Petes a 2-1 lead at 2.53. The sides were even when Plaxe tied the score for Belleville at 4.34 but Man was off again when Ethert scored what proved to be the winning goal at 10.05, potting a rebound after the first shot struck the top crossbar.

Mavety was serving time just prior to his injury when Bill Watson opened up a 4-2 lead in the final minute of the period.

Barron made it 5-2 after 41 seconds of the third followed by a maze of penalties, including Muirhead and Mann for fighting. The winners had five men on the ice and Belleville four when Villneff closed the scoring at 4.42. Five more minor penalties completed the evening's action.

Peterbrough: Randall, Jamieson, Bryan Watson, Villneff, Kish, Heffernan, Bill Watson, Morris, Wright, Jewell, Muldoon, Barron, Muirhead Embert, Nicholls.

Belleville: Moore, Mavety, Mann, Reid, Kennedy, Goyer, Elliott, Kerrulish, Rowbotham, S. Hall, Forsythe, Gravelle, Plaxe, Hunter.

Referees — Vern Geyer and Tim Williams, Belleville.

First Period
Belleville Goyer (Elliott, Kerrulish)	2.30
Peterbrough Embert (Barron, Bryan Watson)	9.32
Penalties: Bryan Watson, Rowbotham (major), Barron (minor and major), Kish (misconduct).
Second Period
Peterbrough Heffernan (Wright, Jewell)	2.53
Belleville Plaxe (Ethier)	4.34
Peterbrough Embert (Muirhead, Jewell)	10.05
Peterbrough Bill Watson (Jewell, Nicholls)	19.52
Penalties: Mann (3), Villneff, Kish, Mavety.
Third Period
Peterbrough Barron (Muirhead, Jewell)	0.41
Peterbrough Villneff (Jewell)	4.34
Penalties: Reid, Forsythe (team bench pen.), Mann (major, Muirhead (minor and major), Villneff, Kish, Kerrulish, Jamieson, Rowbotham.

Says Wimbledon Will Be Open To Tennis Pros

LONDON (AP) — Basil Reay, secretary of the International Tennis Federation, said Monday that certain Forest Hills tennis championships will be open to professionals starting in 1961.

Reay returned from a weekend meeting of a special committee of the federation in Paris. The committee recommended that sight of the world's leading tournament be made open events, with the world's leading professionals and amateurs competing together.

"At least half the national tennis federations concerned will not agree," Reay said.

"But I am certain Wimbledon will be one of the championships which will agree to become open and the presidential."

The committee's recommendation will go before next year's annual meeting of the federation. That would make Forest Hills international tournaments possible in 1961 at the earliest.

The championships covered by the recommendation are those of Wimbledon, the United States, France, Australia, South Africa, Scandinavia, Asia and South America.

Reay, who is also secretary of the British Tennis Federation, said he doubted the leading professionals would want to enter more than the eight specified championships.

"No time was available at the weekend committee meeting to discuss the amount of prize money to be awarded," Reay said. "But I should think that before the time comes, nations will be given a limit, or at least some advice, on the question of prizes.

"I don't think an awful lot will be given."

WIN REPLAY

LONDON (Reuters) — Port Vale drew a 1-1 goal draw with Rangers 2-1 in the replay of their third second round English Football Association Cup game Monday night. Port Vale will be away in Cardiff City in the third round.

Unknown Wins Decision Over Willie Towsel

NOTTINGHAM—Willy Smith, 25 - year - old welterweight almost unknown outside his native Nottingham, decisioned Scotland's Willie Towsel, the former Empire Exhibition champion, in 15 rounds here.

The rugged young mechanic stepped into the ring at 24 hours' notice when Towsel's advertised opponent, Albert Carroll of Liverpool, came down with flu.

Smith jabbed Towsel off balance and made the Scots African flounder badly when he

Gaels Defeat Redmen 7-4

MONTREAL (CP) — Queen's University got off to a good start in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League Friday night with a 7-4 victory over McGill.

The Canadian Press reported the score was 7-4 immediately after the game and then changed it to 6-4 on the basis of a check with the scorer's sheet. A recheck Monday with the McGill athletics department shows the 7-4 score correct. The ruling was waived around the eighth goal, which the scorer's sheet credited to McGill instead of to Queen's.

Robinson May Coach New American Team

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Wayne Robinson, coach of WHO British Columbia Lions, Monday night was described as "one of the top candidates" for the job of coaching a new pro football team that will operate in Minneapolis-St. Paul next year.

Bill Boyer, part owner of the club, said Robinson had met with officials of the club in what Vancouver from a scouting trip.

Capozzi added that Robinson will coach Lions in 1960, serving the second term of a two-year contract.

"If he indicates after a couple of days that he really is interested in taking the job he will get down to brass tacks on terms," Boyer said.

Boyer appeared to hedge somewhat on what league Minneapolis-St. Paul would be playing in next season. The twin cities are charter members of the new American Football League but are being wooed by the National League as a possible addition.

At Vancouver, general manager Herb Capozzi of the Lions said there is "no truth to the Minneapolis reports." He said Robinson has just reinked to coach Lions in 1960, serving the second term of a two-year contract.

RANK AND FILE

eventually decided to leave this question over until today after, among other things, this had happened:

1. A working committee set up a year ago recommended certain minimal changes and suggested they be chewed over for about a year.

2. The council's constitution committee proposed some other changes and suggested that the other group's be not touched now.

3. French delegates demanded a translation of the involved amendments, and this was promised for today.

4. Various delegates got an tangled in points of order.

5. The loudspeaker system went haywire.

TRY AGAIN TODAY

Upshot was that the session eventually threw up its hands around midnight and decided to tackle the problem again today.

Earlier, the 250 delegates adopted without discussion a proposal made earlier in the day by national leader Lester B. Pearson for a 1960 "rally" to pep up the party program and policies for a general election expected about 1962.

It will be the first policy-setting meeting of the kind not held in connection with selection of a national leader since 1948. Party cronies has been to hold such conventions only when the leadership has become vacant. The last was in 1958, when Mr. Pearson was chosen.

While the convention described the 1960 meeting as a "national rally of all Liberal-minded people," all evidence was that it will be instrumental to a normal party convention, with delegates chosen and policies set in the usual way.

However, there was no floor discussion as the delegates quickly approved the suggestion of Mr. Pearson, who merely had said the rally might re-examine Liberal policies in the light of experience since 1958 and the onset of a general election.

NATIONAL ORGANIZER

Another move to spruce up the Liberal organization for the new attack on the Progressive Conservatives was an announcement by the national leadership that it proposes to bring in Jamas Scott, 43, Ontario Liberal organizer, as national organizer and secretary.

General secretary H. E. (Bob) Kidd will remain on full-time in charge of publicity and publications. The party has not had a central organizing chief in many years.

The dynamic Mr. Scott might be the Liberals' answer to the Conservatives' national director, Allister Grosart, a former public relations man generally regarded as one of the main architects of the Conservative federal wins in 1957 and 1958.

Several speakers went out of their way Monday to throw left hooks at Mr. Grosart, describing him in such terms as "Machiavellian" and as "External Affairs Minister Grosart."

ONTARIO REPORT

The opening - day meeting heard cheerful reports from some provincial organizations, with others to come later.

For Ontario, provincial president William J. Henderson, former Commons member for Kingston, reported that "we in Ontario are on the way upward and moving fast."

He described last week's meeting here of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada as a circus and said the Liberals would not "try to turn the affairs of state into a three-ring carnival of caprice, clamor and camouflage."

OTTAWA VALLEY

ficit and around Barrie and Bracebridge.

Salvage operations on the Norwegian freighter Vilh. grounded in the St. Lawrence River near Brockville, were hampered by high winds and waves.

Quebec City was lashed Monday by sleet, whipped by 80-mile-an-hour winds. An advertising billboard collapsed on four unoccupied parked cars.

Temperatures in North Ontario ranged from 8 below zero at White River, traditional cold spot, to 28 above at Sault Ste. Marie.

Seasonably chilly weather prevailed on the eastern Prairies with temperatures Monday night ranging from five to 10 above zero. Farther west Alberta was comparatively mild.

In northern British Columbia, work crews were still repairing the havoc caused by weekend storms which dumped some five inches of rain in the Prince Rupert area.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stormy weather which dealt crippling blows across sections of the northeastern United States appeared diminishing today. Raw weather, however, continued.

More rain and snow and strong winds swept some sections during the night and snow was expected to continue during the day in the New England states, New York and parts of Pennsylvania.

The rains along the coast from New York City northward changed to snow during the night and snow fell inland, extending into the lower Great Lakes region. Pennsylvania and lower Michigan. Snow and sleet pelted Syracuse, N.Y., which reported wind gusts of 45 miles an hour and four inches of snow on the ground.

Similar gusts lashed areas elsewhere in the rain and snow belt, cutting visibility and creating hazardous driving conditions.

The snow, sleet and rain storms which struck the region Monday were the worst of the season. The stormy weather was blamed for at least 16 deaths, most of them in traffic accidents on icy highways. Many schools, plants and airports were closed and hundreds of motorists were stranded.

Snow drifts measured more than 1½ feet in West Virginia. The snow cover was more than a foot in sections of New York state, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Fog, rain and snow forced the closing of airports for a few hours at Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., and 68 flights were cancelled.

In the southern states, the weather continued cold this morning, with freezing temperatures extending into the Tallahassee, Fla., area.

Many sections of western New York state were digging out today after the storm had blocked roads, stranded buses and caused at least two highway deaths in the Niagara Frontier area.

25 CHILDREN STRANDED

More than 13 inches of snow piled up in some sections of western New York. Twenty-eight school children were stranded until after midnight about two miles north of Sherman, N.Y. when their bus became stuck in a drift. They spent the night at nearby farmhouses.

Heavy winds caused five-foot waves on Lake Ontario.

LONDON (AP) — Hurricane winds lashed the coasts of Europe for the third day today. The storm as much as 36 hours behind schedule. The captain of a French navy weather frigate reported from far out in the Atlantic:

"I have just heard from an American ship. Her captain thinks the storm has put 500 ships in difficulties."

British coast guardsmen answered distress signals from the 2,000 - ton Swedish freighter Aana, driven ashore on the rocky coast of Scotland. A line was shot to her deck, and rescue teams hoisted the crew to the overhanging cliffs.

Only a few miles away the 217-ton British trawler George Robb had heeled over on the rocks earlier Monday. All her crew of 12 men were lost and a coast guardsman collapsed and died during the search for survivors.

In the English Channel a Dutch tug with two barges in tow found shelter in Torbay after sending out distress signals. Two men were swept overboard from one of the barges. A lifeboat picked up both, but one was dead.

Off the Portuguese coast the storm smashed a tug towing a 600-ton and a 450-ton barge. All three vessels and 17 men were lost.

Scandinavia caught the full force of the storm. The Baltic was swept almost clear of shipping. On land hundreds of trucks and automobiles were abandoned in snowdrifts. Trains were derailed. Villages were cut off. Snow plows were stranded.

Freezing temperatures and heavy snowfalls were reported from northern Italy, Austria and Switzerland.

To Do A Total Selling Job On Your Total Market, Use The Total Selling Medium: This Newspaper

TOTAL SELLING in terms of advertising means reaching the MOST people in a designated market . . . with the greatest selling impact. On both counts, this newspaper is your TOTAL selling medium. PROVABLY (not "possibly" or "probably") this newspaper provides a larger audience for your advertising message than any other medium . . . at a lower cost per thousand. Even more importantly: this newspaper delivers your message in such a manner as to produce results, faster . . . which is what we mean by SELLING IMPACT. This is true because most people use the advertising columns of this paper as their buying guide . . . purposefully study the ads to find out WHO has got WHAT for sale and for how much . . . actually START their shopping in the pages of this newspaper. If you want to take your place on their shopping lists, the best place for your advertising is right here!

Modern Life Puts Eskimos In Bad Position

NEW YORK (CP)—The gradual strategic importance of Canada's northland has "put the Eskimos in for a bewildering time," a bishop of the Anglican Church in Canada said here Sunday.
Right Rev. Donald Marsh, bishop of the Missionary Diocese of the Arctic, said that modern life was thrust on the Eskimos starting in 1955 and 1956 with the construction of the early-warning radar defence systems.
The Eskimos now have more frequent contact with people whose social, economic and political values are different, he said at St. James Episcopal Church.
Two examples of changes cited by Bishop Marsh were a shift in the Eskimo population to trading-post communities from outlying regions and the transfer of children from the bush to the school. These changes sometimes brought problems.

Just Winning Prizes for His Many Creditors

SHEFFIELD, England (AP)
—Alan Welton was piling up points on a television quiz show.
First a tape recorder, then an electric cooker, a motor scooter and a water softener.
Some Rumbia pens, clothes and two parachutes followed in quick succession.
Among the millions of viewers was a man who Sunday identified himself as Alan Wel-ton's rugged face and cultured voice.
The viewer was Kenneth Miller, official receiver for Sheffield. Before Welton completed his prize-winning game,
Miller had recognized Welton
as an undischarged bankrupt.
Miller telephoned the Granada Television network to hang on to the prizes. All but the tape recorder, the plaything and the parakeets were impounded.
"The rest will be sold and the proceeds distributed among Welton's creditors", said
Miller.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Wednesday, December 9

General tendencies: A wonderful day and night to pioneer in any new lines of activity that are opening up to you. Make as many new contacts as you can. See where you may have misled a lot to go forward to unusual and progressive openings and accept them now as opportunities to make big advancement. Fine for pleasure, entertainment, too.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Since you are highly inspired utilize every day and evening hour to further your career; this can also mean along artistic lines which you may have never considered before. P. M. go out socially and enjoy yourself while gaining added prestige.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A good day to discuss vital matters with experts and intimates so you can make plans to get ahead faster. Also, give moneymaty or secret support to a clever family tie who has an excellent idea. P. M. put surroundings in better order.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You can reach your immediate goal via some invitation that suddenly comes your way today. Co-operate readily with whatever persons are willing and able to assist you, and have the right to artistic fields to make progress by contacting the right people. Up and at 'em! Succeed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is possible now to become better acquainted with that new contact who may happily assist you to become more successful. Be at your very best. Later, shop for what is necessary. P. M. attend some nice social function.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You can realize more prosperous and gracious living soon if you confer with an expert who shows how to get ahead faster, ethically. Follow advice immediately. Tonight is then fine for entertaining. Be relaxed and dignified.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Foolish procrastinations may lose you many fine chances today. Follow your hunches in business or career affairs, taking trips and the like. Be practical and attend to monetary matters first. Be very efficient in all you do.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Make your money stretch wonderfully today by being very practical and economical. Wisely find out the price and value of articles, then make quick and correct decisions. P. M. go about socially and see old friends.

If your child is born today ... The lovely child born today will have wonderful mentality and ambition to amount to a great deal in this life. Mainly, the success in this chart will be measured by the preparedness you accord your progeny, the wisdom you use in rearing. Stress early the completion of any tasks begun. Then study the facts in your child's nature. The greatest accomplishments will come through that particular channel.

NASSER WRITES BOOK

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser is writing a book on the 1956 Suez war, the newspaper Al Ahram reports. The paper says the book will be published "all over the world in all languages," with the first edition expected in March.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Anything in civic, career or personal life that is important, can be started, or handled very nicely today. However, you must take the initiative and have purpose of mind, perseverance. P.M. become more popular through sociability.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Since you are thinking big this week, get an early start and contact those persons in influential or progressive circles who can help you realize your ambitions. Later plan weeks and months ahead very constructively. Work.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Good day to get those bookkeeping records in finer order. P. M. increase harmony at home by being your most charming and devoted self. Raise your level of consciousness. Remember that kin are more important than outsiders.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You need not work so hard if you get together now with lofty-thinking friends or kin and learn more progressive methods in your field of endeavor. Make contacts. P. M. begin Christmas shopping.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Real accomplishment is possible today if you keep working methodically, constructively. This is again not a good day for those in

Estimated Markup on One Drug Said to Be 7,079 PC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Monday a markup for drug firm bought a medicine for 11.7 cents a batch and then resold it to druggists for $8.28 — an estimated markup of 7,979 per cent.

At the same time, the Senate anti - trust subcommittee produced figures it said showed the Schering Corporation of Bloomfield, N.J., latched up the wholesale price of another drug by 2,752 per cent—from 38 cents to $1.

Staff data on the two drugs was brought up after Francis C. Brown, Schering's president, challenged an estimate by subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) that Schering applied a 1,118 - per - cent markup over production costs for rednisolone, as arthritis-asthma medicine derived from cortisone. This drug is marketed under the name Neticortisone.

Staff specialists said Schering made that medicine for 1.6 cents a tablet and set a wholesale price of 17.9 cents and a suggested retail price of 29.8 cents. Included were costs of preparing and bottling the tablets, but not of marketing them.

Kefauver and his aides produced charts they said showed Schering and three major competitors — Merck, Upjohn and Pfizer — handled the arthritis-asthma drug prednisolone at identical prices—$17.90 for a bottle of 100 tablets.

The charts listed a smaller firm, Physicians Drug and Supply Company, as selling the preparation for $4.85 a hundred.

Testimony about Schering's pricing practices developed as the Senate subcommittee opened public hearings on whether drug houses were charging too much at the wholesale level and, if so, whether Congress should do something about it.

Defending his firm's pricing policies, Brown said:

"The best indication Schering's prices were not excessive and that its products were good is found in the ready acceptance given them by the medical profession."

Brown said his company's recent profits amounted to 16 per cent of sales.

It was then that the subcommittee confronted Brown with figures purporting to show a 7,979-per-cent markup for a drug marketed as Progynon and 2,752 per cent for another drug sold as Ettinyl, both used in treatment of female disorders. These markups did not include costs of tableting, bottling or selling.

The subcommittee said Schering bought Progynon and Ettinyl from Roussel, a French company.

The Schering president said the two items used for female disorders were "an insignificant part of our business."

"But they're important to those who need them," Kefauver said.

GIANT STORM AT SEA CLAIMS 100 LIVES

Million People Surge Around Eisenhower Car

Crowd Out of Control At New Delhi Welcome

NEW DELHI (CP)—A throng of more than 1,000,000 — sometimes terrifyingly out of control —surged about President Eisenhower tonight as he rode 10 miles through this capital of India.

No one will ever know exactly how many Indians stood in their chills and cards to cheer Eisenhower along an 11-mile route from airport to city. Police guessed the crowd at 1,500,000, but it could easily have been larger.

Indian officials who witnessed the reception here for Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders four years ago said the crowds today were even bigger and more exhuberant.

Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nehru stood up in an open limo convertible as they drove at 15mph from the airport into New Delhi. As they reached the shopping centre, spectators standing 10 deep along the route broke through police lines and tried to shake hands with the U.S. president.

The packed crowds rang bells, blew horns and surged forward shouting.

DELAYS PASSAGE

The wall of humanity was so great that it delayed the motorcade, pushing it more than an hour behind schedule.

When the presidential car finally reached the government buildings, thousands of Jawaharlal Nehru's bodyguard rode up. The dancers set off at a gallop, with the motorcade following far behind through a throng of cronies areas. The apparently was to prevent the crowds from blocking the motorcade entirely.

Prime Minister Nehru and Eisenhower, 80,000 invited Indians waited under a brilliant sun and blue sky to greet the president at Palam airport. With Nehru were President Rajendra Prasad and Vice - President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan.

As huge roar rose from the crowd as Eisenhower stepped out of the plane seeing his hat.

The American leader flew in from Kabul, Afghanistan, across the Himalayan mountains and the historic Khyber Pass—flanked in advance by Nehru as a messenger of peace.

FIVE-DAY VISIT

Eisenhower spent few to this most populous of the world's democracies for a five-day visit after a five-hour visit in Afghanistan, a landlocked neutral kingdom on the southern rim of the Soviet Union.

In less than 12 hours he had been in three countries on his 11-country goodwill tour.

Eisenhower's triumphal visit to allied Pakistan at sea-level Karachi, the mile-high Kabul for a meeting with Afghanistan officials, and spot on to New Delhi.

Long before the president's Indian arrival in the crystal sunshine above New Delhi, visitors began to line the 11-mile route into the capital was lined by 40,000 troops and police.

Nehru called on his people to welcome "President Eisenhower.

'WONDER DRUGS' PRICES STUDIED BY MINISTER

However No Report Has Come Forward

OTTAWA (CP) — Pricing of "wonder drugs," object of a current United States Senate subcommittee hearing, has been under study in Canada since 1957.

This study was mentioned in the combines commission's 1957-58 annual report to Justice Minister Fulton.

However, no report has come forward from the study as yet and there has been no indication from justice officials as to when the investigation might be finished.

In Washington, the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee Monday heard disputed testimony that one U.S. drug firm received price markups as high as 1,000 per cent on some of its products.

The subcommittee also is seeking to learn whether an international cartel exists in parts of the drug business.

TORONTO (CP) — Jules R. Gilbert, president of a Toronto drug supply firm, said Tuesday that drug marketing in Canada is often greater than in the United States.

Mr. Gilbert said the justice minister of Canada has the power to bring about a reduction in the cost of medicines by enforcing a section of the Combines Investigation Act.

He said under section 30 the attorney-general is entitled to set aside the patent on a drug, which would put it into open competition and reduce the price drastically.

Most drugs firms have sued Mr. Gilbert's companies — Gilbert Surgical Supply Company Limited and Jules R. Gilbert Limited — for patent infringements. Mr. Gilbert is defending each action and is still selling—under protest—the American patents—each of the drugs claimed by the patents involved.

Mr. Gilbert, a New Yorker who came here in 1946, said he has given the U.S. subcommittee information on drug markups in Canada and may be called to testify at the hearings.

Liberals Take Off Gloves In Attacking PCs

Little Work Done On New Platform

OTTAWA (CP)—The top brass of the Liberal party took off the gloves in their two-day meeting here to hammer hard at the Progressive Conservative record in government.

"This here's knuckle attack on their major political opponent, and the general degree of optimism about their chances in the forthcoming federal and provincial elections, overshadowed the repair work done on the Liberal platform.

Some campaign planks were dusted off or replaced by more up-to-date versions, but little ground was broken on basic policy. This apparently left the party for a party rally to be held next year, probably in the summer.

General these was: We can win the next time.

FIGHTING SPEECH

National leader Lester B. Pearson's speech in a relatively quiet Tuesday night was indicative of the Liberals' fighting mood.

"This (Conservative) government has failed to take a financial morass with highest interest rates, highest money, biggest deficits, highest cost of living and highest government expenditures in our history," he said.

"It has, in a weak and demagogic fashion, tried to throw the blame for its own misdeeds on others.

"It has been uncertain and sometimes rash in its efforts to meet the problems for which it it itself largely responsible."

"BLANKETY" TECHNIQUE

He said the Conservatives are expert at a new art of "blanketury"—stealing Liberal ideas to catch votes.

"We face a party which, having at last abandoned certain reactionary conservative policies which helped to keep it in the political wilderness for the great part of this century, now, with brazen effrontery, claims these ideas which it once opposed as its own."

This was "both a tribute and a threat to Liberalism."

Earlier, J. W. Pickersgill, former immigration minister, said Liberals have faced with the most efficient political propaganda machine that ever existed in Canada, but it would take a tough job to debunk the "Diefenbaker myth." This machine was "the most efficient, the most unscrupulous and the most expensive."

Mr. Pearson went on from there, saying the Conservatives were using "disinvolvement through the distortion of history," and "perversions of fact."

"This new technique of selling a person and a platitude by all the resources of modern methods of communication is meant to be a danger to us politically," he added.

A. Brnce Matthews of Toronto was re-elected to a second one-year term as federation president. He said it will be his last year at the helm.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synoptic — Cold weather which moved across Ontario Monday generated a wind still prevalent today. Overnight readings ranged from near 30 in Southern Ontario to the teens in the North. Anticipated readings this afternoon are early 5-10 degrees higher. Thursday should be much the same as today with the cool air mass continuing to give partly cloudy skies and a strong wind.

Norwegian Vessel Capsizes, Sinks; 6 Bodies Spotted

Raging Gale Continues, Many Ships in Trouble

LONDON (AP)—A Norwegian freighter turned turtle and sank today off the coast of Norway as the giant storm raging around Europe continued in the fifth day. The storm has claimed more than 100 lives.

The 1,718-ton Elerida radioed for help and said her crew of 21 was taking to a lifeboat. Later in the morning the Norwegian freighter Buffalo reported she had found the Elerida bottom up and had spotted the bodies floating near the wreck.

No trace of the others was found, although an empty life raft was discovered floating nearby.

Two other ships were reported missing and feared sunk off the Norwegian coast with a total of 36 men. They are the 895-ton German ship Merkur and the 700-ton Norwegian freighter Grete Solheim.

Off the east coast of Scotland, a Royal Navy tug and a fishing house tender were standing by for the North Carr lightship, dragging slowly toward the rocky coast with seven men aboard.

TOO STORMY TO RESCUE

At least two other ships were reported in trouble in the Norwegian waters.

The British first reported that her engine room was flooded. Then she radioed:

"We are sinking. We have to put out a lifeboat. We are trying to enter in. We thank all those who come to our assistance."

At least seven ships picked up the call and went to help.

The effort to save the North Carr lightship stirred at least eight lives. The entire crew of the lifeboat Mona drowned Tuesday trying to reach the threatened vessel. Other lifeboat crews put out but put back into the terrifying seas.

THREE CABLES SNAP

The lightship was drifting off the mouth of the Firth of Forth, with only a single cable and anchor to check somewhat her progress toward the rocks. Three other cables had snapped in the gale.

There was little so far the tug and tender could do but stand further up the coast of Scotland the veteran captain of the lifeboat Henry Dundas Swan still refused to leave his ship, and appeared in danger of breaking up.

Grizzled 60-year-old Capt. John Vooris was the only man left aboard the 1,000-ton Anna. His 17-man crew members, evacuated by the coast guard, but Vooris claimed he could handle the ship alone and the vessel he has commanded for 16 years.

ANOTHER CASUALTY

Already he is being called another Capt. Kurt Carlsen, the Danish-born American skipper of the Flying Enterprise. Carlsen rode out a storm aboard his crippled ship seven years ago to save 11 fellow salvagers, but the ship sank after the storm abated.

Out in the North Sea several Danish fishing vessels were reported in trouble with damaged rudders. Lifeboats and tugs were bucking through mountainous seas to reach them.

Dissipate Angry Suspicion' Canada Challenges Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada has challenged Communist Hungary to clear away "clouds of suspicion" that have settled on Lester B. Pearson and Lucien R. Gilbert Lindsey on patent infringements. Mr. Gilbert is defending each action and is still selling—under protest—the American patents—each of the drugs claimed by the patents involved.

Mr. Gilbert, a New Yorker who came here in 1946, said he has given the U.S. subcommittee information on drug markups in Canada and may be called to testify at the hearings.

MUNRO REPORT

He cited Munro's report "dealing with the recent allegations that have appeared in the press in many parts of the world that many young persons had been held for trial since 1956 who at that time were below the age provided by Hungarian criminal law for the application of severe penalties for certain political and kindred offences."

The Hungarian debate—heard each year at the UN since the Hungarian revolt was crushed by Soviet tanks in 1956—continued today, perhaps for the last time, to be heard from before a vote will be taken.

The assembly is debating a resolution deploring the "continued disregard" by the Soviet Union and Hungary of UN appeals against secret trials and executions arising from revolt.

"My government does not necessarily believe all the rumors that have been circulating for the past several weeks in Canada and the United States and that have been widely reported upon in the press of many countries," said Nesbitt.

GREATLY DISTURBED

"But I cannot deny that these reports have disturbed us greatly and that the people of Canada are deeply distressed at the possibility that they may be true.

The International Commission of Jurists said Hungary "in some detail on trials held in camera, on confessions obtained from young accused persons and on a number of executions.

Hungary's James Peter, speaking before the assembly, described as a "scandalous invention" the report that 150 young people who were minors at the time of the "counter-revolution" were awaiting execution. He referred to a similar denial by Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar.

Mother Leads Eight Children To Safety

WHITBY (CP) — A mother led eight of her nine children to safety from a fire that caused $4,000 damage to her home late Tuesday night.

The other child escaped earlier.

The mother, Mrs. Robert Collins, was having coffee with a neighbor across the street when her oldest son, Wayne, 11, called her after discovering the fire in the kitchen while doing his homework.

Mr. Collins wakened the eight children, whose ages range from three months to 13 years, and led them to safety.

Mr. Collins was at work when the fire started about midnight

American Flees Cuban Prison

PINAR del RIO, Cuba (AP)—Military headquarters announced that Austin Young of Miami, Fla., sentenced Wednesday by a military tribunal to 30 years imprisonment, escaped from the military prison early this morning.

Cmdr. Jose Argibay, chief of the 6th Military District, made the announcement that Young had escaped with another prisoner, Sergio Hernandez Reyes, who was to be tried Friday on counter-revolutionary charges.

Young was tried for counter-revolutionary activities with 37 others, including Peter John Lambion of Nassau.

T. Quinn Heads Polls at Tweed

TWEED — Tracey Quinn, 1959 councillor, headed the poll here in Monday's election, his 1,059 votes placing him at the head of the list of seven candidates for councillor. Also elected were three new men, Emerson Hodgins 580, Guy Hughes 358 and Dr. A. G. Adams, 300. Defeated candidates were Wallis Moffat, reeking re-election, 276, Everett Thompson, 271 and Stewart Lessard 199. Douglas Spencer was re-elected reeve by acclamation. There was a large turnout of voters.

Mother of Five Sent to Jail

GUELPH (CP) — Mrs. Dorothy Tiron, mother of five children, today was sentenced to a jail term extending up in nine months.

Last week she pleaded guilty to forging and uttering a cheque of $14 and to a false pretense charge involving two pairs of children's shoes obtained from a Guelph store.

Magistrate J. S. Mitchell recalled that the woman had been granted probation on a previous occasion but she apparently had failed to realize the seriousness of her actions.

Plane Wreckage Is Sighted

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian Navy reported today that its patrol planes have sighted the wreckage of an airliner missing since Tuesday with 46 persons aboard.

The wreckage was seen in the San Blas Mountains in Panama, the navy announced. There were no signs of life.

The plane disappeared on a flight from the San Andres Islands to Cartagena, Northern Colombia.

Ceylon Ministers Lay Dismissal To Demand for Probe of Murder

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Ceylon's caretaker cabinet has been cut to eight men following the dismissal Tuesday night of five ministers and the reinstatement of two others resigned two weeks ago.

Prime Minister Wijayanda Dahanayake asked Gov.-General Sir Oliver Goonetilleke to dismiss the five ministers, all members of the Sri Lanka Freedom Party, for challenging his leadership.

Last week the prime minister asked that Parliament be dissolved and elections held in March, nearly a year ahead of schedule.

Dahanayake resigned from the Freedom party on Monday, stating that he would form his own party for the elections. The Freedom party refused to accept his re-signation as premier.

The Freedom party was

Canada Challenges Hungary

founded by late Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, who was assassinated 18 weeks ago. Seven men are on trial charged with murder of member of Bandaranaike's cabinet who died in connection with the murder.

Reinstated was Stanley de Zoysa, who regains the finance portfolio he resigned two weeks ago after his brother was arrested in connection with the assassination of Bandaranaike.

The five dismissed ministers in a statement said: "From the day we started campaigning for a full and exhaustive inquiry into the assassination of the late prime minister, Mr. Bandaranaike, we knew we were incurring the displeasure of Mr. Dahanayake and others.

"We leave it to the people of Ceylon to judge our action and the actions of the prime minister."

Collective Farming Is on Decline In Russia While State Farms Grow

Dick Hanson, editor of Successful Farming Magazine, describes Russia's drive to expand its farm economy in this article written for The Associated Press.

By DICK HANSON

Soviet agricultural production today results from two vices—the shrinking vine of the collective farm and the growing vice of the state farm.

I visited both types in about equal numbers during my recent visit to the Soviet Union. There is a sharp difference in organization.

Collective farms represent the pooled holdings of formerly independent peasant farmers. On a collective farm, the workers elect a manager to supervise the entire farm. Workers on the collective receive part of their pay in money and part in kind. Also, the collective farm worker receives what is called a household allotment.

The household allotment ranges from about half an acre to three acres. On this land the worker can grow vegetables, feed a few cows, a goat, anything he wants to raise. He can either feed his produce to his family or he can sell his produce in the city market. The market and keep the cash. There still is a little "capitalistic incentive" in Soviet agriculture.

It is estimated that the total number of collective farms has decreased from more than 250,000 at the beginning of 1950 to 80,000 or 70,000 today. The average sown area per collective increased, accordingly. In 1956 it was about 4,500 acres. Today the average collective is more than 3½ times its pre-war size.

The state farm system has expanded remarkably in the last few years. State farms differ

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

YOUNGSTERS CASH IN ON CAROL SINGING ON WEST HILL

Youngsters in the West Hill district are making it on the Christmas carol singing bonanza but there seems to be a bit of discrimination involved.

City firemen said today that they had been informed several children were making the rounds in that area offering carols and accepting donations, presumably to help pay for baskets for the needy to be distributed by the firemen at Christmas.

Fire department officials said the carol singing was without their authorization.

WILL SHOW SOCCER FILM

The Trenton Minor Soccer League has announced through Secretary F. Robinson that it will show a film of the 1965 English Cup final on Monday night, December 14.

The film, which runs for over two hours, will be shown at 8.30 p.m. at the Trenton Community Gardens. A small admission fee is charged with the proceeds going to the Trenton Minor Soccer League.

A special invitation has been extended to all soccer players in the Belleville and surrounding districts.

Ditching Crews Busy in Two City Districts

With the weather as it is the regular crews of the Public Works Department has been somewhat disturbed as sporadic snowfalls have required the cleaning of sidewalks and loading of roads before regular street work can begin. The ditching crews, however, have been busy in the Hillcrest and Valleyview Crescent areas and, weather permitting, it is expected to spend the remaining time available on the Hillcrest area.

The grading of all gravel roads in the city is a major concern at the present. These are constantly being attended to by the road crews so that an even and suitable surface will be on hand when the winter freezing sets in. The annual patching crew has been at work throughout the old section of the city.

The department's equipment has been in operation and checked out and the crews are ready to cope with any sudden snowy clouding or plowing chores which might arise. Other department crews have been keeping busy with the various odds and ends of maintenance work.

Council Writes Finis to Hectic Year, Only Five Returning

Belleville city council Monday night wrote finis to what possibly was the most hectic year in civic administration as the last for their final regular council meeting of the year.

At the same time it was the final council meeting for all but five of the 18-man body with only five of their number to return to city hall next year.

Absent will be Mayor Gerald Hyde, who this year lost out seek re-election, and Aldermen Ben Gilbert, Gordon Ferguson, Fred Grandaise, Dr. James Forrester, Ralph Graham and Robertson Collins. Also missing will be Aldermen Effie McCabe, Lee Digby and Claude D. Tice.

The five council members who will be returning are Aldermen Walter T. Elliott, Jack Ellis, George Wishart, Robert Temple and Jack Ireland, who were successful at the polls on Monday.

There was little business more than routine business at the final regular council meeting of the year with even some of this was referred to the 1966 council.

Falling into this category was the request of former city treasurer Drury R. Denyes for $865.50 accumulated sick leave for the 25 years which he worked at city hall. Alderman Jack Ellis moved an amendment calling for the amount to be changed to $750 which he said would be the figure on the basis of a 30-day work year.

Payment of Mr. Denyes' claim will await direction from the city solicitor as to its legality.

Also referred to the 1966 council was the payment of three months' salary as severance pay to Rodney Newton, city parking works employee who is retiring in the near future.

Another matter referred to the next council was a request from the Belleville Public School Board for the sale of property on Community Ave. All property as a school site. Ald. Elliot recommended that the 1966 council sell the property requisite to the board.

The request to council was made by board chairman Bruce Bishop who noted that the expected purchase of other property in the Parkdale area had not been finalized.

He said the board was prepared to pay the going price for the property and in this way Separate school board supporters whose money may have gone into the Parkdale property would not be helping to pay for the Community Ave. site. The board proposes to build a new five-room school in the area.

Ald. Digby moved that executive committee, as well as the committee, said be understood the going price for property the green belt would be approved by the municipal board with a view of minor adjustments.

FARTING WORDS

Last night's council meeting also saw farewell words from council members, who will not be returning to city hall next year. All expressed congratulations to the council elected.

Alderman Ralph Graham wished all success to the 1966 council and all the best and received commendation for Mayor Gerald Hyde for his leadership in council during his two years as mayor.

Mr. Graham said Mayor Hyde had always been fair and impartial and had devoted much more time to the position as mayor than had previous mayors.

Mayor Hyde in addressing the council for the last time said he had the seven years which he has been on council "will live with me as long as I live, while the last year will be an everlasting memory."

He said he could not help but feel, however, that the present council had left some mark which himself could record as being worthwhile. In the past year council had many onerous decision to make he said.

In concluding Mayor Hyde expressed his appreciation to council and staff members as city hall, which he said, had been exceptionally co-operative.

"We have an excellent staff at city hall which needs only leadership" he said.

Alderman Effie McCabe rose to commend Acting Clerk Adam Stalker for an excellent job in returning officer in the heaviest municipal election in the history of the city.

LABOR LEADER HONORED

Safety Program Outlined at Kiwanis Club

A brief outline on the safety program being carried out in local schools was given members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club on Monday by Safety Officer Sgt. Dennis J. Robson.

Sgt. Robson, who is currently engaged in visiting local schools reviewing safety rules for driving, conducting the "Be Safety" campaign, and assisting in the organizing-sponsored Kinser the Safety Elephant campaign, gave Kiwanians an insight into the type of safety instruction their children are receiving.

He briefly described the one and one-half hour lectures and demonstrations which deal with the safety rules for children to observe when walking to and from school, when riding a bicycle, when riding in an automobile, and so forth.

Sgt. Robson stressed that excellent literature on safety will be distributed free of charge to anyone requesting it.

The speaker mentioned that a new feature being added to the class-room instruction is a safety movie, a poem based on the film, was written as a safety memo by J. H. Coulter, and has been set to music. It is played over CJBQ every Saturday morning.

Sgt. Robson thanked the Kiwanis Club for supporting the Kinser the Safety Elephant campaign in all local schools, and the organization of a safety committee in the club, of which the speaker is a member.

Speaking of other local safety programs, Sgt. Robson mentioned the now city traffic school conducted at the police station by Police Leader Sergeant and others interested in training safe driving habits.

The speaker was introduced by Leo McKee, chairman of the newly-formed Kiwanis safety committee, and thanked by past president Charles Lash. Added thanks on behalf of club were expressed by President Geoffrey Wishart, who conducted the regular weekly meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas St.

Past president Frank Donnelly presented the financial statement of the annual "Ladies' Night" held November 30, in the Knights of Columbus hall. Mr. Donnelly, organizer of the gala event this year, said it was "one of the most successful Ladies' nights held in many years."

President-Elect George Tripp announced the annual organizational meeting of the club will be held next Tuesday at 6.30 p.m. in the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas St. East. There will be no noon meeting next week.

Highway Safety Contest Draws 125 Suggestions

There has been an encouraging response to the Jaycee Provincial Highway Safety Suggestion Award Contest announced some weeks ago by the Attorney-General's department.

District Chief J. McDougall of provincial police headquarters at Belleville said today that approximately 125 entries have been received from throughout the No. 8 provincial police district which takes in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac. The entries were from persons of all walks of life and from many different age groups with many of them from high school students.

A cash prize of $50 is to be awarded in each Ontario provincial Police district with the winners from each district eligible for a further cash prize of $200 for the best in the province.

Inspector McDougall noted that the deadline for entries is Thursday noon Dec. 10th. Entries from No. 8 district should be addressed to Inspector McDougall at the O.P.P. office at Belleville.

May Consider Request for Taxi Meters

The Belleville Police Commission will reconsider a request for the introduction of meters in taxis being operated in this city.

This was indicated at city council meeting last evening when on an enquiry from Alderman Frank Grandaise, Mayor Gerald Hyde stated that the matter was on the agenda for the next meeting of the Commission.

Several months ago Alderman Grandaise introduced the matter of taxi meters but at that time the idea was not approved by the police commission. There is now a request for the matter to be reconsidered by the Commission.

Traffic School Third Class Finishing Study

With the conclusion of the present class which will end this week, the Belleville Public Traffic Training School under Sgt. Cecil Cook will not resume until after the Christmas holiday, it was noted today.

The third class of the school, which was completed late in October for the purpose of driver training, will be conducted Thursday evening.

Sgt. Cook notes that all three classes which have thus far taken the course have been well filled and those taking the course have shown keen interest in the instruction. The course includes driver instruction, special equipment and also vision and reaction tests, as well as tests for rules of the road.

Normal complement for each class is about 18 students who take two two-hour periods of instruction a week apart, graduating on the last night.

Enquiries with respect to the course should be addressed to Sgt. Cook at the city police station.

Benefit of Doubt Given Accused Charged With Drunk Driving

TRENTON — In Magistrate's Court at Trenton yesterday, Constable Sidney Vickers testified that Peter Jay Hamilton, of Lakefield, after allegedly mounting the curb on Bay Street and striking two parked cars, causing a considerable amount of damage to all three vehicles, when asked for his license and ownership papers he did the equitable in his report of the accident, asked, "What accident?"

Hamilton, who is a field officer, connected with the Department of Highways, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

He said that he had left his job near Mountain View to return to his home in Lakefield on the afternoon of November 21. Before leaving Mountain View he admitted that he had drunk one bottle of beer. He had then proceeded to a motel, where he had been staying, to collect his belongings and had had a small glass of wine. The unfinished bottle of wine had been found in his car following the accident.

Thompson stated that he had driven along Bay Street under the impression that it was a by-short cut to Peterborough. He did not remember anything about the accident. He said that he must have "blacked out" until he came to in the cell block at the Trenton police station.

Constable Vickers stated that he had asked the accused for his licence and, after fumbling in his wallet, Thompson had said, "Here, you find it. I can't see." The officer said that he had noticed the smell of an alcoholic beverage on the accused's man's breath. He had taken him back to the police station and warned him that he might be charged with driving while intoxicated. Sergeant Lloyd Hall, the constable had interrogated Thompson and stated that he took several tests to ascertain his condition. The tests had not been satisfactory, and the accused was placed in a cell where he soon fell fast asleep.

Both officers testified that the accused had been sober when they first met him at the scene and he had answered in the negative.

ASKED TO SEE DOCTOR

Sergeant Hall also said that Thompson had awakened at approximately 9 p.m. and complained of pains in his chest. He had asked to see a doctor, and Dr. W. W. Weaver had been called at 9.30 p.m.

Dr. Weaver was called to the stand and testified that he had examined the accused and that he could find very little wrong with his heart. He said that Thompson had told him of a heart condition but added that the story had been rather obscure. However, Dr. Weaver said that he had recommended that Thompson go to a hospital and have an X-ray of his chest, as he had been given to understand that he had received a blow in that region at the time of the accident.

W. C. Mikel, lawyer for the defence, informed the court that Mr. Thompson had been treated later and found to have one broken rib and three or four cracked ribs. Mr. Grant remarked that this injury might have caused the accused to appear to be intoxicated when in reality he was suffering from shock. S. Gordon Robertson, Q.C., appearing for the Crown, counter-suggested that the amount of concussion might have acted as an anaesthetic and said that this might be the reason he had not complained earlier of pain.

In cross-examination, Mr. Robertson asked the accused for an explanation of why he had left Bay Street as the route to Peterborough.

Mr. Thompson said that he had followed the street into Trenton. He said he did not know at the moment where Bay Street was. Mr. Robertson said, "You're just, I don't know where it is either, but considering that you are an engineer I think it odd that you could get so far off course."

Mr. Grant said that the accused was not a young man, and that it was quite easy to get confused in a strange town, such as Trenton, Magistrate T. V. Willis interposed at this point, "... come now, don't compare Toronto with Trenton."

GIVEN BENEFIT

Magistrate Willis said that there did seem to be a doubt evidence that the accused might be guilty of the charge but was reasonable doubt in his mind that his behavior following the accident might have been caused by the accident, and he felt that he should give the benefit of the doubt to the accused. Mr. Grant said that he wanted to compliment the Trenton police on their fairness and Magistrate Willis said that one appreciated this ideal state of affairs in Trenton.

Joseph Ralph Beck, who is presently being held on a charge of vagrancy, was arrested by Provincial Constable Beck interrogated the court that he didn't wish to be represented by counsel. Magistrate Willis advised him testily that he didn't have anything to say about what he was held as.

Appearing for Hilliard Beckett, K.C., R.R. 1, Frankford, Robert Temple, Belleville solicitor, advised the court that his client had received a mailed summons to appear in Magistrate's Court dressed to one "Hillier Beaudrie." Mr. Temple suggested that if there was such a person, he should answer the summons.

Robert Whaley of Nicholas St., Trenton, had the misfortune on Saturday afternoon November 21st to careen around the corner of King and Elgin Streets and collide with a vehicle in screaming halt barely fifteen feet from the intersection. His wife and baby child of a police officer, while Trenton's Chief of Police Jack Taylor, and another police officer were standing near the door of the police station, Mrs. Whaley was advised by the youth to seek medical attention before continuing with the case.

Dakota Pilot Flying Club's Instructor

TRENTON — Flight Lieutenant Gerry W. Pinder is probably the most versatile pilot at the Trenton Air Force Station this week he pilots aircraft thousands of miles away from the Trenton base, and on weekends, as Chief Flying Instructor with the Trenton Flying Club, he takes short hops within a hundred-mile radius of the town.

The twin-engined Dakota which he pilots during the week weighs ten times as much as the Cessna 150 he flies on weekend. One engine of the Dakota is just three times more powerful than the single engine of the Aeronca.

In the near future Flt. Lt. Pinder will be taking a ten week North Star conversion course at the No. 4 Transport Operational Training Unit at Trenton. During this course he will be a member of the Air Transport Command North Star which will be expected to fly to such widely separated points as Resolute Bay in the Arctic and Egypt or even take trips around the world. Flt. Lt. Pinder believes that this world travel will not cause his interest in the flying club to diminish.

13 AOTS Clubs Represented at Trenton Meet

TRENTON — Grace United AOTS Men's Club of Trenton played host to representatives from 13 Girls' Clubs Tuesday evening, in the Sunday School Auditorium of Grace United Church. There were no less than 97 men in attendance for this pre-Christmas get-together.

A number of the clubs attending made direct contribution to the success of the evening by active participation in the program.

President Dave Parkinson conducted a roll call by clubs and it was found that delegates from the various clubs were present in attendance: Grafton Men's Club, George Street United of Peterborough, Trinity-St. Andrews of Brighton, Picton United, Ameliasburg, West Huntingworth, Frankford, Wooler, Campbellford, Bridge Street United of Belleville, Holloway Street United of Belleville, King Street United of Trenton, Grace United of Trenton.

Rev. T. R. Asbell of the Grafton Club asked God's blessing on the meeting which was graciously served by the W.A. of Grace United. This consisted of a turkey repast with all the trimmings.

After attending a cordial welcome to all visiting clubs, President Dave moved proceedings into high gear by appointing Walter Richards as Sgt.-at-Arms.

Harry Mawson thanked the ladies on behalf of the King Street United AOTS Men's Club of Trenton.

Arnold Robson and Val Carswell gave a stellar performance in leading a lively sing-song which was appropriately completed by the singing of Christmas carols.

The temper of the meeting was lively. The rendering of a beautiful devotional by Homer Leask and Carman Richards of the Wooler Club.

GUEST INTRODUCED

The last item on the menu was for obtaining Hadley C. Perrin, a local resident, into the immediate past National Executive Treasurer for AOTS Men's Clubs in Canada, the guest speaker for this gathering. The guest speaker was suitably introduced by Herb Kern of the Frankford Club.

Hadley Perrin based his theme on Christian fellowship, beginning his address into three parts: Faith, Prayer, and Service. In the latter of the three, age gave all those attending a new conception of our AOTS Men's Movement, and the impact will undoubtedly add new impetus to Meet Work in the United Church in the Bay of Quinte Counties Conference.

Lorne Myles of the Grace United Club, tendered a sincere vote of thanks to the Ladies of Trenton on behalf of all those present.

A brief business session was then conducted by the Grace Club with Dave Parkinson in the chair.

(1) The treasurer's report indicated that the club was operating in the black.

(2) Bryson Leslie, past president of the Eastern Ontario District Council, conducted the election of officers for the year 1960. The nominating committee tabled its report, and in the ensuing election the following slate was voted into office: President, Arnold Robson; vice-president, Arnold Conkwright.

The new executive is to be installed on January 6th at the next regular dinner meeting of the Grace United Club. Taylor Rankin, president of Belleville Presbytery District Council, will officiate at this installation ceremony.

Benediction was pronounced by the Honorary President of the Grace United Club, the Rev. G. A. Puttenham.

'No Parking' Signs Taken From Property

TRENTON — Squeezed out of the council chamber last night on the first post-election council meeting, the Board of Park Management Trustees over the mayor's office for their last regular meeting of the year. All members were present with the exception of the chairman J. M. Parker and in his absence W. C. Ireland presided.

Reported on the work accomplished just prior to freeze-up Mr. Ireland advised that the necessary stones had been removed from Allison Park and all fill in the area had been placed there preparatory to a spring face lifting of the newly popular playground. Located in the rear of the park between Bridge Street, Byron Street and Birch Street on the east side of the river, the Allison Playground is known as the Wartime Housing Area. Allison Playground is the centre of the Recreation Commission's summer activities. Program in the vicinity during the summer months, and has been a source of complaint from its residents and Parks Board alike for the unsightly appearance of poison ivy.

The Parks Board's efforts to keep cars from parking on the triangular park in front of Collegiate Institute, have met with stubborn resistance from motorists as persons unaware. A few weeks ago four "no parking" signs were erected but one sign was uprooted and relocated on the lawn of the nearby county health officer. This was replaced in the rear location and now another sign has disappeared. The signs, fastened to cedar posts planted two feet in the ground must have been removed by very "big children" possibly driving an automobile. Anyone seeing a car with a "No Parking" sign attached to the front bumper please notify the Parks Board.

Outdoor skating rinks will again be provided in the Upper Champlain Park on Third Ave., the Cedar Park on the north side of Dixon Drive and Victoria Park on Division St.

Skating located in the park last winter found much favor with the small fry.

It was agreed to be a good idea, and stated further that the property be subject to lease so that the town would not eventually lose title to the land. Mr. Campbell was instructed to attend to having the land surveyed to establish the exterior boundaries. He suggested that persons using the land be notified once a year that the property belonged to the town to ensure ownership.

United Appeal Campaign Now Totals $60,500

Belleville United Appeal 1960 campaign has reached a total of $60,500 in pledges and cash to date, campaign chairman E. G. Gurnett announced at the monthly meeting of the board of directors held last night at the Hydro Showroom.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Appeal president, Mrs. Alan A. Forster.

Mr. Gurnett said he hoped this total would reach between $63,000 and $65,000 before the campaign ended.

He chose, who were present in the house-to-house campaign to send their congratulations to Appeal treasurer, Arnold Wolfenden, at the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Jack Yanover, budget committee chairman, was authorized by the board of directors to distribute cash on hand from the 1960 campaign amounting to $33,850 to the 11 participating agencies.

Mr. Gurnett explained this distribution was based on 55 per cent of the budgets submitted by each agency.

He stressed the most the participating agencies could hope to receive from the 1960 campaign was approximately 80 per cent of the amounts requested.

"Unfortunately each agency will be forced to curtail its activities," he added.

Treasurer Arnold Wolfenden reported a total of $4,500 on hand from the 1959 United Appeal campaign.

The board of directors authorized Mr. Wolfenden to disperse the amount to the agencies participating in the 1959 campaign, and to close out the 1959 campaign books. He was also authorized to have the B.U.A. auditor prepare a financial statement which will be published in the Ontario-Intelligencer at an early date.

The Board of directors announced the Belleville United Appeal annual meeting will be held January 14th at 8 p.m. in the city hall Council Chambers.

The board of directors congratulated campaign chairman E. G. Gurnett on the "fine effort" he displayed "under adverse circumstances" in organizing and carrying out the 1960 campaign.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Gurnett at the close of the meeting.

Hungerford Election

TWEED — Three new councillors were elected in the Hungerford Township municipal election where 1,700 ratepayers cast their vote. He was followed by Percy Gaylord and Earle Alexander. Reeve Harold Graham and other new candidate went down to defeat.

Reeve Harold Varty was returned by acclamation as was Deputy-Reeve Vince Haley. Others turned out in large numbers.

Inspectors Refuse to Issue Permit, Appeal to Council

TRENTON — The final meeting of the 1959 council was held last night in the municipal building at Trenton, when the meeting were Mayor Ross Burtt, Councillors Ireland, Wm. Bradshaw, C. V. Graham, H. G. Aziz, Lloyd Worrall and clerk-treasurer C. Ross Campbell. Deputy-Reeve Vago Lange was out of town.

K. C. Hall, vice-president of the Bata Shoe Company of Canada, had a delegation to ask the council for erecting a sign pointing the way to Batawa, at the intersection of Highways No. 2 and No. 33.

The minutes were read, one from H. S. Pane, sanitary inspector and the other from W. R. Anderson, building inspector, both dealing with the application by Mr. Firm of Simcoe and Soss requesting a permit to install plumbing facilities for six bathrooms in an apartment dwelling the firm is erecting for George Street. In the case where the apartment is being built is in a R.M2 zone, which does not include apartment dwellings, Mr. Pane and Mr. Anderson felt that they could not issue the permit. Councillor Worrall asked if Mr. Clark had been advised of the restrictions before he started the project. He was told that Mr. Clark had made application to build a 4-plex and had gone ahead and planned a 6-plex. Mr. Worrall held that council had passed the by-law and he thought that it should be enforced. Councillor Graham thought that the bylaw should be changed to permit the building as he felt it would not detract from surrounding property. Mayor Burtt suggested that the matter be brought before the committee of adjustment. Mr. Larry pointed out that the case contravened the by-law and could not be dealt with by the committee of adjustment which deals with minor variances only.

Councillor Aziz said that he was willing to go along with any decision made by the planning board.

Councillor Worrall asked Rod Gerlich, council's solicitor what the town could do in a case of contravention of a by-law, and Campbell replied that the town could prosecute.

At the meeting to meet Mr. Campbell should write a letter to Mr. Firm advising him of the terms of the by-law.

Mr. Campbell read a letter received from the Salvation Army requesting a grant from council. It was decided to grant the same in the 1959 budget it was decided to advise the corps of the situation.

The secretary of the Mount Evergreen Cemetery Board had written to ask council to pay the cost of moving the two indigent funerals Mayor Burtt suggested that the 1960 council be asked to include the payment of such charges in the budget as the welfare department.

Miss Marion Baker secretary of the Board of Parks management, had written to ask for information that the boundaries of certain town property on the north side of Front Street, on the west bank of the Trent River, be changed. Miss Baker said that land owners in the area had taken over the maintenance of this property, but the board felt that it would like to know the exact location of these lots with a view to future plans for beautification by the town. Larry suggested that this seem-

Four Ways to Figure Profits

Chain stores, school days, good old simple rule days, when, if one were asked to figure the rate of profit of a firm, there was only one answer and that arrived at in a half-dozen strokes of a lead pencil.

Things have changed now. What is the rate of profit of the chain food stores? Is it 17.1 per cent, as the Stewart royal commission report on price spreads in foods asserts? Or is it two per cent, as figures produced by the major chain stores at least attempt to imply, if they do not actually state?

The chain stores' figures are based on profit averages on the sales dollar, about two cents, a method of figuring profits which has become increasingly popular with corporations, for one reason not hard to guess.

Perhaps, after using this method in many and varied publicity releases, business firms have no real ground for complaint when they are suddenly faced with the ogre of profits figured on shareholders' equity, the yardstick chosen not only by the Stewart commission on price spreads in food but also by the Borden commission on energy resources. One could say that it just serves them right.

For those citizens, though, who are more interested in the true facts than in witnessing a knock-down drag-out battle between two diametrically opposed methods of figuring profits, perhaps we can explain what results when profits are figured on equity capital. Shareholders may have put up a million dollars to start an enterprise, and have borrowed another million dollars by the sale of bonds, thereby raising the investment in the enterprise by two million dollars. But both the Stewart and Borden commission have figured the rate of profits with relationship to the shareholders' equity. In other words if this corporation in which two million dollars was invested, one million being the original shareholders' money and the other million raised by the sale of bonds, made a profit of $100,000, the commissions would have figured this profit as 10 per cent on the shareholders' investment, rather than 5 per cent on the total two million investment.

Now there is something to be said for the system adopted by the commissions. The commissions were talking about net profits after taxes, which naturally means after expenses, too. The interest paid bondholders would be included in the expenses of carrying on operating the firm. Let us, for the sake of argument, that this interest rate was 5 per cent. If then, the $100,00 profit of our imaginary firm was figured on total amount of money invested, $2,000,000, and we came up with the figure of 5 per cent, we should still not be presenting a large plentiful profit. An addition to 5 per cent profit on all $2,000,000 the firm would also have made an additional profit of 5 per cent on the borrowed million which it had paid to the bondholders as interest.

Let it be noted that, once the bondholders are paid off, the business would be considered to be capitalized at $2,000,000 since shareholders' equity is considered to be the total value of the capital stock plus the undivided surplus, the amount of profits plowed back into the business. (If profits used to pay off a bond issue of this kind are not considered to be plowed back into the business, then this explanation is all wrong and we are even further from understanding the whole controversy than we think we are.)

Right now, it looks as if there are about four methods of figuring profits.

1—Profits on the sales dollar. This is the system often used by the general public and gives a grotesquely high figure, since it is concerned only with the difference between the price at which a retailer buys an article and the price at which he sells it, without any consideration at all to a thousand and one costs involved in doing business.

2—Profit on the sales dollar. The average man will generally be surprised that this figure is so low, but it is unrealistic because the equation does not include any reference to investment, which is the factor stick by which to have been taught to judge profits.

3—Profits on equity capital. This figure can vary between indisputable accuracy, if no borrowed money is invested in the business, to the presentation of a profit figure which looks exorbitant if the ratio of borrowed funds to investment by the owners is large.

4—Profits on all the money invested. This may at first look to be the fairest yardstick, but we must remember, if we use it, that interest is being paid twice on that proportion of the money which is borrowed, in the form of interest to the lender and profit to the borrower.

USELESS KICKING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

It's all very well to protest and to grumble
And kick at conditions and things that are wrong,
But it's useless to murmur and mutter and mumble
At things we can't change as we journey along.
I'll admit that my share I have done of such growling;
I've through with it now, I confess certain of that,
Since all of our kicking and all of our howling
Has never changed the shape of a woman's hat.

There are times when it pays us to kick at our taxes,
And times when the mildest of us ought to fight;
There are times when it pays us to get out our axes
And blunder and bluff for a cause that is right.
A kick at a gas bill may sometimes work wonders,
Although we are often astonished at that
But never has man, though he blusters and thunders,
Ev'er yet changed the shape of a fella' woman's hat.

Stage Hurt By Lack Of New Plays

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

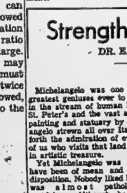
One sign of the sickness of the American theatre is not the dwindling number of plays, both in New York and on the road, but the significant fact that the original plays are now being written for the theatre.

About two-thirds of the current and coming productions on Broadway are "adaptations" of other works. This is true in every department — dramas, comedies, and musicals.

"Take Me Along" is a musical version of O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!" "Saratoga" is a musical version of Edna Ferber's old novel. "Only in America" is a musical version of Harry Golden's book.

"Cheri" is an Americanization of a Colette story; "The Fighting Cock" is an Americanization of an Anouilh play; "Auntie Mame" is an Americanization of a Paris burlesque.

"The Miracle Worker" is from a book about Helen Keller; "Look Homeward, Angel" is a book by Cyrus Rose Lee; "My Fair Lady" is from a play by Shaw; "Sunrise at Campobello" is from a book about the Trapp Family Singers.



The dreary list could be extended. In the last dozen or more years, practically all the original plays have been successfully presented on Broadway because they are not being written.

Skilled professional writers will not bother to sit down to write a play because the medium is so precarious, and the rate of return so meagre, that in the rare case of a smash hit, as compared with other media of writing.

For instance, the prize-winning play, "Time Limit," ran for a year in New York, to excellent audiences, and generally good audiences. It was capitalized at $118,000, and cost $134,000 to open on Broadway.

Yet, when it closed last month after 56 weeks, the backers had been repaid only $85,000 on their investment. The total net profit of the production for the entire run was under $10,000.

Unless the play does extremely well indeed, the high cost of scenery, the fantastic demands of "name" stars, and, perhaps most of all, the public's unwillingness to patronize a serious drama, combine to make the place for ultimate blame, the fact remains that there is little incentive for original plays in America.

WHY

Michelangelo was one of the greatest geniuses ever to appear on the stream of human history. St. Peter's and the vast array of sculpture and masonry by Michelangelo stream all over Italy, call forth the admiration of everyone of us who visits that land so rich in artistic treasure.

Yet Michelangelo was said to have been of mean and jealous disposition. He killed him. He was almost pathologically suspicious. He thought that everybody in his genius as artist and sculptor, that did not seem to satisfy him. The people who admired him most very often aroused in him a dislike him heartily.

Why does it so often happen that great and good qualities are found in combination with qualities truly distressing? One of the greatest men that ever lived was Francis Bacon, but his propensity as a grafter was so pronounced that when the law finally caught up with him his fines amounted to one hundred forty thousand dollars. Richard Wagner was an evil genius — no angel, a deadbeat, the most profligate schlemer of his schlemerous generation. Ethel George Hill was one of the best men that ever sat on Parnassus and one of the good kings. He would have robbed the Britishers and Americans of all their basic liberties had he not been rebuffed.

Yet Michelangelo was so much greatness linked with so much evil? So much villainy interlarding so much genius.

A missionary who has spent twenty-eight years in Africa has made some comment on the manners of Toronto residents that are far from flattering to the latter. He was astonished at the feeling to which he was subjected on the street cars in Toronto. When he stood up to offer his seat to a lady, a schoolboy ducked into it. Referring to such examples of rudeness, the minister compared the manners of Toronto children with those of the uncivilized tribesmen and concluded that the Africans had it all over their so-called civilized competitors. The imitating of European habits and customs usually produces a pitiable appearance, he said. The natives are inclined to be critical of the white types. They think of them as being spoiled fares, with a tendency to meddle in everybody's business.

Are 151 Taxes On Bread Loaf

St. Catharines Standard

That there could be 151 taxes hidden in the price of a loaf of bread seems incredible, but that is an absolutely exact recovery made in the United States. And since Canada's tax collectors are no less enterprising than American tax collectors it seems reasonable that the same could apply here as well.

The information is taken from an editorial in The Wall Street Journal: "The Tax Foundation has come up with a broad one reflecting the taxes on the land it's going through the farm sowing the machinery that plows and harvests and mills and bakes the loaf, the transportation, the baker, the wrapper and so on down the line to the final bread with added vitamins consumed by the housewife.

The taxes that are most apparent to Canadians are, of course, the sales commodity taxes to be paid to the federal government and the provincial. Then there is the local municipal government. This year's $1,500,000,000 local total, $1,500,000,000, the latter about $1,000,000,000, about $2,500,000,000 in all.

No one would argue that $2,500,000,000 is not a lot of money, but that is only the beginning. Total government spending in Canada this year will exceed $10,000,000,000. For every dollar knowingly paid, $3 are paid unknowingly.

In truth the tax burden is like the iceberg.

Finds Gliding Great Sport

REG Lindsay Letter

"I have often wondered what it was that quite suddenly at the age of thirteen filled my whole thinking with the desire for flying," said Ann Welch, vice-chairman of the British Gliding Association, in a recent broadcast. Ann Welch, who owns a gliding demonstration at the 1958 Farnborough Air Show, got her pilot's license when she was seventeen, was a ferry pilot during the war, and, now married woman, still finds time for flying on challenges, still often manages to get up in the air, as well as doing a lot of testing and propagating work on the ground.

The realization that she wanted to fly more than anything else came in a flash. Welch said, one day when she saw a picture of a glider in a magazine on a bookstall. As her parents' money did not run to such hobbies, she had to begin saving up. She imagined the first glider she saw would be a modern machine and long devoured every memory from every picture she could get her hands on. Instead, she found herself in a wooden aeroplane factory, with acres of wooden wings, and rows of fuselages from the ceiling. After that, had lessons at Lasham aerodrome, Croydon aerodrome, when she was allowed to loan over the pilots' shoulders and hold the controls. When at sixteen she had bought a one-seat motor bicycle her parents had decided that it was the lesser of two evils and had given her enough money to buy her pilot's license.

Her introduction to gliding had come through the influence of a friend, Ann Welch said. Gliding was cheaper than flying, and Ann thought it better than staying on the ground. Her friend, however, assured that gliders could only be the "poor relations" of serious flying. Many of the pilots in gliding was one of the most expensive sports in the world. Nothing it was possible to do. There was the thrill of a launch, the joy of the air without an engine, the quietness, the fascination of not knowing for sure whether you would land.

Naturally the glider pilot studied weather reports and decided on a course before being towed up to 2,000 feet by the tug aeroplane, Ann Welch said. When the tug pilot was ready to go, the pilot had to strike off into the blue trying to stay in the warm bubbles known as thermals.

The difference between thermals you fly straight and fast at about 70 miles an hour — in the direction of your destination. Thermals downwards all the time, until you find one that goes upwards, and thermal and climb back up to the height you were before you left that one. This one means that there is still hope — that you will be able to reach your good.

"It's not as the fun and excitement, there is the wonderful silence of flight in a glider," Ann Welch said, "and the wonderful breathless beauty of the scene. You see the world from a different color, but always looks like hard rock from the air; and the shadows of the cloud, with the purple shadows of the drifting clouds. Gliders fly over herds of miles over England every summer, but are rarely seen by people on the ground, because they float silently overhead in the bright paint hanging in the depths of the sky. They have been flying at over 500 miles, have climbed 8 miles high and have flown from the south of England to the north further than an express train."

Gliding was more difficult, Ann Welch said, for expensive, Ann Welch said, and instruction was not as good as it should be in Britain. Gliding championships were held every year, and competed in Spain, Poland, Sweden, Jugoslavia and France, and gave wonderful chance to meet people abroad in a friendly way. Out of the best ways of getting to know other people. "If you land on a remote farm-field, you have to get on with the people whose unheralded guest you are, and battle with the language problems."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TOBACCO HAS A MODERATE HABIT-FORMING QUALITY

The following letter comes to us from Dundas, Ontario:

"I read your article on tobacco smoking and profited from it. I am 18 and have been smoking for approximately a year, but recently have been reading up on it and its effects and have cut down to about half as much as when I started.

"However, I can't seem to quit completely. I want to, but just have to have one in my hands when I'm not doing anything worthwhile. Please suggest a way that will help me quit completely. I'm serious and earnest about quitting. — R. J. H."

I've noticed the American Cancer Society has concluded that if it expects to reduce cancer by reducing smoking it might best concentrate its campaign on young people. As the old expression goes, "It figures."

Any habit, whether it is smoking, being polite, eating a certain type of food, scratching the throat, reading or going to bed early (or late) — any habit is hard to break, the longer you do it.

Tobacco has a moderate habit-forming quality from the physical sense. Unlike narcotics, for instance, it doesn't cause actual "withdrawal symptoms" when you stop it. In the main, quitting a habit, like any common habit.

The Cancer Society found that there is a relationship between the smoking of parents and the smoking of children. Where the parents are heavy smokers, the children are more likely to be heavy smokers, too.

Her introduction to gliding had come through the influence of a friend, Ann Welch said. Gliding was cheaper than flying, and Ann thought it better than staying on the ground. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my newspaper colleagues was down in the dumps for two weeks because his newspaper had published several letters taking violent exception to something he had written.

People who do not approve are much more likely to take pen in hand than those who approve. The vast majority of us, on reading something with which we heartily agree, are inclined to nod our heads in agreement and let it go at that. And the vast majority of us who do not agree are inclined to blast off, vow to write a letter, or call in person and tell the author what we think. But only so once, we have forgotten about it.

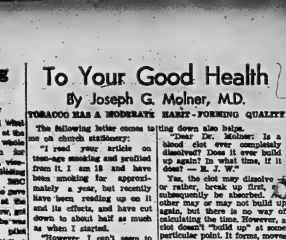
However, in letters to editors, the disapprovers outnumber the approvers very largely in my catalogue. The only time you can find approving letters is by publishing too many disapprovers.

And editors are wise to this fact. That is why you get cheerfully publish disapproving letters. You know that those cheerful characters, the approvers, will rouse themselves from their slumbery and comfortable ways, and take pen in hand.

I am happy to report that my colleague, who was so soundly castigated the early part of this week, has found he has a score of letter-writing friends the latter part of the week.

To Get — Or Give?

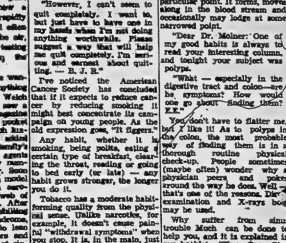
It was a great mind that gave expression to the thought: "Life is not all of life to live, nor all of death to die!"



Nevertheless, the French writer, yet it in like manner when he said that "life is nothing if it is not a pleasure, but serious business, which it is our duty to love, to honor, and conclude with honor."

Just imagine what a transformation would be wrought in the life of every man, woman and child on awaking each morning if they should ask the question —

"What am I living for?"



How would you answer? Now would I answer? Would we say that we were living to Get — or to Give? Since life is a continuous affair, character also must of consequence become accumulative. Then, what are we going to do with what you become each day?

What do the late fall flowers do with their complicated beauty and pungent fragrance? They give them away. What do they live for? They exist for the glorification of human beings.

Why do we get all that our abilities will allow us. But let us just as earnestly give what we get — away. That there may be yet time to get and give again.

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Elina Hakala, 55, and her 27-year-old daughter are doing very well in commercial fishing.

A native of Finland, Mrs. Hakala held in her lifetime that she fishes every summer up the Skeena River.

"My 4 - foot boat I call the Sputnik. My husband was a fisherman for many years, and when he died I went fishing too."

She said the last barrier had an accident in her boat. Other fishermen help her occasionally when it needs hauling up for painting or repairs.

"First I went into housework, then I was retailing, "but I can make more in three months fishing than in one year as a domestic."

Daughter Sylvia said she had tried baby-sitting, but gave it up when she found she could make more money by helping her mother with the gillnetter.

"I guess I could stop fishing, as I am getting old," said Mrs. Hakala, "but I do not want to. I don't feel right about getting help from the government.

"So I will dig my garden until April. Then I'll go back to the Skeena River, get Sylvia's engine chugging and set out my gillnet." She laughed as she added: "I don't like it much. I'd rather rest."

Home-Nursing Services Help In Denmark

OTTAWA (CP) — Subsidized home-nursing services are lightening the load for crowded Denish a n d t i o n a l health provincial nursing section, said Tuesday.

Miss Magnussen, here to discuss Denmark's setup with federal health officials, told reporters that even people with serious complaints can be looked after in their own homes.

"Since Denmark, like most other countries, suffers severely from a shortage of hospital beds this is a big advantage," she added.

She said Denmark also has home aide services that provide housekeepers who look after the house, meals and children while mother is ill.

(Canada also has such services in several cities but Canadian welfare council officials have said they are too few.)

Met His Wife Aboard Plane

EDMONTON (CP) — Robert Payne Kellogg, 38, says he met his bride-to-be, a former Danish-Canadian air hostess, during a plane trip from Vancouver to Victoria last February.

Mr. Kellogg and Inger Elisabeth Eriksen, 22, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, plan to be married Dec. 19 in a Lutheran cathedral in Lyngby, Denmark. He is the son of John P. Kellogg of Libertyville, Ill.

Mr. Kellogg whose grandfather was the late John Mitchell, millionaire Chicago banker, said he met Miss Eriksen aboard a TCA plane and began dating her. Both were living in Vancouver at the time.

Mr. Kellogg, a sales representative for Canada Safeway Canada Limited, said the couple will reside here after a Yuletide honeymoon in Jamaica.

St. Julien IODE Inducts Two Members

A beautiful pot-luck supper opened the December meeting of the Sir John Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., in the Old Fellow Hall, made beautifully festive with gay wall decorations and a small pink Christmas tree, beneath the boughs of which lighty were placed gifts awaited.

The centrepiece for the supper table was in Christmas theme in white and gold with red tapers in silver candlesticks. On a smaller table was a doll's buffet supper in this were placed, by each member, toilet articles for the Christmas box to be sent to I.O.D.E. headquarters. Around the buffet table, hand-knit articles, dolls, babies' sets of sweater, bonnet and booties, hand - sewn baby jackets and quilts, were on display.

Miss L. G. Irvine, Regent, conducted a short business meeting. Plans were made for Christmas cheer distribution. The Chapter accepted regretfully the resignation of Regent Mrs. L. G. Irvine, who will be leaving the city in the near future. Mrs. Irvine gave a delightful and comprehensive report of her work during the year, and expressed her warm thanks for co-operation from the members.

Mrs. H. G. McKay, 1st vice-president, will complete the regent's term of office.

NEW MEMBERS

Two new members, Miss E. Ferguson and Mrs. R. Ellis, were inducted into the chapter and welcomed by the assembly.

Mrs. P. D. Jeffery conducted two exciting contests; one, a nursery rhyme, won by Mrs. J. M. Carscallen; the other a treasure hunt contest won by Mrs. A. F. Hitchon.

All attended to an enjoyable evening. A vote of thanks was extended to the social convener, Mrs. P. D. Jeffery, and also to the pianist Mrs. J. M. Pennell.

OLD INSTRUMENT

The recorder, an instrument resembling a flute, was a favorite in Tudor times.

Springbrook W.A. Names New Officers

Nineteen members and two visitors of Springbrook United Church "Women's Association assembled in the church basement on Thursday afternoon for their regular meeting.

The devotional period was Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and Mrs. Lindsay Burkitt, with Mrs. Norman Sine, president, in charge, the order of the meeting was changed to heighten effect of Christmas season, and opened with the singing of Christmas carols.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, using "Perfect Harmony" as the theme. The Scripture, taken from Colossians 3:1-4; 12-17, was read by Mrs. Percy Bateman. Following the singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful," Psalm 98 was read in unison. A prayer for the missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Gould, was given by Mrs. Beare.

The treasurer, Mrs. Bateman, reported 56 cards sent out and 27 calls made. The correspondency treasurer assisted of a card and a letter of appreciation, also a leaflet on "Christmas Customs," was read by Mrs. Ralph Thompson.

A most interesting topic entitled "Christmas," was given by Mrs. Arthur Reid. Readings were given by Mrs. Thomas McKeown, and by Mrs. Edward Bateman. Mrs. Reid concluded by Gordon Bailey.

Mrs. Thompson reported 56 cards sent out and 27 calls made. The correspondency treasurer gave the financial summary of the months activities. Oh, a sunshine box showing a profit of $121.23.

The Pres. H. E. Beare dealt with a questionnaire on unity of the U.C.W. and W.A. and associations of the United Church.

During the annual meeting, the retiring president, Mrs. Carman Sine, expressed her appreciation to all the members for the co-operation in all activities during her term of office for the past two years.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Sine by Mrs. John McKeown.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mr. Beare took charge of the meeting, and after adding his words of appreciation to the organization, conducted the election of officers for 1961: president, Mrs. Carman Sine; vice-president, Mrs. Ralph Wellington; treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Cosbey; secretary, Mrs. Murray Mason; press reporter, Mrs. Ralph Thompson; organist, Mrs. Harry Haslett; assistant organist, Mrs. Edward Bateman.

With the new president taking charge of the remainder of the meeting, the various committees were formed, and the business arranged for the New Year.

The December visiting volunteers will be Mrs. Frank Cosbey and Mrs. Gordon Webb.

A lengthy business period followed with new and old business being dealt with.

A humorous reading was given by Mrs. John McKeown.

Collection $2.62.

Lunch was served by the hostesses and the ladies assisted.

The January meeting will be presided by a pot-luck supper at noon, with Mrs. Carman Sine and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson as hostesses. The executive will provide the program.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the church hall on the afternoon of December 3rd with an attendance of 11. The president, Mrs. Charles Wood welcomed all and gave a reading, "Recipe for a Happy Christmas", and offered prayer.

Mrs. Shepherd Watson and Their Flocks By Night" was sung. The pianist, Mrs. Dawson Hinchey accompanied the hymns, hymns used.

Mrs. Sara Elliott, group leader took charge and gave the call to worship, All sang "Away in a Manger".

The table was centred with a worship centre placard depicting the scene of the Nativity with the shepherds and wise men coming to see the baby Jesus in the manger with Mary and Joseph. The figures were outlined in white on a blue back ground. A lighted candle glowing in the centre fired made a most attractive Christmas decoration.

Mrs. Everett Stratton read the Scripture lesson from Luke 2. Mrs. Elliott read "The First Christmas"; Mrs. Robertson, "Down in Your Own Light of Men"; Mrs. Elliott "God Our Light". All sang "Little Town of Bethlehem".

Mrs. Elliott thanked her group for their help and received the thanks of the president.

Mrs. Wood took charge of the business. Votes of thanks were read from Mrs. D. Bradman and Mrs. Claude Clarke.

The president dedicated the offerings with prayers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Elliott assisted by Mrs. Bradman and social time was enjoyed.

Next meeting at the home of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald on January 7th, 1960 with Mrs. Everett Stratton, group leader.

GOOD BOOKS

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)— Parents and teachers must be educated to encourage children to read good books as a weapon against o b s c e n e literature, a meeting here was told by R. H. Roberts of Calgary, a member of the provincial advisory board of obscene literature.

With Warm Christmas Wishes . . . . . ROBES

At Christmas, thoughts turn homeward. The joys of family and "fireside" are more than ever deeply appreciated. Of all gifts, robes most truly express this warm, home-loving spirit . . . with the added appeal of femininity and fashion. For that very special lady on your list, give, with glowing good wishes, a robe from our collection.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Tomorrow is the eleventh anniversary of the Declaration Of Human Rights and is celebrated around the world as Human Rights Day.

T and T had a Christmas colleague prepared for tomorrow but we decided to tell a story while it may make some timeliness. It is an ancient yarn which might just as easily and we may add just as aptly have been written yesterday. It concerns the housewife who is the nation's mightiest purchaser. It concerns the need of our eternal vigilance. It is prompted by the recent report about food prices as they affect the producer, the farmer and the consumer.

It had to do with the price of a bushel of wheat a thousand years ago. The crops had been poor "and the price of bread in markets of Antioch had naturally risen in proportion to the scarcity of corn. But the fair and reasonable proportion was soon violated by the rapacious arts of monopoly. In this unequal state of affairs, which the produce of the land is the property of a party as his exclusive property and another party as the needful object of trade, and is required by the third for the daily and necessary support of life, all the profits of the intermediate agents are accumulated on the head of the defenceless consumer.

The hardships of their situation were exaggerated and increased by their own impatience and a sanguine, but unfounded opinion of a scarcity gradually progressed, the appearances of a famine."

You see the basic problems of the market place are not complicated, if we may use the word, of the second half of the twentieth century. No doubt it is a far cry from the fix-indicted markets of old to the supermarkets of today, or from the stench of fowl and animal life in the ancient parking lots with their chromium decorated automobiles, but it remains the same story.

What amazed us even more than the facts of the ancient problems was one of the steps the emperor of the day (Julian) took to solve the trouble. He established a law fixing the prices of corn at a "just medium during times of scarcity.

"The consequences might have been foreseen, and were severely felt". The government wheat was corralled by rich merchants the producers refused to deliver their supplies they had, and what little did reach the market place fell into the hands of the best blacks and marketeering rascals you could imagine.

OLD STORY EVEN NEW

The report, the price of bread and milk rises, reminded us of the 1600-year-old story which to us modern as 56 planes. The basic challenges remain unchanged. Even the attempted solutions have a terrible degree of flavor and the abuses are an ever present threat. How often we are reminded to look at ourselves in a mirror to discover our own shortcomings. Possibly society could glance in the mirror of history to remind itself of its shortcomings and from the reflection of history avoid the pitfalls. The wheat producers of Antioch did not have any watch dogs, as we have today, such as the Canadian Association of Consumers and monopoly statutes, but w e might say a city become just as helpless if through our apathy we fail to support those groups that strive to keep vigilance against abuse and.

Incidentally T and T found the price of bread and butter, with the famous English historian, Gibbon, who lived two centuries ago. Permanent progress can as Shannon has it, be measured by ignorance of, and indifference to, the experiences of history or the lack of knowledge of the past. And what T and T wonder is happening today when the price of bread on the market place, and we should add progress is not retrogressive, either we don't want to substitute the modern market for fear. The housewife is probably the most powerful element in the nation's economy; she can and should support every effort being made to protect and forewarn her. Is there any single factor more vital to the shopper than her eternal vigilance concerning abuses as old as Antioch and as modern as a super market?

Did you know that if world armaments could be reduced by one per cent that the great sum of $1,500,000,000 dollars would be saved to be turned to useful and productive purposes? The materialism and the idealism of disarmament are two sides of the same coin, peace on earth, goodwill toward men. Men and women the world over forget their schisms to wish President Eisenhower best wishes on his mission.

Y.P. Union Farewell Party

U.N. Delegate Tops Poll in Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Aldermanic candidate Alexa Holt was one of the last to learn she had topped the poll for council seats in this city's election Saturday. She was in New York attending a session as a member of Canada's United Nations delegation.

Her husband Morris scanned the results as they came into a Peterborough radio station and as soon as her re-election was confirmed he caught a plane to New York with the news.

Mrs. Holt scored a clear victory over her opponent despite the handicap of being out of town for the last two months. She conducted a long - range campaign from New York, affirming her continued interest in local as well as international affairs. One of her most effective election points was her announcement that she is to study with the New York area companies interested in opening branches in the Peterborough area.

Mrs. Holt was appointed in September as Canada's representative on the UN's social, humanitarian and cultural committee.

In her mid-30s, Mrs. Holt has long been active in public affairs. She has been on the council for two years and takes part in the activities of several local organizations, including the Progressive Conservative Association, the Cancer Society, the Red Cross and the Community Chest.

She moved to Peterborough 20 years ago from Stirling, Ont., where she was born. Her father, Conn. Cooper, 13. Her husband manages a finance company here.

Women's Institute

KYLESTORE W.I.

KYLESTORE — The Kylestore Women's Institute held its annual Christmas party in the Sunday School room of Knox United Church on Wednesday afternoon last. There were 37 ladies and several children present. Mrs. Wilfred Whatmore was the hostess.

Mrs. Don Kerr, president, opened the meeting.

Bills were presented and paid and Mrs. Ida Lewis was elected to be the delegate to the meeting of the foundation committee. Mrs. Gerald Pellerick was convener for the balance of the program which included the topic, "Is There A Santa Claus?" by Mrs. Roy Fry; readings, Mrs. Carlos True; Mrs. Alfred Pellerick, and a piano solo "Wheels of Wonderland," by Mrs. Jack Wilson.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Robert Lake, Jr., of Stewarood, gave an interesting talk on Christmas customs in her native land, Holland.

A vocal solo, "O Holy Night," Mrs. Don Stewart; Christmas piano medley, Mrs. Elsie Jones and a piano solo, "Star Of the East," Mrs. Carl Linn, were given.

There was a Christmas gift exchange for ladies and one also for the children. The guest speaker was presented with a small vase and bouquet of hand-made, scented plastic from poinsettias.

Cookies, brought by the members, were sold after the meeting.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her social committee, Mrs. Alf Akins and Mrs. Gerald Pellerick. The program committee included Mrs. Carl Reid and Mrs. Gordon Metkiejkuh.

Girl Church Editor Tries Assignment as B-Girl

When Mary Burdelak, 22, first met Gary Post-Tribune's city desk, she considered herself nothing like the paper's church editor. Then, at the end of a year, Miss Zak: Penn was a "pal" to many of Gary's tangled hats, and filled and bore a three prominent positions. Here is her personal report, written for the newspaper job. Written for the Associated Press

By MARY BURDELAK
Gary Post-Tribune Church Editor

GARY, Ind. (AP) — From church page editor to prostitute's pal, male-believe prostitute—is a big step.

That's how months ago I was studying journalism at Marquette University. I dreamed of thrilling assignments—and I became a church editor.

"Go just as far but no further," my city editor told me when he handed out the B-girl assignment.

It helped a bit to know that a husky male reporter went along, and with 7 bucks was enough to help if things got rough.

QUICKLY EMPLOYED

I soon learned that practically any young woman could get a B-girl's job in Gary at the price of a beer bottle. All she needs is a tight sweater, wild hairdo and lots of make-up.

I received two offers in the first hour I entered the first from a male customer who wanted me to work in another tavern. Then the bartender approached me:

"Get customers to buy drinks for themselves and you," he explained. "The money is good. Your drinks would be ten instead of alcohol."

He hesitated to mention the rear door leading to an upstairs room. There's where the B-girl takes the next inevitable step into prostitution.

Figuring I had learned enough for a first lesson, I stalled off the bartender and made a quick exit.

THE SOFT SELL

Another contact saw I was nervous and tried to calm me with a "soft sell."

"Now, you don't have to worry in this place," he said soothingly. "There won't be any mickeys, nobody's going to pay you—and you won't have trouble of any kind."

The "salesman" quickly outlined the deal — $25 a week salary and a 20-cent cut on every drink I hustled.

A third career as a make-believe prostitute ended abruptly when one drunk and rather insistent customer joined me in a tavern booth.

"Hey, I got a hundred dollars in my pocket, and I'll give you $15," he muttered.

When I intended not to hear him, he put his hand on my arm and whispered, "Okay, $20 then."

Right then I decided I'd reached the "just no further" point mentioned by my city editor.

Now I'm back on the church desk, listing Sunday sermon topics, but I'd think twice before making another B-girl assignment.

There must be a happy medium!

MISSIONARY MEETING

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Missionary Society held its recent meeting in Madoc Standard Church on Thursday evening.

The president, Mr. Lough presided and opened the meeting. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Yoteny, of Ivanhoe.

A reading was given by Mr. Lough entitled "Life's Kinder Way."

The Hicks sisters favored by a message in song.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Elgin Post took charge of the minutes of the former meeting and the roll call. There were 22 adults and several children present. Collection was $12.42.

The Hicks sisters again sang "Rockes of Ages," Mr. Yoteny, as guest speaker, read the Scripture from Acts 4, taking as his theme Acts 1-8.

Christ Church EBWA Enjoys Yuletide Party

On Monday evening members of the Evening branch of Christ Church's Auxiliary met in the parish hall for their annual Christmas party.

The long tables, spr with centrepieces of Santa and his reindeer, snow men, red and green candles and party hats fashioned from last year's Christmas greeting cards, were most attractive, and some sixty members and guests enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner.

Mrs. A. Bongard, president, welcomed all and expressed appreciation to those who had supper in arranging such a pleasant evening. She mentioned that instead of Santa paying his usual call for the exchange of gifts, the group had decided to send a Christmas parcel to the Rev. Mr. Wallace and his family in British Columbia.

Archdeacon J. R. Seagger, the Rev. E. P. Smith, and the Rev. H. Messiah, each spoke to the group and Mrs. G. Wright tendered thanks to Mrs. Boogard for her delightful leadership.

Following the dinner the members were divided into groups for the singing of Christmas songs. Games were played with Miss M. Novarski and Mrs. J. Spencer winners of the prizes.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. B. S. — Her husband is playing with fire.

Elaine R. — He refuses to change his job.

Mrs. B. S. — I am a woman who was deserted by my husband ten years ago after a marriage of 15 years. He just met a younger, prettier woman in the place where he worked and went off with her, leaving me with three children.

By the time the law caught up with him I didn't want him back. I finally made a settlement with him and agreed to a divorce. I guess it was foolish because now I hear he is very unhappy with his second wife.

Anyway, I don't want my daughters to go through the same thing. She has a handsome husband who is a door-to-door salesman. All day he deals with women. I think this is playing with fire. My daughter should insist that he give up this work.

Elaine R. — It's all very well to talk about insisting, but I just can't with my husband. He is extremely stubborn. He gets his own way in everything. I can't do a thing with him.

When I speak to him about this and question him about the women he meets he just laughs at me. He says he loves me and he isn't that kind of a guy. But we have been married only four years. I don't know how he'll feel ten years from now with so much temptation in his way.

My husband says he's making a very good living with what he is doing and I should be satisfied with that and stop pestering him. I told him I'd be glad to do with less and not have to worry every time he walks out of the house. He is too much like my father in many ways.

The council: — It is natural for Elaine to worry about such matters since she suffered a serious wound in the past because of a man's desertion. Her father's desertion alone would be enough to make her uneasy, but her mother's dire warnings make things much worse, (

Unfortunately, however, probing and questioning a man on such matters tends to create difficulties rather than evade them. If Elaine's husband is a devoted husband and father, he might have been unconscious of the temptations lurking for him in every door. She has now called this fact to his attention and she has seriously annoyed him with her suspicions.

There are temptations everywhere for both men and women who are looking for them. If Elaine has no guarantee that one aggressive woman won't make a play for her husband at another job where there are fewer women in less intimate backgrounds.

In the long run, Elaine's only security lies in her husband's standards and character and in the quality of their marriage relationship. Even men of high standards can be driven to ugly actions by wives who make life unbearable. On the other hand, men have been known to resist the most dangerous advances of the devil out of love for a wife who makes a joyful thing of daily life.

Mrs. B. S.'s intentions may have been good, but she has introduced some poison into her daughter's marriage relationship. She should withdraw herself from this private area and Elaine should refuse to listen to her on the subject. The young woman would do far better to apply her thoughts to enhancing the attractiveness of her home and herself — both physically and in her personality.

Beautiful Brocade

By ALICE ALDEN

Brocade adorns the fashion scene this season. The majority of designers use sumptuous silk brocade simply, thus permitting the fabric to shine, figuratively as well as literally. Adele Simpson uses amber red and bright fifty silk brocade for a simple coat dress ready to star at smart afternoon gatherings. Banded at the shoulders, the neckline forms a notched curve.

PAYS RECORD PRICE FOR BOOK — New York dealer Hans P. Kraus holds in London copy of the 13th century illuminated book Apocalypse for which he paid a record $182,000. It was the highest price ever paid at auction of a book or manuscript. The Apocalypse was produced in St. Albans, England, about 1250. With Kraus is his wife. (AP Wirephoto).

MODERN MANNERS

Cornelia Wagner Shea

TELEPHONE COURTESY

Many of us are guilty of forcing unintentional bad habits upon our friends. This is particularly noticeable in the performance of everyday things that are done more or less automatically. Usually we do not realize the trifling annoyances that we are inflicting upon others. It's particularly apparent in the use of the telephone, the most useful and at the same time the most infuriating of all modern inventions.

I receive a deluge of "pet peeves" regarding this instrument. Let's pick a few at random, and let whosoever the shoe fits, wear it.

You dial a number; you may be pressed for time. You hear the receiver come off the hook. There's a long pause. Finally a small voice comes over the wire with what only a doting mother could recognize as "hello." At long last, when your exasperation is almost beyond control, mother comes to the phone to explain sweetly, "That was Junior, wasn't he cute?" What you are thinking is best left unsaid.

Do you punctuate a telephone conversation with side remarks to children, or others in the room with you? It is sometimes unavoidable to say "Please excuse me for a moment, while I get Susie out of the refrigerator," but don't try to do both things at the same time. Hang up and back rather than leave a person dangling on the line while you rescue Sandie.

Are you a telephone comic? Do you ever start off with "Guess who this is?" Or do you try to be funnier still by assuming someone else's name or accent? I am sure you don't, but whenever you are the victim of such a telephone prank, even if it's your best friend, I think you have every right to hang up. It's an inexcusable affront to the recipient of the call.

Are you guilty of any of the following time-wasters?

The person who never has a paper and pencil handy to write down a message?

The one who pulls away from the phone and can scarcely be heard, and has to be asked repeatedly to speak louder? Or, even worse, the one who believes he has to bellow into the mouthpiece?

When you accidentally get a wrong number, do you slam up the receiver on the poor person on the other end who is courteously trying to give you the number you have called, so you won't make the mistake again?

Do you save time by giving your name as soon as the phone is answered, saying "this is Mrs. Green calling, may I speak to Mrs. Smith?"

If you answer a call and a name is not given, do you severely say "Who is this?" If you do, you shouldn't. It is a very annoying approach, and it's downright rude.

To sum up, it all boils down to thought of the other fellow, and I am afraid we are all a little inclined to censure some of the telephone habits of our friends, not realizing that perhaps we ourselves are guilty of sore of the same irritating faults.

Question: I have a problem. A married couple who have been very kind to me are both Doctors. How in the world do I address a Christmas card to them?

—Mrs. C.I.M.

Answer: In this case the proper address would be "Dr. and Mrs. John Philip Smith," dropping the wife's title. Or, if you wish, you may send a separate card to each one. The first example is preferred.

Jigg's Style Dinner

by Mary Moore

The grower who gave me a lift in his cattle truck when my car slid into the ditch, asked me if I ever put corned beef and cabbage in my column.

If I have it was a long time ago and could do with repeating. The variation I am giving calls for cabbage and potatoes and carrots and onions. You could omit the other vegetables and use 1 large cabbage cut into wedges.

For the housewives who keep a can of corned beef on their shelves, or in the refrigerator for slicing for lunch boxes, I have a corned beef and cabbage recipe too — which is put together in a cream sauce and ends up in a casserole.

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY

(Children's Friends For Dinner)

Chicken Stew with Vegetables and Dumplings; Tossed-Green Salad; Lemon Snow with Custard Sauce (see Tuesday); Milk; Coffee.

BOILED DINNER WITH CORNED BEEF:

2 pounds corned beef, 3 carrots, 6 medium potatoes, 6 small onions, 1-2 medium size head of cabbage, salt.

Barely cover corned beef with cold water and heat to boiling; then reduce heat, cover kettle, and simmer until beef is tender, about 3 1-2 hours. Scrape carrots and split in half lengthwise; pare potatoes and cut in halves, peel onions, and cut cabbage in eighths after removing outer leaves. Add vegetables to kettle, cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender. Add salt if needed.

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE CASSEROLE:

2 cups canned corned beef (or cooked), 1 medium-sized head cabbage, shredded, 1-2 cup chopped onion, 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk.

Cut corned beef into small chunks. Cook cabbage and onion in salted boiling water for 5 minutes. Melt butter in saucepan and blend in flour and salt. Add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened. Add corned beef and drained cooked cabbage and onion to white sauce. Pour mixture into greased casserole. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

A mustard sauce from an excellent old recipe goes so well with corned beef and boiled fresh or pickled tongue I will give it here for you to try with your corned beef and cabbage dinner.

MUSTARD SAUCE:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1-2 cups hot liquid (from boiling corned beef or tongue or hot water), 1 tablespoon (or less) dry mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika.

Blend together over heat but-

UNITED CHURCH YPU

FRANKFORD — The Frankford United Church Young People's Union met on Saturday evening in Rose-Lowery Hall with co-president Marilyn Hall, of Stockdale, in charge.

Bonnie Rowe conducted a lively sing-song with Eleanor Beech at the piano. Judy Whillans played the hymns for Lois Williams' interesting devotional.

The business period was fast and furious. In about ten minutes, an invitation to a dress-up dance with the Brighton Y.P.U. was accepted for January 2nd.

Bill Dafoe was congratulated on his success in the election for Older Boys' Parliament, a special meeting for hall decoration was set for Saturday night 12th and the next regular meeting for January 9th. The roll call was answered by 33 teen-agers and three visitors were introduced, Don Farrell from Tweed, Wayne Wessels and Linda Wannamaker, of Frankford.

Carl Richards and Colleen Chase were voted delegates conditionally, to the Five Oaks Christian Workers Centre at Paris during Christmas holidays.

The Young People will arrange and conduct the worship service in the Frankford Church on Christian Youth Sunday, January 31st.

Carol Abbott acted as secretary in the absence of Sandra Morrow, who went to Toronto to see Shakespeare's MacBeth. Eleanor Beach, Colleen Chase and Duncan Chase introduced the program, conducted by Anne Judd. Christmas in India, Sweden and Canada were compared and everybody wanted to speak at once in a lively discussion on the Christian and pagan aspects of the Canadian Christmas.

Recreation was arranged by Dorothy Brooks, Stockdale, and after a really exhilarating fun period the meeting was closed with taps.

"Near-term outlook is promising"

"Economic conditions here and abroad suggest that we may be reasonably confident about the immediate outlook", said Neil J. McKinnon, President, addressing the 93rd Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

When we met a year ago we had passed through a mild recession and were on the verge of a forward movement in economic activity. Many looked with caution in the outlook at that time but the advance during the year dispelled doubts and we may now anticipate that this year there will be a greater production of goods and services than we have experienced in any peace-time period.

The latest figures for Gross National Product, those for the second quarter, indicate a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $34.7 billion, an increase of about seven per cent over last year, and of about 5½ per cent on a constant dollar basis. It seems likely that despite temporary hindrances to production the final half of this year will show a similar increase.

This is perhaps remarkable because this has been a year of some strain in certain respects. An unusually severe winter aggravated the employment situation, and was followed by some labour disputes, more particularly the lumbermen's strike in British Columbia. The effects of the steel strike in the United States, while less serious than might have been expected in view of its duration, were nevertheless unfavourable. Export demand for some of the larger contents of our foreign trade sagged, while a rise in imports created a heavy deficit balance on merchandise account. And a rapid increase in the demand for borrowings of all types against a tightly-reined money supply imposed financial strains on the economy.

Industrial Production

Industrial production throughout the year has reflected on the one hand the prolonged strains in various sectors, and on the other the effect of strike action, here and in the United States. The mining industry has been supported by iron ore projections, whose output, despite the steel strike, has been substantially ahead of last year's. Shipments of uranium were also ahead of those in 1958, and were an important factor in maintaining our export trade. Oil production has lagged but gas production and utilization continue to expand.

Manufacturing now appears to be resuming its upward trend, with durable goods indicating a more substantial gain than the non-durables. The industries based on forestry have improved their position, and most of the light industries are well employed. The difficulty of determining at this stage what the total effects of the steel strike will be, either on our economy or that of the United States, injects some measure of uncertainty into the immediate outlook for industry. However, a high level of potential domestic demand may well be made effective by a currently high rate of personal disposable income. All told, available information suggests that industrial production should be maintained at a satisfactory rate in the immediate future.

Agricultural Production

Agriculture has had on the whole a satisfactory year. The growth of population in our country during the past twenty years has helped greatly to solve many marketing problems but the problem of marketing our largest crop, wheat, continues. Farm incomes, however, have remained at levels which have encouraged a high rate of sales of farm machinery. Continued investment in modern machinery, the ever-widening application of technological advances and improvement in farm management to which our agricultural colleges have contributed so much combine to improve productivity and increase efficiency.

Consumer Expenditures

The rapid recovery from last year's recessive phase has been generated largely by consumer expenditures. While the expenditure on non-durable goods advanced in step with population growth, expenditure on durable goods showed marked gains. The greater expenditure on durable goods this year has in turn brought about an increase in consumer debt. There is no sign as yet that consumer demand for durable goods has been fully satisfied.

Consumer expenditures have been reflected in retail sales which have been at record levels in practically all lines. There seems reason to expect a continuance next year, though distribution of expenditure may be somewhat different than in the present year, with a larger proportion being directed to automobiles and non-durables and a somewhat lower proportion to household goods.

Capital Investment

Resource developments are not normally affected by the short-term fluctuations of the economy. While present projects are not of the magnitude that gave such impetus to the 1955-56 boom, by any other criterion they are on a very large scale, and regionally well distributed.

Capital investment expenditure in 1959 has exceeded forecasts at the beginning of the year, a condition characteristic of rising confidence and rapid growth, although the total may not be much ahead of the average of the past three years. Expenditures on housing have fallen somewhat below the level expected early in the year, while industrial construction has risen slightly above. There are indications that capital investment in 1960 will rise perhaps more significantly in machinery and industrial construction. The improvement in corporate profits this year will likely have an encouraging influence.

Foreign Trade and Balance of Payments

Export trade was just holding its own as compared with last year until the end of the third quarter, when a substantial increase in shipments to practically all areas brought the nine-month total to a near-record level.

Imports have reflected both an increase in capital investment and enlarged consumption expenditure on durable goods. The larger increases have been in machinery, automobiles and parts, and rolling mill products. The source of the greater part of our imports is the United States but the proportion to the whole this year is somewhat lower than in 1958 and the other countries from which our imports are normally heaviest all show well-distributed increases.

The resurgence in business has been reflected in our balance of payments. The rise in corporate profits contributed to increased dividend payments to non-residents and that combined with a higher individual remittances to other countries all added to the nation's deficit on invisible international payments. Direct investment has been maintained fairly well, particularly in view of the increased interest of United States investors in Europe. Higher interest rates in this country have also encouraged some inflow of short-term investment funds. The total rate of United States investment in Canada, including borrowings by Canadian provinces, municipalities and corporations in the United States market, has more than covered our current deficit on trade in material things. We in this country must begin to be much more conscious that the foreign debts which are being incurred are creating a built-in servicing obligation which in less buoyant conditions may well be burdensome.

There is still no clear indication of the type or extent of change we may expect in the pattern of trade following the emergence of new market forces as the European Common Market begins to take shape. The producers in the Common Market of Europe will have the benefit of a domestic mass market; exports from Europe to Canada's market of 17 million people could indeed be at end-of-run prices after the producer has supplied a domestic market of 166 million people. With our heavy dependence on foreign trade as well as the development of our modestly growing internal trade, we must be alert not only to the changing pattern and conditions of world trade, but also to the nature of the internal economy and sources of materials in those countries which have provided markets for our exports.

Employment and Income

Employment normally lags somewhat in a recovery pe.iod of a business cycle. However, with rising sales, an increase in employment eventually becomes necessary, and employment figures have responded throughout the year. There was an unusual influx into the labour force in the two previous years, both from immigration and from the addition of the first wave of the "war babies" to the labour force. It appears that we have now absorbed this increase.

Canada's population is now estimated to exceed 17½ million, and has been growing at about the same pace as last year. While the labour force now appears to be adequate for our present rate of production, the business expansion may, before long, create a fairly tight labour situation, despite an increasing rate of accession to the labour force because of the present age distribution of the population.

In September less than three per cent of the labour force was unemployed which, allowing for temporarily unemployed and the unemployable, is considered to be full employment. Trends in employment continue; the number engaged in agriculture declined while the number in trade and in the supply of services increased. Again the increase in numbers employed in manufacturing has been less than the increase in output.

Price Movements

Both wholesale and retail prices have been relatively stable throughout the whole period of recovery. The general wholesale price index moved up fractionally during the summer but since has fallen again, while the consumer price index fell until mid-summer and then began its slight seasonal rise. The over-all increase has been of the order of 1½ per cent during the present year, a lessening in the rate of increase of previous years. Productive capacity and existing supplies of most raw materials have, however, been adequate, and in some cases in surplus on world markets, while the resurgence of the European and Japanese industrial economies has brought about increasingly competitive conditions for manufactured goods. These circumstances tend to have an over-all stabilizing effect on prices. There seems little reason to think that the market for raw materials and manufactured goods will be any less competitive during the coming year. The domestic price level should therefore continue to show a fair degree of stability.

Financial Developments

The strong consumer demand during the year had a direct effect on the credit situation. In October of last year, the Bank of Canada stabilized the money supply. However, increased consumer buying during late 1958 and early 1959 necessitated trading concerns carrying larger amounts of accounts receivable and inventories and generated increased demand for loans to individuals and increased use of consumer credit of all kinds. These conditions caused steadily increasing use of bank credit, particularly from small and intermediate sized borrowers. Within the banking system loans to larger borrowers in the aggregate remained at totals about the same as those of two years previously, while a very large increase took place in loans to smaller borrowers. The rapid increase in bank loans in the early part of the year finally necessitated the chartered banks, in the absence of leadership through a central bank interest rate or otherwise, to move to stabilize a situation which was then creating an impairment of confidence in the capital markets. In May, an announcement by The Canadian Bankers' Association warned of the tightening monetary situation but, because of a lack of public endorsement in official quarters, it failed to have influence. The continuing sales of government bonds by the banks in order to release funds to meet increased increasing pressure on a bond market already greatly strained by the necessity of financing large new issues principally by governments and, as a result, both short-term and long-term interest rates continued to move up sharply. In August a point was reached where the banks, acting again through The Canadian Bankers' Association, had to exercise forceful leadership and control in order to avoid immobility in the banking system and to re-establish confidence in the market for public bond issues. The action then taken became effective with beneficial effects to the economy and to financial markets. The selling of government bonds by the banks was greatly diminished, banks then became able to renew and in some cases to add to their holdings of government treasury bills, interest rates on treasury bills and short-term bonds tended to decline and a vitally necessary condition of stability was restored.

There are now some indications that the federal government is moving towards a balanced budget which, if it is inclusive of capital as well as current expenditures, will take much weight off the new issues market.

The tight money situation of our environment must also be viewed in a global perspective. The expansion of business throughout the world is causing interest rates to rise in many countries. Large capital investment programs call for increased savings of all kinds, and it would appear that, taking a long view, we shall have to plan our expansions under somewhat taut conditions in money markets for some time to come, although economic conditions may induce some easing in the situation at times.

Summary

Economic conditions here and abroad suggest that we may be reasonably confident about the immediate outlook. The industrial picture looks currently sound provided it is not marred by strikes of the seriousness of this past year. Consumer spending, which has been running at high levels throughout most of the year, promises to continue to do so next year. Capital investment, with the exception of housing, may be somewhat larger than this year. It is more difficult to discern a constructive pattern in our external trade. Much will depend on competitive conditions here and abroad, the level of our dollar in international markets and the level of prosperity in the nations which provide our foreign markets. Inflationary tendencies appear to have subsided and our growth is taking place against a background of reasonably level prices. Although the near-term outlook is promising, much of our national income is based on export markets for some time to come, although economic conditions may induce some easing in the situation at times.

J. P. R. Wadsworth, Vice-President and General Manager, reviewed the balance sheet, highlights of which are summarized, and said in part:

The 93rd annual statement records new peak figures in several areas and lower totals in others. Personal savings deposits in Canada at $1,368,000,000 increased by $57,700,000 during the year, personal loans at $1,200,000,000 increased by $188,671,000.

The unusually large increase in loans made it necessary to sell securities and the reduction in the investment portfolio amounted to $189,400,000. Loans under the National Housing Act at $186,611,000 show an increase of $46,396,000. Under existing monetary conditions our activities in this field are limited. Cash items amounted to $199,756,000, an increase of $25,104,000, principally in day-to-day loans to money market dealers.

The increase in volume of business in recent years brought with it a large increase in the total of cheques and other transit items in the course of clearing. This asset does not earn interest and during the past year intensive efforts have been made to accelerate the clearing of these items. The success of our improved system is shown in a reduction of $25,324,000 in transit items. Because somewhat more than one-half of the total of transit items represents cheques drawn on accounts at various branches of the Bank, a reduction of approximately $40,000,000 in general deposits resulted. This together with the withdrawal of certain large deposits which were held temporarily a year ago, to which reference was made in last year's report, brought about a reduction in other deposits from $1,271,000,000 last year to $1,165,000,000 this year. Deposits by the Government of Canada decreased temporarily by $21,000,000. Total assets at the end of the year amounted to $2,976,000,000 compared with a total of $3,016,-000,000 a year ago.

Notwithstanding the large expansion in loans during the year a strong liquid position was maintained with total quick assets amounting to $1,497,000,000, representing 53.5 per cent of total liabilities to the public.

This year a number of necessary enlargement programs at existing premises were completed and new branches were established in new and growing areas. The total number of banking offices now stands at 851. During the year the Bank appointed a senior officer as European Representative with headquarters in Zurich, Switzerland.

The offering to shareholders of 900,000 shares on December 15, 1958 increased paid-up capital during the year by $8,971,000 and rest account by $19,736,000. The number of shareholders increased during the year by 2,075 and now stands at 20,371.

The statement of undivided profits shows an increase in profits after taxes of $906,033. Income taxes increased by $2,100,000. After providing for dividend payments of $9,163,828 an amount of $1,954,552 was carried forward increasing the balance of undivided profits to $3,121,636.

Once again I want to take this opportunity to pay tribute to all members of the personnel for their loyal and devoted service. The past year has posed many problems, in particular in the field of credit administration and the role played by the branch managers has been more than ever an extremely important one. They in turn have been backed up by a good team in the Regional Offices and in the Head Office Departments, and I know the shareholders will wish to join with the Chairman, the President and myself in this expression of appreciation.

The full text of the President's and the General Manager's addresses may be obtained by writing to the Secretary, Head Office, Toronto.

Rainmakers Seek to Provide More Water for Power Dams But Won't Claim Success

By W. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)— They're just a silver lining in the clouds over Vancouver Island, looking not for sunshine, but for rain and snow.

Rainmakers seek to provide more water for the power storage dams of the British Columbia Power Commission, the province's multi-million dollar public hydro utility.

Neither commission officials nor the rainmakers themselves—North American Weather Consultants of Santa Barbara, Calif.—will make outright claims of success in boosting the clouds with silver iodide crystals.

Company officials say the crystals, sent aloft from ground-based drum-like burners, act as nuclei around which raindrops form in the proper type of cloud formations. In winter they are said to act in the same way by bring down snow, increasing the snow pack which provides increased runoff into the power dams in the spring.

THE PROJECT

The rainmakers — they call it "weather modifications" — have been at work in the commission's huge Campbell River watershed, site of its biggest project, for about five years. Both commission and company officials will say only that there has been "some degree of success" and decline to go into detail.

Their reluctance is apparently based on two factors — acceptance of any claims by a sceptical public and the possibility of being used by tourist resort owners for making too much rain. A North American official said his company has faced such suits in the U.S. where the company claims success in a number of projects.

The company's contract with the power commission ends in 1961. Officials of the commission won't say whether it will be renewed but note that their water supplies behind three big dams in the mid—Island area were better at this time of year.

Neither will officials disclose the cost of the project. But spokesmen have said that an increase of 10 per cent in precipitation in any one of the fall months would provide an extra $30,000 to $100,000 in terms of electricity sales, more than enough to pay for the annual cost of the project.

A commission publication put it another way, saying that if "weather modification" programs could increase precipitation by 10 per cent, the resulting increase in power produced—at the average return of 2.5 cents per kilowatt hour — would be worth more than $1,000,000 a year.

HIGHER THAN NORMAL

Power commission spokesmen admit that precipitation in the 264-square-mile watershed "target" area has been "higher than normal" when compared with runoffs in an outside "control" area not affected by the cloud-seeding.

But they pose the question that since the rainmakers admit they need certain types of clouds to start with, who's to say the rain or snow wouldn't have fallen anyway?

The cloud-sowing is being carried out from 13 silver iodide cloud-seeding generators at scattered points ringing the mid-Island "target" area. They are fired by propane gas and the warm updraft created by the fire carries the particles into the upper air currents and the clouds. The prevailing wind must be toward the "target" area when the microscopic particles are released at the rate of "a million billion per minute."

In 1958 four big B.C. logging companies launched an emergency rainmaking project at a cost of $40,000 to bring moisture to parched Vancouver Island forests. Again no one would term the attempt a success or failure, but the rain did come.

British Columbia Electric Company, the province's big private power utility, has also tried rainmaking to increase its power runoff but disenchanted it because of "inconclusive" results.

AID FARMERS

REGINA (CP)—Loans to buy fodder and seed supplies will be extended by the Saskatchewan government to farmers' seeding aid after early snowfalls prevented harvesting.

RAINMAKERS USE FLAME — Equipment used by a United States rainmaking firm in an effort to produce more water for storage dams of the British Columbia Power Commission is shown in operation on Vancouver Island. The company says the drum-like burner (right), fed by two propane gas tanks, sends silver iodide crystals aloft to line certain types of clouds and produce rain. Both the company and commission claim "some degree of success" but decline to elaborate. The experiments have been going on for about five years. (CP Photo).

Realistic Social Doctrine Needed RC Clergy Told

QUEBEC (CP) — Two Laval University professor - priests today published a joint statement that there is a need for members of Quebec's Roman Catholic clergy to "review continually" their ideas on social questions because platitudes are no substitute for practical truths of their dignity.

Abbes Gerard Dion and Louis O'Neill in a 7,000 - word article appearing in the November issue of the Domini | Sacerdotes (For the Use of the Clergy) indicated that some elements of the Quebec clergy have evolved a sort of local social doctrine — "a kind of ivory tower theology which, in confusion and hampers the progress of spiritual and human values. . ."

ANSWERS CHAPLAIN

The article is a comment on a brief published last August by five former chaplains of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor blaming leaders of the Roman Catholic Quebec labor group for promoting affiliation of Catholic international Congress and dropping the word "Catholic" from the union name. The chaplains charged this action eliminate the CCCL's confessional character established in 1943 and is gaining momentum. Eventually the role of Catholic union chaplains would disappear, the step between dropping the word and "Catholic" from the by-laws of ments which favor neutralism in trade unions would be a small

No definite action has been taken by the Quebec hierarchy on proposals to change the name and to affiliate with the CLC.

Abbes Dion and O'Neill say they have no intention to speak for the former chaplains. But they wished to question some of their assertions.

SPAIN'S EXAMPLE

"The former chaplains seem to assert that the confessional tag is a vital condition to the existence of a true Catholic union. This group . . . are nations in which Christian labor has progressed most swiftly everywhere, particularly at the government level. Yet it is there where the spirit of the gospel exercises the most influence on social and economic matters. Such is still the case today in Spain and in Portugal," they declared.

The Laval professors say there is an idea that religious neutrality in the labor movement "must be exercised." This might, at first sight, be "cheta type of Catholicism" which was noticeable in Quebec not long ago.

But if the CCCL preserves a strict confessional character and remains neutral in fact as the majority of workers it will be "condemned to remain without vitality, without influence, "in short, a museum piece."

Another Batch Of Misprinted Seaway Stamps

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg stamp expert Kazimir Bilecki has discovered another batch of misprinted seaway stamps.

In an interview here Tuesday night, Mr. Bilecki said there were 2,000 of the stamps, which he called "double seaway" stamps, differed from the misprinted "inverted seaway" stamps, which were found earlier this summer.

This new group might be worth about $100 a stamp compared to about $500 each for stamps of the "inverted" group.

The latest group apparently went through the press twice, he said, and as a result the color printing around the edges came up twice.

"I'd be happy to pay $100 each for all of them," Mr. Bilecki said. He explained that double printings aren't in the same class as inverted or more of the former are found.

Mr. Bilecki, in town for a television appearance and a stamp auction, said he discovered this last batch of stamps when a young lady from Quebec wrote him of what she had found and asked whether they had any value.

"She sent them to me and I bought them," he said.

To date he has 59 of the double seaways. He estimates there should be another 150 somewhere in use.

Police Director Langlois Faces New Charges

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Director J. Albert Langlois, who since 1950 has been denying that organized vice is tolerated in Montreal, has a new set of similar charges to face today.

He is to appear before the executive committee in connection with a declaration by councillor, and executive committee member Pierre DesMarais on the commercialized vice in Montreal.

DesMarais told Saint-Jean-Baptiste Liberal publication of two articles in the French - language weekly Le Orateur.

One article said Montreal has returned to its "red light" days and that several well-known gambling clubs were open after the 3 a.m. closing hour. The other article said there was an immoral teen-age club in operation.

Director Langlois, ordered to make a report to the executive committee concerning the stories, said "Montreal is not an open city." The existence of the "immoral club was "only the fruit of the imagination of the author."

Appointed police head in 1950, Director Langlois first denied the existence of organized vice in Montreal in 1950.

Then he followed a series of articles in a French - language daily saying that vice was flourishing. The articles were written by Pacifique (Pax) Plante, fired as assistant police director two years previously.

City council, after censuring the director for a "degree of negligence" in connection with his denial, later backed the explanation.

However, the charges led to a vice probe which found him guilty of tolerating organized gambling and prostitution. The appealed the probe ruling and eventually was cleared as an "honest and sincere man."

"Jest a Second"

"He's a very distant relative, of course, but I think he ought to come. He'll be the life and soul of the funeral."

Hotel Owner Testifies in Own Defence

TORONTO (CP)—Hotel owner Harry Hershman, owner of Security Mines and Oil Limited from the treasury of Perseverance Mining and Development Company Limited and obtaining by fraud or false pretences $19,000 in shares from Perseverance.

Smith told the court that he made arrangements for Perseverance to buy a block of Spooner shares from Northern Ontario Mines served notice that it could not afford the deal. Instead, Perseverance was controlled by the Smiths.

The deal he originally negotiated with chartered accountant V. C. Noble Hutchison and stockbrokers Hymie Goldstein and George Carnegie to buy 600,000 Spooner shares was changed when selling for 17 to 20 cents each.

The deal decided to buy the Spooner block through a limited company with $50,000 initially to assure the deal at a guaranteed profit, he said. Half the shares were brought by Perseverance and the other half by Northern Uranium for 20 cents a share.

Smith said Perseverance later bought Northern Uranium's shares when Mr. Hershman told him the company couldn't afford to hold the stock.

LABOR VOTED DOWN

LONDON (Reuters)—The government Monday night defeated a Labor party move to censure British voting in the United Nations against a resolution condemning South Africa's racial policies. An acrimonious debate ended with the defeat of a Labor motion in the Hou e of Commons by 341 votes to 239.

Charges Kennedy Bowed to Order From Cardinal

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy has declined comment on a prominent Protestant clergyman's assertion that he submitted to a Roman Catholic cardinal's orders and cancelled an appearance at an interfaith meeting.

This account of the event was given by Rev. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, in the magazine's current issue. The article was taken from Dr. Poling's recently published autobiography, Mine Eyes Have Seen.

Dr. Poling said Kennedy, then a Democratic congressman from Massachusetts, had accepted an invitation to speak at a 1950 banquet in Philadelphia. The affair was to celebrate the end of a campaign to build the Shrine "chapel of the four chaplains."

The chapel was erected on the Temple University campus in memory of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish chaplains who died in the sinking of the U.S.S. Dorchester during the war.

Had Accepted

Dr. Poling said Kennedy had accepted an invitation to speak as a representative of the Roman Catholic faith. But two days before the affair, Dr. Poling said, Kennedy had been informed Washington to say he would have to cancel his appearance because Cardinal Spellman, archdiocesan authority had asked him not to take part.

Dr. Poling, in the article, mentioned Kennedy's prospects as a Democratic presidential nominee and noted that the senator has declared firm support for the principle of separation of church and state.

Dr. Poling then asserted:

"The Roman Catholic respectfully read what Senator Kennedy had to say, one thing in his record is distressingly clear. He has shrunk, did claim and exercise authority over him. And he was in high public office. . . ."

$20,000 ANNUAL SALARY

Wife of a former Detroit police sergeant, Mrs. Averill retired in 1951 from her $20,000-a-year position as head bookkeeper of Ciffels and Vallet, a Detroit architectural and engineering firm. She was with the company 29 years.

A company official went to authorities after Mrs. Averill retired and said employers were wrong with the firm's books. Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Foran said Long said auditors discovered at least $876,186 missing.

A warrant for Mrs. Averill's arrest was issued, charging her specifically with embezzling the amount missing between July 24, 1951, and Jan. 19, 1956.

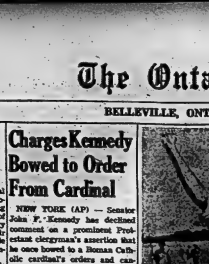
Mrs. Averill, living in retirement with her 63-year-old husband Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was found to have acquired extensive real estate holdings over the years.

Police say Mr. Averill has been held in custody on a false pretences charge before he was released on bail.

A plea by Mr. Main that Mrs. Averill's health prevented a jury verdict of not guilty in his charge of fraud they was refused. Mr. Main said evidence submitted by the Crown was circumstantial and he was merely trusting Mrs. Averill.

Mr. Justice Greschuk said in his charge to the jury: "It is sufficient indication the accused could be involved.

Taxi Chaplain Asks Drivers Not To Be Violent



MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Paul Aquin, chaplain of Montreal taxicab cabbies as "the taxi chaplain," told taxi drivers Monday not to resort to violence in pressing their complaints against the city.

Traditional here has been objecting to a city bylaw preventing them from cruising along downtown streets in search of fares. Early Tuesday morning a 150-car protest motorcade paid Mayor Sarto Fournier out of bed.

"Demonstrations don't find solutions," Father Aquin said at a meeting. "Charity is what is required.

He said a delegation should go to city hall to present complaints but he declined to lead it.

The Montreal Fraternity of Taxi Owners said Tuesday it regretted the "disagreeable troubles" caused by the protest motorcade and that none of its members had anything to do with organizing it.

Wife of Police Sergeant Held In Largest Embezzlement Ever Reported in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Mary McCallum Averill, 38, sat silent and almost inconspicuous in the courtroom.

Then the grey - haired, mother-by-looking policeman's wife was arraigned on the prosecutor's office described as "the largest embezzlement in Detroit history."

Hands shaking, the retired bookkeeper pleaded not guilty Tuesday to charges of embezzling $100,321 from her former employer. The firm has reported at least $876,186 missing since 1950.

Mary Averill was free on $5,000 bond over for trial and released $2,000 bond. No trial date was set.

Justice Refuses More Evidence

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—The trial of Robert Raymond Cook, 20, charged with the murder of his father, may go to the jury today.

The body of Cook's father was found June 28 in a grease pit behind the family home in Stettler. The bodies of Mr. Cook's wife and their five children were also found shot and bludgeoned in the pit.

Presentation of evidence, which began when the trial opened last Monday, ended Tuesday when Mr. Justice Peter Greschuk ruled against wishes by both Crown and defence counsel that several more evidence.

He rejected defence counsel Gilford Main's request to call as a witness Mrs. Cook, a young acquaintance of Cook's whose earlier testified for the Crown. He also refused Crown counsel Ron Ivany's request to call Cook's brother-in-law, a former Stettler resident now living in Northern Ontario.

In Detroit, the couple lived in a $100,000 home in a luxury suburb town hotel.

The embezzlement charge is the third in which Mrs. Averill has been involved. She pleaded guilty in 1951 to receiving $60 from Pennsylvania Petroleum Limited, an oil firm.

She was reported to have said in her trial: "I was working where it was easy to steal, so I stole." She was sentenced to five years probation.

A charge of embezzling $412 the same year from Northern Ontario Corona Typewriter company was dismissed on the prosecution's motion.

Mrs. Averill joined Ciffels and Vallet in 1946 as typist.

Mrs. Averill flew to Detroit from Florida Tuesday and turned herself in voluntarily at the prosecutor's office.

May Get Service

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto may get a commuter railway service in 1963, planning commissioner Frank Miller told the assessment committee Tuesday.

He said he would report on progress in negotiations with CNR officials next summer.

"That's not soon enough," said York Township Reeve C. A. Dennison. "Commuters can't find solutions," Father Aquin said at a meeting. "Charity is what is required.

He said a delegation should go to city hall to present complaints but he declined to lead it.

The Montreal Fraternity of Taxi Owners said Tuesday it regretted the "disagreeable troubles" caused by the protest motorcade and that none of its members had anything to do with organizing it.

Child Is Found Mile From Home Sound Asleep

TORONTO (CP) — A three-year - old boy and a small brown dog went hiking Thursday in Scarborough and it took a search party of 500 to bring them home.

Randy Calvert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Calvert of the east Toronto municipality, left home about 1 p.m. along with a little dog believed to belong to one of the neighbors.

When Randy had dressed him warmly and put him out to play.

Several minutes later, neighbor called and said Randy had been there asking whether her children could come out to play.

Mrs. Calvert decided to bring Randy back home after driving around for half an hour she couldn't find him so she called the police.

Shortly after noon, neighborhood women, many of them baby carriages, joined in the search.

More police were added and as darkness fell off-duty police were called in as husbands joined them. Neighbors who had dogs brought them along.

Then about 9 p.m. three men, Donald Sykes, Donald Hill and John Peters, found Randy in a small clearing surrounded by bush. He was sound asleep in a small hole in the bank of a three-acre mile from his home.

Wet, tired and scared, he broke up in a tearful story. Mr. Sykes and was taken to hospital by police cruiser.

He didn't cry.

Searchers said he had apparently fallen in the creek. Doctors said his feet were badly frostbitten and he had temperature several degrees below normal.

However, with a glass of hot milk inside him and a blanket around each shore the press produced a $50 cheque made out to "Hi-a-rold Kirk" and signed by Kirk's mother identified on the cheque as treasurer of the Conservative meeting. There is no C. Martin at Tory headquarters.

Taking his change in stride, he ordered the florists to send the flowers to the meeting signed, "with kindest regards from Harold."

The hoax was disclosed when Mr. Fleming phoned the stores to try to find out who "Harold" was.

The confidence paid bought two dozen roses, at $3 a dozen, at two stores and a $25 spray at each of the two others.

Ontario Police On Way to Get Two Fugitives

RANGOR, Me. (CP)—Two Ontario Provincial Police officers were expected here today to take into custody two men on the RCMP's most-wanted list on charges of kidnapping and armed robbery at Belleville, Ont., and armed robberies at Morrisburg and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Held by authorities here on a conspiracy charge of registering at a rooming house under false names were Warren Durning, 24, of Toronto, P.C., and Richard Madison, 27, as Americans from Boise, Madison is the youngest person ever to appear on the RCMP's list of most wanted criminals.

The two were arrested in a raid on a rooming house in Canada and, from police in Toronto, Judge Harold Hinkley ordered the men holding them on fugitive charges pending the arrival of formal documents. Durning and Madison later agreed to the false registration charges in order to prevent their possible release on bail before the arrival of the Ontario officers authorities said Durning is wanted with U.S. immigration officials to charge Durning with illegal entry and his companion as a material witness.

Steelworkers Get New Accord In Can Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union boarded today about a new labor agreement in the can industry, ratified Monday and moved on to aluminum in basic labor talks. A settlement there would help bring about peace in the basic steel dispute.

David J. McDonald, union president, said bargaining talks would start today with representatives of aluminum manufacturers. He declined to say when the sessions there early next week.

The agreement reached Tuesday with 28 major can and continental Can companies—two of the largest—includes a package of 40 cents wage-benefit gains valued at 36 cents an hour over a three-year term.

It provides wage boosts of 8½ cents an hour in each of the two contract years. The can workers averaged $2.63 an hour including overtime in September.

Details of the can settlement call for a 5-cent-an-hour supplemental benefit coverage, paid for by the international union, to increase the independence of Algeria, and Saudi Arabia, a new United membership in the United Nations.

De Gaulle's prestige, whether as soldier or politician, did not suffer from the Algerian war, the walloping UN defeat last month, the Communist-inspired terrorist agitation against France's plan to explode her first A-bomb in the Sahara Desert.

But French spokesmen are claiming a victory for the Algerian issue although it will not come to the assembly floor until 22-member assembly until later this week.

A 29-nation Afro-Asian resolution, condemned by France and 11 others in the political committee by a vote of 35 to 26 with 17 abstentions, the French diplomats note this margin is insufficient for passage in the assembly, which a two-thirds majority is required.

Controller Says Drug Addict Turned Down

TORONTO (CP)—The downtown Toronto executive committee has refused admittance to a girl drug addict who wanted medical treatment, Controller Jean Newman said Tuesday.

She told the Metropolitan Toronto executive committee that the heartbreaking decision to keep a girl addicted during the weekend but was told the girl must first be declared incurable by a magistrate.

Metro Chairman Frederick Gardner said he will investigate personally.

A recent report of a Metro subcommittee which studied drug addiction quoted Dr. A. R. Miller, the hospital's clinical director, as saying drug addiction could apply at the hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Newman, who said she knows of another rejected case, urged metro to open a section of the 60-bed Hastings Building, which forms a wing of Riverdale Hospital, for treatment of addicts.

De Gaulle Emerges as Sort Of Super-Star of Assembly

By JOSEPH McGWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President de Gaulle of France has emerged as a sort of superstar of the 14th General Assembly of the United Nations.

Of course de Gaulle isn't attending the sessions, but his personality has aroused greater security and comment than perhaps any other world leader including President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev did come to the UN for a day and the disarmament proposal he made has received daily comment since, but there are comparatively few references to the virtues and faults of the Soviet leader as a man.

Not so de Gaulle. Delegates from the battle-hardened French policy, sometimes speak of him with a kind of awe, although the comparisons often are harsh and sarcasm as well.

LEADERSHIP CONCEPT

Diplomats say de Gaulle has become identified in the minds of friends and foes alike with the concept of French "grandeur" that he espouses with such constancy. They say de Gaulle's UN debate Monday emphasizing the controversial nature of the world's problems, will enhance his personal prestige and that of France. Another meeting is held—in Paris—next week.

Morocco's Ahmed Talbi Benbinna, speaking on the question of South Africa, noted that France offered self-determination to the Moslem rebels there on the basis of a fixed franchise.

But the thinking of de Gaulle remains inscrutable. The Moroccan added, His "temperament and the complexity of his genius have no peripheries." It is a kind of undulation between metaphysics and paternalism on the one hand and the most intelligent tactics on the other.

His style and methods were reminiscent of the "great mystifiers" when it came to the making of aiding laymen to understand the ways of the Kremlin, observed that they share their vision.

WHEN DE GAULLE?

Another Arab diplomat credited de Gaulle with a master-stroke of strategy on Algeria, But he wondered aloud whether the master strategy of a president seeking to serve his people or that of a statesman seeking to crush his opponents.

Saudi Arabia's Ahmad Shukairy, one of the fieriest of UN orators, declared:

"From the heart of our heart, we wish Gen. de Gaulle to be a great international leader to recognize the independence of Algeria, and thereby open the doors of membership in the United Nations."

De Gaulle's prestige, whether as soldier or politician, did not suffer from the Algerian war, the walloping UN defeat last month, the Communist-inspired terrorist agitation against France's plan to explode her first A-bomb in the Sahara Desert.

But French spokesmen are claiming a victory for the Algerian issue although it will not come to the assembly floor until 22-member assembly until later this week.

A 29-nation Afro-Asian resolution, condemned by France and 11 others in the political committee by a vote of 35 to 26 with 17 abstentions, the French diplomats note this margin is insufficient for passage in the assembly, which a two-thirds majority is required.

CBS President Of TV Network Quits in Anger

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis G. Cowan, who originated the now-discontinued $64,000 Question, has resigned in anger as president of the Columbia Broadcasting System's television network.

He charged Tuesday that Frank Stanton, president of the parent CBS network, had forced him out—using health as an excuse—because of his early connection with the quiz craze, despite the fact his personal integrity and had been cleared.

Leaders of resignation Stanton of publicity and privately expressing confidence in his integrity while urging the network president to find some way to communicate with his (Stanton's) critics.

END KICKBACKS

In another development, the Federal Communications Commission Tuesday ordered an end to a kickback operation practised by the radio industry.

NBC Vice-President James A. Shelton outlawed giving record backs from performers willing to refund part of their union - scale payments to disc jockeys who publicity value.

The industry research was given the job of policing the network.

His announcement came hours after a New York grand jury disclosed that a Negro choral singers, aware of the arrangement, agreed to it in advance, for the privilege of appearing on the Today show.

Widen Manhunt For 19 Who Fled Carolina Prison

IVY BLUFF, N.C. (AP) — A massive manhunt fanned out from North Carolina today for 19 heavily armed and dangerous convicts still at large from a daringly executed escape from the state's toughest prison. Twenty escaped and one was recaptured eight miles from the prison.

At least three of the escapers were officially placed in Roanoke, Va., Tuesday night after a motorist reported he was forced off the road by three men at gunpoint.

F. R. Robinson told police he arrived at his home to find the trio coming from the house. He said they forced him into three business suits and left three-sets of prison garb behind. Robinson said he drove the men some 25 miles south and let them off in Roanoke. Neither Robinson nor his wife was harmed.

A fifth escape action was reported stolen Tuesday night west of Roanoke. A few hours later a similar car was reported speeding through Roanoke. Officers said it was not known if either of the escapers.

Searchers using bloodhounds and scouting planes scoured a six-county area on the theory that the 19 escapers could not have got out of North Carolina after the massive manhunt got under start before the break was reported Tuesday.

STOLEN GUNS

Residents in a - wide area around Ivy Bluff slept uneasily Tuesday night as 1,400 locked doors and windows, and family members with loaded guns.

"Our jail wouldn't hold everybody who's packing a pistol and rifle for the hunt," said sheriff said.

Uneasiness of the residents was not hard to explain. The felons included Arab slashers four serving life for such crimes as rape and burglary.

Outer Space Committee Will Be Formed in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Soviet Russia and the United States last night said the United Nations outer space committee consisting of seven Communists, seven Western and four neutral countries including Canada.

They said U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge notified Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin that the composition is acceptable to Washington.

Lodge and Zorin told United States had accepted for the permanent committee what it had rejected last year for the present special committee on the peaceful uses of outer space—namely, an even balance between Western allies and Communist countries and neutral countries on the other.

Newfoundland Will Continue To Use Old Flag

OTTAWA (CP) — Joey Smallwood planted the Union Jack a little more securely on the rock-soil of Newfoundland Tuesday. He told the Liberal party it can have any flag it wants for Canada but the old union jack is going to stay the senior flag on the island as long as he's head man.

Canada's only Liberal head of government told the National Liberal Federation's advisory council that regardless of what flag is chosen for consideration by a Canadian flag, the Union Jack would continue to fly in what was once Britain's oldest colony.

Plan to File An Injunction Pleases Dudley

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—George Dudley, secretary - treasurer of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, says he hopes Gordon Lobsinger of Midland goes through with his plan to file an injunction against the Ontario Hockey Association.

Lobsinger has announced he will bring the suit against the OHA, the Western Ontario Hockey Association and the Midland junior hockey club because his three sons were debarred from playing for the Owen Sound Greys Junior B team.

"I'd like to find out if we can run our own association or if the courts are going to do it for us," said Dudley, a Midland lawyer.

He said if Lobsinger wins his case, it will clear the way for open ranking in hockey. He said there will be nothing, for instance, to stop Toronto Marlboros an OHA Junior A team, from grabbing players from any junior B team in the province.

Lobsinger's battle with the OHA started six weeks ago when his sons, Ken, 18, and 17-year-old twins Dave and Doug, went to Owen Sound to try out for the team. The boys formerly played with the Midland club.

The boys made the team but were unable to obtain a release from their old club. However, they played six games with Owen Sound until the OHA moved in and suspended Tony Simon, manager of the team.

Ken Lobsinger said before they went to Owen Sound they received assurance from their cousin Peter Lobsinger, manager of the Midland team, they would be given their release if they made the Owen Sound team.

However, their talents said his club is holding up the release because Owen Sound won't get a job for Ken and guarantee the education of Dave and Doug, now grade 12 students at Walkerton Collegiate.

FAMILY PARTY

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Wilma Tuttle entertained at a family party on Tuesday evening in honor of her husband, Ivan Tuttle, Mrs. Morton Chaisley, who were celebrating their birthdays.

Cards were enjoyed during the evening after which a delicious lunch was served.

Baby Is Born Every 3½ Mins. During 1958

TORONTO (CP)—Babies were born in Ontario hospitals on the average of one every 3¼ minutes during 1958 and the doors of public general hospitals swung open every 36 seconds to admit a patient.

The Ontario Hospital Services Commission's annual report for last year on hospitals showed that 147,356 babies were born in hospitals and 804,463 patients were treated in general hospitals.

Active treatment was given to 874,650 adults, children and newborns during the year, 39,000 more than in 1957.

Cost of operating public hospitals of all types was $162,470,360 —an average of $17.30 a day per patient. At the end of the year Ontario had 28,730 hospital beds or a ratio of 3.05 beds per 1,000 people.

Case of 3 Hockey Players May End in Supreme Court

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The case of the three hockey-playing Lobsinger brothers appears certain to end up in the Supreme Court of Ontario. It could have far-reaching effects on player control throughout the province.

Lawyer Arthur Mahon said Tuesday night a notice of motion asking the court to order the brothers' release from the Midland Juvenile C club is being prepared and should be filed before the weekend.

The boys—Ken, 18, and 17-year-old twins Doug and Dave—want to play for Owen Sound Greys of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B series. In fact, says Ken, they will sit out the season rather than play anywhere else.

They appeared in six games for Owen Sound before the matter of releases came to a head. It was enough to draw a year's suspension from the OHA for for Tony Simon, the Greys' manager.

HIGHLY REGARDED

The brothers are regarded as fairly hot pieces of hockey property. Over the years they have speatheaded Midimay to all-Ontario championships in bantam, midget and juvenile series and are reported to be considered good prospects by St. Michael's College of Toronto, which operates the Majors in the OHA Junior A series.

This year they went to Owen Sound on their own hook to try out with the Greys and all made the team. Midimay had not given them releases but they played any way.

Eventually Waterloo Siskins protested their use in a game with Owen Sound. The OHA upheld the protest, ordered the game forfeited and suspended Simon.

When Midimay refused to give the releases, the boys' father, Gordon, decided to take it to court.

"Mr. Lobsinger has had this in mind for some time," Mr. Mahon said, "but he tried other means to secure the releases without avail."

When releases were first sought, the Midimay club was reported to have asked $2,000. Midimay manager Pete Lobsinger, a cousin of the brothers, denied this, saying the figure was used only as an illustration of what it would cost player would cost the club in gate receipts.

DEAL FELL THROUGH

Later, said Mr. Mahon, "the boys were told they would have their releases if they moved to Owen Sound and Kenneth was given a job. The management of the Owen Sound club made provision to provide employment for Kenneth and sent Dave and Doug to school, but this deal fell through because Mr. Lobsinger was reluctant to interrupt his sons' studies at Walkerton District High School in the middle of the year."

Walkerton, where the twins are in Grade IX, is near Midimay which is 45 miles south of Owen Sound.

Owen Sound coach Jaydee MacArthur said he agreed with Mr. Lobsinger's views on schooling and that the boys could continue for games without neglecting their school work.

As the legal battle loomed, George Dudley, secretary - manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he was consul the whole thing.

"I'd like to find out if we can run our own association or if the courts are going to do it for us."

FIRST TIME ON TV

LONDON (Reuters) — The Grand National steeplechase will be televised for the first time next year, the BBC announced Tuesday. The announcement said negotiations have been concluded with Mrs. Mirabel Topham, managing director of Liverpool's Aintree race course, to televise the race the next three years. Next year's race will be run March 26.

Liston Meets German Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sonny Liston, considered by many as the hardest puncher in the heavyweight ranks since Joe Louis, will be going after his 19th straight victory when he meets Willi Besmanoff in a 10-rounder at the Cleveland Arena tonight.

Liston, 27 - year - old Philadelphian with a 33-1 record, is a 2-1 favorite. His hockey streak dates back more than five years when he lost an eight - round decision to Marty Marshall. He avenged that defeat by whipping Marshall twice, once by knockout.

Besmanoff, 27, a native of Germany who now lives in Milwaukee, has a record of 41 victories, 12 defeats and seven draws. He has scored 15 knockouts. Sixteen of Liston's wins have been by knockout.

Quebec Aces Defeat Bears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obie O'Brien had sweet revenge Tuesday, helping Quebec Aces defeat Hershey Bears, his former mates.

O'Brien scored the winning goal with less than five minutes remaining in Aces' 3-2 victory. The triumph snapped Quebec's four - game American Hockey League losing streak.

O'Brien was acquired by Quebec this year after eight seasons with Hershey. The 29 - year - old left winger captained the Bears to the Calder Cup last season.

Rookie Mauril Morrissette and Iain Caron scored the Aces' first two goals. Dunc Fisher and Willie Marshall were Hershey's marksmen. Marshall's goal was his 16th, placing him in a three-way tie for the league lead.

The other teams were idle.

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

OR WAS IT THE RUSSIANS?

The voice that prickled over the telephone had a decided Scottish "burr" to it. It sounded somewhat indignant as though its owner had been on the losing end of an argument, or had lost a bet on something or another.

"Who's after having a bit o' a debate here, laddie," it said, "and will ye do a bit o' settlin' of it."

It seemed the good Scot had been arguing with a Dutch friend as to the origin of curling.

The European claimed the game originated in his country or in Flanders. The wee Scot stoutly maintained that any country that invented a game like "pwat" could be responsible for a pastime for those between nine and ninety such as curling.

In short the best wins.

Some outlanders refer to curling as "lawn bowling on ice." The Scots grow indignant over this and insist that curling is radically different.

Lawn bowling existed in Scotland for centuries before curling. It was Scotland's national game. Then some curling somewhere between 1230 and 1550. Then and ever since, the principle of play has been very much like lawn bowling.

But Scotland must be given the credit for raising curling to the status of a major sport.

A pond drained near Dunblane about 30 years ago revealed a curling stone on which was carved-in date "1551". It had wooden handles attached. This is evidence that the game was established in Scotland almost four centuries ago, which pre-dates some claims by people of the Netherlands.

Satisfied, Scotty?

Devotees of the game will tell you that once curling makes its impress on a novice, it never ceases its pressure. "Once a curler, always a curler" they will tell you. Few sports combine to play into old age; oldsters play until no energy is left, or they are defeated or elected in a municipal election.

The next of contact is one thing; the social side another. It's always "Hail fellows, well met when curlers go into action and the guy comradeship of the game makes it believed by all who play it.

Someone once wrote the "Ten Commandments of Curling. Here they are:

1. Thou shalt have no other game before me, for I am the roaring game which was in the beginning (even in the stone age) is now and ever shall be.

2. Come not upon the ice with the old house broom. Thou canst not quicken the pace of a dying rock with last year's broom.

3. Thou shalt learn thy turns, both the out and the in, for the skip will not hold him guiltless that throweth the wrong turn.

4. Play not a running shot when thou are asked for a guard, lest thou raise their own shot, so sending thy skip in the air; such a play goeth his goat, quencheth his game, causeth him to swallow his cud, and to revile thee openly.

5. Thou shalt hearken diligently to the defeated skip when his voice is lifted up in lamentation against the punkie ice and thou shalt not turn thy face from him when he blameth his third man. Even so shalt thou secure a listener against the day of thine own defeat.

6. Thou shalt not strew straws from thy broom in the path of thine own or thine adversary's rock; neither shalt thou spit in front of them causing them to become park, for even as park is an abomination to the Jew, so also is a fog in the sight of a skip.

7. Thou shalt have no discourse with thine adversary while his foot is in the hack and his hand is on the rock, but if thou wilt thou canst pray for him.

8. Thou shalt not push or kick a rock into the house from behind stealthily, for the opposite skip will rise up in righteous indignation over the edge of the broom handle and thrust thee hence from the sight of curlers and the days of thy curling may be ended, for this is an unpardonable sin.

9. Thou shalt not covet thy opponent's rock nor his lead player, neither shalt thou filch from him his third man who is his mainstay and a well of defense on the day of battle.

10. Thou shalt honor thy opposing skip substituting only players of the same ability as those present, causing him to praise thy name for thy fairness and sportsmanship, for many there are who destroy their good names by such conduct, causing their opposing team much bitterness of spirit.

Beginning to Resemble Team That Sparkled Last Season; Unbeaten in Last 5 Games

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Press Staff Writer

Chicago Black Hawks are still sharing the last rung of the National Hockey League ladder with New York Rangers but right now they're the hottest club in the league.

Beginning to look more like the club which last year captured its first playoff berth in six years, Hawks have not lost in their last five games. They will try to extend the streak at Chicago tonight when they meet Detroit Red Wings in the only game scheduled.

Chicago lost 4-3 to the visiting Toronto Maple Leafs Nov. 26. Since then Rudy Pilous' hungry athletes have posted two wins and three ties for seven points out of a possible 10.

They have pulled even with New York and joined some ground on fourth - place Boston Bruins who lead them by seven points.

BIGGEST PRODUCER

Biggest producer for the Black Hawks has been flashy speedster Bobby Hull, a sometime centre who's patrolling left wing. Hull has moved into contention in the league scoring race with six points in his last three games.

His 14 goals and 15 assists give him fourth spot, six points behind the leader, Bronco Horvath of Boston.

The major surprise in the Chicago camp has been the failure of Eddie Litzenberger to reach top form. Litzenberger, the club's top scorer and a 30-goal man for the last three years, has only 16 points so far this season.

With Litzenberger at the 16-point level is veteran centre Ted Lindsay, last year Sloan, pivoting the "happy line" with Litzenberger and Ted Lindsay, was a key figure in Chicago's upsurge but he has had trouble finding the range this year.

Despite this difficulty, Sloan is getting close to select company. Four more goals will bring his NHL total to 200.

ONLY LINDSAY AHEAD

Lindsay is the only active Chicago player in that group but 151 of his 200 goals were scored for Detroit Red Wings.

The Red Wings enter tonight's game three points behind Toronto in the battle for second place. Montreal Canadiens lead the league by eight points.

Wings may be without Marcel Pronovost, one of their top defencemen, who suffered an injured foot when hit by a puck in Sunday's practice. Extent of the injury was not known pending X-ray results.

Relieveratad by .. return of goalie Terry Sawchuk, Wings trimmed Boston 4-3 and tied Montreal 4-4 in weekend action in five games with Chicago this year have won four.

Detroit is traditionally a tough club for Chicago to beat. Hawks have not held an edge over Wings since the 1953-54 season when they won six and tied two of their eight meetings.

Only one game is scheduled Thursday night, when Toronto will be at Boston.

Continental Baseball League May Seek Aid From Congress

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Branch Rickey's four-month tug of war with baseball's higher echelon for recognition and admission of his embattled Continental League into the major league circle may wind up in the courts, it was learned today.

William Shea, founder of the circuit, currently limited to six teams, has just been contacted by Rickey for the first time in a long time to seek congressional aid in their bid to become a third major league. This was reliably reported to The Associated Press by a person closely connected with the embryo circuit.

Rickey's adamant stand on expansion by the American League — either yes or no — will come to a head at the annual meeting of the Continental League from making this grave decision. The National League announced Monday that at the present it had no plans to expand but that it had reached no definite decision on baseball's future because of a number of problems which could not presently be resolved.

CONTINUE STUDY

American League president Joe Cronin added that expansion was being considered instructed his fact finding committee to continue its study.

"The American League decision is not satisfactory to us," the source said, "which had been stated on a yes-or-no answer. He hasn't lived up to that promise. Unless the American League tells us it will expand and makes its selection of cities, or declares it completely and unequivocally that it has absolutely no intention of expanding, I'm afraid the only recourse is for us to go to the courts."

Cronin refused to comment on Rickey's assertion that he had offered to release any two cities the American League desired if it was sincere about expansion.

IMMEDIATE ACTION

"There is no indication at this time," said Joe, "that the American League intends to expand in 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964 or 1965. I made it clear the AL will not delay the Continental League from going forward with the completion of its organization. . . .

"It looks as though they have problems and are trying to blame them on us."

Cronin referred to the fact that the Continental League currently is comprised of only six members. Hilland joined the league five Tuesday. The original franchise holders were Toronto, Houston, Denver, Minneapolis-St. Paul and New York.

Kitchener Plans Many Sunday Sports Events

KITCHENER (CP) — Sport group Tuesday began laying plans for Sunday afternoon games after Sunday sport was approved in a referendum during Monday's civic elections.

Ernie Goman, manager of the Kitchener Auditorium and of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, said the club may switch several mid-week games to Sunday early in the new year.

He added the club may try to book the exhibition game Sunday Jan. 20 game of the touring Moscow Selects to a Sunday and may be able to line up a Saturday match with the Czech national team after the Squaw Valley Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Interest in Sunday games also was expressed by Dutchmen clubs in the Inter-County Baseball Series and the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Billy Cannon Not Shaky About Pros

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Cannon, the hottest piece of football property to come off the college gridiron this fall, says he isn't shaky about the big step into the professional game.

The speedy Louisiana State fullback who Tuesday was named "back of the year" in The Associated Press's post-season poll said, "I watch the pros every week on television. They're a good deal bigger and a step faster but they play the same game.

"I know it will be tough at first. But we'll have big guys on our side, too. I'm anxious to try my hand at it."

Drafted by the Los Angeles Rams, Cannon said he expects to sign sometime after the Rams' Bowl game in Honolulu Jan. 16. The two-time all America won his newest honors by a runaway margin in a vote of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Cannon previously had been voted the Heisman Trophy which he will receive here tonight at the Downtown Athletic Club.

The 23 - year - old thunderbolt from Baton Rouge said his plans are to remain in professional football about four years — "at least until I get my dental degree and can start taking teeth out legally."

"Such a game degree on here well, I don't be added. "Right now, I am very enthusiastic about pro ball."

Macs Spoil Maroons' Chances For Second Place

Score Four in Second Frame To Clinch Neat 7-2 Victory; Maniago, Gagnon Stand Out

By GEORGE M. CARVER
Sports Editor

The best-laid plans of Chatham Maroons coach Johnny Horeak went sadly "agley" here last night. He had figured on plenty-backing into second place, but forgot to reckon with the Macs' potential.

For twelve minutes in the first period Johnny was happy. At period end with the score 2-1 against him he was glum. When his Maroons failed to answer four Mac second-period goals Johnny was plum unhappy and remained that way until the end.

His Maroons split a third-period pair with the victory-hungry homesters who skated off the ice with a 7-2 win under their belts.

It was the second McFarland victory in three games, and the biggest goal production the Hildebranders harvested all season.

And when you're passing the victory kudos around don't forget to give young Casave Maniago in the Belleville nets a generous share. The youngster deserves them for he came up with another sparkling performance.

And toss a few in the general direction of that wily old veteran of the ice lanes, Bus Gagnon, who scored a brace, as did Keith MacDonald. Kenny Gribbons took a huge dollop of bouquets in goal with an assist against his old mates while Denis Bouchard and a Mac player with Lou Semko scoring the odd number.

Hildebrand had a pair of assists, as did Paul Payette and Chatwell, with Bezeil, Brown, Roty and Martineau coming up with one each.

The Forbes-Metz-Cleary line looked the best for the Maroons scoring both their goals, with Forbes pulling the trigger. His linemates drew assists on both markers.

It was a fast, clean tilt with a couple of punch - throwing beauties adding color. Aitken and MacDonald drew minors and majors for tossing fists while in the dying seconds Chesterwold and Jim Connelly punched and wrestled their way to a minor and a major.

The Macs shaded the Maroons in the shooting department 30-29, with Maniago coming up with a sparkling display to spoil most a few Maroon efforts.

Billy Forbes put the Maroons up after four minutes, scoring from a neat goalmouth pass ing play with his linemates, Keith MacDonald smashed Denis Bouchard's rebound two minutes later to knot the count and the Macs were the lead at 16.39 when Kenny Gribbons scored home Hildebrand's pass from close in.

The Macs took over in the second frame, establishing their Maroons 14-8 and grabbing a 3-1 lead when MacDonald pushed in Martineau's rebound off Allbert's stick. Midway through the period Gagnon picked a wide-open space between Allbert's pads and the Macs were three up.

WALL NAMED TOPS

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., Tuesday night received the U.S. Professional Golfers Association award as pro golfer of the year for 1959.

Wall, 1959 Masters tournament winner and two-time Ryder Cup player, said: "I feel I have two or three more years of good golf left." He was elected by a poll of U.S. sports writers and sportscasters.

Vancouver Football Addicts Agog Over Coach Decision

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia football fans could be blessed for wrestling the shocking weekend with an anticipation which up to last night never preceded by most children at the season of good cheer approaches.

Most gridiron followers—adult and juvenile alike—in this province are hoping for an early Christmas gift in the form of an announcement that Wayne Robinson will continue coaching B.C. Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

To these fans, there is an amazing resemblance between Robinson and Santa Claus. Robinson has been their first look at professional football playoff action.

Robinson, who at 39 was probably still young enough to star with the club, capped his first year as a head coach by leading Lions to third place.

The story of his success apparently spread and he has been offered the job of head coach of Minneapolis - St. Paul of the American Football League, which expects to begin operation in 1960. It said Tuesday night he expects to make his decision before leaving this weekend on a vacation jaunt shooting trip to the United States.

TOP CANDIDATE

Robinson was publicly acknowledged Monday as the leading candidate for the Minneapolis-St. Paul job. Bob Snyder, owner of the team's three owners.

Robinson admitted he is interested, but added: "I haven't decided what to do yet. There are many things involved. Money is only one of many points. I'll make a decision as soon as I can, within the next few days I hope."

Robinson left the security of an assistant coaching post with the Edmonton Eskimos to take charge of the 1960 season because he said "in football the only good early June and batted .292 thereafter jobs that are open are the tough ones." He might leave the same theory in considering the offer with a completely new team starting from scratch.

Born in Minneapolis in 1920, he was centre and linebacker for the University of Minnesota Gophers in 1940-42-43. He was picked on the all-star teams of the Big Two and Midwestern conferences in 1941.

He started a five-year stay with Philadelphia Eagles in 1952. Lions' executive met Tuesday to discuss a possible increase in salary or new contract for Robinson but that meeting was planned before the American offer became public.

Robinson said if he does go he would like to take backfield coach Dave Skrien with him. Both joined B.C. last year, Robinson on a two-year contract. Backline coach Lum Snyder said earlier he will not return this season.

Phils, Chisox Swap Players

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday traded third - baseman Gene Freese to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Johnny Callison in an interleague deal.

This was the ninth trade completed during the major - minor baseball sessions. It was the eleventh since the inter - league trading period went into effect Nov. 21.

Freese, 26, batted .256 for the Phillies last season.

Callison, only 20, is regarded as one of the most promising sluggers of the future. He opened the season with the White Sox but was optioned to Indianapolis in the American Association in the spring training camp.

Ole Archie Likes Canada And Canadians

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP)—"It was to help people. There's so many good people in the world."

That's how light heavyweight champion Archie Moore explains his $1,000 contribution to the Canadian Northumberland Strait Fishermen's Disaster Fund.

"People have helped me," the champion said Tuesday night, "and I believe in sharing."

The New Brunswick disaster occurred while moore was in training for his second fight with Yvon Durelle, himself a fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

"I thought to myself this easily could have happened to Durelle," Archie explained. "I heard those fishermen left a lot of widows and children.

"I've always had great success in Canada, good crowds and good treatment and I thought these are some of the people I want to help."

"I'd autograph the other pair for you but I broke my hand during the bout!"

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Montreal Canadiens reclaimed their rightful place in the NHL standings last week, but there was no joy in the home of the Stanley Cup champions. It marked their most miserable week of the 1959-60 National Hockey League season.

They lost two games in two nights, which was exactly half of their total losses in 25 games so far. That stage of the schedule, of course, was no reason for panic. The leaders could afford these setbacks and still remain the mergers of the league, but their pride was hurt.

There was a lot more to it than simply dropping a couple. They had a club record dating away back to 1938 to break and that should have been their present to doting Montreal fans.

SHATTERED ROOTS

But the proud Canadiens couldn't do it. Their high hopes were shattered in Toronto on Wednesday night when the pesky Maple Leafs, who seem to have a great knack of taking the Canadiens' record, beat them 3-0.

Canadiens played on home ice in Thursday night's clash before jubilee, and took a 7-4 walloping from the 4-17 New York Rangers. The New Yorkers made things a little darker by sending Canadien defenceman Tom Johnson to hospital with a shoulder injury.

The real shocker was Wednesday night's game.

This edition of the Canadiens went out to break the club record of 12 consecutive games without a loss set by the Canadiens of 1944. They had it equalled, were favored to beat the Leafs and return home for birthday celebrations.

But Frank Mahovlich, Leaf left winger and the ball of fire in the scoring records with only three goals in 23 games, scored the only goal of the night. It also was the first shutout Canadiens had suffered since Leafs blanked them 3-0 at Toronto last New Year's eve.

HISTORY REPEATED

Historians thumbed through the books and Leo Dandurand, owner of the Flying Frenchmen of the 1930s, recalled the great record of the 1928 Montreal team that had such greats as Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat, Herb Gardiner, Georges Vezina and goalkeeper George Hainsworth.

Leo told Elmer (Moaner) Ste-Marie, coach of the 1928 team of Canadiens, "They beat us 2-1 on Toronto ice," Dandurand recalled. "Aurel Joliat was a member of the club, man of our club. He spoke infrequently at the best of times. But he was angry at the defeat in Toronto that he didn't utter a word for days."

Canadiens hold the longest undefeated record in history — 28 games — extending from March 13, 1943, to Nov. 2, 1944. The streak began with a 3-3 tie and then beat them 4-1 at the Forum.

Don't Worry, The Habs Will Nail Him

MONTREAL (CP)—There's a fellow in Montreal Canadiens' farm system who appears to be on his way to stardom on these days in the National Hockey League.

He is Jill Sutherland, native of Regina and resident of Winnipeg, and "is a virtual certainty to be grabbed by some NHL club at the draft meeting next June with less Canadiens put him on their protected list. He is ruled one of the most talented young Canadiens' chattel in junior and minor-pro hockey.

Sutherland is a 25 - year - old sophomore winger with Montreal Royals of the Eastern Professional Hockey League. He is a fast skater and prolific scorer.

In 34 games with the Royals this season Sutherland has scored 25 goals. Last season in 67 games he scored 29 goals. Previous to joining the Royals he had a three-year tenure with Cincinnati of the International League, piling up 107 goals and scoring a record-breaking 53 goals in one season.

FURTHER SEASONING

Sutherland's ambition is to play in the NHL with Canadiens or any other club. He reported in top condition at Canadiens' training camp this fall and was one of the last players sent down to the minors.

He was once the property of Chicago Black Hawks. The Hawks gave up on him during his minor-hockey days in Winnipeg, considering him too small. He now weighs 180 pounds and is five feet, 10 inches tall. When he was dropped by Hawks, Canadiens took him into their fold.

Sutherland has been recalled this season by clubs of both the NHL and the American League.

Coach Floyd Curry says he is surprised Sutherland wasn't drafted by some NHL club last June.

"As far as I am concerned, he is ready for the big league now," said Curry. "He has all the ability to shine in the NHL. He can play either left wing or centre, has plenty of speed and a deceptive shot and, above all, is a fierce competitor."

Harness Racing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Harness writers have voted Adios Butler and Dillie Hanover as the top harness horses of the year in their respective gaits.

Adios Butler, fastest three-year-old in standardbred history, received 77 of 85 votes in dominating the three-year-old pacer of the year balloting, the U.S. Trotting Association announced Tuesday. The association conducts the nation-wide poll of harness writers.

Dillie Hanover was selected as three-year-old trotter of the year by getting 73 of 85 votes.

Marlies, Flyers Win Over Majors, Bilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros held off a late-period third-period rally by St. Michael's College Majors at Toronto Monday night to help goaltender Ken Broderick register his second Ontario Hockey Association Junior A shutout this season.

Scoring in each of the first and second periods, Marlboros defeated the Majors 3-0 to strengthen their league leadership.

Barrie Flyers edged Guelph Biltmores 3-1 in a lazy contest in the only other scheduled game. The win left Barrie in a second-place tie with St. Michael's, three points behind Marlboros.

Guelph holds fourth spot and Peterborough Petes are fifth. St. Catharines TeePees and Hamilton Tiger Cubs are tied for sixth place.

Howie Menard opened the scoring in the first period at Toronto, ratchetting mates Jerry Cheevers after taking defenceman Ron Stackhouse's pass and beating a goal-mouth scramble. It was the left winger's 10th goal of the season.

BACKHAND DRIVE

Right winger Don Currie notched the other in the second period, picking up a loose puck in front of the St. Michael's goalie. He backhanded a waist - high drive into the net.

The Toronto teams have split in their four meetings this season. Majors outshot 31-14, received only two of the nine penalties called.

At Guelph, Barrie took the lead in the first period on a goal by Nelson Lealtie. Guelph's Jean Natalis tied the count early in the second but Bob Awrey scored the winner three minutes before the period ended.

In a Laurier Cup exhibition game before 1,200 fans at Hamilton, centre Bob Roussseau's second goal of the evening, at 19:50 of the final period gave Brockville Canadiens a 5-4 victory over the Hamilton Tiger Cubs.

The visitors took a 4-1 lead in the first period. Rookie goalie Bud Blom took over from Denny Jordan to start the second period and blanked Brockville until Rousseau fired the winner.

Defenceman Jacques Lapriere also scored two for the winners while Keith McCreary got the other.

Jim McLellan, Neil Forth, Jim Rankin and Larry Jeffrey shared the Hamilton scoring.

Richard Egan Breaks Rule, Plays Father of Teen-Ager

By AMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Egan, a virile movie hero in the tradition of a Gable or a Holden, has committed casting heresy—and it has paid off.

Egan, 37, recently played the father of a grown-up daughter, Sandra Dee, in the movie Summer Place. In the picture, Egan was on his way to becoming a grandfather.

This happens every day in the outside world but rarely on Hollywood celluloid. Movie heroes in their middle 30s may make love to teen-age girls on the screen—but their agents forbid them to play fathers of same.

HARDEST PART

One casting director reports that the hardest role to fill in the movies is that of a father of 40 or thereabouts who has teen - age children.

"The big agencies won't even show the scripts to the big male stars, some of whom are real-life grandfathers," the director says.

Don't blame the stars. They're realistic on the subject.

A few years ago Gary Cooper made a film called Love in the Afternoon. He played a middle-aged roue who carries on a sophisticated love affair with a teen-ager played by Audrey Hepburn.

Critics loved it, praising the direction, writing and performances to the skies — but the public stayed away in droves despite the proven boxoffice pull of the stars.

Egan confides that he sought out Summer Place even when Natalie Wood was set for the daughter. The producer told him he wasn't old enough to play Natalie's father. She's only 21, but has played too many sophisticated women on the screen.

Then Natalie had a beef with Warner Brothers and teen-aged Miss Dee was substituted. Egan put in another pitch and got the part.

My agents didn't try to talk me out of it," says Egan. "Probably, because they realized they couldn't.

"I took odd enough to have a 19-year-old daughter. I'm a family man in college all have them—and some of my students are about to."

Egan was once a professor of public speaking at the University of Houston.

His decision has a happy economic ending.

Summer Place, in which Egan is the biggest box office n' ne, is currently one of Warners' blockbusters.

Jockey Had Better Appear Or Else - - -

TORONTO (CP)—Three people who put up $10,000 bail for jockey Bobby Keane will lose their money if he does not return from France soon to answer charges of fraud, conspiracy to bet and breaking and entering.

Appealing Monday against an order forfeiting the bail, lawyer Frederick Frankel said Keane now is riding in France for Prince Aly Khan after being banned from North American race tracks.

Two Toronto women, Helen Sarwatsky and Theresa Brenner, put up the $10,000 bail for Keane when he was remanded on a charge of breaking into Frankel's Bloordale rough greetcrix in January. William Peterff of Hamilton put up $2,000 for the jockey on charges of fraud and conspiracy in placing bets.

Keane has twice failed to appear in court to answer the charges.

NBC-Startime Shows Prove To Be Enjoyable Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Tuesday night NBC-Startime shows are proving to be the most distinguished and enjoyable programs of the current season. And Tuesday night's My Three Angels must rank among the best of them.

It was a Broadway show of some six seasons back and some of the TV cast were members of the original company, including the incomparable Walter Slezak.

It was a merry, sly, and thoroughly wicked comedy by Sam and Bella Spewack, whose plot may seem defiant and outrageous with all the current concern over television's moral standards.

Three Devil's Island convicts—a swindler and two murderers—arrive at the establishment of a Cayenne shopkeeper at a moment of great trouble. The kindly convicts solve all his problems by arranging the violent demise of the business shop owner and his heir and by committing a little accidental larceny and blackmail.

A number of forbidden words were used. It is doubtful, however, that many were corrupted by the 90-minute play. It was obviously in fun.

Slezak was wonderful—funny, lovable and knowledgeable. Barry Sullivan and George Grizzard were the other two angels and complemented him beautifully.

The National Association of Broadcasters' TV board recently adopted its old code in regard to or controlled quiz shows, decents, mindful of the networks and plugs. Only about half the TV stations in the United States, however, are members who subscribe to code requirements. . . . Stock of Charles Van Doren, who

Alberta Team Refuses to Play Russians

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — A touring Russian hockey team, due to play in Calgary Friday, may have difficulty finding opponents.

The Red Deer Rustlers of the Central Alberta Hockey League announced Tuesday they would not play because they could not reach an agreement with the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association with regards to the share of profits.

Tom McPherson, secretary of the Rustlers, said that under the present agreement the club would receive $200 from the Calgary exhibition board to defray expenses.

He said that if the profits from the match were to go to the AAHA or to any worthy cause the Rustlers would not only play but would pay their own expenses.

The game, one of two to be played in Alberta by the Moscow Selects, was organized by the exhibition board. The other, scheduled for Jan. 29 in Edmonton, was organized by the Edmonton exhibition board. Selects are to meet Edmonton Oil Kings, also in the CAHA.

AAHA officials in Edmonton declined comment but said an official statement would be made today.

Ingy, Jensen Given High Boxing Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and Mary Jenson, fight manager, mink rancher and cider in the Mormon Church, are the winners of two of boxing's highest awards.

The undefeated, 27 - year - old Swede was chosen "Fighter of the year" Tuesday. And Jenson, former mayor of West Jordan, Utah, and manager of NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, was singled out today for the James J. Walker ward "for long and meritorious service to boxing."

Johansson will receive the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque, awarded annually by the Boxing Writers Association. He is the first European and the second non - American to get the award since the association started its picking back in 1938. Cuba's Kid Gavilan, then in the welterweight champion, was the 1953 winner.

The two men will receive the trophies at the BWA's annual dinner Jan. 14 in New York.

Johansson's three - round destruction of Floyd Patterson in their title fight at Yankee Stadium, last June 26, earned him the nod over three other champions in the final voting. The others nominated were flyweight Pascual Perez, Argentina, lightweight Joe Brown of New Orleans and Fullmer.

Jenson was chosen over referee Ruby Goldstein; Dr. Alexander Schiff, veteran physician of the New York State Athletic Commission; Hinkie Miller, former fighter, manager, promoter, coach, and boxing commissioner of Washington, D.C., and Jimmy Bronson, former manager.

Deny Jacobs Signed as Head Coach

REGINA (CP) — Officials of Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union denied Tuesday that Indian Jack Jacobs has been signed as head coach for the coming season. But the 1959 Jacobs would be in town Thursday to discuss the job.

Jacobs, former quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, now is assistant coach to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Roughriders have been without a head coach since they fired George Terlep in mid - season. Frank Tripucka, former quarterback with the team, came from Ottawa to guide the team through the season but turned the job down when offered it to him.

Saskatchewan executives were to meet today with George Sauer, former coach at Baylor University, also a candidate for the job, as is Ken Carpenter, veteran backfield star with Roughriders.

Hamilton coach Jim Trimble said the Tiger-Cats would not prevent Jacobs from resigning the offer.

A decision by the Roughriders' executive is expected by the weekend.

POWER RESTORED

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP)— Electric power was restored in this mining community 260 miles north of Quebec City Tuesday night after a 19-hour failure. Quebec Hydro crews found the failure was caused by a ground wire that broke because of wind or sleet and fell across conductor cables.

SCORE FOUR IN

Mimico held them off. With seconds to go Wisner Brown drove a stinging slapshot at the Maroons net, finally tipping in the winner for the fourth marker of the period.

The Maroons defence tightened in the third frame but offensively they failed to get the goal punch to enforce even when Benoit went off for tripping.

Cleary sent Forhan and Malo away after eight minutes and they combined a neat one-two smooth passing play to beat Maniago cleanly for their second goal of the night.

The Maroons apparently injured their hopes for a win in the third period. Racing back to defend, Bob Solinger broke up a pass and in the process tripped Chaszewski's rebound past Albani for the game's final tally. Seconds later Bradley broke away on the clear record in on Albani but his shot smashed against a post.

Benoit got the gate again with seconds left then the Chaszewski-Connelly bandie broke out and both went to the dressing room.

Paul Payette who is keeping his old form, was painfully injured midway through the second period when he suffered a toe-stitch cut under the right eye. He was stitched for the remainder of the game.

Payette was struck with the heel of a Maroon stick as he checked the player along the boards. Paul said this morning his eye was all right and he will be in harness again Friday night here against Kitchener-Waterloo Saturday in Whitby.

Laufman Leads Senior Race

KITCHENER (CP)—Ken Laufman's lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring race has been reduced to just a single point.

The Kitchener - Waterloo forward, in games through Dec. 6, has counted 11 goals and 22 assists for 34 points. Runner-up is Whitby's Bob Attersley with 11 goals and 22 assists. Irwin Grose of Windsor is third with 32 points.

Don Head of Windsor, who shut out Kitchener-Waterloo Saturday, tops goalies with a 2.36 average for 10 games. He is tied for shutouts with John Henderson of Whitby with two each.

Ron Gagnon of Belleville leads the penalty parade with 57 minutes in 23 for teammate Moe Benoit.

Windsor Bulldogs top the team penalty chart with 275 minutes, four more than Belleville.

Canadiens Tie Three Rivers 2-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Claude Evans of Trois-Rivieres Lions appeared to have the shot covered, but one of his defencemen tried to stop the puck. It glanced off his stick and caught Evans by surprise and whizzed into the net.

That goal, at 16:33 of the third period, gave Hull-Ottawa Canadiens a 2-2 tie with the Lions at Trois-Rivieres, Tuesday night, in the only scheduled game of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The split in points left the Canadiens in second place in the league standings, seven points behind Sudbury Wolves. The Lions moved into sole possession of third place with 26 points, one ahead of Montreal Royals. Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds have 25 points and Kingston Frontenacs have 21.

About 2,000 fans saw the Lions take a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Eddie Litzenberger and Jean-Paul Denis, as the home side blitzed goalie Ken Wallery with 13 shots.

TIGHTENED UP

Then the Canadiens tightened up and broke through with a goal by Bob Elett in the second period. The tying scores were netted by Johnny Annable. Trois-Rivieres outshot Hull-Ottawa 26-18.

Not all Tuesday's league action was on the ice. The slumping Royals got some cheerful news when told that veteran centre Kenny Mosdell will be able to play with them Thursday night when they visit Hull-Ottawa.

Mosdell suffered a head injury during a game Nov. 20 in Sudbury and during his absence the Royals have won only two of eight games. His return will give the Montreal club three complete forward lines for the first time in three weeks.

Sault Ste. Marie is getting reinforcements. Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League, three players Tuesday and two are being sent to the Sault. They are forward Merv Kuryluk and defencemen Bob Wilson.

Dawson Helps Oxford Win Over Cantabs

TWICKENHAM, England (AP) —The football-type long passes of former Army all-America Pete Dawkins played a key offensive role Tuesday as Oxford University defeated Cambridge 13-3 in their annual inter-varsity rugby union match before 58,000 at Twickenham Grounds.

Dawkins, first - year Rhodes Scholar, who made the Oxford varsity after playing the game only eight weeks, had few offensive first - chance but observers said he did everything demanded of him. He was particularly effective on defence with boot-crushing tackles and his long throws opened up the Cambridge defences.

Just a year ago, Dawkins was being toasted at West Point after he was named to The Associated Press all-America football team as a halfback and winning the Heisman Trophy as merit's outstanding player of the 1958 football season.

John Willcox scored all of Oxford's points on three penalty kicks. R. F. R. Bearne scored for Cambridge, also on a penalty goal.

This was Oxford's 26th victory against 20 losses and 12 ties in the series with Cambridge.

In the 76-year history of the game, Dawkins was only the fifth American to play. But none of the others made the grade in their first year. The six-foot-one, 204-pound Dawkins is from Royal Oak, Mich.

Few Protests Over TV of Hockey Games

TORONTO (CP) — A CBC spokesman said Wednesday night there have been few protests of a decision to beam Saturday night home National Hockey League games of the Toronto Maple Leafs to all parts of Ontario.

Up until last week, the Western Ontario network was netting or getting Montreal and Toronto home games on alternate Saturdays so fans could see both teams in action.

The Canadiens and Maple Leafs rarely play each other on Saturday nights. Toronto plays every Saturday night at home and Canadiens play almost every Saturday night in Montreal.

The CBC televises both games. The Montreal and Toronto areas get their home games exclusively. Away games are shared in other parts of Canada.

The CBC spokesman said the corporation "is obliged under terms of its contract with the sponsors to beam the Toronto games to all parts of Ontario."

MORE ACCEPTABLE

"Since Toronto has been doing better, there have been more demands for the games and they believed these would be more acceptable to Ontario viewers." The Leafs are in second place in the league. Canadiens hold down top spot.

The Western Ontario network includes seven television stations. The Toronto - area stations are Toronto, Hamilton and Barrie.

The spokesman said a check with the London station manager showed "there are no screams of protest in that area."

A report from Petrolia, however, said some residents had phoned and written the CBC protesting the decision to show Toronto games only.

This report said the decision was made under pressure of Toronto hockey club officials who insisted the CBC include in a clause in their contract stipulating that the Leaf games be shown exclusively on the Western Ontario network.

ENDORSE BIRTH CONTROL

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The national council of the Episcopal (Anglican) Church, Tuesday overwhelmingly endorsed birth control measures as a means of "relieving problems of population growth." The council affirmed its support of birth control resolutions adopted by the 1958 Lambeth conference of the World Anglican Communion in London. Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne criticized the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to birth control.

L. Macphail, Jr. Oriole Prexy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Leland Stanford Macphail is to be president of a major league baseball team again. This time, it's Lee, Jr., son of the Sage Larry.

Lee was tapped Tuesday by James Keelty Jr., who is resigning, to succeed him as president of Baltimore Orioles.

Lee Macphail, Orioles last year as general manager and will continue to hold that position along with president. He came to Baltimore from the New York Yankees of which his famous father was president and built on the day they won the world series in 1947.

Lee now is 42 years old, about the same as Larry was when he took over the debt-ridden, second division Brooklyn Dodgers in 1938 and built them into a pennant winner by 1941.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported. And most were relieved by sustained comfort.

This was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And sufferers themselves were amazed at the wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed rectal applicators! Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H. is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Juniors Bag Four in Third Period For 7-6 Victory Over Kingston

KINGSTON — Belleville Lumbermen-Bailies bounced back from a 3-0 first period deficit to edge Kingston Johnson Motormen 7-6 in an action packed Eastern Ontario Junior B hockey game at the community centre last night.

Victory for the visitors was especially sweet. It was on almost exact repeat of a game played in Belleville last week — only in reverse. The only difference was the scores ended in a 7-6 decision after overtime in that contest.

Gary Bowtobham was the big gun of the night, firing a hat trick. He triggered the goal which tied the score at 5-5 and his third eventually proved to be the winner.

Other Belleville markers were contributed by Ralph Plane with a pair, Don Turnbull and Ronnie Bull.

Pete Ford led the home forces, dealing the twine twice, with singles going to garnet ball, Syd Faulkner, Dale Howland and Bud Aylesworth.

Kingston leaped into a fast 3-0 lead before Belleville hit the score sheet shortly before the period ended. Tim Masterson made it 4-1 early in the second, but Belleville drew back with two goals within three minutes late in the session.

Once again Kingston opened the scoring in the final 20 minutes after Tom Reynolds had put them the roof fell in. The Kingston defence completely collapsed and the winners quickly took advantage of the lapse.

Forsythe touched off the parade at the seven-minute mark followed by Bowtobham's pair, sandwiched by Hull's effort.

The hosts pressed hard in the last three minutes and finally their efforts were rewarded when Aylesworth blasted the puck through a mass of legs with eight seconds remaining. It was too late.

Lineups:

Belleville — Mixon, Mann, Reid, Bowtobham, G. Hull, McGuire, Plane, Forsythe, Kerrish, Plane, Ethier, Elliott, Kennedy, Goyer, R. Hull.

Kingston — Nichols, O'Donnell, Petit, Aylesworth, Faulkner, P. Ford, Allard, Nevler, J. Ford, Rombough, Howland, Ball, Amey, Guy.

Thursday, December 10

General tendencies: Pretty much a day to wind up details and to get everything in perfect working order for the days and weeks ahead. Use the early part of the day to put into effect whatever has seemed difficult are this. Then the later hours are fine for all the practical phases of such plans. Be efficient and avoid attitude of stubbornness.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Ideal morning to draw very nicely and then confer with influential persons who can help you in your career. Financial assistance can also be yours. Later, attend to pressing affairs, real estate, etc. Do wise budgeting. P. M. take care of health.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Plan for coming activities in early A. M. Confer secretly with interested parties on matters of policy. Tonight is then ideal for doing whatever will improve your health and appearance. Study yourself well in the mirror. See good friends.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It will be possible during the morning to learn what your relative position is with those who are important in your life, and how to co-operate more harmoniously. Make plans that can easily be carried through. Help the needy or sad.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Spend morning taking care of important financial, business and civic affairs, so that you free the afternoon for conferences or just meeting with friends. Put some of your good ideas to work where you can all co-operate harmoniously.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A. M. should bring forth some new and interesting people or ventures that will be very enlightening. Look into latest philosophies and inventions. Be progressive, P. M. take advantage of opportunity to meet powerful personages.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The morning is fine for completing any financial or business deals or duties that are pressing. Then be off to new places and people so that you can gain a greater vista into the future. Be alert and vitally interested.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Take the time to clarify your position with all partners in early A. M. Show your loyalty and friendship in some tangible way. P. M. attend those duties that await you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Morning lends itself nicely to any important labors you have to perform. Make sure partners and fellow workers agree with your ideas, P. M. go to some charming place with associate for an evening of relaxation.

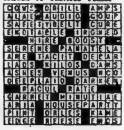
Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — See your beautician or barber early, then meet with important friend for luncheon. Later you can make plans for a brighter and more prosperous future. Get a schedule set up in black and white. Be practical.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — During A. M. is the best time to settle any home or economic problems. After lunch you can then be free for some needed relaxation at recreations you prefer. P. M. is a busy time for visitation and have a ball.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Morning fine for conferences, shopping, assisting those who have worries. After lunch, you must put your records in order. P. M. come to a better understanding with those living under your roof. Don't lose your temper.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Look after both mental and physical health during A. M. Do some repair work around the home, too. In the afternoon you can then see those persons you have been expecting you for some time. Have long discussions, too.

If your child is born today — The very interesting child born today is almost a paradox, since the nature will be both airy and most serious, alternately. This denotes that the earliest years will be pioneering and searching ones, while the later years are devoted to being most practical and steady. The success here is then very marked, particularly in fields where much detail and patience is required. A genius could be here too.



ANOTHER FABLE DEBUNKED

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Joseph E. Murray of Harvard Medical School said Monday it was an American, not a Russian, who first transplanted the head of one dog to the body of another. Dr. Murray said in an interview that Dr. Guthrie successfully performed similar experiments as early as 1908 in the United States.

BABE MAYOR'S PAY

CALGARY (CP)—City council Monday voted Mayor Harry Hays a $6,000 pay increase despite the mayor's plea that he didn't want the raise. The private brings the mayor's salary to $22,000, including an expense allowance of $4,000. Mayor Hays, wealthy rancher and businessman who was elected two months ago, said he would donate the increase to charity.

Call For Peace Keynotes Speech By Eisenhower

Talks to Both Houses Of Indian Parliament

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) —President Eisenhower keynoted his visit to India today with a call for international peace and disarmament.

On the second day of his five-day stay here, he went before a joint session of both houses of the Indian Parliament to outline his hopes for a peaceful future.

"Controlled universal disarmament is the imperative of our time," he told the 700 legislators.

"We have not yet solved the problem of fear among nations. The consequence is that not one government can exploit its resources of its own territory solely for the good of its people. Governments are burdened with sterile expenditures. . . .

"In the name of humanity can we not join in a five-year or 50-year plan against mistrust and mingling and fixation on the peaceful uses of atom?"

MILLION IN STREETS

The president arrived here Wednesday on a tumultuous welcome by more than a million people, threading his way down the Asian capital. It is the fifth stop of his 22,000-mile peace and goodwill tour which already has taken him to Rome, Ankara, Istanbul and Kabul.

He made his address to Parliament shortly after a 90 - minute talk with Prime Minister Nehru in Nehru's residence. It was the first of a series of discussions.

There was no agenda for the talks, which were expected to entertain to include the Chinese-Indian border dispute, as well as disarmament and summit talks.

Teller Applies Army Training To Catch Suspect

TORONTO (CP) — A holdup suspect was chased out of a downtown Toronto Dominion Bank Wednesday by a former paratrooper lurked bank teller, caught in a hammerlock and marched back to the bank.

John McNeil, 22, of Grace Bay, N.S., charged with attempted robbery.

Sis-foot Edgar J. Copp, 34, said he instinctively applied the hammerlock.

"His arm was like a sitting duck when I spun him around," he said. "I grabbed his wrist, turned low and snapped it back behind him."

Mr. Copp learned the hold during his training with the Canadian Airborne Signals in Manitoba in 1953. Later he picked up some tricks from judo experts while stationed in Kingston as a radio operator.

Before the incident Mr. Copp becomes suspicious of a man loitering inside the double front doors of the bank. "After about an hour he came in, my wicket and presented me with a note," he said.

"I had some difficulty reading it, but as soon as I saw the word 'stickup' I told him I couldn't read it and walked away. I headed for the night deposit box. 28 revolver is kept and he called me back.

"I — almost at the gun when I s— a reach for the door. I fo— out the .38 and — after him. I didn't think he had a gun, and it turned out that he didn't have."

Mr. Copp grabbed the suspect after chasing him a couple of yards.

Police later deciphered the badly written note to read: "This is a stickup, fifteen big ones." The man had carried a pepper bag.

Goldfine Tells Of Ventures in High Finance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine, one time free-spending benefactor of ousted presidential adviser Sherman Adams and other government figures, Wednesday described a court order and told Congress about some of his ventures in high finance.

Representative Oren Harris (Dem., Ark.), chairman of a House of Representatives investigating subcommittee, said Goldfine's attorneys had submitted against self-incrimination in refusing to answer one question or too. But he did reply to 18 he previously dodged and to many more.

What the money-loving Boston cloth manufacturer and financier told the House group about withdrawals of more than $100,000 from a Boston firm and other transactions will remain secret until part of his testimony is published within a few days.

SUCCESSFUL SHOT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Army fired its Jupiter intermediate-range missile on a successful 1,500-mile test flight Wednesday night. Officials reported the missile's second boundary warhead on target off the West Indies island of Antigua.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A strong wind still blew across Ontario today. The intense storm responsible for the strong sweep of cool air is still centred over Hudson Bay and is slowly weakening. This should permit the winds to die down in most areas tonight and Friday.

EUROPE'S WORST STORM LEAVES 109 DEAD IN WAKE

Tempest May Have Sting in Its Tail

LONDON (AP) — Europe's worst storm in 23 years was blowing itself out today, leaving shipwrecks and 109 dead in its wake.

But coast guardmen, weary after a five-day battle, warned that the tempest might have a sting in its tail.

A little Dutch motor freighter sunk in a collision in the Elbe estuary, some seamen remained in trouble and blinding blizzards blanketed parts of Scandinavia.

The toll in lives and shipping was the heaviest since the great blow of February, 1936, in which more than 200 died.

The 441 ton Dutch freighter Flamingo went down after a collision with the 2,128-ton German freighter Braunsweig. All members of the Dutch crew were rescued.

SIX LOST, SEVEN ASK AID

A half dozen vessels have gone down. Seven others sent distress calls today.

A flooded engineroom forced the crew to abandon the British trawler Janet Helen in the North Sea. The sailors were taken off by another British fishing vessel.

In the Baltic the Finnish vessel Borneo, 348 tons, reported it was drifting with a 25-degree list. It called urgently for help.

Three Danish fishing boats with a total of 12 men aboard were missing but officials said possibly they had lost their radio aerials and would yet report in. Planes were looking for them.

The Danish fishing cutter Storm-away, wallowing in North Sea swells with a broken rudder, called for aid, but its radio report died.

Stormy gales whipped across Sweden for the sixth straight day, and Swedish navy sailors on the Norwegian freighter Elfgeen and the German ship Merkur was abandoned when darkness closed in Wednesday night. All 20 men aboard the Elfrida and the 29 seven who manned the Merkur were assumed lost.

Reduced Speed Limits Asked By Jury

HAMILTON (CP)—A coroner's jury was told Wednesday that heavy transport trucks on Highway 20 run frequently have to run through a red light at the foot of the two-mile mountain escarpment despite speed limits on the brakes won't hold.

The jury was investigating the deaths of truck driver Thomas Stratford, 27, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Ruth Ann Dales, 26, of Stoney Creek, in an accident at the intersection July 30.

Stratford's sled-loaded transport truck went through the red light and hit an automobile driven by Mrs. Aiken's husband.

The jury made its report to the accidental and recommended a reduction in speed limits on the long hill that descends into this city.

CROSBY'S TOGETHER AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The four Crosby brothers will put their singing act together again in January, says Lindsay Crosby. Bing's son is now in the army but in Montreal last week and cancelled an engagement to join all Palm Springs. Lindsay denied they were feuding. He conceded they had a "beef in Canada but nothing serious." He said the brothers rarely cancel because is that Gary, oldest of the four, has a throat ailment.

Mother Dreams Missing Daughter Is 'Butchered, Left Dead in Ditch'

OSHAWA (CP) — Police here have intensified their search for missing 12-year-old girl after her widowed mother said she dreamed I do know she didn't run away from home."

She said she has not slept without pills since the dream, which "keeps coming back and it's always the same."

The dream last night she came home. I don't know what that means."

United Nations to Discuss Cessation of Algerian War

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The 14th General Assembly was scheduled to take decisive action late today on a 25-nation Afro-Asian resolution calling for informal discussions to end the Algerian war.

But postponement of the debate was considered possible because the assembly has only two more days to run.

Some Asian countries, "apparently expecting a defeat for the resolution in its present form, were reported to be arguing with their Arab friends for an amendment that might win the necessary two-thirds majority in the 80-member world body.

The General Assembly Wednesday night called a vote on Russia and Hungary to end their repression and said — Communist Hungarians, 'but few delegates believed it would get any further than previous UN appeals.

The assembly voted 53 to 30 with 17 abstentions for a mildly worded draft which merely deplored the "continued disregard" by the Soviet Union and the present Hungarian regime of the assembly's resolution dealing with the situation in Hungary.

It called on New Zealand's Sir Leslie Munro to continue as UN special representative on Hungary and asked Russia and Hungary to co-operate with him.

United States and Hungarian envoys will prepare a report to them, says External Affairs Minister Green.

He said Wednesday night in an interview that Canada took a "cautious risk" of increasing world tension by demanding in the United Nations General Assembly that Hungary disclose the fate of about executions of anti-Communists.

The object of taking the risk was to save the lives of at least some Hungarians, Mr. Green said.

He said Canadian authorities have definite information that the executions have occurred three years after the end of the Hungarian revolt in November, 1956.

MAIL FAVORS ACTION

He added mail pouring into his department favors strong support throughout the country for the action taken in the UN.

Mr. Green was replying to a reporter's question as to whether the government would be bring up the matter so strongly as it has when world tension seems to be easing and an East-West summit meeting is being planned.

Commenting later on this, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said the minister is in the best position to judge whether this was the wise thing to do because he has all the information.

However, Mr. Pearson, former external affairs minister, said he could have spoken "somewhat differently" than the other spokesmen of the resolution" on Hungary.

This resolution, now under debate at the UN General Assembly, "continued disregard" by the Soviet Union and Hungary of the appeals against secret trials and executions arising from the revolt.

WANTS START MADE

Mr. Green's other main point in the interview with the Canadian Press was that the 10-nation UN disarmament committee, with five Western countries, including Canada, and five Communist states — should start work as soon as possible.

The refusal of the five Western nations should start work as soon as possible.

The refusal of the five Western nations should start work as soon as possible to co - ordinate policy.

It would be a "tragedy" if negotiations broke up in April over the outcome of the East - West summit conference likely to be held in the late spring.

That would mean insufficient time for preparatory negotiations before the next meeting of the UN General Assembly next September.

Mr. Green said Canada has a wonderful opportunity to play a key role in these negotiations but that it still has to wait to see what proposals this country outlined. The Geneva meeting probably will start in February.

Dusk-to-Dawn Curfew Imposed After Rioting

SUVA, Fiji (Reuters)—A curfew was ordered for the capital of this British colony in the Pacific today and national guardsmen were called out to restore order after two days of rioting.

The dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed on Suva and Lautaka, Fiji's second city, after the main island in the Fijian group, and Nandi is a refuelling point for international airlines flying from Vancouver to Australia, New Zealand.

Rioting flared anew today when stone - throwing crowds gathered in the town centre of this sultry port.

At one time the rioters broke through police ranks and reformed behind the club-wielding troopers. Tear gas canisters were summoned after cars were looted, a restaurant stand wrecked and a telephone booth torn from its foundations.

Striking workers swelled the late afternoon crowd because the shops were closed.

LONG BUILDUP

The trouble, which has been smouldering for years, starts in an animosity amongst the native Fijians and Indians and Europeans, began when police broke up a crowd which had come to hear a speech by Indian leaders.

The union called a strike of oil and gas workers at Suva, Nandi airport and an oil depot four days ago.

Racial tensions have been building up among the 350,000 companies brought in thousands of Indian labourers to work here between the two world wars. Many of the Indians have since become influential in the business community.

2 Wanted Men Decline to Waive Extradition

BANGOR, Me. (AP)—Canadian authorities have failed in their attempts to extradite two men on the RCMP's most-wanted list.

Richard Maddox, 31, of Boston, and Ronald Turcotte, 29, of Ecouony, N.S., refused to waive extradition here.

Because they declined to waive extradition, Canadian authorities now must start legal proceedings to extradite them.

The further delay came when they pleaded not guilty in Superior Court to charges filed by Magistrate Ralph Stetson. Justice Abraham Goldman continued the case for trial to Dec. 18.

Constable Earl MacDougal and Inspector Roland Bell obtained the warrants from Ontario charging Maddox and Turcotte with eight counts of robbery and two of kidnapping.

Peacheost County attorney Orman G. Twitchell said that even if the pair is found guilty on the fugitive charges it may take a presidential order; to extradite them.

The two men are being held in $50,000 bail each on the fugitive charges.

Cook's Fate May Rest With Jury Today

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Mr. Justice R. A. Smith, Supreme Court Judge of Alberta, will charge the jury to decide fate of Robert Raymond Cook.

Cook is charged with murder in the killing of his 59-year-old father, whose body was found June 28 in a grease pit behind the Cook home near nearby Stettler, 765 bodies of Mrs. Cook and the couple's five young children were also in the pit. They had been shot and burned.

Defence counsel Gilfard Main Wednesday delivered a 4½-hour address to the jury.

Crown prosecutor J. W. Anderson was to present his case today, followed by Mr. Justice Peter Greschuk's charge to the jury.

Mr. Main in his review of the evidence, said Cook had accounted adequately for his whereabouts from the night of June 25 to the afternoon of June 28 when the bodies were discovered.

CANADA TOOK CALCULATED RISK ON U.N. ISSUE

Done to Save Lives And Disclose Truth

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada hopes that the glare of publicity it has focussed on Hungarian executions will help put a stop to them, says External Affairs Minister Green.

Simple Indian Villagers Acclaim Ike as Reincarnation of Vishnu

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian villagers hailed the arrival of President Eisenhower Wednesday as a reincarnation of Vishnu, protector of the Hindu trinity.

A cross-section of views from Indian villagers by The Associated Press showed that many of them all considered the visitor Vishnu reborn.

"Do you think we were fools when we flocked in by the 100 miles to see anyone but Vishnu in human—" said Kanhi, a 70-year-old farmer from Mehrauli village 10 miles south of Delhi. (like many Indians, he has only one name).

Many gave two reasons for considering Eisenhower the avatar (reincarnation) of Vishnu:

First, Eisenhower had the might of Vishnu—to destroy the world in a mere wink but like Vishnu never used it and instead kept it as a final trump card against evil.

And like Vishnu, he was a great benefactor.

"Did he not send us wheat when we needed it and build us the Bhakra Dam?

The 45-year-old Ramchandani from Soal village, 30 miles north of Delhi, said he expected Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nehru's wife Indira yogis — the highest form in yoga and dearest to Vishnu.

Ramchandani could not bring his wife, who is ill, but he made sure to collect some sand from the road over which the limousine taking both leaders passed. "I shall apply this on my wife's forehead and she is sure to be cured," he said.

The Rev. E. C. Anthony, an Indian Christian missionary from near Meerut, 40 miles north of Delhi, said:

"The sight I saw today is for angels to see and bless."

He added: "Blessed are peacemakers for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Mr. Anthony had cycled the 40 miles and dedicated the ride. have cycled 400 miles for him."

Two Men, Boy Die After Automobile Handcar Mishaps

Cars Strike Two Down 3rd Tossed From Jigger

Tragedy struck suddenly in three Belleville homes late Wednesday afternoon and early evening as two men and a 13-year-old boy died violently as result of three separate accidents.

Dead are: William Westlemier, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Westlemier, R.R. 3, Belleville; Clarence Wright, 60 of R.R. 2, Stirling, and Salvatore Barbadoro, 43, of 169 Station Street.

Two of the victims were struck from behind by autos in the west end of the city.

The Westlaufer boy was riding his bicycle on No. 2 Highway near his home when about opposite the Hastings County Home he was struck by an auto and thrown onto a nearby lawn.

Mr. Wright died instantly when he was struck from behind as he walked along Marshall Avenue near the drive-in theatre. He was carried on the car bumper and hood until the vehicle was brought to a stop.

FREAK ACCIDENT OCCURS

Mr. Barbadoro died in a freak railway accident when he was thrown from a CNR motor handcar near Shannonville and struck his head on the edge of a steel rail. Three other section men were riding on the jigger and were taken to Belleville General Hospital for treatment.

Westlemier was born Wesley Hall, section foreman, F. Rich, and S. Spoutrocicos. None of the three were seriously injured.

The four section hands had been assisting a signal maintenance crew change insulation joints east of Belleville and with a train due shortly decided to go in Shannonville stations to determine whether they had time to complete their job.

Yesterday's gale like winds were a contributing factor in the accident when a tell tale signal post near the track apparently blown across the rail and derailed the jigger.

The rail car was thrown off the rails tossing the four men into the air. Mr. Barbadoro was killed when he struck his head on the rail. The other three men members of the section crew escaped with bruises and scratches.

Mr. Barbadoro had been employed with the CNR as section hand for about 10 years.

WALKING OUT DAILY

City police said Mr. Wright was walking in the evening darkness along Marshall road towards his trailer home in the west end of the city when he was struck from behind by Mrs. C. Wilson, 17, a near neighbor. The Wilson youth told police that the lights of an approaching car and did not see the pedestrian until too late.

Mr. Wright lived alone at the outskirts of the city and is survived by his mother in the Ivan-hoe area.

FELL INTO CAR

The Westlaufer boy, only child of Belleville TV repairman, suffered severe head injuries when struck by an eastbound auto driven by Mrs. Ethel Hughes of Wellington, Ont.

The youth was riding south the car and the boy were eastbound on No. 2 highway when the boy fell into the path of the vehicle with his bicycle and losing his

Says 100,000 Neurotics Live In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—There are at least 100,000 neurotics in Metropolitan Toronto, says Dr. John Cohen, director of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Dr. Griffin, who appeared before the Toronto board of health in connection with the need for a psychiatric clinic, described the 100,000 as victims of major and minor mental health problems.

At any one time, he said, 10 outside of a mental hospital are suffering from mental health problems or neurotic disabilities.

Movie Pioneer, George J. Cook, Dies in Picton

PICTON — A pioneer in the movie business, George J. Cook, died at his home Monday night after an extended illness. He had operated theatres in Picton for the past 31 years, including the present Regent theatre, which he opened in 1932.

Funeral service was held Thursday morning at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene with interment in Glenwood cemetery. Rev. deBlois Wright officiated.

Born in Greece, he came to the United States as a young man and was employed in several states. While in Watertown, N.Y., he was attracted by a motion picture theatre, then in its infancy, and a short time later, with a partner opened one in Carthage, N.Y. In 1908 he moved to Brockville, Ontario, and started a theatre and opened others in Campbellford and Trenton. Coming to Picton in 1888, he opened the Bijou theatre on Main Street, when admission was five cents and the projector turned by hand. After opening the Regent, he improved the block to include office and a store and always took pride in adding the most modern equipment.

Mr. Cook received an engraved medal from Paramount Pictures as one of the pioneers in the industry. The medal was presented in Brockville was the second in Ontario, the other being in Toronto. He was a member of the Anglican church and a supporter of all community projects. He was very widely known.

Surviving are his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Paul Baxter of Owen Sound, Mrs. Geo. Lane, Clarkson and Miss Louise Cook at home.

Has NBC Pulled Some Plugs From Hope's Script?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Did NBC pull some of the plugs out of Bob Hope's TV skit? It was time in Friday night you won't learn the answer.

A row over Hope's sketch with Ernie Kovacs developed Wednesday. NBC and the two comics have differing versions of the outcome.

Hope says NBC tried to eliminate a payola skit from his Friday night show. The network denies this. It says it simply eliminated a few gag references to commercial names. Hope denies this. He says the filmed sketch was shot as originally planned.

Payola, for the uninitiated, is show-business slang for bribing disc jockeys to play certain records. In Hope's skit, Kovacs plays a senator investigating payola. Hope, portraying a wet-behind-the-ears jockey who owns a yacht—Herman Payola of station WHAT.

Was it necessary to use product names in airing the payola gifts received by disc jockeys? Hope replied:

"That's a hard thing to explain. But you just have to use them to get the point over."

He gave this example:

"In the skit, Kovacs finally gets his hands on the desk, picks up this watch and says: 'My Timex is still running.'"

Hope said NBC "went to everybody on the show and tried to get rid of the payola spot bit."

They put pressure on the producer and everybody else to get it off. They were threatening (sponsor's) agency — but the sponsor okayed it. They have to approve all the spot announcements.

Hal Kemp, an NBC program director, denied the network tried to delete the skit. He said:

"It was just that there were more plugs than were good for the show. Our general policy always has been that if there are plugs unrelated to the comedy incident we want them out."

MANY DIVORCE BILLS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate will hear a record number of divorce applications at the next session of Parliament. Senator A. W. Roebuck (Toronto, Ontario), chairman of the Senate divorce committee, said Wednesday that 320 applications have been received and it is expected an additional 100 applications will come in before the session opens Jan. 14. Almost all the applications are from Ontario residents and Lady Eden of Lyndhurst.

BECOMES MOTHER

LONDON (AP) — Sir Anthony Berell, who rocked London society by marrying an Italian boatman, gave birth to a baby daughter Wednesday, Mrs. Berell, 68, is the former Amelia Rose, daughter of Sir Timothy Eden, and Lady Eden of Lyndhurst.

W. D. McArthur, Retired Banker, Town Treasurer

PICTON — Wilfred D. McArthur, a retired banker, has been selected as treasurer of the town of Picton to succeed the late C. G. Rutter. Mr. McArthur spent some weeks in Belleville during the treasurer while the probe into city finances was held. There were no charges laid.

Council Monday night heard Councillor Jim Hall report the clerk that fifty percent of the sidewalks in the town are not being shovelled free of snow. The body is interested and complaints have been received. Chief Constable Ferland stated that the police are responsible for enforcing the by-law and that it is very difficult to get the Police Association to act on complaints. The by-law once was six months ago.

Councillor James Bird was chairman of the committee in council meeting of solicitor R. E. Mourne, Q.C. "This is delaying action on some matters", Councillor Clapp stated that street sales in pay was given the solicitor recently, be agreed to attend all sessions. For him on the mailing list" quipped the Mayor.

Councillor Bird pointed out that Mons Street was made a one way street two months ago, but no signs had gone up they went up the following morning).

Council took no action on a request by the Utilities Commission that rental of hydrants be doubled, to $100 each per year.

"What does the PUC think we are made of, money?" inquired Councillor Bird.

Civic Dinner After Inaugural Dispensed With

Belleville's 1960 council will forego the customary civic banquet following the inaugural meeting of the new body in January.

This was one of the decisions coming out of the first council meeting of the 1960 city fathers called yesterday afternoon by Mayor-elect A. McLean Haig.

The whole dinner was a fairly expensive affair and we decided to dispense with it," retired Mayor-elect Haig.

Another matter agreed at the meeting was that a permanent city treasurer should be hired as soon as possible and that two committees his been set up to screen applicants for the position. Him, members of the special committee are 1960 Aldermen Walter Hall, Jack Peters, Ross Ireland, Robert Temple and Ceased Wannamaker.

Mayor-elect Haig said that interim appointment of a city treasurer was impersitive (and that if the special committee failed to agree with a recommendation a special meeting of the 1960 council would be undertaken to deal with the matter before the year end.

Approximately 25 applications have been received for the office of city treasurer and he said ly more than this number have been receiving for the office of city manager.

Ladies Day Out Program at Y Is Concluded

The fall schedule of the YMCA "Ladies' Day Out" program was concluded this week with a boost in attendance looking forward to the commencement of the next series starting in the New Year.

Tuesday's meeting was highlighted by two speakers, Harriet Sleeman, who spoke on the United Nations and work of women in the United Nations, and Mrs. Willett Barber who demonstrated the preparation of Christmas meals.

The last week fall "Ladies' Day Out" program has been attended by an enthusiastic group of Belleville women who have voiced their appreciation of the series. Inquiries regarding the next series of activities should be directed to the YMCA.

Moira River Conservation Authority Hears Reports

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority heard a review of the year's activities Wednesday at the final full Authority meeting of the year held at the Canadian township hall.

The various committee chairmen presented reports of the work carried on by their departments during the year and gave approval for a 1960 budget of $29,792. Of this amount $15,988 would be levied against the participating municipalities in the Authority. The proposed budget is just over $2,000 more than that for 1959.

The year's financial statement given by Authority secretary-treasurer Michael Chubb showed a general conservation activities deficit of $489, while due to a decrease in the land reforestation account a surplus of $3,396 was shown for the department.

Owing to circumstances resulting in an unexpected surplus in the reforestation budget an amount of $1,000 was transferred from this account to assist in the paving of the parking lot on which the Lindham Lake dam is situated, while yesterday a further $1,000 approved for transfer to cover repair costs at the Lindham Lake dam.

Yesterday's full Authority meeting was held following the morning meetings of the Authority executive and advisory boards. Preliminary to the business of hearing committee reports the meeting was addressed by Cecil Hlusser urging support of the employment service winter works program.

The Quinte Field Naturalists Club forwarded a cheque for $25 to assist in the work of the Authority.

Reforestation advisory board chairman C. C. Graham of Tweed, spoke that a result of the announced change in policy of the importance of lands and forests in terms of leasing loans moneys which had previously been given by the Authority as grants, there had been few land purchases made.

As result his department had been an unexpected surplus.

He noted that cheques coming from the department were still being issued at least despite assurance from department officials that there would be no further reforestation agreements stating department assistance would be by way of grant, would still be honored.

Later in the meeting the Authority voted to accept the cheque but directed that a covering letter be forwarded to the department pointing out the Authority's position.

Mr. Graham strongly recommended more private planting stating that this would serve to help the water level in the valley and shed.

Dennis Tieman, forester with the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed, also touched on the need for more private planting and outlined regulations for cutting on Authority plantations when done by private interests.

He noted that due to the shallowness of the soil covering in much of the watershed, experiments were being conducted to determine the best type of trees for reforestation.

He also noted a survey of crown lands in the area had indicated that in some cases what had been thought to be crown land actually belonged to the townships. He suggested that the Authority might acquire such properties for replanting.

George Wishart reported on the work of the water control advisory board, noting that in the purchase of the Lingham Lake dam, the Authority had acquired substantial reservoir at very little cost.

He also told of flood warning plans prepared by the Authority last spring and of the action taken when pollution of Moira River waters developed last last summer. As result Canadian Canners at Foxboro and also the Foxboro cheese factory had agreed to install the necessary facilities which would preclude the possibility of pollution again developing.

Should the Authority had requested the department in Toronto to have the sanitation installations mandatory but as yet had not received an answer.

The Authority accepted the engineer's report on the proposed construction of temporary dams at the outlet of Stoco Lake with these being referred to the municipalities concerned. The dams would raise the water level of Stoco Lake by almost two feet and maintain it during the summer season.

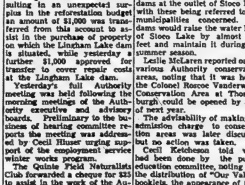
Leslie McLaren reported on the various Authority conservation projects, noting that it was hoped the Colonel Rooce Vanderwater Conservation Area on Thomasburgh could be opened by July of next year.

The advisability of making an admission charge to conservation areas was later discussed but no action was taken.

Cecil Ketcheson told what had been done by the public education committee, noting that the distribution of "Our Valley" booklets, the appearance of field officer Michael Chubb at speaking engagements and tours by school children, were publicity in the work of the Authority. Authority activities also received publicity through the press and radio he said.

For the future he recommended the publication of a special booklet outlining the history of the Authority since its inception.

The soil and water advisory committee's report was given by Bernard Hunt.



A visitor at the meeting was Mrs. J. Nornabell, chairman of the Ontonabee Conservation Authority which was formed at the first of the year. Mrs. Nornabell said she was very grateful at the opportunity of attending the Moira meeting, and thanked the facts she learned would be of great assistance to the Authority.

Also briefly attending the meeting was Mayor-elect A. McLeod Hall, who said that he was vitally interested in the work of the Authority.

Authority chairman Bruce Smith was named Chief Officer of the Authority and the appointment of a chief officer was made necessary by the resignation of Mr. A. H. Richardson of the department of planning and development.

Friends Fete Couple on 40th Anniversary

STIRLING — Neighbors and friends at the eastern end of Stirling, together with scores of relatives, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance, Mill Street, on Friday evening, December 4, on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

A color carnivarl preceded the party when the group enjoyed a serenade on musical contraptions.

The party was complete surprise as Mr. and Mrs. Vance celebrated their wedding anniversary on the exact date in November and at that time they were dinner guests at a family party which was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Sheridan, and Mr. Sheridan.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher was master of ceremonies for the party and all enjoyed a singsong.

Miss Barbara Ray sang a solo, Mrs. Allen Fletcher played a musical selection. Appropriate reading were given by Mrs. Harvey Pitcher, Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Mrs. George Hagerty, and others.

The group enjoyed a couple of games. Several folk gave brief addresses of appreciation and congratulation to the honored couple.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher read an appropriate address and Mrs. Hector Eggleton and Mrs. Lorne Wilson made the presentation of a lovely step-table.

The recipients expressed their thanks for the party and gifts after which refreshments were served and a social hall hour enjoyed.

Formal Approval Given Bill on Dumping of Fill

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority at a one-day gave formal approval to a list of regulations governing the dumping of fill in the Moira River and its tributary waters.

Before the regulations go into effect, however, they will go to Toronto with a request for approval by the Ontario government.

The regulations would rule out the dumping of fill of any kind in any area below the high water mark at any river or stream in the watershed without first obtaining a written permit from the Conservation Authority. The regulations would permit fill to dump fill in the river will call for a plan showing the location and the purpose of the proposed fill.

Penalty of up to $1,000 for anyone convicted of contravention of the regulations is provided.

Authority approval of the fill dumping regulations was given Wednesday at a full meeting of the Authority held at Canifton, after presentation by George Wishart, chairman of the water control advisory board.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Councillor W. H. Bradshaw, chairman of the sanitation and waste committee reported to council on Tuesday night that water and sewer mains P. ' have installed on the south section of Elizabeth Street at the end of $1,900.00, which was $900.00 lower than the original estimate. Installation of sewer facilities on the north side of the street will be carried on as a winter works project, it is expected.

Miss Marion Baker, secretary of the Board of Parks' Management, had written to the city council that the board could supply about three wrecker work for four men clearing the north side of Mount Pelion of stumps and unwanted trees as part of the winter works project. The board made the condition that the work would have to be carried on during periods when operated by climatic conditions. As heavy equipment would have to be used in Hanna Park, Miss Baker said that the board did not consider it feasible to attempt work in this area during the winter.

Council resolved to request the Public Utilities Commission to install a light on Victoria Road between McGill and Wragge Streets.

E. Kellar, of 10, Elizabeth Street, had written to council to ask some consideration be given to his water line and fittings which had frozen up. It was observed organized by the firm of Mr. Kellar working for the town. Councillor Lloyd Worrell asked if Defense might not be covered by public liability insurance, and it was decided to refer the matter to Mr. Defense for investigation.

O. W. Leary, clerk-treasurer reported a complaint that three applications had been received for building lots on Bowen engineer, which was left vacant by Mr. Bowen when E. C. Alderney left town to take a position in Barrie. However, Mr. Leary said that two of the applications had since lost interest. It was decided to advertise again for applicants to ensure council of a wider choice in the matter.

It was decided to notify Dr. J. Farley and the Catholic Church representatives that in future if their sidewalks were cleaned by town workmen, they would be charged for the service, as the walks, while part of the town's public thoroughfare, rejoins the private property of the persons concerned.

Mr. Leary informed the council that the engineer for the town, drawn up by the Municipal Planning Board, and Professor Alan Armstrong, had arrived, and would be presented to the first meeting of the new year of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board for suggestions and consideration. The engineer will be present at the meeting of the board when the adoption of this plan, committee of adjustment will be appointed by the board.

P.M. Conference Likely Held In London

LONDON (CP)—The next conference of Commonwealth prime ministers now is regarded as the most certain to be held in London in the first half of May, it was learned today.

Nothing has been finally fixed but indications are that the premiers will open their ninth postwar conference May 3 or 4, they would probably be in consultation about a week or 10 days.

The last prime ministers' conference was held here June 26-July 5, 1957.

Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand said a month ago, on leaving for home after a London visit, that he hoped to be back here by May 1. Soon after then the prime ministers have been jostling with dates that will fit into the emerging "Macro Polo" pattern of diplomacy, and it looks as though the first two weeks of May fit the bill.

SUMMIT IN APRIL?

British ministers, meanwhile, are hoping that the East-West summit conference will be fixed for the second half of April. They are likely to take a firm stand on the matter, as Prime Minister Macmillan has already made plain that he is not happy over President de Gaulle's resistance to an early summit meeting.

If the Commonwealth premiers meet early in May as expected, this might mean that de Gaulle's proposed visit to North America might be postponed until late in May. No dates have been announced. The French president is to visit London in April, and Premier Nikita Khrushchev is to spend two weeks in France during March.

President Eisenhower's visit to Russia will probably be in May or June.

topics discussed by the twotatesmen. They were alone throughout their meeting.

Eisenhower met with Nehru and 48 guests in a shady corner of the palatial residence of President Prasad where the president has a luxurious suite.

Eisenhower's day started early when he placed a floral wreath of 500 roses at the memorial to Mahatma Gandhi and made a visit to President Prasad. Photographers almost mobbed him on both occasions and officials struggled to hold three feet of the two presidents.

Scores of photographers were crowded on vantage points when Eisenhower visited Gandhi's memorial and planted a seven-foot sapling of California bush flannel in the park.

NEHRU'S LISTENERS

Nehru was among the listeners as Eisenhower spoke from the stage in the cream-colored Parliament Building.

"I bring to this nation of 400,000,000 the sincere greetings from my own people that they feel the welfare of America is bound up with the welfare of India. America shares with India a deep desire for peace in the world and dignity and peace with justice."

He said the United States "is a nation which shares its unbounded wealth in assisting toward the achievement of mankind's deep, eternal aspirations for peace and freedom."

The president praised India as a nation which has found powerful conviction and whose voice is heard with respect.

He said that 10 years had passed since Nehru became prime minister and said India stands as a triumph in the world of today.

INSPIRES HUMANITY

"India has paced and inspired men on other continents. Let anyone take a map of the world and place on it a flag wherever political stability and high material prejudice been reduced, economic misery at least partially relieved during the last 10 years. He will find evidence in the direction of these flags that the 10 years past may well have been the 10 most fruitful in the aged-filed agitation.

He called for safeguarded disarmament to prevent the world from "stumbling from crisis to crisis place to crisis in madness forever fearful that inevitably some aggression will blaze into global war."

Will Withdraw American Troops From Iceland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department announced today that all American troops will be withdrawn from Iceland. The Navy, Air Force and navy men will remain.

The force to be pulled out consists of an army combat team of about 2,000 men.

The seven troops will be redeployed during the first six months of 1960.

"Army units stationed in the United States will continue to maintain their readiness for immediate deployment to Iceland in case of emergency," the headquarters said.

Public Reaction to U. of T. Plan

A few months ago the National Fund for the University of Toronto in Association with the Federated Arts Colleges needed information about public attitudes as an aid to planning the financial appeal launched last month. The directors of the fund hired a public opinion survey firm. At the last moment room was found on the ballot for one unrelated section and it was decided to get the public reaction to the University's student aid plan, proposed a year ago. The President's Advisory Committee on Student Aid at that time recommended that Ontario students receiving and maintaining first class standing should pay no fees at Ontario universities and should also receive bursary help where needed. The Committee also recommended that students receiving second class honors should get bursary help if needed. No help was recommended for students in lower categories.

The happy accident by which the opinion of the public was obtained on these proposals during the course of a survey primarily concerned with other attitudes now provides us with some interesting, and puzzling, statistics.

Of the general public 85 per cent agree that Class A students should be assured of an opportunity to go to university regardless of financial circumstances, 70 per cent favor similar opportunity for Class B students and only 33 per cent favor such aid for all students. While all persons questioned apparently were able to reach a definite opinion about the case of Class A students, with 15 per cent opposed, there appears to have been a large number of persons unprepared to give an answer to the questions regarding help for other students, with only 15 per cent opposed to aid for Class B students and only 37 per cent opposed to aid for all students, which leaves a total 15 per cent of those questioned apparently had no answer with respect to aid for Class B students and 30 per cent were uncommitted with respect to aid for all students.

These figures, interesting in themselves, are made even more so when compared with the opinion of University of Toronto graduates. Support for the plan was less pronounced amongst graduates than amongst the general public. While 85 per cent of the general public favored aid for Class A students, only 81 per cent of graduates were in favor of aid for given names, such as "Chas.," "Jos.," and "Wm."

Hard to Alter Normal Diet

Hamilton Spectator

It might surprise some people to learn that when Canada gives aid in the form of wheat it is not always welcomed even by hungry people. Several Asian countries where rice has been the staple food for many centuries a sudden change to wheat is almost impossible for many individuals.

"My wife and children just can't get used to it, manage it but they have to have rice", a young Ceylonese in East Pakistan told a reporter.

This may seem like overdramatizing the case, to display an intolerable whim. It is not so. Rice, it has been said, is appreciated by far the greatest part of food eaten. To change to more varied diet would be a cruel food that are more easily cultivated will be left to the more reckless Asian government face. It is difficult.

In 1943, at the height of the war, when rice could not be imported because of shipping space, Siam and railways were so choked with traffic that food could not be moved in quantity for civilians, there was a terrible famine in East Bengal — now East Pakistan.

Thousands were dying of starvation but oddly enough, there

Fear Makes Policemen Act Tough

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Tough women who are interested in "the dance" tend to be either more neurotic and self-centered than young women who are merely interested in "dancing."

If something could be done to make popular and fashionable the use of pacifiers and baby-bottle nipples by adults, the rate of smoking would be cut by more than half.

One of the most common forms of blasphemy is to ask God to do what man should do.

Fear breeds brutality: American policemen, who are no much tougher than their European counterparts because they fear that any display of softness on their part will inflame the viciousness of criminals — and this fear is so deep in them that they often, unconsciously, extend this attitude to ordinary citizens.

The pen may be a mighty offensive instrument, but it is a bad defensive one; for no man looks good defending himself in print.

Some people who cannot believe in God at all suggest that "love of humanity" is enough for them; but it is impossible to love humanity unless we can detect some transcendent spirit hidden in the best and worst of personality. Mere humanism, as the Nazis and Russian revolutions, always ends in inhuman behavior.

The role of the ordinary man in politics was neatly defined by Lord Balfour, when he said that "ignorance makes most men go into a party, and shame keeps them from getting out of it."

Husbands are the first to laugh at the ridiculous gyrations of women's fashions — but also the first to rush to the aid of their wives look dowdy or unfashionable.

Nobody can teach anybody else a "style" of writing, and anyone who attempts to do so is a downright fraud; style proceeds from personality, and the idea that another person sees when it most attempts to conceal him by imitation or artifice.

Among the most abominable bad arrangements we have for given names, such as "Chas.," "Jos.," and "Wm."

We cannot call ourselves objective until we learn to subject our product to the test of the scientific method of investigation: that is, trying unsuccessfully to see to which ways their contradictories may be true. — Science

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 10th, 1939

Victoria Avenue Baptist Sunday School presented their annual Christmas entertainment on Friday evening before a capacity audience. The little folk were especially interesting and the recitations and songs were given with clear enunciation. Much credit is due to Miss Dorothy Eastman, Miss Mary Cook, Miss Dorothy Boyle and Miss C. Hitchon for the praiseworthy manner in which the juniors and beginners handled their lines. The tots drill by Mrs. J. Lloyd's class, the musical pantomime by Miss E. Jones' class, the carol "Christmas for Children" by Miss Dorothy Eastman's class, and a pantomime by the class of Miss E. Looker were all very beautiful and interesting. The story of the nativity, told in pageant under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Lloyd was thoroughly enjoyed. Singing by Misses Marjorie Perrine and Anna Hogle and Miss Edna Johcox was very effective.

Pastor E. N. O. Kulbeck left early today to attend important engagements in New England. Mr. Kulbeck speaks at Hartford, Conn. on Sunday morning and in Springfield, Mass., Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. E. Babcock of Oshawa and Mrs. E. Jackson of Belleville are the guests of Mrs. Mae Rundle, Bridge street. Oshawa who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Alex Boyd of Marmora, for some time.

The War Work Committee of the local Red Cross Society headquarters this week, hospital gown, 30 suits of pajamas, 25 pneumonia jackets, 20 bandages including triangular bandages, 7 abdominal and binder bandages, 18 pullovers, 56 pair of socks. The Committee also thanks all organizations and individuals for splendid support, the Women's Institute, Women's League and the Women of the Mosque for donations of quantities of materials, and the "Neighborhood Ladies' Aid of the Bridge street A.M.E. Church.

A Chinese grocery has been opened in this city in rooms on Front street, in the Hess Block, north of the brewery. Tang Sang Lung is the proprietor and he handles only Chinese goods. He came here from Brantford where he was in business for six years.

Mrs. Scott Cockburn and Miss Margaret Cockburn of Hamilton are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goudy, Foster Avenue.

The annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Bible Society was held in the school room at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the chair was occupied by the Rev. A. M. Bialy of Emmanuel Church, the president of the branch. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President — E. R. McBride; Vice President — T. W. Mumford; Secretary — John W. Cook; Treasurer — Rev. A. C. Green.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Alien Colleges it was decided to proceed with the building of the new college now on the property donated by the City of Belleville. The following were appointed to compose the building committee: C. M. Reid, W. B. Deacon, E. E. Walmsley, F. E. O'Flynn, H. W. Ackerman, R. J. Graham, W. C. Bailey, J. R. Conboy, B. N. Davis, W. H. Hooper, B. F. Ackerman, Rev. Geo. Gibbard and Judge Deroche.

A church hockey league in Belleville is projected. The idea is a good one; it has proved successful in many places Get together, boys.

Merchants state that business on Saturday was brisk.

It is expected that turkeys will reach a price of 18 cents per pound before Christmas.

No candidates for aldermanic honors are yet in the field.

Belleville Market Prices: butter 25 cents to 27 cents per pound; eggs 40 cents per dozen; chickens 60 cents to $1.00 per pair; ducks $1.00 to $1.50 per pair; potatoes 40 cents to 50 cents per bag.

delinquency, although undoubtedly it is often a major factor.

Probably the greatest cause of juvenile delinquency is the overcrowding together of people in huge masses. The youngsters have nowhere to play except on the street. This means that a large percentage of the city's teen-ager can easily become the leaders of a group of which either persuade or compel well-behaved boys to join. This is a broad land of ours, and we cannot herd people together like cattle in stockyards and expect to like human beings.

Not a large percentage of our population falls victim of juvenile delinquency, but a sufficient number to infect exists everywhere and poisons the life of our nation.

Men to Live For 150 Years

Montreal Gazette

A Russian expert has predicted that, at present rates of progress, the average life span will have reached to between 150 and 200 years. The prospect raises several intriguing questions.

The world will not, of course, be able to cope with many of the new class of 150-year-olds until long after the twenty-first century has ended but it will undoubtedly be up to the twenty-first century's earliest years to get accustomed to the idea of having to live a long, long time.

It is, indeed, tempting to ask just what the teen-agers of those days will be like, and particularly what they will be saying about those 150-year-olds who come to their parties. Will 50, 60 or more of them a trifle less incredibly old than it does now? Will grandparents be?

Will the new conditions give rise to a new kind of generation gripings, who should habitually gripe about the life and treatment of their seniors.

The prospect is considerable number of persons whose memories go back so far might well be a problem. Psychoanalysis, change in the methods of accumulating information about the past. Reminiscences might to some extent displace biological research. But the events of the previous century and a half, on the other hand, might become such a certain rather alarming extent — think how long grandchildren could go on fighting their battles over again in print!

Perhaps even the history will have less importance for people who will have lived 150-year mark, already have their eyes fixed on the next extinction — to 250.

For there can be no stagnation. The world would not be tenured — with apologies to Mr. Wilson — "forward to Methuselah."

Switchboard Made Simple

Fort William Times-Journal

If as many business and industrial undertakings can count their telephone calls by the thousand, switchboard operators are becoming more and more overworked, handling more calls and wrong numbers.

But all that may end soon. A switchboard which, within the limitations of time, "hears" or "sees" or think for itself, has made its appearance.

Perhaps even better, one of Britain's major electrical research and manufacturing companies, has perfected a switchboard at which the operator will receive no "hears" at all. Instead of cords and plugs and several hundred little holes (to say nothing of switches, blinking lights and buzzers) the machine has a press-button finger control which sets up the connection between the operator to the caller.

No doubt switchboard girls the world over will welcome the new machine.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DON'T CONNECT CAUSE AND EFFECT UNLESS THEY ARE RELATED

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've had migraine headaches for years, and not long ago had tests showing that I am allergic to wheat. I forgot to mention this when I had my polio shots. The first one didn't bother me, but with the second I was sick for four days, like having the flue with chilling spells and a headache that lasted about a month. — S. S."

There is no sign of polio vaccine; the only thing likely to cause allergic reactions of a very small amount of penicillin. To be on the safe side, however, you know they are allergic to penicillin should warn the doctor who gives you your polio vaccine which does not contain penicillin.

To get back to your case, one of the easiest ways to make a mistake — either in medicine or any other field — is to connect a cause and an effect which don't really belong to each other.

It is quite possible for vaccine to be given at a time when the patient, without knowing it, is coming down with the flu or some other malady.

Indeed, for that matter it is possible that the vaccine was even unknowingly have been exposed to polio. In such a case possible that the flu-like symptoms may occur after the vaccine has been given, although these symptoms are far less severe than a full-blown case of polio.

Thus I can say that there is no connection between your polio shot and your headache and chills, but the odds are very long that something else was going on. With millions of injections, the Salk polio vaccine has proved to be the safest of all immunizations from the standpoint of unpleasant reactions.

One other thing ought to be considered in your case, anyway, and that is your migraine headaches. I'd have some further questions to answer to get started. A laboratory test of the smear will show whether ab-normal cells are present, that we were.

warning of an incipient cancer far earlier than it can be detected in any other type of examination. As you know, early cancer is the most important aspect of cancer treatment, so Dr. Papanicolaou did a great service in developing his test.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you tell, in your column, who invented or developed the artificial heart? I have it eyes been used in an Cincinnati hospital! — J. K."

Doctors dreamed of an artificial heart for years, but it was only in this decade that the first successful one was used in an operation by Dr. F. Dewey Dodrill, in Detroit. He worked out what he wanted it to do, and some General Motors research engineers helped create the machine itself. Since then others have been constantly simplifying and improving "mechanical hearts." I can't give you chapter and verse, but I feel sure that a city as important medically as Cincinnati has one or more of these hearts in its hospitals.

"Dear Dr. Those little broken blood vessels in the face are not dangerous, but do let one regularly little or nothing you can do about them .They are not dangerous.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped. To learn how, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 4866, Chicago 77, Illinois. Requesting my pamphlet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

New Machine Produces Art

Winnipeg Tribune

Some of us have watched the relentless march of machines and electronic brains without alarm because there were, we thought, things a machine couldn't do. Paint a picture, for instance.

But a machine has been developed which will turn out a painting to suit your mood. You feed a coin in a slot, wiggle a few levers, the machine goes into action and out drops an original painting. Jean Tinguely, a Paris painter, has certified that the result is good, art.

We still think a machine can't paint a picture that means anything or write a book or solve a joke. But we're not as sure as we were.

"WORDS TO LIVE BY"

I have a little book, published by Simon and Schuster several years ago entitled "Words to Live By." Everything in the little book is most uplifting. You can't read a page without being inspired.

Had I been asked to make a contribution to this book it would have been this: "Let not your heart be troubled." Those words of admonition given out by Christ to His Disciples are one of them comfortable words of the Testament. They are one of them most poignable of hearts that are yet unborn. They are one of them most comfortable again with countless kindred stems for the comfort of mankind — drops of dew and tears and sap, of blood and sweat and tears."

As you battle the traffic tieups of the weeks ahead, some comfort may be found in these words of Harold Watkinson, minister of transport, recently delivered in the British House of Commons.

"Traffic congestion is at least a sign of lively and expanding economy. Do not let us regard it therefore, in too tragic a manner. For it is a byproduct of an advanced technological way of life.

THE EASIEST WAY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The easiest way doesn't lead to fame,
The easiest way doesn't win the game,
For often the hardest way is best,
And thousands journey the easiest way,
Choosing the simplest tasks to do,
They love to dance and they love to play,
But the hardest road is trod by few.

But those who travel the hardest way
Are brave of heart and undismayed,
And they face the trials of today
With hope and courage and undismayed.

And, in the end, the golden goal
Becomes their own—and perfect rest
And upon whose rewards are striving soul;
And with content each life is blest.

The hardest way is long and rough,
Beset with disappointments, too,
But the man who is made of proper stuff
Elects to fight with the noble few,

Elliot Lake P.S. Board Accused Of Stalling

TORONTO (CP) — The Elliot Lake public school board was accused Wednesday night of stalling in its dealings with teachers who have handed in end-of-the-year resignations.

The board says it hasn't been told of the reasons for the 43 resignations.

Wigston Davies, secretary of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, said this is nonsense.

"They (the board) have been negotiating with us and they have been told their offer is not satisfactory. They know what the trouble is, but that's the kind of stalling we get."

The dispute came into the open Nov. 30 when 43 of 58 teachers in five schools tendered their resignations, effective Dec. 31, after negotiations failed to produce a satisfactory salary level. The negotiations have been going on for more than a year.

ON GREY LIST

The resignations would leave about 1,800 children without teachers. The men teachers' group and the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, put the board on the grey list Nov. 26.

The grey list amounts to virtual boycott of a school system that fails to reach agreement with the teachers in salary negotiations. It is the public school teachers' equivalent of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation pink list, and gets its name from the color of paper used in a letter to teachers informing them of the dispute.

The letter does not try to forbid teachers working for a struck board, but says that those who accept such jobs will not get federation support in salary negotiations or professional difficulties.

TACTIC UNDER FIRE

Complaining the Elliot Lake dispute is a feeling by some school trustees that the teachers have violated a five - year - old agreement not to use mass resignations at Christmas as a tactic in salary negotiations. Contracts between school boards and teachers permit them to resign only on Dec. 21 and June 30.

Teachers' federation officials say they did all they could to discourage the mass resignation by the Elliot Lake teachers.

What would happen if the teachers and trustees can't come to terms?

"There'll be a settlement," said Mr. Davies. "The schools will open Jan. 4 without any fuss."

Mentally Retarded Infants Getting Dolls From Brownies

This Christmas will undoubtedly be a more merry one for the children in the Home for Mentally Retarded Infants at Plainfield thanks to the efforts of a number of Brownies from the 18th Belleville Brownie Pack. The Brownies have been quite busy over the past ten weeks making clown dolls for the children at Plainfield.

The dolls have been made from circles cut from cloth and sewn together to form a many-hued body with arms, and legs, made from the same. The heads have been stuffed and clowns' hats and bells complete the ensemble. Fifteen clowns were made in all by 13 Brownies with the assistance of 10 other Brownies when the latter applied the Brownies' motto of "Lend a Hand", when not occupied with other duties.

These weeding in the project included Pamela Conley, Betty Bannon, Barbara Allin, Jeane McKenna, Cathy Palmer, Brenda Lee Rodgers, Susan Robinson, Lynda Salisbury, Sharon Laney, Linda Boiyea, Beverley Heasman, Joan Gray and Sandra Gore. Assisting them were Karen Dervella, Carolyn Gray, Wendy Green, Suzanne Hopwood - Jones, Kathy May, Betty Reid, Karen Rolston, Linda Waters, Diane Watson and Diane Wheeler.

A presentation was made yesterday evening at the Parkdale Community Centre of these dolls to Mr. D. S. Allan of the home at Plainfield.

Track Operator Interested in Building Park

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Louis Levesque, Montreal harness race track operator, says he is interested in building a stadium as a first step towards getting Montreal into the new Continental Baseball League.

Levesque, head of the corporation operating Montreal's Blue Bonnets Raceway and Richelieu Park, said he is to meet Continental League president Branch Rickey soon.

Plans call for the stadium to be built on the Blue Bonnets site in the city's north end.

"Engineers have assured me there is room for both a stadium and a racing plant," Levesque said.

"At the moment we are interested only in learning the feasibility of such an undertaking. From early reports it looks promising."

A three - man syndicate last month announced plans were being considered for a $24,000,000 stadium in suburban Ville St. Laurent. A sports centre for the city's east end has also been discussed.

PANIC KILLS 10

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — A power line snapped and fell into a Roman Catholic congregation attending mass on a hillside near here Tuesday. In the panic that overlook the crowd of several thousand, 10 persons, including two children, were killed and about 100 were injured. Authorities said the wire fell clear of the crowd and panic caused all the deaths and injuries.

Wedding

CAIN — TERASHEK

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on Saturday, November 28, at 10 a.m. in the Church of St. James the Minor, Stirling, when the Reverend J. F. O'Neill united in marriage, Doreen Alice eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terashek of Belleville, to John James Cain, son of Mrs. Mary Cain of Foxboro, and the late Mr. Cain.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a bridal gown of white silk taffeta and lace featuring a fitted bodice having a deep V neckline, and long sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held by a matching headdress accented with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Jones of Trenton, who was gowned in light blue brocaded nylon with matching picture hat and gloves. She carried a bouquet of white "mums."

Mrs. Frank Long rendered the wedding music.

The reception was attended by his brother, Mr. Murtagh Cain and the groom were ushered in by Mr. Earl Meyers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Sterling Hotel, Stirling.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Hamilton and other western points, the bride travelled in a light blue ensemble with matching accessories.

They will reside in Belleville.

All Business When Picking Horse Says Lady Trainer

By TOM WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Womanly intuition takes a back seat when it comes to choosing racing thoroughbreds, says Mrs. Wilma Kennedy, one of North America's few full-time women trainers of thoroughbreds.

"I'm all business when picking a horse," she said in an interview. "Everybody in the stable area treats me naturally—just as though I was one of the boys.

"Of course I have to like the horse before I buy him," she said on a recent visit to the 30-acre Kennedy farm in suburban Charleswood. "But the attraction is in the animal's conformation, pedigree and temperament, not in its color or anything like that."

30 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Kennedy's appraisals of horseflesh are based on 30 years of racing experience—10 as a full-time trainer. Her love for horses dates back to her childhood in Winnipeg.

"My parents were great horse lovers and I grew up in an atmosphere of horse shows and riding classes. I was the kind who went around the barn feeding carrots to her horses."

When she married Dan J. Kennedy, operator of a wholesale dry goods business and sportswear firm, 24 years ago, they kept their horses.

The year before the birth of their son, Louie, now 20, they bred one of their mares and entered the racing business.

Their first 10 years were marked with success. Included in the Kennedy stable were Tycermo, Canadian Derby winner in 1946, and Beau Dandy, who won the Canadian Championship Stakes in 1952.

INTERESTED OWNER

"We had our own trainer at that time, but I was an interested owner, eh?" Mrs. Kennedy said. "I was at the track trying to learn more about horses whenever I had a free moment."

She demands that her staff maintain a neat and clean appearance, both in the stables and personal dress. "There's no excuse for most of the sloppiness you see around some tracks," she remarked.

Mrs. Kennedy operates a 12-horse stable with her partner, Trainer Veale II of Cleveland.

"I like to get my horses before they're broken so that I can educate them myself. I try to treat each animal as an individual, according to his personality and ability."

She said she was wary of buying big yearlings. "I prefer the medium-sized animal, with an intelligent though not necessarily beautiful head. Large yearlings tend to have leg trouble and are slower to develop."

PRIDE OF STABLE

A prime example of her selection and training methods is Vital Force, a two-year-old bay gelding which currently heads the list of animals in the Kennedy - Vale stable.

Since she bought Vital Force for $10,200 last year, the gelding has won several top stake races, including the $129,000 World's Playground Stakes at Atlantic City, N.J. last September. His total earnings already are around $170,000.

"He's really my kind of horse," says Mrs. Kennedy. "I would have bought him on sight."

However, she first became interested in the gelding through his full sister, Little Kid, a successful member of the Kennedy-Veale stable.

"She was a real bargain, so to talk of."

naturally when her full brother was up for sale. I went back for more."

Mrs. Kennedy currently has her horses at Santa Anita, Calif., for the winter season. Among them is an 11-year-old gelding Pampartic, recently purchased and as yet untried on North American tracks. She said she will save him for the "grand" races at Santa Anita, later this winter.

During her tours of the racing circuits, Mrs. Kennedy's lone companion is a toy poodle, called Toonie. Mr. Kennedy is forced to remain in Winnipeg due to pressure of business.

"I'm too busy to get lonesome," she said. "And there are always a lot of people around the track

Holloway St. E.A. Elects New Officers

The Evening Auxiliary of the Holloway Street United Church met on Wednesday evening in the church parlors with 25 present. The president, Marjorie Miller, opened the meeting by extending a welcome to all visitors and members.

A bowling party is planned later this month.

The officers for 1960 are as follows: president, Rosalyn Hall; vice-president, Marion Dorsee; secretary, Mary White; treasurer — Enfields Veder; social fund treasurer — Marion Scott; telephone committee — Leona Morton and Helen Hawley; card and flower convener — Dorothy Crighard; membership and friendship secretaries — Mrs. Coleman and Merna Richardson; supply secretary — Dorothy Craighead; stewardship secretary — Doreen Carlisle; reporter — Dorothy Craighead.

A candle lighting service was conducted by Marjorie Miller and Jean Campbell followed by the Christmas story on a record.

Refreshments were served with a lovely solo accompanied by Beverly Rigo. Refreshments closed an enjoyable evening.

Huntingdon Church Holds W. Gift Service

IVANHOE — A white gift service was held on Sunday afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon. The service was conducted by the Rev. K. Rooney.

"Come To The Manger" was presented by the children with Mrs. Barton Haggerty as narrator. There was a manger scene and the children were in colorful costumes. Among the cast were: Mary — Nancy Farley; 3 Kings — Jimmy Haggerty, Gary Thornton and Jack Donnan; Shepherds — James Farley, Gordon and Billy Reid and Russell Donnan; Angels — Janet Ann Donnan, Cheryl Haggerty, Patsy Brown and Barbara Hassall.

Several carols were sung by the choir.

The gifts were sent to The Salt Mission, Toronto.

Mr., Mrs. Clifton Ellis Mark 40 Years of Married Life

Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Ellis, 7 Miller Street, were pleasantly surprised when a group of relatives and friends dropped in to help them to honor them on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary, with home blessing.

The evening was spent in a social manner, with the singing of old-time hymns, and enjoying music played by Miss Marion Cournoyea of Hillier.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis were escorted to seats of honor, and an address on behalf of those present was read expressing the esteem in which the honored couple were held and wishing them many more anniversaries together.

Following the address Mrs. Marjorie Cournoyea and Sharon Ellis presented an electric blanket and overnight suitcase to the happy couple, for which appreciative thanks were expressed by the bride and bridegroom of forty years, as well as for the several other gifts which they received.

Bounteous refreshments, including a beautifully decorated anniversary cake, which was made by Mrs. Ellis' sister, Mrs. Earl Burtis, was also enjoyed.

Front Road W.A. Elects 1960 Officers

The December meeting of the Front Road W. A. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Brown with a goodly number present.

The president, Mrs. McMullen, opened the meeting in the usual way and the carol "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and a prayer. She thanked the members for attending and welcomed the visitors.

A portion of the business was transacted.

Mrs. Roy Clazie took charge of program opening with the carol "Noel-Noel." Mrs. T. Brown read Scripture from "St. Luke in every form unfilled, The Story That Never Grows Old." Mrs. Clazie read "The Story Retold" reminding all that it takes love, kindness, friendship, and service to live as Christ wishes. He never forgets.

Mrs. Gedden Bradshaw gave a poem, "Christ Means to You," recalling that Christ as Saviour is ever present at all times.

Miss Lois Bradshaw told of the story of "Wiseman," bringing the gifts for the new born babe and the fourth bringing the precious pearl.

"Symbols of Christmas" was read by Mrs. Roy Clazie, stressing "The Tree" having the significance of Christ's birth; "The First Christmas," told by Mrs. Clifford Reid, of that day 2,000 years ago. Then Mrs. Fred Pope, ring Palestine and there being no room in the inn" and the birth of baby Jesus in the stable.

A contest quiz on Christmas carols, conducted by Mrs. Reid, she made everyone do some thinking. Mrs. W. Bradshaw won the favors. A prayer by Mrs. Preston closed the devotional period.

Mrs. McMullen took over the remainder of the meeting. The roll call, an exchange of Christmas gifts caused some excitement as everyone received a nice gift.

This being the annual meeting, Mrs. McMullen thanked the members for their co-operation during the past years and asked the Rev. W. E. G. Dorey to take charge of the election of officers as follows: president — Mrs. E. Preston; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Clifford Reid; 2nd president — Mrs. Fred Pope; assistant-treasurer — Mrs. Roy Clazie; pianist — Mrs. H. McMullen; card convener — Mrs. Clavin Brown; sick convener — Mrs. Don Bradshaw.

The new officers were installed and wished well in their new field of work with the Rev. Dorey.

Mrs. Brown was given hearty

Turkey Dinner Marks 60th Anniversary

ROSEHARIE — Mr. and Mrs. William McWilliam entertained on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiniss Parks and girls in honor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McWilliam, who were celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary.

A turkey dinner was served to 21 guests. Those other than Mr. Charles McWilliam and Mrs. McWilliam, Newburgh, N.Y., were present and Mr. McWilliam's sister, Miss Gertrude McWilliam, Kingston.

Gifts were presented from relatives, friends and all wish Mr. and Mrs. McWilliam many more happy anniversaries.

Cubs, Scouts M.A. Holds Yuletide Meet

The Avondale Cubs and Scouts Mothers' Auxiliary held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Cooke, Wright Ave. last evening.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. D. Cooke.

Mrs. Dave McDonald gave the business report. Mrs. T. Legacey, welfare convener, also reported.

A discussion followed regarding a Christmas party for Cubs which will be catered by the Auxiliary and the group committee.

Mrs. Spence Wonnacott reported that she attended a group committee meeting at the home of Mr. D. Cooke. It was reported that there are 26 Cubs, and 15 Scouts, and that as a special event the troop went on a hike last Saturday to Prospect. It was also decided that the publication "Scout Leader" be provided for all leaders.

There was a game and an exchange of gifts.

A buffet lunch was served. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McPherson, Wright Ave.

A sad note crept into the occasion with the sudden death last evening of Scout Billy Wetlaufer, only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Wetlaufer, Wright Avenue. Mrs. Wetlaufer was past treasurer of the Auxiliary and Mr. Wetlaufer is on the group committee.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart R. Rosenberg

A bargain has recently been reported — a bargain struck between a husband and wife, after long years of trifling and taunting. In response to his wife's protestations over the arduous nature of housework and its assorted menial chores, a husband trades his job with his wife: He will stay home for one week; taking care of the children, the kitchen, the lawn, the marketing, dusting and cleaning, while she is to trot daily to the office to run the factory, hire the help, cajole the customers, and outsmart the competitors. Inevitably, at the week's end, both are tired, and undoubtedly prepared to praise their Maker with psalms of thanksgiving for having made them what they are.

Knowing what we are, recognizing our frailties and our strengths, understanding our functions and our role in life is profoundly important. Consider our role as priests: The most radical revolt of the 20th century has been the home revolution." And this, primarily because of the emancipation of the modern woman. But, frankly, to what purpose some of the fussing and the fuming of the unshackled female? If woman has been freed to do a man's job, who benefits?

We can agree that correction of the past was much required. Women are not chattel, pieces of property, her parents' prior. A new perspective was needed to balance required to assert the woman a more significant place in human affairs. Ironically, however, in modern woman's quest for emancipation, the pendulum has swung to an absurd extreme. Becoming equal to man has made her want to be just like man.

Take our homes as prime example. Man may build a house but it is woman who builds the home. She can transform brick and mortar into a storehouse and more lasting monument — character. If women truly understood their special magic, their happy uniqueness they would begin re-dedicating their quest or freedom to a broader dimension: They would seek the freedom to be themselves.

Women are needed more than ever in our society to be the taste-makers, the soft reliners of our homes. Man will ever be concerned with bread; woman must help him to remember that he doth not live by bread alone. Man will always be concerned with livelihood; woman need, more than ever, remind him about living. Man will seek to gain riches; only woman must become the brake, to teach him that the race is not to the swift.

In a very real way woman is the last hope for man. When she becomes just like a man, she is no better than him. She must become better, if he is to become better.

Mr. and Mrs. William John Sargent are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Holloway Street United Church. The bride is the former Miss Marie Olive McFarlane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durland McFarlane, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sargent of Belleville, R.R. 3. (Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville.)

Wedding

SARGENT — McFARLANE

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, for a very pretty fall wedding when Marie Olive McFarlane of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durland McFarlane, became the bride of William John Sargent, of Belleville, R.R. 3, son of Mr and Mrs. J. W. Sargent. The Rev. C. W. Colemore, B.A., pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Clifford Templer, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. A. Hughes, who rendered "Because," before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer," during the signing of the registar.

The lovely bride, charming in her bridal gown of white satin and Chantilly lace fashioned in Spanish style with long, pointed bodice, and long sheath-like sleeves of Chantilly lace "V"-shaped over the wrists, and full skirt ending in a chapel train, adorned in net and matching lace. She wore a nylon corsolet headdress encircled with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, fingertip veil of embroidered tulle illusion, and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Butterfine roses.

Mrs. Robert Horwood, of Belleville, attended the bride as matron of honor, while Mrs. Ted Bailey, of Belleville, sister of the bride, and Miss Betty Kiser, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned identically in waltz-length daffodil yellow, cinnamon brown, and moss green respectively fashioned with fitted bodices, short sleeveless bodices, and full skirts over nylon taffeta and net, accessorized with contrasting net caps surrounded with large back bows and trailing in beautiful streamers. Feather headbands, nylon mitts and bouquets of asters completed their ensembles. They carried autumn flowers contrasting with their gowns.

Little three-year-old Deborah Kay Riley, niece of the bride, was demure and sweet in her full-length organdy frock, adorned with tiny white daisies, white lace headband, white nylon mitts, and carrying a tiny basket of autumn colored flowers.

The little ring-bearer, Ricky McFarlane, of Forest Mills, Ontario, was held to the couple by the bride, was natty in charcoal trousers, with white flannel blazer.

Mr. Robert Laing, of Belleville, was groomsman, and Messrs. Kenneth Kerr, and Dwayne Reid, both of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was appointed with white decorations and presentation of a wool blanket by the girls of the Bakelite office, and at a presentation by the Bakelite staff when she was the recipient of a beautiful large mirror. The Northern Electric presented the bride-groom with a lamp, smoke and purse of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Sargent are residing at 54 Sydney Street, at the Eastown apartments.

A Royal Red and White Dessert

by Mary Moore

If you have a tall mould — preferably six inches high — today's festooned dessert recipe will gleam quite spectacularly. If you do not plan to serve plum pudding for dessert for Christmas dinner.

It falls for rice cooked in milk, then baked into a soft custard containing gelatine. Whipped cream and chopped candied fruits are then folded in and it is moulded and chilled. The final decorations are quite sensational — so if you do decide to make it for your holiday entertaining you and your guests are in for a treat.

ROYAL RICE MOULD:

(Serves 8 generously).

3-4 cup long grain rice, 2 cups boiling water, 1 1-2 cups milk, grated rind 1 orange, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 2 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 1-4 cups warm milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla (second amount), 1 cup candied fruits, (I used 2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger, 10 tablespoons chopped candied cherries, 1-4 cup chopped candied pineapple — but any such flavorful and colorful combination of candied fruits that you prefer may be used), 2 tablespoons tangerine or orange juice concentrate, 1-3 pint whipping cream plus added whipping cream for decoration, 1-3 cup crabapple or strawberry or red currant jelly, 2 tablespoons tangerine or orange juice concentrate (a second amount), 1-2 cup chopped fruits in 2 tablespoons tangerine or orange juice concentrate (the first amount), Add the boiling water to the rice in a heavy pot and bring to a boil and boil for 2 minutes and drain. Add the milk, salt and vanilla, bring to boil, cover and turn off heat for 5 minutes then turn on heat as low as possible and cook until rice has absorbed all milk and is tender. Meanwhile soak the gelatine in the 1-4 cup cold water. Stir together in top of double boiler the egg yolks, sugar and vanilla, then over hot (not boiling) water gradually stir in the warm milk (second amount) in until mixture thickens somewhat and coats back of spoon thinly. Remove from heat and stir into it the soaked gelatine until dissolved. Let cool to room temperature. Whip the 1-3 pint whipping cream. Fold it and the soaked fruits in the rice-custard mixture. Turn into half 6-cup mould and chill. When you are ready to serve this, loosen edges with knife then dip bottom of mould into hot (not boiling) water and steadily count up to five. Spread your fingers out fan-shaped over top of pudding and bidding bottom with thumbs carefully invert over serving dish. When it served this for dinner when the Farnans were our guests I used my milk glass compote to give the pudding more height. Now beat more whipping cream — about 1-2 cup — and pile on top of pudding. Beat the jelly with a fork. Beat the second amount of tangerine or orange juice concentrate into the jelly and pour carefully over top, controlling the flow so little rivers will flow slowly down sides. Because the pudding is cold this jelly glaze congeals quickly and stays fairly high on the sides of the pudding. Decorate bottom edge with a ring of maraschino cherries — about 12. Delectable and beautiful.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Nora T. — I think the kids are wonderful.

John T. — I don't like what goes on.

Nora T. — My husband and I are in serious disagreement about the rearing of our teenage children. Our daughter Judy is 18 and our son Jack is 17.

I think the kids are wonderful. They are doing well in school and are popular. They date a lot and keep late hours too often, but this is a problem all parents have to contend with in teen-agers. Ours are no worse than the others.

The way my husband talks you'd think the kids were monsters and that they lead disgustible lives. He wants to chaperone them at every step and suspects the worst, whenever he doesn't know where they are. The children resent this and have tried to treat him coldly and disrespectfully. I think it's better to give them freedom and have their confidence.

John T. — I don't see what's so wonderful about our kids. They are healthy and good looking, true. But that's no credit to them. I can't see that they are growing up into worthwhile human beings, in spite of their good basic equipment.

My son Jack hasn't the remotest idea of what he's going to do with his future. All he knows is that he doesn't want to go into business with me and he wants to go to a college that has "class." Judy doesn't know how to scramble an egg, but she talks constantly of marriage.

At the expense of being considered a killjoy and a sour old fuddy duddy, I must say I don't like what goes on at these kiddie parties. And why does my daughter wear more stuff on her skin than her body when she goes out?

The Council: There may be a lot wrong with present-day teen-agers, but there is also a lot right with them and we don't think that much is accomplished by emphasizing the negative and ignoring the positive.

The fact is that in spite of the many advantages given them, today's teenagers do have rather special problems and little guidance from tradition in how to deal with them. The freedom that has come to them as the result of the American emphasis on youth also entails responsibilities, but few adults are capable of fulfilling these responsibilities in specific terms.

We think John's worries about his children may be highly justified, but we are sure he will accomplish little or nothing by his attitude of griping about a lot of things and making no positive demands.

Nora's pooh-poohing of John's opinion doesn't help matters a bit. She seems to take the position that she is siding with the children age'nst her husband. In this way she defends herself against any implied charge that she is not fulfilling her responsibilities as a mother.

Instead of defending the children and herself, thus leaving John up in the air and feeling generally hopeless, Nora would do far better to take a good hard look at things from John's point of view. Certainly his desire to have his son and daughter play their fixtures a little more sensibly deserves some consideration. John and Nora should decide together exactly what they want of the children, in what direction they would like to see changes, and then present their opinion. They should pay heed to the children's reactions to it — without allowing them to destroy the intent of the plan.

Most teenagers respond enthusiastically to a clear-cut challenge but cringe and turn rebellious under criticism and mockery. These are rightly interpreted as unfriendly acts.

Mr. D. Foley was in charge of the discussion.

Thoughtful questions were asked and the discussion was richly rewarding. Mr. O. Griffith described the teacher, not as a glorified heroine, but as ordinary human being with outstanding personality, equipped with the great inspiration created by loving children, and having a deep devotion to their vocation.

Mr. J. Boyle graciously thanked the ladies for the interesting and informative views and conveyed to the teachers the gratitude of the Board. He said "they have teachers in St. Michael's who measure up to all expectations expressed by the panel."

QUESTION BOX

Question: When chops are served with paper frills, are you allowed to pick up the chop bone? How are you supposed to hold a chicken wing or a drumstick? — Mr. T.O.P.

Answer: While we are all agreed that gnawing on a chop bone, chicken wing or drumstick is unseemly, politeness, it is not particularly enjoyable to watch. My advice is: never pick up a chop bone, etc., paper frills or no paper frills, when dining formally or in public. When dining at home, it's up to you.

Question: I am in the throes of addressing my wedding invitations. Do I remove the little tissue placed in each invitation before putting them in the envelope, or should I leave them where they are? — Miss C.F.U.

Answer: The piece of tissue is placed between the folds of the invitation for a purpose. Leave it where it is. Sometimes it is fashionable to smudge and, since it is traditional that a wedding invitation be received in immaculate condition, the little tissue guarantees this.

Question: If someone you know very slightly surprised you with a Christmas gift last year, are you supposed to return in kind this year? The relationship with the giver remains the same. Merely a casual acquaintance. It was very embarrassing last time, and would be worse if the procedure were repeated this year — with no gift forthcoming from the recipient. What to do?

Answer: Send a Christmas card, ahead of time, and place in it a warm sincere greeting for a happy holiday. This should be a hint to the person receiving it that no gift is going to follow up, and he should desist from embarrassing you further. A card is return, and nothing else, would be the best way to handle this.

Question: When addressing wedding invitations, should the full name be written on both the outside and the inside envelopes? There seems to be a difference of opinion regarding this.

Answer: The full names, viz., and Mrs. "John Phillip Doe," are placed on the outer envelope. On the inner envelope, only "Mr. and Mrs. Doe" is necessary, or correct.

BUFFALO ON THE LOOSE — A young buffalo bull recovers from a knock-out injection faster than expected and chases biologist Nick Horokowski over the corral fence for safety during the annual check for disease in Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories. The animal is one of 13,000 who roam the 17,300 square miles of the park, protected from hunters. The park, established in 1922, the park is a haven for 46 varieties of mammals and innumerable species of birds. Only these buffalo are killed in when they total more than 30,000, the number which can adequately be fed on the park's existing grassland. - (CP

Buffalo Mating Season Ends And Animals Now Reforming Into Three Great Herds

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)— The grazing blood stud motionless less like mounds in the waist-high grass of a meadow in Wood Buffalo National Park. The mounds of their munching breaks the early autumn stillness.

A flock of sandhill cranes breaks into the blue from a marsh, their feeding disturbed by the movement of a Chipewyan trapper and his snarer.

The buffalo are alert now. A great bull snorts, sniffs, then seeds his harem into a stand of black spruce.

The 17,300-square-mile park is a river-lined, lake-dotted wilderness of forest, marsh, plain and muskeg that dips from northeastern Alberta into the Northwest Territories.

First fronts have silvered its spruce, jack pine and tamarack but the meadow grass is still lush and the waters ice-free.

The buffalo, their mating season ended, can still be found in isolated groups of bull and harem but gradually these groups are drifting toward one another to reform the three great herds found in the park.

Most of the 200 species of birds in Wood Buffalo are migratory. The whooping crane and the pelican already are flying south.

Millions of ducks and geese have gathered at the immense marshy delta of the Peace and Athabasca Rivers in the south of the park to prepare for their migration.

Other birds—the grouse, ptarmigan, raven—will stay for the long winter.

Most of the 46 mammals also stay the winter, with caribou migrating from the territorial barren to the park.

Trappers like Wandering Spirit, the Chipewyan who disturbed the cranes, are setting their lines for mink-ermine, fox, weasel, muskrat and beaver.

A few of the 400 Treaty Indians who trap the park make as much as $6,000 a season. They were guaranteed trapping rights and fishing rights when the park was established in 1922 as a buffalo sanctuary.

Wardens and patrolmen of the northern administration branch keep careful watch on the buffalo from helicopter, horse and on foot. Few other men enter the uninhabited environs of the park.

Three rivers—the Peace, Slave and Athabasca—have shaped the balsam poplar into pyramid and other wood products. Daily production is 72,000 board feet.

For most of the year, the 15,000 buffalo divide into three herds found in the Sweet Grass, Salt Plains and Buffalo Lake areas.

In summer, they wander in the northern areas of the park. In winter, they move on arrow-straight buffalo trails to the tall grass north of the marshes.

This grass won't become snow-covered and the shaggy, 2,000-pound beasts know this.

The park is bordered on the west and southwest by the 1,500-mile Birch and Caribou mountains and on the east by the Peace and Athabasca rivers and Lake Athabasca.

The Peace - Athabasca delta keeps the buffalo from moving into far south.

They range mostly on the Alberta plateau, a poorly - drained plain undermined by limestone and potted with shallow lakes. A strip of muskeg along the Alberta - N.W.T. border separates the Buffalo Lake, N.W.T., herd from the two others.

Globe and Mail Asks Court to Upset Judgment

OTTAWA (CP) — The Toronto Globe and Mail Wednesday asked the Supreme Court of Canada to rule that a newspaper criticizing the platform and campaign tactics of a federal election candidate is not open to damages for libel unless the candidate proves malice.

The newspaper, contending a federal election is an occasion of qualified privilege, asked the court to upset an Ontario Appeal court judgement last January ordering a new trial for lawyer John Boland's suit against The Globe and Mail.

The present appeal is expected to end today.

Mr. Boland, who has been arguing his own case through three years of litigation, was an independent Progressive Conservative candidate in the Toronto Parkdale in the 1957 federal general election. He alleged that an editorial in the paper campaign libelled him and caused a substantial reduction in the number of votes cast for him. He was defeated.

Launching an action under the Libel and Slander Act of Ontario, Mr. Boland claimed for his lost $200 deposit and for considerable damages as a result of injury to his reputation and character.

Seek Trailers With Defective Space Heaters

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial health officials are trying to locate about 16 car trailers using defective space heaters similar to those that caused 35 deaths in the United States.

The heaters were rated as "dangerous" in a recent emergency warning issued by the department today. Deaths in the United States were attributed to monoxide gases given off by the heaters.

Dr. D. S. Puffer, the province's chief medical officer, said about 16 trailers sold by Ontario dealers who have been asked to try to locate the purchasers and warn them.

The United States Public Health Service informed the Canadian embassy in Washington that some of the heaters had been sold in Canada

Crowsnest Pass Pact Not So Hot 60 Years Later

OTTAWA (CP)—The CPR dug into history Wednesday to show the royal commission on transportation what it got and what it gave under the controversial 1897 Crowsnest Pass agreement.

While the railway didn't come right out and say it, the implication was clear that a deal that seemed good in 1897 wasn't so hot 60 years later.

The Crowsnest agreement formed the basis for low freight rates on shipments of vast quantities of prairie grain to export terminals at the Lakehead, Pacific coast and Churchill, Man.

The railway, still collecting the same freight charges on export grain as they did at the turn of the century, contends they're losing $20,000,000 a year in hauling the prairie crop.

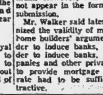
SUGGEST SUBSIDY

They have asked the royal commission on transportation to recommend a federal subsidy to offset this annual loss, without upsetting the basic Crow level of rates for farmers.

Maximum Rate May Be Increased By End of Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Hamilton stated Wednesday the maximum interest rate on government - guaranteed housing loans may be increased before the end of the year.

He threw out the hint to reporters after receiving a brief from the National House Building Association asking that the 6% ceiling be raised in order to promote collapse of the country's home building program.



The present rate is six per cent. Officials of the builders association, which represents 3,100 individual contractors, suggested orally to the minister that 6½ per cent might be a fair maximum. However, this figure did not appear in the formal printed submission.

Mr. Walker said later he recognized the validity of many of the home builders' arguments. In order to induce banks, trust companies, life insurance companies and other private lenders to provide mortgage funds the rate had to be sufficiently attractive.

Experienced Duck Hunters Testify on Safety Measures At Shotgun Death Inquest

SOMBRA (CP) — A succession of experienced duck hunters testified Wednesday at an inquest into the shotgun death of Harry H. Anderson as the Crown questioned them closely about safety measures and suggestions for improvements.

Mr. Anderson, 47, former vice-president of General Motors, died following a shotgun blast in the head while duck hunting November 18 with his wife and Harbour Curtiss, 68-year-old former president of the company.

Mr. Curtiss told the five-man coroner's jury how he accidentally fired the fatal shot which hit and Mr. Anderson were sharing a duck blind on St. Anne's Island near Wallaceburg.

F. H. Hall, Ontario assistant attorney-general of Ontario, repeatedly sought criticism of existing hunting regulations as he questioned witnesses. But only Mr. Hall was strongly critical of the hunting procedure under which his friend was killed.

A hunter for 30 years and never before involved in a shooting accident, he said "had there been one in the blind the accident would not have occurred."

As restriction of one gun for one hunter to each blind might prevent similar accidents, he said. Other hunters disagreed.

One was George Kennedy of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., chairman of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Corporation of Detroit and lessee of the private hunting resort where the accident happened.

Also hunting on the day of the shooting, he said two men in a blind with one gun would be no safer because the man firing the first shot would be likely to get excited and jump around.

Mr. Silk asked him whether he felt there was any need for legislation to regulate duck hunting safety in Ontario.

"I wouldn't think so," replied Mr. Kennedy.

G. Arthur Brown of Rochester, Mich., who was hunting with Mr. Kennedy, favored two persons and two guns in a blind. He declined to suggest any new methods for training duck hunters.

"You've certainly got the knack of rubbing two sticks together, sir."

"I believe the conservation departments of both your province and the United States are doing a good job in publicizing the dangers of hunting," he said.

H. V. Sutton, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, said he was in favor of two men using a blind.

"I'd quit duck hunting if I had to sit in a blind by myself," he said. "The sport's biggest thrill is making friendships."

Mr. Curtiss said he and Mr. Anderson were sitting on wooden ammunition boxes in the blind, shooting from a sitting position.

"Anderson occasionally rose to fire," he said. "At the time I squeezed the trigger, I guess he must have stood up and got in the line of fire. . . . It was a tremendous shock to me. He said he did not see Mr. Anderson rise.

Mr. Silk asked witnesses to demonstrate on two occasions by climbing into two blinds set up before the jury. The inquest continues today.

Strikers Want Settlement Terms Made Retroactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union asked the industry today to make the set-tlement terms retroactive and to pay before Christmas a cost-of-living wage increase expected Jan.

An interim agreement to that effect now "would contribute to the collective bargaining climate of the final settlement," president David J. McDonald said in a letter to heads of the various companies.

There was no immediate comment from industry sources.

McDonald asked this whatever settlement is made be retroactive to Nov. 7, when a Taft-Hartley law injunction sent the men back to work after a 116-day strike.

McDonald said the men have helped the industry retura to quick production and "we trust that the industry does not wish to take the sole benefit of this period of enforced production."

The contract which expired last June 30 provided for cost-of-living adjustments as of each July 1 and Jan. 1.

The January adjustment would be based on the November living cost figures due about Dec. 21, McDonald said. A wage increase of several cents an hour may be indicated.

The industry meantime turned down a suggestion by Secretary of Labor Mitchell that the outsiders be invited to recommend a solution for the dispute.

R. Conrad Cooper, head of the steel negotiators, said third-party intervention in past steel disputes always has produced "a highly inflationary result."

Police Capture 12 Escapees; 7 Still Free

IVY BLUFF, N.C. (AP) — Police in two states rounded 12 of North Carolina's worst prisoners behind bars today, leaving seven still at large.

The 12 surrendered without a struggle in Virginia and Ohio after hardly 48 hours of freedom since escaping Tuesday from the Ivy Bluff maximum security prison here.

Meanwhile, a huge manhunt focused on an area 30 miles west of Roanoke, Va., where several of the escapees were believed to be surrounded. The FBI said Charles W. Stewart, one of the ringleaders in the daring break-out, might be in the group.

Local officers and the FBI corralled eight of the original 20 in Virginia, seven Wednesday and one this morning. Two more were picked up on the day of the escape.

Six of the escapees were serving life terms for such crimes as murder, rape and kidnapping.

Ivy Bluff, an isolated area about 45 miles northwest of Raleigh near the Virginia border, is used for the state's worst prisoners.

COULDN'T STAND IT

Grady Hall, one of the six capture in Ohio, said the men fled the institution because "they just couldn't stand it down there."

"When I escaped, I got my first coke and a candy bar in 3 months."

Meanwhile, reports from Memphis, Tenn., South Norfolk, Va., and New York broadened the search over the east half of the U.S.

At Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wortham said four men who indicated they were among the 20 — entered their home at knifepoint Wednesday. The woman, who is 33, said she was raped, but police Capt. W.W. Wilkinson said medical tests showed no evidence of rape.

In Raleigh, state prisons director W. F. Bailey said his field assistant, W. M. Lilly, had been ordered to investigate Tuesday's escape.

Chinese Border Troubles, Nagging Kashmir Dispute Two Issues High in Talks

By DAVE GANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After a triumphant entry into India, peace - making President Eisenhower may face one of the toughest assignments of his current tour.

The Indians welcomed the American president with a tremendous, spontaneous roar of friendship for the man they were told was a "messenger of peace."

The joyous welcome overshadowed the grim warning voiced only the day before by secretary Prime Minister Nehru that India must be able to produce guns as well as butter.

The topics will be high on the agenda when the leaders from East and West get down to serious talks — the Chinese border troubles and the nagging Kashmir dispute.

LITTLE HELP

On the surface it appears Eisenhower and his country will be able to do little to help the Indians deal with the first.

In the Indian Parliament, when Nehru issued his warning, he reiterated his belief in non-alignment. He gave the elected representatives of his country a real lesson in geography.

Whether India likes it or not, China was a neighbor over thousands of miles and there was no getting away from it. The compulsion of geography meant that India would have to undergo austerity, hardships and hard work.

On the second point, the American leader probably will be able to do little more than impress on Nehru the importance to the Free World of improved relations between India and Pakistan.

HOPE FOR BREAK

Kashmir — free Asia's open wound—is the main cause of friction between the two Asian countries.

Eisenhower, who went to India from Pakistan and Afghanistan, spent a lot of time discussing Kashmir with Field Marshal Ayub Khan, the Pakistani leader.

The Pakistanis clearly hope the Western leader will be able to persuade the Indian leader to make some concessions toward a solution of the Kashmir problem.

Pakistan is angry that Nehru should have propped in the Chinese that Indian and Communist troops be withdrawn from the disputed area of Ladakh.

Pakistan claims that Ladakh is part of Kashmir and that Nehru has no business withdrawing defence forces from it.

Despite the crucial difference over this mountain state, there has been improvement in relations between the two countries. Financial talks are going well. Adjustments of the border with Bengal had been agreed on and there has been progress in settling similar disputes.

Pakistan has been proposing a priceless service, both to the Asian subcontinent and to the free world, if this beginning of more amicable relations could be extended to the Kashmir dispute.

Toronto Firm Engaged as Town Auditors

DESERONTO — A special meeting of the town council was held on Friday night to consider the applications received for the position of auditor for the town for the year 1960. After considering the several applicants the council decided to engage the firm of Fred Page Hilgiland of Peterborough and Toronto.

At the regular meeting held on Monday night all members were present with Mayor Sweetman in the chair.

The mayor revealed to the council the result of the drilling on Ungara Island for a suitable supply of water for the town. On a test of the first hole drilled to a depth of 45 feet and only eight inches in diameter a supply of almost three thousand gallons an hour were pumped. The mayor stated that expert advice was that a ten-inch well would supply sufficient for the present requirements of the town. The quality of the water has not yet been determined but it is quite certain to be satisfactory. Plans are being made for further tests and if they prove successful arrangements will be made to finance the supplying of good quality water through the town mains to the residents.

There was very little business at the meeting other than passing the by-law to appoint the town auditor. Council accepted the terms of the amendments suggested by the Highways Dept. and passed a motion to draw up a by-law in accordance with their request.

A letter from the town solicitor respecting the assessment on the house at the cemetery was discussed to some extent but was finally tossed over to the cemetery board. A number of accounts were also passed. Council adjourned shortly after nine o'clock.

PICASSO AIDS PEIPUS

NICE, France (Reuter) — Publicist Pablo Picasso Tuesday night appealed to all painters to donate one or more of their best works to a giant fund-raising sale in a Paris gallery for the flood-devastated rivers town of Frejus, but Picasso said he would donate one of his works, but did not specify which one.

Betting at Canadian Tracks Reaches All-Time Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pari-mutuel betting at major Canadian flat - racing tracks in 1959 reached an all-time record $130,685,885, a survey conducted by The Canadian Press showed today. The wagering was up more than $4,000,000 over the previous high of $126,680,653 set a year ago.

Just about everything connected with the sport spelled success for the operators of tracks in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. There is no thoroughbred racing in the Maritime provinces and Quebec.

Along with the sizeable increase in the betting statistics, record attendance marks were set at many tracks and racing days hit a record 666 against 665 a year ago. Racetrack officials, optimistic over the unprecedented betting surge, predict a larger pari - mutuel handle for 1960.

Ontario tracks, perennial leaders in attendance and betting at the Jockey Club's three plants — Fort Erie and two in Toronto, Old and New Woodbine — had their best year in history. Spring, summer and autumn meetings, covering 126 days, came as in 1958, accounted for more than two-thirds of the total wagering in the country, with $86,952,840. The previous record was $85,486,453 set a year ago.

British Columbia, runner - up to Ontario in 1958, yielded the No. 2 spot to Alberta although racing days in the west, coast province totalled 36 against Alberta's 42.

Meets in Calgary and Edmonton produced betting of $13,345,134 against $11,234,688 in 1958 when racing in the two cities totalled 39 days. British Columbia's major tracks — Lansdowne and Exhibition Park in Vancouver and Sandown in Victoria — reported pari - mutuel betting of $13,157,727, compared with $12,- 909,638 a year ago over a 36-day period.

Saskatchewan's betting figure covering a total 15 days of racing at Regina and Saskatoon totalled $1,893,115; a slight gain over $1,858,826 in the same 1958 period.

Attendance in Ontario in 1959 was 1,586,643 against 1,587,331 in 1958.

Jockey Club officials reported the first million-dollar day at the betting wickets for Old Woodbine since the track opened in 1874. A total of $1,003,632 was bet Monday, May 25.

Kingston Wins Over Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The hard-pace Kingston Frontenacs earned the giant-killer's role in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Wednesday night, making Sudbury Wolves pay for end their eight - game winning streak.

The lowly Frontenacs won on Sudbury ice where the league-leading Wolves have scored most of their 71 victories.

And they added injury to insult as Neal Chevrefils suffered a damaged groin.

The Wolves had one consolation. The crowd of 3,185 was the largest to visit this season in Sudbury. The lowest previous was 3,000 three weeks ago when the Wolves began their winning streak.

The upset left the standings unchanged, with Sudbury leading Hull - Ottawa by seven points. Trois-Rivieres is three points behind with 36 points. Then follow Montreal, 25, Sault Ste. Marie, 23, and Kingston, 19.

ONLY GAME

The Sudbury-Kingston tilt was the only action scheduled.

Sudbury took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Cummy Burton.

The Frontenacs went into the lead in the second period when Orval Tessier, 27-year-old centre with some National Hockey League experience, scored two goals—his 18th and 19th of the season.

Kingston wrapped it up in the third period by exploding for three goals in just more than a minute. The scorers were Skip Teal, Reg Fleming and Barney Boden.

Kingston outshot Sudbury 37-28.

Liston Defeats Wille Besmanoff By Technical KO

CLEVELAND (CP) — Sonny Liston of Philadelphia, with his eyes on the world heavyweight crown, took a step to come up with his devastating knockout punch Wednesday night but prized for a gory technical knockout over Willi Besmanoff.

Besmanoff absorbed a barrage of punches in the sixth round and was bleeding from several bad cuts over his eyes when the referee stopped the scheduled 10-rounder. It went as a seventh-round technical knockout because the end came between rounds.

Liston, with a record of 17 knockouts in 27 fights, wasn't pleased with his performance.

"I wasn't too sharp," he said. "I didn't start to warm up until the sixth." He is ranked third among contenders for Ingemar Johansson's world crown.

BESMANOFF BAD

The 27 - year - old Besmanoff, German-born and fighting out of Milwaukee, said glumly: "That cut over the left eye bothered me from the first round. But I still thought I could go the distance and probably beat him. He was punching himself out."

Liston, 27, started slowly, relying on sharp lefts. The 210-pound Liston, taller and nine pounds heavier than Besmanoff, started using his right hand in the third round.

In the fifth, he caught Willi on the ropes with a flurry of rights and lefts. But it wasn't until he cornered him at the end of the sixth that the real damage was done.

Pete Rademacher, who started his professional fighting career in an unsuccessful bid for the heavyweight title, gained an eight-round decision over Johnny York of Norristown, Pa., in a preliminary.

Minor Hockey Notes

The midgets and juveniles ruled action at Memorial Arena last night with five games in all being played in the BMHA's two groups.

Rangers took a 2-1 decision over the Red Wings with Jimmy Woodcock's two goals providing the winners' margin of victory. Bob Jeffery scored the other goal while Art Lucas, Jay Kiser and Don Holloway drawing assists. John Tooth replied for the Red Wings.

Black Hawks shaded the Maple Leafs 32. Gerry Jones, Doug Dumonie and Jim Ross fired the Hawk markers, York had two helpers and Dumonie one. Dennis Hull had a goal and assisted on the other for the Leafs. Ron Demarest also scored while Simmons and Smith picked up single assists.

Garry Duvall led the Canadiens to a 6-1 victory over the Bruins. Duvall had two goals and one assist with the other goals going to Jim Rutherford, Ted Rowland, Ron Ingram and Carl Boomhower. Bob Ridley, Russ Poste and Dave Hannah earned assists. Richard Hayes was the lone Bruin marksman.

JUVENILLE

Aces won a 4-1 game over the Rovers. Doug Dafoe and Mike Stubert had a goal and assist each while Albert Baker and Les Morris also scoring. Don Vance, N. Polster and Alex McNaught had assists. Dale Archer triggered the Rovers' only goal.

Bombers c'alked up a 5-2 victory over the Jets with Fug Kehlar scoring two goals and assisting on another. Grayden Scott had a goal and assist, Digby and Ken Nolan a goal each and Jim Sheridan two assists. Jim Maund and Dennis Sinclair scored for the Jets, helped by Cliff McGrimmon and Bob Yomme.

SIGNS WITH LIONS

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Iowa fullback Don Horn said Wednesday he has signed a professional football contract with British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Quarterback Randy Duncan and halfback Willie Fleming are among former Iowa players who starred for Lions this fall.

Dutchies Blow 4-Goal Lead, Drop 9-6 Tilt to Maroons

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen blew a four-goal lead and took a 9-6 lacing from Chatham Maroons here Wednesday night in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game that saw the Maroons take over second place in the standings.

Dutchmen ran up a 5-1 lead early in the second period and appeared headed for a lop-sided win after leading 3-1 in the opening period.

But when Dutchmen stopped shooting Maroons scored four straight goals to tie it 5-5 at the end of the second.

They went into the lead halfway through the third period when the Dutchies miscued trying to clear the puck and set up Jimmy Connelly, who had three goals, in front of the Kitchener goal.

Dutchmen got that one back but Maroons weren't to be denied as they scored three more, two of them in the final minute. Their eighth goal came with Bost Hurley on the sidelines.

Other Chatham scorers were Gary Sharp with two, Copper Lyzie, Ted Power, Joe Maio and Frank Battgata.

Bob McKnight and Bob Forhan picked up two each for the Kooters, Mike Elik and Cliff Pennington got singles.

The teams each drew three penalties. Murray Davidson of the Dutchmen got a minor and misconduct in the final period.

Flyers Dump Petes 7-1

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers moved into sole possession of second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Wednesday night with a 7-1 win over Peterborough Petes.

The victory gives Flyers 23 points, just one back of league-leading Toronto Marlboros. Marlies are visitors here Friday.

Flyers ran up a 2-0 lead in the first period and the score was 4-1 after two.

Jake Miller led the Barrie attack with two goals. Dale Rolfe, Ed Westfall, Bob Avery, Pierre Gagne and Larry Jones had singles.

Gary Mork scored the Petes' goal.

Referee Bill Divorski called only five penalties, three to Petes.

Pro Tennis

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Mal Anderson of Australia and pro champion Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles reached the semi-finals of a pro tennis tournament at White City Stadium Wednesday night.

Anderson defeated fellow Aussie Frank Sedgman 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 after Gonzales had swept past Ashley Cooper of Australia 6-2, 6-1.

Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, both of Australia, reached the semi-finals Tuesday.

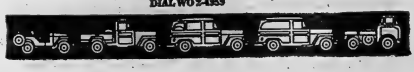
Jackie Parker Wins Nicklin Memorial Cup

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jackie Parker, who alternated at halfback and quarterback for Edmonton Eskimos this season, Wednesday was named the 1959 winner of the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

A vote of western football writers and broadcasts gave the former Mississippi State star the award for the fourth consecutive year and for the fifth time in six years.



The trophy, put up for competition in 1946, honors the memory of the late Jeff Nicklin, a Winnipeg Blue Bomber star of the pre-war era and a Second World War paratrooper killed in action.

Parker was a runaway winner again this year although many experts considered 1959 was not his best season. He drew the first-place vote on 18 of the 21 ballots and finished with 37 points on the 3-2-1 point basis.

Teammate Johnny Bright, named Canada's outstanding player last month, was runner-up in the western balloting with 23 points. Quarterback Jim Van Pelt of the Grey Cup champion Bombers was third with 36 points.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There may be vacant spots in the Memorial Arena pews these senior hockey nights, but the McFarlands can be sure of the all-out support of one body of loyal backers.

Whatever their hockey faults and shortcomings may be, win, lose or draw, the Mac Rooster Club will be, as it has always been, "100 per cent solid" behind the team.

Rooster president, Jim "Snipe" Matthews announced this at the open meeting of the Roosters last night and he was given the unanimous approval of the members present.

"We shall never let the Macs down, financially or otherwise," Matthews said. "We stand ready to help the club whenever it is needed, and in any way it needs assistance."

Members of the McFarland club management were present. These included team manager Keith MacDonald and executive member Mac White. MacDonald answered several questions asked from the floor.

Regarding acquisition of new players, MacDonald told the Roosters that the Macs had purchased Ronnie Muir from the Kitchener Dutchmen. Muir played last season with the Cornwall Chevies and will be remembered by Belleville fans. His with Gerry Sevrins and two others who failed to report were declared by the Dutchmen when the Chevies announced their temporary retirement from the senior "A" hockey picture.

It was also brought out that the Macs' management still holds the contract of Minnie Menard, at present playing with the New York Rovers in the Eastern United States Amateur League, but who with three others has been suspended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The other players are Kuhnlowski and Phil Goyette, at present playing with American teams and Marv Edwards, who was with the Macs overseas and who is with the Milwaukee team.

American amateur leagues have an agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and its affiliates through the International Ice Hockey Federation, and are supposed to honor Canadian suspensions.

This, apparently, has not been done. Tommy Lockhart, president of the Eastern United States Amateur League is also the owner of the New York Rovers with whom Menard is playing.

It has been reported that Menard will not play for the McFarlands but it was pointed out to the Roosters last night, he could be used as trade material or as a sale in the Ontario Senior "A" League.

It was stated, too, that the Macs have had their eyes on Gaulin-Edwards, but whenever Isabe the price-stringy demands a National Hockey League price for him. The Roosters stand ready to help in this respect.

Asked about Gordie Bell, MacDonald said he did not think he was ready for the two games he has played since his eye injury. The Macs are not going to play him right away as they cannot afford to gamble with him.

However young Cesare Maniago, who has played here or less with the Macs, will remain with the club until January 1st when he returns to his home team in Kitchener.

Asked about attendance, MacDonald told the Roosters the team will have to average some 1,300 paid admissions from here in to break even. Player-wise, he said the Macs expected another player or two when the pre teams cut their rosters.

President "Snipe" announced that a Mac Rooster party will be held in the Elks hall on Friday, December 18, immediately following the game with the Windsor Bulldogs here. The "Dogs" will be special guests and Rooster members are invited. The admission? Your Rooster membership card. There will be refreshments and dancing and the chance to meet Lanney Lamirande's Border City crew.

The Roosters are also sponsoring a bus to take members to the Whitby-Belleville game at Whitby Saturday night. For further information and tickets phone Jean Gander at Rathman's store, WO 8-4.

It was also announced that tickets will go on sale immediately for an all-expense trip for two to Squaw Valley for the Winter Olympics. The trip is expected to cost the sponsors some $1,000 but the winner can take $500 in cash in lieu of the tickets.

Back to that reception for the Macs and Bulldogs, December 18th, it is pointed out that it will be a "come-as-you-are" affair. No dressy dewdads. Just come as you were garbed at the hockey game, pool game, curling rink or wherever you were, as long as you are a Rooster.

Says 'Unchecked Brutality' In National Hockey League 'Is Going to Kill Somebody'

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

All - star right winger Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers has stirred up a hockey controversy with a magazine article in which he says "unchecked brutality" in the National Hockey League "is going to kill somebody."

In the January Canadian edition of True, a mass-circulation American magazine, Bathgate names players and cites examples. The edition will be on news-stands this week.

The Ranger player dwells on the illegal art of spearing—using a hockey stick as a spear on an opposing player.

In this connection, he singles out particularly the two top defencemen of the NHL champion Montreal Canadiens—Doug Harvey and Tom Johnson.

This brought a quick rejoinder Wednesday from Montreal coach Hector (Toe) Blake who described Bathgate's charges as "sour grapes," adding that the Ranger star himself "is guilty of spearing as often as anyone else in the league."

POINT UP DANGER

In New York, Bathgate said that in writing the article "all I wanted to do was point up the danger of spearing."

In the article, written under Bathgate's name by Dave Anderson, sports writer for the New York Journal - American, the Ranger player says:

"Something must be done about atrocities on ice."

"I'm serious. In the National Hockey League—unchecked brutality is going to kill somebody."

The article is accompanied by pictures of six NHL players who are called "Andy Bathgate's rogues gallery."

The players and the descriptions Bathgate gives them:

Ted Lindsay, Chicago Black Hawks, "quick to drop his stick in a fight."

Johnson, "one of the five most serious spearing specialists in the NHL."

Harvey, "lucky he doesn't have a spearing death on his conscience."

Fern Flaman, Boston Bruins, "he's had too many accidents to believe."

Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings, "greatest player in the league; uses all the tricks—plus."

Lou Fontinato, Rangers, "likes to use the stick but uses his fists in a real fight."

RECOUNTS INCIDENT

Bathgate recounts a game in Madison Square Garden between the Rangers and Canadiens in which he said Harvey moved his stick into Red Sullivan's stomach.

Bathgate says Harvey's stick dug in so deeply that it severed an artery in the Ranger captain's spleen.

Bathgate says an operation saved Sullivan's life after the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church had been administered. He says Sullivan still has a 45-stitch scar across his stomach.

In New York, Wednesday, Bathgate acknowledged that several of the quotes were made "in the heat of the game three years ago when Red Sullivan was severely injured when speared by Doug Harvey of Montreal."

In Montreal, Blake and Harvey admitted Canadiens resorted to spearing at isolated times but stressed it was strictly for defensive purposes.

ILLEGAL PATTERN

Both said it was sometimes necessary to defend against an illegal play pattern used often by Rangers.

They like to skate into our zone against the defence and drop the puck for a teammate

Red Wings Fly Both Ways To Blank Black Hawks

Gordie Howe, Sawchuk Star In 2-0 Win Over Chicago; Trail Toronto by a Point

As long as Terry Sawchuk and Gordie Howe are their old starry selves, Detroit Red Wings will be a tough team to beat.

Sawchuk gained his fourth shutout of a still-young National Hockey League season Wednesday night as Detroit defeated Chicago Black Hawks 2-0.

Howe scored the only goal Red Wings needed when he whipped a 30-foot shot past Glenn Hall in the first period. It was the magnificent right winger's 15th goal of the season and the 423rd of his NHL career.

Victory brought Detroit to within one point of second-place Toronto Maple Leafs who trail Montre ssaMC nesith ygis e Montreal Canadiens by eight points.

It also stalled Chicago's drive for a playoff spot and left the Black Hawks deadlocked in the basement with New York Rangers, seven points behind Boston Bruins.

GAME IN HAND

Both Rangers and Hawks have a game in hand over Bruins who meet Toronto in Boston in tonight's only game.

Sawchuk blocked 26 Chicago shots as he edged closer to Montreal's Jacques Plante and Toronto's Johnny Bower in one of the tightest Vezina Trophy races the league has seen in several years.

Wings have not been defeated in the three games Sawchuk has played since recovering from leg pains. They lost all three games in which he was out of the lineup.

Hall was a busier man in the Chicago nets, as the visitors fired 36 shots at him.

Howe's second goals came while Hawks were shorthanded.

Defenceman Dollard St. Laurent was in the penalty box when Detroit rearguard Jimmy Morrison intercepted Earl Balfour's attempt to clear the puck from the Chicago zone. Morrison passed to Howe, who scored.

Norm Ullman padded the Detroit margin with a goal in the second period while big Chicago defenceman Elmer Vasko was in the penalty box.

The shutout was the 30th for Sawchuk in regular season play. His closest rival among active NHL goaltenders is Boston's Harry Lumley who has recorded 29 in Detroit, Chicago, Toronto and Boston nets. Plante has 46.

Bruins are hoping to have Bronco Horvath, the league's leading scorer, back in action when they face Toronto tonight. Horvath's 21 goals and 35 points have been a big factor in keeping the Bruins in the fight for league honors.

However, the Boston club has gone winless in its last five games and is now eight points behind Detroit.

American League All-Stars Meet Indians

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The American Hockey League leading Springfield Indians, fresh from a 5-3 triumph Wednesday night at Hershey, take on the league all-stars here tonight.

In the five previous seasons the all-stars played, the league champions of the previous season. This year the AHL decided to rotate the contest among its cities.

There has been one change in the all-star squad, Jean Marie Cossette of Quebec having been substituted for injured teammate Jackie Leclair as utility man.

The stars have Bobby Perreault of Hershey and Ed Chadwick of Rochester in goal. The defence corps has Ivan Irwin and Frank Martin of Buffalo, Steve Kraftcheck of Rochester, Larry Zeidel of Hershey and Larry Hillman of Providence.

Hershey's Willie Marshall heads the centres, with Buffalo's Hector Wilson and Rochester's Rudy Migay.

Right wingers are Fred Glover of Cleveland, Jane Flaher of Hershey and Ray Rose of Providence.

On the left flank will be Eddie McCarthy of Cleveland, Jack Gamble of Buffalo and Claude Ladrege of Hershey.

Parker MacDonald had two goals for Springfield against Hershey. Harry Pidhirny, Kent Douglas and Bruce Cline got the others. Howie Vansell and Bob Solinger scored for Hershey.

Argos May Sign Assistant Coach By Weekend

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts said Wednesday night he hopes to announce by the weekend the signing of an assistant coach for his Big Four club.

Commenting on a report that former quarterback Tommy Wilkowski will return next season as backfield coach, he said:

"Wilkowski is not signed yet. I'm not denying that he is not a leading candidate, but I haven't heard from Los Agnes since I gave him a list of suggested candidates for one of the assistant coaching jobs".

Argos' head coach from Michigan State University, said last week he would seek at one of his two assistant coaches someone with experience in Canadian football.

Hayman said Al Bruno of Lions, Les Lords and Harvey Johnson, former coach of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, were also being considered for assistant coaching jobs. The senior clubs play in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Wilkowski was with the Argos when they won the Grey Cup in 1952. He has also played for Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Now retired as a non-import, he has been playing with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union for the last few seasons.

Johnson is chief scout of Montreal Alouettes, Bruno, also a former Argo, had a dual role as coach and player last season with the London club. Both are Americans.

Patterson Tour Opens in Quebec

TORONTO (CP) — Promoter Loren Cruzine Wednesday night announced a change in spots for the Canadian exhibition tour of Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight champion.

The tour, originally slated to open Monday in Quebec City, now will start in Quebec City Friday night. Cantina said Patterson will box in Sherbrooke, Monday.

He is expected to be in North Bay next Wednesday and in Windsor Dec. 18. Patterson will box with his sparring partners on the tour.

SEVE. CANADIAN MARK

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian weightlifting record set by Isac Williams Donahi of the RCAF has been sanctioned by the Quebec division of the Amateur Athletic Union, Swabie. 220 pounds, a native Montrealer, posted the mark here Saturday when he lifted 395½ pounds in the clean-and-jerk event at an invitational meet. The former record of 321 pounds was held by Vancouver's Doug Hepburn.

All-Stars Will Play Russians

EDMONTON (CP)—The Moscow Selects hockey club will play six all-star club from the southern Alberta Intermediate Big Six Hockey League when they appear in Lethbridge Feb. 7.

The Red Deer Rustlers of the Central Alberta League—officially scheduled to meet the Russians announced Tuesday they would not reach a financial agreement with the promoters of the game.

John Watson, president of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, announced the new arrangements.

Warriors Whip Edmonton 5-1

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Warriors, whose recent play had brought criticism from general manager Jack Pertica, whipped Edmonton Flyers 5-1 Wednesday night to move into a first-place tie with Saskatoon Comets in the Western Hockey League.

Vancouver Canucks and Calgary Stampeders battled to a 3-3 overtime tie and Marcel Pelletier recorded his first shutout as Cougars beat Spokane 4-0.

The result left Vancouver in first place, 12 points ahead of Victoria Cougars, with Totems third.

Barry Ross led Warriors with two goals. Bill Johnson, Gerry Redahl and Bill Falk added one each. Roger Dejordy scored for Edmonton.

Norm Johnson, Sid Finlay and Ron Leopold scored for Calgary. Les Colwill accounted for two Vancouver goals and Larry Cahan the third.

Art Jones scored twice to pace Cougars of Victoria. George Ford and Jack Biondo added one each.

Indian's Lane Stunned By Chisox Deal

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cleveland Indians' general manager Frank Lane was stunned when he heard that Chicago White Sox obtained a slugging third baseman in a trade with Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday.

Earlier this week in a trade involving seven players, Lane had given up hard-hitting Minnie Minoso to get third baseman Bubba Phillips from Chicago.

"I sort of figured they'd get a third baseman to replace Phillips," Lane said, "but I never dreamed they'd get someone like [illegible]. That'll really help 'em."

"How could they do it?" Lane kept repeating wondering how Philadelphia could trade Freese for John Callison, a 20-year-old minor league outfielder.

The 32-year-old Freese hit 22 home runs, knocked in 79 runs and batted .268 in 152 games for the Phillies.

CLOSING DATES

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Club announced Wednesday that nominations for five Canadian stakes races will close at midnight Saturday, Dec. 15. The stakes are the $50,000 Queen's Plate of 1961; the Woodbine Oaks of 1961; the Canadian Maturity of 1964; the Cup and Saucer of 1961, and the Coronation Futurity of 1962.

Don Rickles One of Night Life's Best 'Insult' Comics

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don Rickles studied acting with Grace Kelly, among others, but couldn't get an acting job until he started insulting stars and producers.

Now he's in big demand after word got out of his portrayal of a heavy with Debbie Reynolds and Tony Curtis in Rat Race.

"Everybody on the set was surprised I knew a little bit about acting," says Rickles, one of night life's best "insult" comics.

Rickles is a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and once helped carry the books of the future princess of Monaco. He later auditioned at Cicoe's Studio, the alma mater of James Dean, Marlon Brando and others.

"All that training and I couldn't get arrested as an actor," Rickles recalls. Then one night he happened in night club here and hired one of the so-call "sick" comics. The opening night this comic pulled an obscene joke and was fired by the mgt.

The unknown Rickles was brought in. Before long he was the rage of the movie set who paid night club prices to get insulted.

Some samples.

To Hedy Lamarr: "I saw your last picture, Hedy. It was embarrassing."

To Frank Sinatra: "Frank, remember the good old days when you had a voice?"

Gary Cooper: "He's so old, he can't climb on a horse."

Dean Martin: "Look at him there folks drinking coffee. Novelty night."

Burt Lancaster came in night after night to get insulted by Rickles. He liked the insults so much that he put him in two pictures.

"I didn't know he was an actor," says Lancaster. "I just like being insulted for a change."

Then Bill Perlberg, producer of Rat Race came in and liked Rickles' face. He was there before the show that he'd like him to test for the part of a night club producer who roughs up Debbie in the movie.

Rickles later got onstage and jeopardized his own movie chance by hurling this at Perlberg sitting ringside:

"Look at this crazy producer laughing. Any producer who'd want me in his movie has gotta be out of his mind."

That cinched the job for Rickles.

His jibes are not always limited to stars. He takes on columnists.

He once called Hedda Hopper that "idiot in the cheap hat," and Louella Parsons got this: "I read your column, Louella. It's awful."

They've been among his biggest boosters since. And I'm one of his favorite pigeons. And look who's the subject of this column.

NORWAY STAR

Actress Wenche Frau won the 1959 Norwegian Film Critics' award for her role in the Norwegian movie, "The Lord and His Servants".

AT THE PARK — A dramatic scene with Jeff Chandler and Jack Carson in the outdoor drama, "The Lineup" in Technicolor, now showing at the Park Theatre for its first showing. During the action the popular Kingston trio sing the Tom Dooley theme. Also starring Lee Marvin, Eduard G. Robinson and Gerald O'Loughlin. Starting Sandra Dee and Cliff Robertson.

TV Reporters Losing Sleep During President's Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — In Rome, the rain poured steadily, fogging the cameras but the transatlantic weather was stubborn, delaying jet plance speeding vicedotage back to the United States. At all points, the president was on a hurry-up schedule; talks were conducted behind closed doors and communiques carried little meat for commentators.

Both NBC and CBS scheduled in advance a number of special 30-minute shows on Ike's progress—and these are the ones that are giving the networks their headaches. The regular news shows are able to handle the story with more journalistic flexibility.)

The Eisenhower tour, unfortunately for the TV men, is turning out to be more like Queen Elizabeth's visit to the United States than like Khrushchev's. So far, the news shots have been like waving from the back of a limousine, inspecting lines of soldiers, watching local pageants and shaking assorted hands. It has been formal, scheduled and not as exciting viewing as the trip of the unpredictable Russian.

John Day, CBS news vice-president, says the tour is proving to be "the most difficult thing we've ever undertaken, particularly at the beginning when nothing much is happening."

Recommended tonight:

Christmas at the Circus, CBS, 1:30-3:30 EST — holiday special with clowns, acrobats, dancers Arthur and Dennis Weaver.

Tonight with Steinbeck, CBS, 8:30-9:30 — musical variety with Harry Belafonte.

Playhouse 90, CBS, 9:30-11—original Civil War drama, The Tunnel with Richard Boone.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, December 11

General tendencies: You just don't see the way to make a success of financial matters at this time, but nevertheless it is necessary that you do use great care and caution to have every single item in its proper place so that you will know just where you stand. Analyze your assets, expenses, solidize. Make new budget. Be down-to-earth.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — See that you have a good deal of [illegible] resistance today, or you [illegible] with more money than you truly afford. Invest [illegible] that will help to improve the value and appearance of real estate. Look after your throat.

Best for Baby's Coughs
Specially formulated for babies! Breaks up phlegm—eases wheezing

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Do not make those radical changes in present setup that you are tempted to do. The discontent is within you, so spruce up a bit, change your attitude, and all will come out just fine. P. M. is a social success instead of a failure.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — That private worry could truly throw you for a loop today, if you permit. No problem has any power if you don't give it any. Regain your equilibrium by attending to small but necessary tasks first. Then tackle that problem intelligently.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A strong - willed, artistic friend disagrees with you quite radically, but do not permit him, or her, to make you alter own views or methods. Be steadfast and go on with your projects to the best of own ability. You win out.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You are sorely tempted to give a piece of your mind to some higher-up this A. M. That unfavorable condition is largely your fault, so bow wise and admit it. Adjust it, and labor efficiently and with perseverance.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You feel that by dropping the difficult work before you and getting into a whole new setup you can succeed. Remember that if you are successful in your present job, all others will come easy to you. Be sure to read your paper — then speed!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You feel that all you have to do is pass your obligations over to those who love you and let it go at that. Dig in and work instead, or you alternate their affections. Work is the magic wand that brings success.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Here is one of those days when you want to be force-d it with others, regardless of their views points or ideas. Be altruistic instead and you accomplish a great deal more, plus leaving the other fellow his precious freedom.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — With so much work facing you, you scarcely know where to start. And you could very easily labor so speedily that you bungle things and get into serious damage. Learn to relax so that you work in composed, even fashion.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Here is one of those days when you want to tip over the applecart and go off on some spree. This would be well-nigh disastrous. Now is the time to be more steadfast than ever. Also, find some less expensive ways to have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be loyal now to kin and do not jeopardize family love by any untoward action. While there is real provocation, you must be the one to keep your head and thereby increase harmony. Take the deal and win out.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Any self-pity now will only ruin your health and bring you into greater discord with others, which you cannot afford to have. Remember that God places only those burdens upon our shoulders which He feels we can carry. Smile and grow.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today is the type who thinks that bursts of temper with others are the best way to get what he, or she, wants. Early teach that the honeyed word is far more powerful and less wearing. Direct excess energy in some fine sport instead. An excellent chart for any political jobs, professions, especially in trouble - shooting capacity. Also good for the actress.

High School Activities

By TRINA JANTUCK

Christmas has come to the Collegiate. Brightly decorated trees, red and green streamers, snowflakes, Santa Claus and candy canes have put the Christmas spirit in every corridor. These gala decorations are the work of the Keystone club, one of their annual projects. To further celebrate the season, the Keystone are selling candy canes and conducting Christmas carol singing during the noon hours. Many other clubs are also busy with Christmas preparations. The Girls' Hi-Y is selling BCHVS Christmas cards, and has made plans to add a needy family. This club has also made stuffed toys as Christmas gifts to the Pediatrics section of the hospital, sent cards to the residents of the Home for the Aged, and sponsored, with the Boys' Hi-Y, a float in the recent Santa Claus parade. The Library Club plans to give a Merry Christmas to a deserving family, complete with tree, turkey and toys.

Christmas at BCHVS also means report cards. These much-dreaded pieces of paper will be distributed to all students on December 15. School will close for the Christmas holidays on the 22nd.

The senior students of the school will certainly have a hard time trying to make their Christmas celebrations as much fun as their recent trip to Toronto. At 8.30 Saturday morning, two busloads of excited grade XII and XIII students left the school for Toronto. The reason for the trip was the live performance of "Macbeth" at the Crest Theatre, and everyone who saw the production agreed that it was a wonderful experience that would make the studying of the play doubly interesting. Before and after the play, the visitors participated in every activity Toronto had to offer, from shopping to roller-skating, to the hockey game.

Last Friday, the Boys' Athletic Society of Moira Secondary School sponsored the "Twirp Twirl" in the BCVS gym. As usual, the dance was well attended and successful. This was Moira's last dance in the Collegiate. We are looking forward to their first dance in their brand-new school.

Floor-hockey, one of the most popular of the lunch-hour sports, closed its season at BCHVS with the Hatch-packed all-star game held on Monday, December 7. Bob Emery's "Blacks" and Jim Dash's "Reds" played a fast, exciting, hard-hitting game with the "Blacks" victorious by a 5-3 score. Students in attendance at the game voted Jim Dash as Mr. Floor Hockey, 1960. Jim played outstanding hockey all season and scored two of his team's goals in Monday's game.

SCOHARIE—
"Accept my gift, the rich man said,
As he held his gift by the manger bed.
I gives my heart, the poor one cried,
Kneeling in awe by the Baby's side.
So let us this Christmas bring our prime
Wrought in the work of our common days,
To Jesus, the One who walks our ways."

May we all try to remember a few extra of the sad, the sick and the lonely with at least a Christmas card or letter at Christmas and if it is certain Christmas will have a deeper meaning.

The Live Women's Circle held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Clarke, Consecon, on Thursday evening. There was a splendid attendance of members and visitors. It was decided to quilt for the Children's Aid again this winter. An exchange of gifts took place and a pleasant evening was spent.

Castro Regime Arrests Second Foreign Newsman

Briton Is Released But American Held

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime today arrested but later released a Britain's newspaper man. Still held was reporter James Buchanan of the Miami Herald, on charges that he was aiding Frank Austin Young, an American arrested by a military court.

The British correspondent is Ian Aitken, representing Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers. He was seized after returning from an investigation of Young's ex-plosives plant in the Pinar del Rio.

On his release, Aitken said he had been asked virtually nothing about Young, but had been asked if he knew a man named Buchanan. Aitken answered that they were referring to the Miami reporter.

Agents who arrested Buchanan said he was entering the hotel room in which they recaptured Young Thursday.

GRANTED 48 HOURS

Young a 38 - year - old pilot-adventurer from Miami, was pro-claimed a traitor by Castro in prison in Pinar del Rio for con-spiracy to overthrow the government. He escaped Wednesday and he was ordered by Castro's jack of a Christmas," was the last to be held in San Francisco.

PREMIER CALLS CANADIAN DOLLAR PREMIUM ABSURD

Claims Outlook Better in Province

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Thursday discussed the Canadian dollar, borrowing, the Ontario legislature and electric licence fees.

He called the premium on the Canadian dollar absurd, saying "it seems ridiculous that Canada, a country, a creditor country — should have its money at a premium over the United States dollar."

He said he would like to see the Bank of Canada "step in" because the exchange problem was militating against Canada.

He remembered he told a press conference that Ontario might have to go to the United King-dom or Switzerland for loans although it would prefer to borrow in Canada.

He warned the province would take a hard look at its development program and put some projects on the shelf in the event of a further tightening of the money supply.

The premier also said On-tario is in a strong position and predicted the tight money situa-tion would eventually disappear because of Canada's resources. Ontario already had a rich neighbor, had built up pro-ductive capacity and tended to restore confidence.

Frost's comments on the legislature were brief. He announced it would meet "some-time in February."

He also said he knew of no action in the province's electric licence increases this Jan. 1 but they might be "no doubt subject to adjustments."

The premier explained adjust-ments would be a continuing process of bringing licence fees into line with costs.

"It takes money to run the government," he commented.

Will Bring Modified Call For Peace Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Moderate elements in the United States and Asian-African groups sought General Assembly approval today of a watered-down reso-lution on Algeria from which ma-jor controversial elements have been purged.

Pakistan was slated to bring the modified call for French-Al-gerian peace talks before the as-sembly (at 2 p.m. EST) in hopes that it would win the two-thirds majority needed for adoption.

The resolution, drafted origi-nally by U Thant of Burma and hammered out after a 90-minute meeting of the 28-country Asian-African group, covers two main points. It recognizes the right of the Algerian people to self-deter-mination and urges the holding of discussions to find a peaceful so-lution of the Algerian question on the basis of self-determination.

OMITS DEFENDERS' POINTS

It omits two disputed points which supporters felt would cause the opposition, passed in the political committee, to fall short of the two-thirds majority.

One of these points referred to France and the Algerian rebel government as the "two parties" to the dispute over the North African territory — a re-quest demanded by some as rec-ognition of the rebel regime.

The other specified the talks should consider "conditions for the holding of a free referen-dum-lation" as well as a cease-fire. France has insisted that she will hold only military talks with the rebels.

Commission Will Meet Privately On Rail Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's royal commission on transporta-tion meets privately today to try to break up a brewing deadlock between the railways and the railways over rail freight costs before public hearings.

Despite railway objections, the three grain board commissioners and the wheat pools called on the commission Thursday to defer until next March the examination of the railways' cost studies.

The West and the railways clashed head-on when the CNR and CPR refused to produce evidence on how it figured out the costs of moving western grain to Fort Wil-liam, Port Arthur and Vancouver by early March.

They argued their experts needed more time to get into the railways' costing analysis.

CPR counsel Ian Sinclair op-posed the deferment motion.

Americans Earning, Saving More, Spending Like Mad This Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — Ameri-cans have more money to spend and they're spending it for Christmas.

That's the report today from almost every section of the country as merchants ring up sales they expect will be the biggest for any Yule season in history.

An Associated Press survey of 34 major cities produced pre-dictions of gains ranging up to 15 per cent over record 1952.

"It's going to be a Merry Christ-mas," was the last to be held in San Francisco.

"Department store sales are really rolling," Cleveland re-ports.

NATO Officers Say Present Mix of Military Policies Leads to Dangerous Weakness

PARIS (AP) — The highest military officers of the North Atlantic alliance have concluded that the present trend of mil-itary policies will lead to dangerous weakness unless checked immediately.

Authoritative sources said this was the conclusion of the military committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which ended its annual review Thursday.

At the meeting, the chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, dropped a diplomatic bombshell by placing his finger squarely on the cause of the alliance's fears.

By implication he charged that President de Gaulle is the per-son responsible.

The speech was greeted with shocked looks in the corridors of the Pa-lais de Chaillot where the com-mittee met in closed-door ses-sions.

Informants said the tenor of the military committee's re-port was that we are going to hell in a hurry unless something is done soon.

The military men are pet-turbed by the fact that the ma-jority of most NATO governments to carry out 1957 programsignificantly reduced the eight money pro-gram would eventually disappear because of Canada's resources. Ontario already had a rich neighbor, had built up pro-ductive capacity and tended to restore confidence.

Frost's comments on the legislature were brief. He announced it would meet "some-time in February."

He also said he knew of no action in the province's electric licence increases this Jan. 1 but they might be "no doubt subject to adjustments."

The premier explained adjust-ments would be a continuing process of bringing licence fees into line with costs.

Prime Minister Wants Summit Parley Earlier

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minis-ter Diefenbaker expressed dis-appointment Thursday night that a Big Four conference apparently will not be held until the spring.

"Delay could carry the risk of the cold war," he told the premiers Thursday.

He said he recently aimed at meeting the problem in Quebec where universities have turned down federal aid since 1952 be-cause of bitter Quebec opposi-tion. He denied it was the government's incursion into edu-cational fields.

The New plan would take effect next April, said Mr. Diefenbaker, if the divided Parliament passes the necessary legislation. It is a plan to provide 50 per cent federal or provincial governments of capital financing. And the present scale of federal univer-sity grants would not be affected by the change to provincial administration.

The plan is apparently designed to meet the objections of Cana-dian universities. They have argued that the federal grants infringe on the provincial constitutional right to education field.

Premier Frost of Ontario indi-cated three weeks ago his gov-ernment is interested in the plan. Ontario universities have collected the federal grants, but Mr. Frost said he has always felt doubtedly" infringe on provincial responsibilities.

It is understood the federal scheme basically follows the pro-posal made here two months ago by Premier Sauvé, though the Ottawa plan has a few dif-ferences. One is in the area of minor points. Mr. Sauvé said his cabinet will discuss the plan be-fore replying.

Under the plan, Quebec would income tax rate to 10 per cent from 15 per cent since provincial fore paying university grants on the Ontario scale as a percent-tawa payments.

Corporations would pay no ad-ditional tax. Ottawa would re-duce the federal income tax by a corresponding amount.

Payment of the university grants by any province under the plan would be in addition to tax grants made on its own. Fed-eral grants in each province are equivalent to $1.50 for each pro-vincial resident. The national to-tal is $28,221,500.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that in provinces which decide to make no change in the present system, federal grants will continue to be distributed through the Canadian Universities Foundation.

Eisenhower May Make Trip to Latin America

WASHINGTON (CP) — Presi-dent Eisenhower, now in the midst of a triumphant Asian tour, may also attempt a sim-ilar trip to Latin America next year.

A Latin tour is very much on the president's mind, Senator Theodore Francis Herter told a press conference Thursday. No United States president has ever made a diplomatic tour of the 20 Latin countries.

Herter observed that Eisen-hower's unprecedented trip to "ascertain our greatest ex-pectations," indicating wide-public acceptance of the pre-sident as an individual and a symbol of the U.S.

Herter candidly appraised U.S. relations with Latin America, those closer to home and indi-cated NATO called on Europe will be asked to bear a greater share of European defence costs.

Missing Girl Taken Home By Her Mother

TORONTO (CP)—Marian Gall, 12-year-old Oshawa girl missing since Monday, was found Thursday night in the home of her mother working in a Toronto restaurant.

Police said Marian left Oshawa reading a newspaper report that an intensive police search for her was under way in Oshawa. She went home with her mother without incident.

Marian said she ran away from home for fear of being disci-plined by her father.

She said she hitch-hiked to To-ronto and got a job as a dish-washer in a Yonge Street restaurant. She said she had stayed out late in the evenings after paying the bill and was afraid of a possible repri-mand from her father.

Mrs. Gall, who had previously dreamed her daughter had been murdered by youths, could only say: "I'm very happy—so very happy."

Marian told her mother she re-ceived room and board from the restaurant where she worked and had acquired a boy friend as a result of a blind date.

Oshawa police chief Herbert Finnell led a search party Wed-nesday in an attempt to find the girl in the vicinity of Oshawa Creek.

TROOPS DISPERSE JEERING STRIKERS, SHUT DOWN PLANT

Governor Issues Martial Law Decree

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — National Guard militiamen with fixed bayonets dispersed a jeering crowd of several hundred per-sons at the strikebound Wilson & Co. packing plant today to back up Governor Orville Free-man's declaration of martial law in Freeborn County.

The crowd was apparently hostile not at the soldiers but at non - union production workers whom the guardsmen turned away from the Wilson gates as they reported for work this morn-ing.

The guardsmen, moving swiftly at the order of Governor Free-man to maintain law and order, shut down the Wilson plant to all but non-union supervisory and clerical workers. The production was ordered by Wilson to re-place striking union workmen. Wilson has said operations will temporarily before they got word the plant had been called out and the plant shut down.

It makes a beautiful picker-line, Free-man said a union man, gesturing at the bayonet-fixed guardsmen.

BEFORE DAYBREAK

A detachment of 80 guardsmen, called to duty Wednesday by the 50 southern Minnesota city of 13,500 shortly before dawn.

They formed two groups on either side of the main plant en-trance.

Col. Paul V. Meyer read an order to be at the plant when hundred persons on hand—spec-tators along with union men—gathered and then three persons could gather in any plant area, and no more than 25 demonstrators could march across the highway from the plant itself.

A portion of the crowd gath-ered on a nearby bridge hooted and jeered at the non-union workmen showing up at the plant gates.

Cries of "go home and milk your cows, scab," were heard.

Several of the non-union men filtered through the crowd.

Mayor Niles Shoff of Albert Lea issued a statement that Russell Olson then appealed to the gover-nor for troops.

BROKE NEGOTIATIONS

The striking United Packing-house Workers union broke off negotiations without a contract at Wilson since Sept. 1. Wilson broke off negotia-tions Oct. 26 at which time union refused to work a nine-hour day.

The union said Wilson wanted non-union employees that they would be replaced if they did not return to work, a charge which Wilson began production with non-union men.

Contempt citations were issued against union officials by Freeborn county judge. Neither the citations nor union leaders' pleas for their re-lease halted the picketing by lines of rocks and massing of union men at the plant gates there.

Bullet Misses Police Officer By Inches, Suspect Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—James Mc-Kee, 24, alias Taylor, was charged with shooting and wounding a police officer, a bank robbery and attempted murder of a policeman, five breaks — and attempted break-ins.

A watchman notified police early today a man was breaking into a downtown sporting goods store. Three officers entered the store and heard a man say "I've got a gun; I'll kill you." A bullet missed Sergeant John Ward's head by inches.

A scuffle followed with the man

Eisenhower Asks For 'Noble War' Against Hunger

U.S. Will Continue To Work With India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Presi-dent Eisenhower called on the nations today to join in a "genuinely noble war" against hunger as a step toward ending peace.

"Men right now posses knowl-edge and resources for a success-ful world - wide war against hunger—the sort of war that dig-nifies and exalts human beings," the American president said in a speech at the opening of the Indian World Agriculture Fair.

It was Eisenhower's third speech of the day. Earlier he had (1) called for an expansion of the rule and scope of international law, (2) urged the transfer of in-crease in the exchange of stu-dents to advance the cause of world peace, and (3) declared that a summit meeting of the great powers is likely to se-cure peace than genuine people-to-people relations.

PLEDGES U.S. AID

Eisenhower pledged that the United States will continue co-operating with India to achieve a world free of hunger in the new families and a fruitful, prosperous lives and in which friendship re-places fear and suspicion.

He told the Indians that he himself plans to be a farmer when he retires from any present form of occupation.

Eisenhower received schedule for the day ranged from inspec-tion of the new Embassy to be built on diplomatic quar-ter on New Delhi's south side to a visit to the Taj Mahal, famed ex-hibition at the agriculture fair.

Colorful street crowds cheered him on his rounds, but there were ordered in contrast to the wild re-ception Eisenhower received on his arrival Wednesday. The mid-morning motorcade routes also appeared to have been reinforced with police and other security forces.

RULE OF LAW

Accepting an honorary law de-gree at Delhi University, he said all the countries of the world should accept the rule of interna-tional law to provide a sound basis for peace.

He warned, however, that in-ternational law needs to be strengthened in this nuclear age. "The fusion of the finest traditions of all great legal systems of the world. He said universities could be of tremendous help.

The new international code of law grounded in general principles recognized by civilized nations is of crucial importance in all plans for rapid economic development of the world.

STUDENT EXCHANGES

Eisenhower proposed an ded-ed-eloped - up student exchanges with the observation that "while governments can do much to bring about the grand plateau of youth."

Eisenhower said he has ap-praised as a successful previ-ous student exchange, cre-ated his military enemies on the battlefield, now wants to be-come friends with him himself."

This was in the citation with his honorary degree.

NEAR TRAINER HURT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Thousands of television viewers Thursday night saw an accident in a circus performance being televised live from Miami Beach, but none suffered injury in any part of the show. A trick-riding bear, holding the reins of a horse, bolted a banked ring, struck his trainer when the vehicle made a wide swerve, knocking Elmer, trainer with the Ringling Brothe-rel Barnum and Bailey Cir-cus, suffered a leg fracture.

Drug Circulars Under Discussion By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States Senate investigators sought to learn today how much they must fare in competition with the big producers of name-brand pre-scription medicines.

The Senate anti-trust and mono-poly subcommittee called Arthur Mour Blackman, secretary-treas-urer of the Frome Pharmaceuti-cal Laboratories of South Hack-ensack, N.J., to tell about it.

Rand Dixon, subcommittee counsel, said he planned to ex-amine Blackman to the effect that smaller competitors when the larger companies launch big ad-vertising and promotional cam-paigns in behalf of their own pat-ented brands, and whether the bigger firms' handing of new medicine patents has any restric-tive results.

RAISES QUESTION

The Senate subcommittee raised the question of whether advertising circulars sent to doc-tors by the pharmaceutical house of Merk and Company were misleading because of claims for dexamethasone, an anti-arthritis drug which is also under the trade name of Decadron.

Dr. Louis Lasagna, of the Johns Hopkins University division of clinical pharmacology, testi-fied that Decadron had been im-properly claimed an absence of side effects from use of the drug.

In contrast, Dr. Philip H. Hench, of the Mayo Foundation, spe-cialized in the 1950 Nobel Prize in physiology and medicine, testified that Merck's advertising was not misleading. He said doctors do avoid undesirable effects.

Lasagna struck at drug manu-facturers who he said engage in a pharmaceutical and research racket. "Without naming any ma-jor companies, I can say they produce new brand name drugs and rep-resent them as being more potent than they are.

The difference between the old and new drugs, Lasagna said, is something like saying "a dime is better than a nickel" because the dime is in one piece.

"I am ashamed to say that pharmacology is one of the num-bers routine," the Johns Hopkins spokesman said.

Ralph Warren Heads New Sales District

Creation of a new sales district, with headquarters at Kingston, has been announced by Bell Canada Limited. All 99 retail outlets within the counties of Ontario, Prince Edward, Leeds, Frontenac, Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings and Lennox - Addington will be supervised from the Kingston district office.

Appointed manager of the new district is Ralph I. Warren, formerly of Belleville, native of Picton. He first became associated with the oil industry as a service station operator in his hometown, in 1934, and continued in this capacity until 1946, when he joined another major oil company and came to BP in 1956 as a sales representative.

Mr. Warren has long been active in municipal affairs and is a former councillor, reeve and mayor of Picton. His residence in Belleville was at 287 Charles Street, where he lived prior to moving to Kingston.

Santa Claus wound up his telephoning last evening after calling "Operator" 5,000 boys and girls in the city Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. To accomplish this, Santa was assisted by 48 men who manned telephones in Mr. Proctor's office at the Bell Telephone Company.

Children called, had addressed cards to them, with their names, phone number and address. Cards were distributed to the smaller grades in the schools and were also had by some merchants on Front Street. Santa Claus also sent each boy and girl he talked to a letter. The Telephone Santa Claus Fund, Dream was initiated by the Belleville Recreation Committee a few years ago.

ADDITION JUST 286 VOTES OUT

That old newspaper bugbear, the typographical error, crept into the published poll by poll returns of Monday's municipal election to throw at least one candidate's vote total out of line.

In Poll No. 23 the tabulated list gave public utilities candidate John A. Wesse a total of 11 votes while the tabulating total for polls 25-26-27 also gave a total of 11 votes. In each case the total should have been 111, and that thus the addition was just 200 votes out.

WILL SHOW PARADE ON TELEVISION

For those persons who were unable to get downtown last Saturday or for some other reason missed this year's Santa Claus Parade, the highlights of this year's events will be shown over CKWS-TV Kingston on Saturday afternoon. The showing of Belleville's Santa parade will commence at 3.15 and will run for an expected 15 minutes.

BELLEVILLE RINK WINNER OF PRIZE AT PETERBOROUGH

Five women rinks journeyed to Peterborough on Thursday to enjoy a one-day bonspiel and hospitality of the Curling Club in that city. The rinks were skipped by Mrs. Audrey Gow, Mrs. Ruth Ruggles, Mrs. Jean Smith, Mrs. Win McKee and Mrs. Cecile Wilkinson. Mrs. Wilkinson's was the only rink to gather any prize money, they winning the one-game high score. There was a full draw and the curlers report that it was fast and in good condition.

RCAF, Town-of-Trenton Night Is Highly Enjoyable Affair

TRENTON — Last evening, a RCAF-Town of Trenton night was held in the Trenton Country Club. Over 200 officers and men of A.C.F. Air Transport Command and civic dignitaries were present. The object of the gathering which has been arranged by O. W. Larry, working in conjunction with Mayor Ross Burtt and the council, was to acquaint the members of both factions more with each other and with their mutual interests and problems.

O. W. Larry was master of the meeting, introduced guests who were asked to take their places on the platform. These included A.C.F.S. Carpenter, Group Captain A. J. Sproule, Group Captain D. J. Williams, Mayor Ross Burtt, Mayor-elect James MacDonald and members of the 1959 council and council elect for 1960.

Mayor Burtt extended civic greetings to the guests and Mayor-elect MacDonald added a few words of welcome.

O. W. Larry then gave a brief history of the town, from the time when, according to legend, Samuel de Champlain stood on the slopes of Mount Pelion and gazed down over the Bay of Quinte to the present day. The speaker gave an account of the struggles of the first settlers in the district, the arrival of the United Empire Loyalists, the influence of the Gilmour Lumber Company on the economy of the town, the importance of Trenton in the early part of this century as a railway centre, the great influx of war workers in the wake of the British Chemical Company from 1915 until the plant was destroyed in an explosion in 1918, Trenton's economic drawn in becoming "The Hollywood of Canada," and the problems which beset the town in the "hungry thirties," when one third of the population was on relief.

Mr. Larry praised Senator W. A. Fraser as the man who had done the most to put Trenton on the town with diversified industry following the depression. Since the end of World War II, said the speaker, the town has seen many changes. Mr. Larry said that Trenton is one of the eight "separated towns" in the province and there seems very little advantage in becoming a city, even though the population warrants it.

The various chairmen of the elected and appointed municipal boards then spoke for a few minutes on the functions of their bodies. Among the speakers were T. S. Ketcham, chairman of the board of education; Dr. A. Byrne, chairman of the separate school board; Clifford Smith, chairman of the public utilities commission; E. M. Parker Jr., chairman of the board of trade; commissioner James Cox, chairman of the library board; Councillor Howard Aziz, speaking for George Greer, chairman of the recreation commission; Magistrate T. Y. Wills, chairman of the police commission; Fire Chief Cecil Ellis; Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, chairman of the Trenton and Suburban planning board; Donald R. Fraser, councillor-elect, speaking for John Lovell, chairman of the Community Centre committee; S. A. O. Graham, chairman of the board of directors of Trenton Memorial Hospital and Dr. E. W. Dow, chairman of the board of health.

Group Captain Carpenter thanked Mr. Larry and the various local officials who had been responsible for the planning of the meeting. He extended an invitation to those present to attend a similar reception at RCAF Station Trenton on January 15. A.C. Carpenter said that he believed that it was well if the people and the government of Canada to maintain "peace with freedom," and that the Air Transport Command provided part of that defensive force.

Air Transport Command, the various functions and duties, A.C. Carpenter said that by January 14 of next year, an advance forces overseas air terminal would be opened at the Trenton air base. The particular need of this service is to accommodate two new types of transport aircraft which will be brought into use the first of the year. One of these is a Canadian-designed modification of the Bristol Britannia. The plane will be designated the CF-106, and will be capable of transporting 200 people or 40,000 pounds over 4,000 miles, or proportionate the capabilities of the North Star aircraft which can carry a load of 30,000 pounds over the same distance. The new aircraft will be capable of transporting 104 fully equipped military personnel, 100 pounds of baggage per head, and 10,000 pounds of freight over the prescribed 2000 mile course.

Senator W. A. Fraser was the last speaker of the evening. Mr. Fraser lauded the spirit of cooperation, and urged his listeners to carry on the work of maintaining harmonious co-operation between the town and the airforce. "You can prepare in the RCAF from the town of Trenton," the speaker said. "Trenton is an airforce town."

Mr. Fraser referred to his part in the industrial growth of the town, and said that at the moment he was carrying on negotiations with an American firm with the object of bringing another thriving industry to the town. He said he could not elaborate on the subject, but he assured those present that the firm was in the final deciding to locate in Trenton according to good.

Following the speeches, the airmen and townspeople enjoyed a buffet lunch. A buffet lunch was served.

Legion Holds Monthly Meet

TRENTON — The regular monthly executive meeting of Trenton Branch 118, Canadian Legion, was held on Monday evening.

A letter from the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion was read, advising the Trenton members that the following had been awarded life memberships in the Legion: L. Davidson, J. C. Farrell, C. H. Ford, H. Hall, W. O. Lascombe and G. A. Nokes.

In a special initiation ceremony, conducted by Branch President William Lawson, 1st Vice-President R. A. Grier and House Committee Chairman O. C. Smith, Robert Pyre, who has acted as Branch Bugler, was initiated and welcomed into membership of the Branch.

Sports committee chairman, Bill Mills, advised members that Trenton will be represented in the Zone Curling Bonspiel on January 15 by three rinks. Carman Livingstone will be skipper and chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the event.

Ken Craddock, chairman of the entertainment committee, advised the members that his committee had been most active during the past month, arranging the regular Saturday evening dances and making preparations for the annual children's Christmas party, which will be held on Saturday, December 19, with the children's concert being held on Sunday, December 20th.

Membership committee chairmans, Carman Livingstone, said that his committee would shortly sent awards to the members who have brought in the most candidates for membership during the year. This presentation will take place at the next general meeting of the branch, on December 21st.

Only 6 Escapees Of Mass Break Now at Large

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Charles W. York Directory, 32, described as the ringleader of Tuesday's escape of 30 men from North Carolina's Piedmont Prison, was captured here early today after a high-speed chase that resulted from a police officer's hunch.

The Wilmington, N.C., convict was nabbed when the car he was driving failed to make a curve at the Smith River bridge and crashed about 30 feet to the edge of the river.

Stewart's arrest left at large only six of the escapees. Two of them believed to have been with Stewart as late as Thursday are being sought in the Lynchburg-Roanoke, Va., area.

Tour of Plant, Turkey Dinner For Salesmen

On Wednesday, salesmen and executives of Canadiana Limited were guests of Canadiana Limited at a turkey dinner, held in the dining room at Lakeside.

Preceding the dinner, a tour of the plant in Consumers' Street was conducted. The processing of granite memorials, in the various stages of polishing, lettering and carving, was shown. The tour was conducted by Mr. H. R. Scully, plant superintendent.

The guests assembled at Lakeside, where Mr. Scully, turkey dinner was enjoyed. Mr. W. Ross Hubbard, Belleville manager, gave a short address of welcome, after which the

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market began a slow slide during dull, uninteresting morning trading today.

The 11 a.m. volume of 413,000 shares compared with Thursday's turnover at the same time was 462,000 shares.

Ford Motor Company led industrial w i n n e r s gaining 1¼ points at 81½ on an active turnover. Other changes were fractional.

Southam Company on a few sales, lost one point at 80 to lead losers.

Mines were mixed. In golds, McIntyre - Porcupine led senior issues with a ¾ point gain at 89½. In base metals International Nickel fell ¼ at 104½. In uraniums Algom climbed ½ at 11 and Consolidated Denison advanced 20 cents at 89.95. Gunnar picked up 10 cents at 89.85.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers sold at uneven prices this week at the Ontario Public Stockyards.

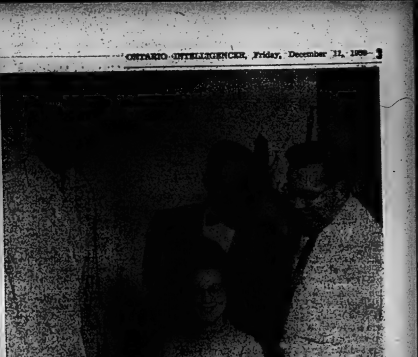
The modest number of good to choice yearling cattle moved actively at firm prices while cow prices were steady. Good cows opened slowly and traded on a weak undertone while the bulk of the offerings sold at firm prices. Bulls were also firm.

Veal sold very fairly but 51 and more pe r hundredweight higher for the week with the bulk of the offerings made up mostly of plain and heavy rough calves which sold at steady prices.

Hog prices were unchanged and now quote were 21 per hundredweight lower. Sheep and lamb prices were steady.

Cattle totalled the same as last week and were some 300 head lower than the same week in 1958. Western cattle receipts were sharply lower at 317 as against 1,000 a week ago. There was one carload of cattle shipped to Eastern Canadian slaughterers and no exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $25-26.50 with sales to 26 and tops to 26.75; good 24-25; medium 21-22; common 15-20; good heifers 22-25 with choice to 26; medium 18 - 21; common 15 - 18; choice fed yearlings 27-28; good 25-27; good cows 14-16.50; medium 13-14; common 12-13; canners and cutters 9-11; good heavy bologna bulls mostly 17.50 - 18; common and medium light bulls 14-17.



Replacement cattle: Good lightweight stockers mostly 22-25 with a few picked loads selling at a premium; good steer stock calves 25-28; plain stock calves and good heifers 18-22; common and medium stockers mostly from 15-18.

Calves: Good vealers 31 - 33 with choice to a top of 36; medium 25-30; common 20-24; hoo (rs 12 - 20; heavy, fat, rough calves 18-23.

Hogs: Grade A 22.65; heavy cows 13.50; light sows 13.50; stags 14 on a dressed weight basis.

Above may be seen two of the persons involved in the first part of the co-operative training plan initiated by the commercial department of the Quinte Secondary School for its Grade 12 students. In the centre may be seen Roy Shettler, production control supervisor at Northern Electric, showing student Nick Lopuchowycz (right), the setup of a filing system while an unidentified employee at left carries on with business as usual.

The new co-operative training plan is also in operation at the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control where (left to right), Dr. John Barlow, past chairman of the advisory vocational committee of the Bay of Quinte High School Board; John Hayman, head of the commercial department at Quinte Secondary, and John Sherman, office manager at the institute, give Ruth Foley, one of the participating students, some advice on office technique. The first week of the program concludes today with another week's operation scheduled for the end of March next year.

Accused Given 18 Months in Reformatory

Michael Kundeus, alias John Bogush, no given address, was sentenced to 18 months in the reformatory today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills following conviction on charges of breaking and entering.

Bogush was charged with breaking and entering Morrison's Garage and Coiffeur Food Market on Canniffon Road, and also entering Ted's Restaurant on College Street.

Also in city magistrate's court a local James Street youth was directed by the magistrate to attend the Belleville Police Traffic School following which disposition would be given on a careless driving charge.

The youth earlier in court pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving following an accident near the Devil's Elbow on Highland Avenue in which a hydro pole was broken.

Quinte Secondary Commercial Students Getting Insight Into Workings of Modern Industry

"I didn't realize there was so much to it," said one Quinte Secondary School student. "We will go along with this in the future," stated an office manager of a local government department. "You appreciate schoolwork to see how what you learn in school is used in business every day," said another student of the commercial department's graduating class at Quinte Secondary. "Our company is prepared to co-operate closely with the school on this project," affirmed an official of a local electronics firm. "We try to bring home to the student that education is a very important thing (to our visiting students)," added another official of the firm.

These people were talking about the Quinte Secondary School Co-operative Training Plan initiated by the commercial department of that school in co-operation with the Bay of Quinte High School Board, and a number of local industries. This plan allows the 13 students in the graduating class of this department to spend a full week in the offices of local industries so that they might get a better idea of what they are expected to do when they take a position after graduating.

It also should give students an opportunity to see where some of their own weaknesses in schoolwork lie, stated John Hayman, head of the Quinte's commercial department.

STUDENTS ASSIGNED

Each student is assigned to a particular employer within the firm with the understanding that he is to get as much varied experience as possible. Students are treated the same as regular employees of the firm, work the regular office hours, but receive no pay. The students have spent one week in this program during this week and will be spending another week along the same line in March, but with a different firm.

Eight local businesses have contributed to the evident success of this plan. They are: Lend Johnson Canada Ltd., Northern Electric Co. Ltd., Lorne McDougall Insurance Agency, International Hardware Company of Canada Ltd., London Life Insurance Co., the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control, the Ontario Hydro Commission and the John Bush Funeral Home.

One student who is quite enthusiastic about what he is learning is Ruth Foley, manager, who has spent the week at the Northern Electric plant learning about the methods used in production control. He was assisted by Roy Shettler, supervisor of the production control department, who was responsible for Nick's training, whilst at Northern Electric.

The first day was spent explaining the fundamental workings of the department and making the student acquainted with the department and its various branches. Each of the following days was spent with a foreman or supervisor of one of the branches of activity of the production control department. A briefing session started off each day while Messrs. Shettler and Lopuchowycz discussing what had happened the day before and with a general explanation of what the local high school student would encounter during his agenda for the day at hand.

Many things were covered, during the course of the week. From the receipt of a customer's order, through the determination of parts and supplies required to complete the manufacture of the items ordered, the ordering of these parts, the expediting of the production of the ordered, until it was ready for shipment; all of the details of this varied and interesting procedure were given to the local student.

Repair Costs Marmora Dam Higher Than First Estimate

Repair costs at the Marmora dam on the Crowe River will be considerably higher than the original estimate of engineers, members of the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority were told at their final meeting of the year held yesterday at Marmora.

At the meeting the engineer in charge of repairs told Authority members that the foundation of the dam had been found to be in a much worse state of disrepair than was anticipated and much additional work would be required.

Total cost of the repairs was originally estimated at $14,000. The work is being done at the cost plus basis by Enirusion-Prepark Ltd., of Toronto, specialist in grouting repair work on dams.

The engineer told the meeting the excavation of defective material in the dam was running close to 100 per cent more than anticipated.

Since commencement of repairs five weeks ago a new 35 ft. 100 foot section of concrete slab over one of the spillways has been poured replacing a former wooden deck which had deteriorated beadly.

Dam repair costs will be shared 50 per cent by the Authority and 50 per cent by the province.

At yesterday's meeting Authority members appointed a special three-man committee of representatives from Marmora village, Marmora and Lake townships and Belmont and Methuen township to supervise operation of the Marmora Dam.

PAY SHARE OF COST

Possibility of a system of custom pleasing for private owners within the watershed was discussed and it appears that an attempt toward this end may be made next year. Under this system experienced tree planting personnel plant the trees for landowners, who pay at least a share of the cost.

The village of Havelock has still not paid its 1959 levy to the Authority and the secretary treasurer was directed to write a firm letter to the municipality pointing out that the anticipated levy would have to be paid in accordance with the conservation authorities act.

Also on the meeting agenda was discussion of the proposed 1960 budget, it being suggested the levy against the municipalities next year should be the same owing to the additional cost this year for repairs at the Marmora dam. Minimum levies against municipalities were also discussed with Walter van Dusen for Belmont and Methuen township suggesting that next year's delegate to the meeting discuss this matter.

Alec Roberts, president of the Chandos Lake Cottagers Association, asked the Authority to consider the construction of a dam at the lake outlet which would maintain the summer lake level. He said his association represented 200 cottagers including 40 cottage owners, with its members paying 75 per cent of the township taxes.

He said the lake level now fluctuates between four and four and a half feet and suggested that a dam to maintain the July level be considered by the Authority.

Mr. Roberts was told that any such request would have to come from the municipality concerned before the matter could be considered by the Authority.

Football Fans Psychoanalyzed

There seems to be a cycle of fashion in crusades and this fall the reformers appear to have selected the rough, tough game of pro football for dissection and analysis. An article in Maclean's Magazine laid the victims of Canada's annual Grey Cup fever on the psychiatrist's couch and now we have Esquire printing a critique of U.S. professional football by Thomas B. Morgan. Pro football gates have skyrocketed at a time when other professional spectator sports are suffering box office shakes. Why? Pro football, we are told by Morgan, "is harder, faster, meaner and more acute" than the college game; no single motivation explains the large crowds it attracts, but all crowds have sadistic streaks and "when two giants collide . . . the sound is delicious"; football is a field of sanctioned savagery" which contrasts with our humdrum civilized life.

All this sounds plausible, but our experience is that football is no favorite amongst people who know nothing about the game. That those who have played it get a vicarious pleasure out of watching every bone-jarring tackle we readily admit, but that this is necessarily sadistic we doubt. There is something satisfying about a bodily contact sport which those who have never played it may not understand. There is no bodily contact sport in which players can give and receive so much punishment with so little permanent damage as football. When one can no longer play, the next best thing is to watch. Not everybody who enjoys watching football has played the game, of course, but for the sadist we would imagine there would be more satisfaction in the flailing fists of a hockey or lacrosse game than in the clash of unarmed and padded football players.

Nor can we quite buy the explanation of the eminent historian, Arnold Toynbee, quoted by Mr. Morgan, that sport "is a conscious attempt to counterbalance the soul-destroying specialization which the division of labor and the industrialism entails." Team sports depend on a division of labor and the better they are played the more likely are we to find specialization. Perhaps, though, Toynbee's observation may explain why there has been, in recent years, a very pronounced trend away from participation in team sports to individual sports, such as tennis, skiing and the like.

Morgan says that "the truth is that modern men do seek and need the psychological values of spectator sports" and "that it is logical to expect that the sport which best fills our needs as a people in motion will have a mass appeal." It would be interesting to hear some explanation of what needs of the British people have been responsible for the rise in the appeal of greyhound racing, and just why the Czechs and other Europeans are now developing such a pronounced love for our Canadian game of hockey. What particular need does it fill today which did not exist a few decades ago? And what is the need which sends tens of thousands of Brazilians, Germans, Russians, Englishmen, Italians and Mexicans flocking to soccer matches, but which does not exist in the United States of Canada to produce similar sized crowds here?

Finally, if, as Morgan says, Americans "want their sports "harder, faster and meaner," which is the secret of the appeal south of the border of basketball, a game in which bodily contact is forbidden by the rules?

There is, of course, one explanation which fits all these cases—people are only interested in watching a sport after they have learned something of its techniques. To accept that explanation, though, would appear to entail abandoning all these beliefs in "psychological values"—and concluding that, with sports as with ladies' hats, there is no rhyme nor reason to the ebb and flow of fashions.

Cut the Red Tape

The red tape in the case of much-needed nurses, particularly English speaking members of the profession from Australia is unwarranted. One would think that the federal authorities would make every effort to make the entry of nurses into Canada as pleasant as possible. - (St. Catharines Standard).

THE JOY OF GETTING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I wonder if there lives a man
Who really doesn't swell with pride
When messenger or postman brings
A little package, ribbon tied,
And places it within his hands.
I wonder if he doesn't cry
When he receives a Christmas gift:
"Well, someone likes me anyway."

We foolishly express the thought
That Christmas giving's overdone
And often we deplore the fact
And some peoples was.
Christmas Eve

Unto ourselves we all must say
When friends remember us with gift:
"Well, someone likes me anyway."

Perhaps it's vanity, and yet I like to think "in something
That makes the heart go pit-a-pat
When messengers are at the door.
That makes the bosom swell with pride
When gifts arrive on Christmas Day;
It's just the joy of knowing that
There's someone likes us anyway.

Historic Hastings

The Road North

ARTICLE 108

(Contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

The task of laying out the Hastings Colonization Road had been given in 1847 to Radenville surveyor Publius V. Ellmore. This he proceeded to do in competent style.

From the north end of Concession Five in Madoc Township, Elmore surveyed a line that proceeded northwest to the eastern boundary of Lake township and then north to the Madawaska River.

The first few miles of this road he described as "straight and pretty level" with several creeks swamps and a high, rocky hill known today as the Hole-in-the-Wall.

Elmore noted the presence of two excellent mill sites in connection with the Crowe River and reported that there was a large tract of land considered settlement in that vicinity.

Difficulties apparently plagued Elmore's northern progress for he was often late in his notes for the area around Lake Lapaquette during the survey.

Nevertheless the work of laying out the line for the proposed settlement road was completed.

The next step was to actually open the Hastings Road. The task of supervising this construction fell to Noah Bird, a resident of a pioneer family of Sidney Township and a member of council. In Noah Bird there was instructed to see that a settlers' road was opened on Elmore's suggested line.

A contract for 40 miles of settlers' road at the cost of 15 pounds per mile, exclusive of bridges, was let. The whole cost of the 40-mile span including bridges was 5,000 pounds and the contract for "the whole of the job is well done".

The actual construction of the road was delegated by contract to George Hallan, a prominent Belleville contractor, who, in turn sub-let the work to Messrs. Cook and St. Charles, Madoc farmers.

(Wallace and Cook subsequently went into a gold mining venture, which proved disastrous, and Thomas Scott, who was to be Sir Richard Bird during the Rebellion of 1869-70, worked in this mine.)

The first section of the road were also built by these men, George Hallan, it appears, failed to fill up these newly surveyed lots with English male dancers, on the contrary, are acknowledged to be the most energetic virtues; with very few exceptions, they are frustrated belleving.

I bring this up not to indict them or to veer at anyone's problems, but simply to point out that the cultural patterns of a nation determine what activities are taken up by what sort of people. The Russian, for instance, since the Revolution, dancing was regarded as a vigorous art form, with the result all "sissified" about it. It was no more unusual for a man to become a dancer than to become a crossbuy-driver.

As a result, this art did not attract merely the "sensitive and willowy young men, as it has in America. Because the Russian public did not consider dancing to be effeminate as the Anglo-Saxons still uneasily feel it to be — the Russian dance-scene was filled with big, athletic members of both sexes.

The same contrasting pattern in both nations can be seen with regard to chess. In America, chess is considered a "sissified" pastime, to be scorned by the athletic and extroverts. Even millions play the game in Russia as factory workers, soccer stars, and even politicians.

Russia now has the best chess players in the world simply because more people take up the game there than anywhere else in the world, not because they are smarter or more adept.

We regard the field of art we invite, in America, the fields of music (as in the 1930's and to some degree) literature are crowded with men of dubious talent, while as a nation we make a false separation between everyday living and the arts.

If, in a society, virile young men are shunned out of the artistic interest in dancing or music or acting, then the vacuum left by their absence will inevitably be filled by the deviates and by those with talent, but more of them merely seeking to create a closed and comfy society of their own.

My objection to this are not moral, for there is no such healthful when the arts are dominated by a particular group, no matter what that group may be. A monopoly — whether financial, political, or social is always ends by suffocating the thing it embraces.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IMPORTANT — BUT NOT COMPLETE

People often remark that the Golden Rule is enough of a religion for them. They will keep the Golden Rule and let the "high-flown" "go by the board."

This, to indulge in moderate metaphor, is a superficial appraisal of the significance of religious truth. There is no requirement in Scripture quite so hard to live up to as the Golden Rule. In fact, it can be said with confidence that no one except Jesus himself ever lived up to the moral requirements of this Rule.

The Bible is, above everything else, divine revelation. It tells us things about God and His purposes which we could not possibly find out by our own most diligent searching. This revelation — often scoffed at as a sort of fancy type of hooking — is basic to religious thought and action. The person who thinks he can substitute the Golden Rule for what he terms "mere theology" is sadly deceived indeed.

C.S. Lewis has become one of the great religious writers of this generation. He once believed that rationalism and disbelief in the ethical aspects of Christianity were sufficient. But he learned differently, and out of a great Christianity, and out of a great experience have come his great books on Christian truth. In fact, C. S. Lewis' writings reflect the complete gospel — and they are important though the Golden Rule undoubtedly is.

At a meeting last evening of the members of the Total Abstainers Society in connection with St. Michael's Church the Academy, a debate took place on a resolution declaring the colors as being blue, while the red-ryder's maintained that it be green. In still others, the colors tend to merge into gray and brown tones so much that they cannot distinguish colors except when they are bright, clear tones — and then with difficulty.

I wouldn't say that such people, even if severely color blind, "have no colors at all." They do fact a great deal more than black and white, but they may not be able to tell green from blue or red from brown.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ARE YOU LIKABLE?

I have heard many people say they didn't "care" whether anyone liked them or not, that if people didn't like them, and their ways, it made no difference.

But no one ever made such statements. We all want to be liked, loved and "made a fuss over." We crave a measure of appreciation. And without appreciation the whole world would sag and the solar system would soon go bang as unexpectedly as the little fine wire of an electric light bulb often does. Life's a mighty lonely place for those who are unliked.

Do people like you?

Don't say you don't care. I know that you think so. You know perfectly well that you don't.

And what a feeling of inspired power seems to fairly shine through one's heart and soul, knowing that one is liked and loved. There is a zest for living, I know that people like you. wonder—

Do people like you?

For you will always be liked and loved for what you do. Not merely for what you say. Though your words may often do what words can do, and frequently do. Many times words are deads.

If you smile, if you give, if you work, people will like you for the very much. They will make it a point to be where you will work and work and they will want to keep you in sight. You can make people like you.

South Africa' Topic at W. Study Guild

"South Africa" was the subject discussed by the Women's Study Guild at their recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. Trill, George Street.

During the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Reid, it was decided to send a cash donation and baby clothes to the Salvation Army Grace Hospital for its layette project. A letter of appreciation from the Guild's former child was read.

Mrs. Menzies centred the worship service around the theme "Liberty and Freedom." She read the account of the deliverance of the Israelites from bondage in Exodus 14 and closed with a prayer.

S. AFRICA HISTORY—

Mrs. Seldon began the discussion of South Africa by outlining the history of the country from 1652 onward. Although originally settled by the Dutch, South Africa was eventually conquered by Great Britain, and is now an autonomous country within the Commonwealth. The Union of South Africa now consists of four provinces, Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Roman-Dutch law is used in the Cape, while English law is used in Natal, Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Because of the Dutch influence, Afrikaans and English are the official languages.

The Dutch Reformed Church is the largest religious group in South Africa. The Anglican Church is the second largest. Other religious groups include the Methodists, Presbyterians, Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Congregationalists, Baptists, Jews, Moslems and Hindus.

The Dutch settled South Africa in the 17th century. They were followed by the British in the 18th century. The Dutch, who were called Boers, moved inland to escape British rule. They established the Boer Republics of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. The Boers fought two wars with the British, but were defeated in both. In 1910 the Union of South Africa was established.

The Boers, who are descendants of the Dutch, French Huguenots and Germans, are known for their love of freedom and their hatred of the British. They are also known for their love of the land and their ability to farm it.

The Bantu, who are the largest native group in South Africa, are divided into many tribes. They are known for their skill in metalwork, pottery and basketry.

The Coloureds are people of mixed European and native blood. They are known for their skill in music and dancing.

The Indians are descendants of the Indians who were brought to South Africa by the British to work on the sugar plantations. They are known for their skill in trade and commerce.

The Europeans are descendants of the Dutch, French Huguenots and Germans who settled in South Africa. They

Candlelight Service at Tabernacle WA

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.A. was held in the church parlor on a recent Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Kerr, opened the meeting."

An impressive candlelight service was conducted by Mrs. Frank Davidson. Those assisting in candlelight service were: Mrs. Sidney Smith, Miss Ethel Hortiss, Mrs. Ostling, Mrs. Way, Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Robb, Mrs. Fisher, Miss Johns, Mrs. Roy Brickman, Miss S. Mingay and Mrs. Morley Graham.

The assistant minister, Mrs. Eleanor Leard, spoke to the group.

Mrs. Leard emphasized how Christmas is a time for families to be together so in celebrating Christmas we should think of God's family in other lands. Mrs. Leard, who has been a missionary in India, spoke of how the church in Canada can help the Christian church in India.

Many brilliant students from India come to Canadian universities to study. It would help if the church would send money to help more students come to the colleges and study and then go back to India and help in the Christian Indian church.

"An Indian Christian can do a better work in the church in India than a Canadian Christian. The Indian understands his own people. It would help too, if the student's family could come here and live for a year or so and then go back to India. The family would be able to help in a Christian community in India as they would be able to demonstrate how people live together in Canada in a Christian community.

"The Indians are fast learning to read. They need good literature. The church can help by establishing radio stations. The radio is a most effective method of spreading the gospel. Missionary boats must co-operate in work in India.

"Bible Correspondence Courses are an effective method of spreading the gospel in India.

"We must undergird the work of Indians in India. The most effective way to do this is to give for this end do those things which will help the Indian Christian to help themselves."

The group decided to remember the sick at Christmas time with gifts and cards.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Group 4 and a social hour was enjoyed.

Coronation W.A. Sponsors Yuletide Party

On Monday evening the Coronation W.A. of Bridge St. United church held a Christmas party in the church parlor with a large number of members and guests attending.

The parlor was decorated for the occasion with a Christmas tree, candles and stockings by the conveners of the party, Mrs. G. Shaver and Mrs. D. Vice.

Many white-wrapped gifts for the nursery were placed under the tree by the ladies. The evening began with carol singing under the direction of Mrs. F. F. Taylor. The devotions in the form of a candle-lighting service were presented by several white-gowned ladies. Those taking part were: Mesdames G. Shaver; G. Locklin; J. S. Loynes; A. Courtney; F. Preston; H. M. Davis; D. Lockyer; R. Chandler; D. Vice and B.M. Kerr.

Miss Loretta McDougall, accompanied by Mrs. D. M. Scott at the piano, sang two solos during the evening and Mrs. R. Morden told the story of "A Stranger."

On behalf of the group, Mrs. C. Bristol presented Mrs. Locklin with a gift in appreciation for the many hours she devoted to the Coronation W. A. during the past year.

Several games and contests were played under the direction of Mrs. G. Shaver. The ladies matched Christmas cards to find their partners for lunch.

Christ Church C.C. Holds Closing Party

On Monday evening the members of the Cradle Roll of Christ Church held their closing party of the year.

The evening started with two rousing games of running team escorting lovely little princesses like real Christmas gifts. Next on the program was the singing of "Coop Tails-ing," which proved entertaining.

The club was treated to some lovely dance numbers by the pupils of Dorothy Dickey Shickle, who did a Charleston. The girls taking part were Carolyn Chisholm, Karen Post and Penny Hayden. The Club was also entertained by two little sailor girls dressed in blue sailor middy suits, who did some fine tap numbers. These little girls were Sandy and Debbie Bolford.

Dorothy introducing the pupils, the Chisholm twins who gave a fine demonstration on how to do the Charleston. This brought much merriment and an ovation for a repeat performance, which the dancers graciously obliged.

The evening was brought to a close with the traditional supper of cold turkey, salads and Christmas cake with Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and Rev. H. Mountain doing the duties of chefs.

This much enjoyed evening was convened by Jean Fletcher's group.

The president, Mary Fletcher, introduced the new executive for 1960 and past president, Mrs. Chisholm presented Mary with her past president's pin.

The evening closed with best wishes of the children being expressed by Jean Fletcher and song "Auld Lang Syne."

appointed with red lace cloth and silver candelabra. The table centres were with daffy-nated-wiches and frosted angel cakes decorated to the Christmas theme.

Mrs. T. Brown thanked the conveners and those who helped for a delightful evening.

COLLEGE HILL W.A.

The final meeting for 1959 of College Hill W.A. met on Wednesday afternoon in the church with the president, Mrs. D. Hunter presiding.

After welcoming all those present, she opened the meeting with a Christmas reading, "The Little Star". The W.A. theme hymn was sung followed by the devotional period. This was a candlelighting service which was arranged by Mrs. D. Bailey. Taking part were Mesdames. Watson, Cassidy, Fleming, Rowland, Dickens, Price, Belcour and Jenkinson, while Mrs. F. Wilkor read the Scripture lesson taken from the second chapter of St. Luke's gospel. Mrs. C. Westland sang an appropriate solo and Mrs. Hunter led in prayer. Christmas carols "Silent Night, Holy Night" and "Come Holy Spirit", were also sung during this service.

A short business meeting followed. The roll call showed 17 members and five visitors present.

The treasurer gave a gratifying report on the bazaar held last month.

Candy-day boxes were turned in and it was decided the socializing for the month be a candy family at Christmas time.

Refreshments in keeping with Christmas, were served by Mesdames Belcour, Dickens, Clarke and Bailey.

SPECIAL INVITATION CIRCUMSTANCE

How glad the party season is to [illegible], a pot pourri of things found to the fore again. Ex... ding my opinion may make a very unpopular to some. If so, I apologize. Anyway, here it is.

I have been receiving many invitations to more or less formal evening parties. With one outstanding exception, no indication was given that I might bring an escort, or that my hostess was including one for me.

Now, unfortunately, in that single-word "extra woman" category, I suppose the fact that I am thought of at all should have been appreciated. Believe me, it has. However, I have turned down the invitations with but the one exception mentioned.

Why? Because it there is anything more embarrassing than to arrive at such a party alone, I would like to know what it is. Your hostess receives a brief [illegible], probably with some other woman to the same fix, and you are left on your own for a while, making [illegible] departure as soon as it's decently possible to do so.

The reason this manoeuvre seems necessary is that you have little to barge in on the whole group as the party with their own groups of friends. You stop and chat for a moment perhaps, but, no matter how nice they are, you feel uncomfortable if you tag along with them.

Before I make any suggestions for remedying this situation, I would like to say that I am not alone in this little dilemma. Other women in the same [illegible] position have written to correct with my sentiments on the subject.

It would make things so much easier if, when a hostess issues such invitation, she would indicate one of two things — either that an escort may be brought [illegible] or that she, herself, is providing one.

My first suggestion gives the [illegible] a chance to decide whether or not she wishes to go alone; or, going, to bring an escort. (If she can find one).

The second idea really applies only in the case where the party is to be fairly small, such as a formal dinner. Naturally, it would be almost impossible for a hostess to bring forth escorts when the undertaking is to be in the form of a huge reception or ball, but she should do so for Chance's. Remember: if the hostess does provide the escort, she should see to it that he furnishes transportation to and from the party for the lady he is escorting.

While I realize my suggestions place an added burden on a hostess, she can rest assured that she will receive the undying [illegible] of her unattached women friends for her thoughtfulness in their behalf.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each week it will discuss one family case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and committees.

Mrs. K. J. — Vivian talks flippantly of divorce.

Vivian J. — It's better than unhappy marriage.

Mrs. K. J. — My problem is how to bring up my family with the right ideas about marriage when they see so much that is wrong going on around them.

Our religion does not outlaw divorce, yet it does view divorce as an extreme measure and I certainly hope my children will be spared that unhappiness. But my daughter Vivian, who is only 18, talks very flippantly about divorce and says she wants to have at least two husbands in her lifetime.

There have been several divorces in my husband's family and one in mine, but my marriage has been completely happy. Yet every time I have the least disagreement with my husband Vivian comes out with "Why don't you two get divorced?"

Vivian J. — I don't think that two people should be forced to live together when they no longer love one another — and I also think very few people have the ability to hit it right the first time they marry. It takes experience to know what you want.

Two of my aunts and two uncles have been divorced and all but one have remarried, very happily. One of my aunts told me it took a lot of hard experience to make her understand what a good marriage was.

Frankly, I don't think my parents have the courage to divorce. They aren't as happy as they try to pretend to me. Every time I mention divorce they look scared. But I think it's more to me to have to stick to marriage when you're unhappy.

The COUNCIL: Vivian certainly has divorce on the brain, yet we doubt whether she is really so flippant on the subject as she pretends.

Adolescents often pretend to flippancy about subjects that confuse and frighten them. They want to discuss their matters with their parents, but they hate to show their fear and confusion. They may make sophisticated cracks about sex, for example, in an attempt to get it talked about without having to submit to the indignity of asking questions.

It is more than likely that Vivian, like most young girls, dreams of a perfect romance and an always-delightful marriage. The fact that marriages can have ups and that even her parents do not live in perpetual bliss must be upsetting. When she suggests divorce to her parents she may be expressing a fear that it could happen to them.

Vivian's false ideas can be dispelled by a few lectures or by check and horror on her parent's part when she delivers one of her cracks on the subject of divorce. Certainly they should not give these remarks their approval, but a sympathetic ear and try to focus Vivian's attention on the many happy lifelong marriages around them.

We believe that a good family life, a sound understanding of religious principles and emotional maturity are the biggest factors in creating successful marriages. The K. J.'s need not insist on their happiness as long as there is ample evidence of this in their daily lives. As she matures, Vivian will become more conscious of the genuinely good influence of her family life and she will start thinking in positive terms of how to model hers along the same pattern.

St. Andrew's Club Sponsors Yuletide Party

IVANHOE — A Christmas party, sponsored by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Club was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church parlors last Friday. This annual event was enjoyed by the children and attended by the congregation as well.

Mr. John McInroy acted as chairman. The program opened by the singing of familiar carols. The Rev. R. Rooney read the Christmas story from Luke 2 and led in prayer.

The program was presented by the children and consisted of songs and recitations. Those taking part were Jimmy Hegarty, Grant Thompson, Gordon Sills, Cheryl Haggerty, Jackie Sills, James Fergey, Nancy Fergey, Barbara Russell, Patsy Dennis, Bobbie Sills, Gerry Thompson, Janet Ann Dennis, Margaret Sills, Jackie Dennis, Freddie Sills and Russell Dennis.

Following a visit from Santa who distributed gifts from a decorated tree each child received a bag of candies. Refreshments were served.

River Valley W.I. Holds Annual Christmas Meeting

STIRLING — Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh was hostess for the Christmas meeting of River Valley Women's Institute on Tuesday, with 19 members and two visitors in attendance.

The home was attractively decorated with Christmas ornaments and a small lighted tree.

Mrs. Roy Tucker opened the meeting. Mrs. George Heasman presented a full report and gave a detailed account of the proceeds of the recent card parties and quilting, correspondence included a receipt for a donation to Mental Health Association; a message regarding Achievement Day January 23rd — "Meat in the Menu"; a letter from the Toronto Telegram regarding radios. Several bills were presented, including those for work done on the kitchen. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Albert Bradshaw who donated the labor. A donation of $10 for the building fund was received.

REPORT ON SUMMARY DAY

Mrs. Vernon Harry reported on Summer's Day which included visits from River Valley attended. Various articles were displayed including aprons, collars, oven mitts, etc., and a large colored poster. The theme was "Sew to save dollars and make sense."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, friendship link secretary read a letter received from Mrs. N. Cousins, Abbots' Leigh W.I. England This told of their recent 21st birthday party when each founder member received a red carnation. Their Christmas gift parcel had been posted to Canada.

In her public relations report, she mentioned the visit of president of F.W.I.O. is Mrs. L. G. Lymburner of Port Colborne, an Institute member for 30 years. The Federated Board of Directors convening in Guelph, asked the C.B.C. to ban social drinking on their T.V. broadcasts, and they sent a resolution to the provincial government to prohibit the sale of beer in the grocery stores.

She also told of Miss Leary of A.C.W.W. who stressed the need for pen friends to write regularly, or else be honest and tell the person concerned overseas that you cannot keep up the correspondence.

Mrs. Graham Spry, a Canadian, is the new chairman of the Associated Countrywomen of the World. She has represented the F.W.I.C. since 1954.

Mrs. Roy Tucker gave a full report of the four euchre parties held in November and the quiltings. She expressed her thanks to all who had assisted in any way with these activities.

Mrs. Roy Bush read two articles of interest from "The Countrywoman Magazine" which told of Lebanon, with a membership of about 1,000, and of Greenland, with 14 societies. Study courses on nutrition, hygiene, handicrafts, and such, are also provided.

River Valley W.I. will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in 1960 and Mrs. Roy Bush was appointed to bring in suggestions for observing this event at the January meeting.

GIFTS FOR KITCHEN

The roll call featured the giving of a gift for the Institute, and these included teaspoons, water glass, pitcher, mixing bowls, pickle dishes, tea towels, cash, plastic pail and one group donated a kitchen clock. The president expressed her thanks for all the articles.

Mrs. Roy Bush spoke briefly in appreciation of the two leaders, Mrs. V. Harry and Mrs. Allen McDonnell, who conducted the sewing class. Each was the recipient of a gift.

The Christmas program was conducted by Mrs. Harry Morrow and Mrs. John Keay, with each lady in attendance participating.

Mrs. Morrow provided piano accompaniment for the various carols which were sung.

"The Christmas Story in Verse," was read by the members, and at the conclusion of the story, all sang "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Mrs. John Kane read a story entitled "A Christmas of Long Ago When I Was A Little Girl."

She wore a long gown which crocheted apron banded with ribbon, and her little guest, Shelley Farrell, sat on a hassock at her knee. She closed with "Gifts We Used To Get Years That Used To Be" and "An Old Fashioned Country Church."

Mrs. Jack Bush read a poem entitled, "An Old Fashioned Sleigh Ride." Selections about Christmas symbols were read by several in attendancy telling of early customs. They included, "The Wise Men," by Mrs. Kenneth Myers; "Shepherds," by Mrs. Stanley Lyons; "Carols," by Mrs. Percy MacMullen; "Yule Log," by Mrs. Roy Tucker; "Mince Pies," by Mrs. Percy Ulman; "Stars," by Mrs. Fred Mitchell; "Holly," by Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh; "Log-ends," by Mrs. J. L. Donohoe; "Saints," by Mrs. Claude Tucker; "Christmas Rose," by Mrs. Roy Black; "Candles," by Miss Flossie Rosebush; "Candles," by Mrs. C. Bartels; "Poinsettias," by Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis; "Mistletoe," by Mrs. Roy Bush; "Special Candles," by Mrs. Ernest Carr; "The Wee Manger," by Mrs. John Kane; "Gifts," by Mrs. Vernon Harry; "Holly," by Mrs. George Heasman and "Ivy and Fireplace," by Mrs. Gerald Brooks.

These readings were interspersed with all singing "Silent Night."

At the close of the meeting the hostess and lunch convenors served light refreshments.

Mrs. Percy Ulman expressed thanks for the hospitality, program, and lunch.

Women's Activities

MINTO — The Christmas meeting of St. Thomas' W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Golden with a splendid attendance.

Previous to the meeting a wonderful bale of new and used clothing was sent to the Mission Burton and Cambridge at the Meadstead Mission in Sask.

The president, Mrs. Preston opened the meeting. The Rev. R. C. Fleming leading in prayers.

Mrs. L. Tanney read the Scripture lesson. The president welcomed all, making special mention of visitors present. Some business was discussed including the Christmas remembrances of the shut-ins.

The program followed with each member contributing.

A Christmas carol was sung after which Mr. Fleming blessed the hair and closed the meeting with prayer.

The hostess served refreshments.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Attention J. A. D.: On November 14th I answered a letter from you requesting method for canning carrots and dandelions. I gave you carrot canning method but said I did not know how to can dandelions. One of my readers knew this and sent the method. Here it is:

Letter from Ruth H. Dent Mary: "You do not know how to can dandelions" — Please may I tell you how I have done it for years, although this is not the time of year to do it. In the spring when the blossoms appear, we go into the country, and probably along the roadside where there isn't too much grass (less cleaning) we dig our greens. This digging must be done right or there will be a tooling headache when it comes to cleaning them. I use a narrow, long-bladed sharp knife, quite a firm one, and dig way down underneath the plant so that the root is cut. If you cut only leaves, you're going to get better cleaning. Scrape off all dead leaves (the best plants grow the year before) leaving enough stem to hold the leaves together. If there is a little clump of buds, all the better. I put mine into the bathtub to clean and wash them — it takes a lot to make a little. Wash thoroughly, at least four times (unless you like sand as an appetizer). Put into a large kettle with water enough to almost cover. Let come to a rolling boil and pour this water off — It will be bitter. Repeat and boil for meeting an hour, until the greens are well wilted. Pack into sterilized sealers, add 1 teaspoon salt for each pint, fill with boiling water and process as you prefer. I use the boiling water bath. About fifteen minutes after the water boils should be enough. Take out and seal tightly. Using this method, I have had fresh greens until at least Christmas. Incidentally I'm interested to know other people like dandelion greens. Good luck to your correspondent come next spring!

Answer: Thanks, Mary, for being so thoughtful and careful with your description. I hope

J. A. D. sees this.

Letter: . . As my house was in the Maritimes (W. S.) I can appreciate your enjoying the fresh raw scallops. I always enjoyed eating fresh raw clams; and was fortunate in having some while on our vacation this summer. I have a recipe for a Christmas treat. I always make these. As we have a large family I cook and bake rather plain but wholesome meals. But at Christmas we go all out.

Plan Now To Have Work Done This Winter

Towards More Winter Work

For the past three winters national campaigns have been organized by the Dominion Department of Labor and the National Employment Service to advertise and publicize in various ways the advantages of arranging as much work as possible in what has been traditionally known as "the off season".

Directed at the consumers of goods and services, whether in the factory, the office, the warehouse, the store, the transportation depot, the institution or the home, these campaigns have been particularly well supported at the community level by industry and business.

These campaigns have had the endorsation of the major employer and labor organizations, and other national organizations, and the active interest and support of appropriate provincial government departments.

In many cities and towns these campaigns enlist the full support of municipal governments, boards of trade, labor unions, women's groups, service clubs, banks, contractors, building supply companies, retail outlets, public utilities, churches and community groups in addition to the direct effects of Local Employment Committee and Local National Employment Offices.

In many communities there is a fall campaign designed to encourage plumbing, by businessmen and individual householders, of winter jobs that can be done when the usual economic lull begins after Christmas, with the main campaign starting in the second week of January and spreading throughout the rest of the winter, emphasizing "Do It Now—Why Wait for Spring". In other localities, the campaigns are conducted only in the winter and for a shorter period of time in line with the peculiarities of local business or industrial cycles.

In past years the greatest support of the local campaigns has come from within the communities themselves. While there is no complete record of the local publicity developed, the known volume last winter was remarkable and of the kind that could be produced only by enthusiastic local support for the basic principles behind the campaign.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to fully assess the results of previous campaigns from a national point of view, but reports indicate that wherever these local campaigns have been vigorously pursued, they have been effective in increasing employment and economic activity generally.

CLEAR APPROACH

Stockholm's big international airport is built some 25 miles north of the Swedish capital.

Plan and Act Now to Combat Season of Winter Jobless

A small army occupies Belleville each winter . . . they are here now, and will remain until the spring.

Militarily speaking they are not large. They number about 1,814, and, unlike most armies, their purpose is purely peaceful.

They are Belleville and district's unemployed.

They are men and women who come from all walks of life, from professional, clerical, skilled to unskilled. They are people who only want to work, to earn a living to support themselves and their families.

The National Employment Service here is sponsoring a winter work program to try and place these men and women in jobs during this winter, when the peak of unemployment is reached.

Cecil Hiuser, manager of the NES here pointed out this morning, his office is not an unemployment office. The administration of benefits is a secondary function.

The 1,814 unemployed this month compares with 1,854 at the same period last year. However, of this number, 519 are women.

However, this leaves over 1,000 men of whom 400 are married in need of jobs. Mr. Hiuser said that placement this year was up 80 per cent over last year as a result of a larger labor force, and industrial expansion locally.

But each winter, the unemployed figures rise over spring, summer and fall totals. As a result the entire community suffers. Unable to bring home a wage, unemployed cannot make their average economic contribution to the community.

What, you say, can I do about it?

If you own a business you can help. Even if you are an employee, with your own home, you can help in many ways.

The government, through the National Employment Service, urges businessmen to have construction or maintenance of any description undertaken through the winter months instead of waiting for warm weather.

Encourage employees to take vacations during the colder months; produce and stockpile standard manufactured products; discounts to encourage winter work; train personnel during the winter instead of the summer.

Householders. There are dozens of jobs around the home, such as renovation, redecoration, repair and other maintenance jobs which can be done during the winter.

Many householders prefer having their painting or renovating done during the warmer periods of the year. Do it now. Do not put it off.

You will get better value for your dollar as most tradesmen are not as rushed in the winter and can spend more time and give you a better-finished job.

And not only home improvements. Perhaps your lawnmower needs repairing, and you put it off as there is no use for it until the grass is growing again. Have it done now. Electrical appliances, automobiles, outboard motors; all these can be repaired during the winter.

By doing these jobs now, you not only help yourself but your community also prospers.

These men are a community responsibility.

They are not asking for "handouts". They just want to work so they can feed, clothe and house their families.

"This is a responsibility which concerns us all," Mr. Hiuser emphasized, "each of us should do his or her bit to relieve the situation."

If you have any jobs you want done, just phone the employment office. This goes for businessmen, too, said Mr. Hiuser, who maintained many businessmen prefer to seek their own employees.

"We have many skilled and unskilled men registered with us," he said. "Employers and out-of-work employees should register with us and even if they hear of a job which might not suit them, they should contact us and let us know about it."

Six Reasons Why Citizens Benefit

Past experience has shown that jobs being tackled by the construction and other industries in the cold winter months are turning out successfully — and are on the increase. The average citizen, too, can and should do much on his own to combat seasonal unemployment. What better time than the winter months to do repairs, alterations, remodelling, painting and many other jobs when there is lots of experienced help around.

Jobs done during this period can be better planned and often at a greater saving. In fact what we really need is the co-operative effort of employers, workers, governments, and the consuming public. None of these groups can accomplish a great deal alone, but in working together, I am confident that we can do much to stabilize employment on a year-round basis.

REASONS WHY
EVERYONE BENEFITS

There are many reasons why it is advantageous to have such work as redecoration, alteration, remodelling done this winter.

1. It may be less expensive, because some companies offer discounts at this time of year on the building supplies necessary for home improvement projects. Tradesmen and contractors are not so busy in the winter months and can do a better job which in the long run means economy.

2. The job can be done more quickly, because contractors and skilled tradesmen are not so rushed in winter months and can take on the job right away. If you wait, until spring they will probably be too busy to handle it.

3. The demand for materials is not so heavy in winter; therefore deliveries and services are usually more prompt.

4. If we give jobs to workmen who are now idle it will result in a saving for the community on such things as welfare costs and unemployment insurance, which in the end is a saving to you.

5. More employment means more money circulating hand in hand in the community, which could result in greater prosperity for everyone.

6. If you build or renovate a home or business structure during the winter instead of waiting until spring to get started, you will be able to take possession of it at an earlier date. This early occupancy usually results in financial savings. The effectiveness of these efforts to increase winter employment is increased with adequate planning and preparation. Your community is now engaged in a campaign to increase winter employment of all kinds. Help yourselves, and at the same time, help your community.

MARINE SPEED

A vessel travelling at 30 knots is covering the same distance as 34½ land miles an hour.

Plan Well First

Along with "the flowers that bloom in the spring" comes the almost universal (and well nigh irresistible) urge for the homeowner to clean-up, spruce-up, make various improvements in his house and grounds.

The most effective programs of this kind are those that are well planned in advance with a careful eye to what is needed most urgently, and of course, with due references to what the budget will afford.

Such planning should start with an outside-and-inside and floor-by-floor survey of the home, for the purpose of appraising all present and future needs and possibilities.

Eisenhower's Tour of Asia Strengthens Voice of Summit

NEW DELHI (AP) — American officials with freedom, Eisenhower on his tour of Asia predict it will greatly strengthen his voice for the East-West summit conference with Nikita Khrushchev.

They say Eisenhower can sit down at the conference table backed by the cheers of millions of Asians who regard him as a symbol of peace with freedom, and that Khrushchev will be facing a man who is proving to be his superior in appealing to Asia's underfed masses as a champion of their aspirations.

The receptions in Pakistan, Turkey, Afghanistan and India also may stimulate Eisenhower to exert more leadership at the Western summit session, opening in Paris Dec.19, which begins shaping the West's negotiating position.

The diplomatic showdown with Khrushchev comes later, perhaps in April.

In both Kabul and New Delhi, Eisenhower has far outdrawn Khrushchev on the Asian tour the Soviet premier made four years ago.

Prime Minister Nehru could be left out in the cold at the welcome Wednesday—but he did as much, if not more, for Khrushchev in 1955.

In the displays of public enthusiasm, these factors appear to stand out:

1. Eisenhower the man has an international asset that Khrushchev can't match, his personality.

2. Eisenhower comes at a time when these peoples are linked in common fear of communism, either the Soviet or Red Chinese variety. Eisenhower is regarded as the symbol of a powerful friend and potential partner in battle against aggression.

3. Tremendous goodwill for the United States remains in Asia despite Soviet propaganda, Moscow's spectacular scientific advances and U.S. foreign policy mistakes.

U.S. Ready to Give Military Aid to India in China Issue

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Eisenhower has made it simply clear that the United States is ready to give military aid to India should that country need any in its border dispute with Communist China.

Although official confirmation of that point was hardly needed, Eisenhower left no doubts about the U.S. stand when he told the Indian Parliament that the "great military might" of the U.S. is ready to help friends and allies . . . for defensive purposes only."

Since he started his 11-country tour in Italy, Eisenhower has said repeatedly and emphatically that international disputes should be settled by conference tables,— the same thing Prime Minister Nehru has been saying since the Chinese border crisis erupted.

Thus, in one neat diplomatic package, Eisenhower has wrapped up the moral support for Nehru's persistent Pacific policies and promise of more practical support should it be needed—if Nehru and those Indians who are calling for a tougher approach to Red China.

But having accomplished that, there appears to be little else Eisenhower can do in the dispute as long as the status quo is maintained.

There is plenty of room, however, for both Eisenhower and Nehru to manoeuvre around what observers have rated as the second most important problem the two leaders will discuss during their private talks—India's economic growth.

And second-most important or not, it is in this sphere that Eisenhower has his best chance to win India's friendship on a long-term basis.

Since gaining its independence in 1947, India has undertaken one of the most remarkable economic struggles of modern times, that of raising the standard of living of 400,000,000 people from near-starvation wretchedness to that associated with any modern Western civilization.

To do this, India has finished one five-year development plan, is nearly through a second and has planned a third.

To help India's ambitious program, the U.S. has committed nearly $2,000,000,000 in economic aid of one type or another. With the third five-year plan to start in 1961—at an expected cost of $22,000,000,000—U.S. aid will have to be stepped up, as will other aid under the Colombo Plan and Iron Europe.

For if the program were to fail, India would plunge back into the deepest economic and social depression.

While Nehru's program is giving India its first modernized industry and is slowly improving farming methods, it has brought with it the usual woes that come with a suddenly expanding economy—inflation and lagging services.

Although production has climbed steadily, so have costs. And if the standard of living is to make any real improvement, India needs schools, hospitals and the whole works to keep pace with new production techniques.

Eisenhower, by assuring Nehru of continued U.S. support—without attaching any conditions to it other than wanting to help out a struggling country—can take a big step toward winning lasting gratitude from all Indians.

U.S. Govt. Calls off Steel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Steel labor talks have been sidetracked temporarily to let union negotiators pay for an aluminum industry agreement. A contract there could influence the steel situation.

The government today called off the steel talks it has been sponsoring. Director Joseph F. Finnegan of the federal mediation and conciliation service said the bargaining wasn't making any progress despite stepped-up efforts after President Eisenhower's latest appeal.

No time was fixed for their resumption.

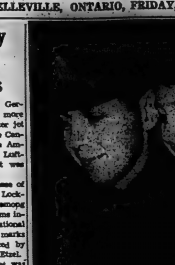
The talks between the Steelworkers Union and the top United States aluminum producers—Alcoa, Reynolds and Kaiser—were just resumed in Chicago, ahead of a Jan. 1 strike deadline.

Officials obviously are hopeful for settlement there.

West Germany Will Purchase 364 More Jets

BONN (CP) — West Germany will purchase 364 more American, jet Starfighter interceptors to replace the Canadian Sabre Six and the American F94-F jets as the Luftwaffe's basic fighters, it was announced Thursday.

Provision for the purchase of the Starfighters from the Lockheed Corporation was among the large defence costs items included in a bumper national budget of 43,000,000,000 marks ($10,000,000,000) introduced by Finance Minister Franz Etzel.



A quarter of the budget was earmarked for defence spending.

The Luftwaffe already had contracted for 266 Starfighters, of which 200 are to be built under license in West Germany plants.

It has not yet been decided how many of the new order will be built in West Germany and how many will be bought U.S. assembly plants.

Canada has shown an interest in sharing in the construction of the Starfighter, which also are being adopted by the RCAF.

Some sources considered a West German-U.S. — Canadian joint program possibly would be worked out.

Cook Convicted For Murder, Hangs April 15

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Robert Raymond Cook, 23, was convicted Thursday of murder in the killing of Lily Ethel and sentenced to be hanged April 15.

A Supreme Court jury of six men took only an hour and 20 minutes to bring back a "guilty as charged" verdict.

Before passing sentence, Mr. Justice Peter Greschuk asked Cook whether he had anything to say.

The young mechanic replied: "All I have to say, sir, is that I am not guilty. I couldn't have done this and I didn't do it."

He was calm and his voice was steady.

Defence counsel Clifford Main said "a decision as to an appeal has not been reached."

The bodies of Cook's 53-year-old father, stepmother and five brothers and sisters ranging in ages from three to nine years were found June 28 in a cluttered grease pit behind the Cook home in nearby Stettler. They had been shot and bludgeoned.

Mr. Justice Greschuk's charge to the jury took almost four hours to deliver. He said the jury could bring in one of only two verdicts: Guilty or not guilty.

Differences on Compulsory Use of Ship Pilots Reduced

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Canada - United States negotiating team Thursday reported "substantial progress" has been made in reduce differences between the two countries in plans for the compulsory use of pilots on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway.

A spokesman said a further meeting will be held Saturday, followed by another session in a few days. The tone of the talks, he said, indicate the negotiators may soon be in a position to recommend similar proposals to the two governments.

Canada has been plugging for the compulsory use of pilots only in dangerous areas such as canals and narrow stretches of water. A government bill to that effect has been introduced in the Canadian Parliament. The U.S. coast guard and pilots associations demand compulsory use of pilots throughout the seaway and Great Lakes and a bill to that effect has been introduced in Congress.

FEAR HIGH COSTS

The Canadian view, reported to be gaining increasing sympathy in the U.S. state department, is that widespread compulsory use of pilots would boost shipping costs to such an extent that it might discourage foreign use of the seaway. Canadian and U.S. vessels would be exempt from the pilotage legislation.

The Canadian bill has been left pending in Parliament until Canada-U.S. differences have been eliminated.

Informants said it now is possible the U.S. administration in January may seek to introduce a government-supported bill establishing regulations similar to those proposed by Canada.

However, it may be no easy task to get such a bill through the election year. Strong lobbying by U.S. pilots associations, backed by some domestic ship operators, is likely.

High-Powered Election in Quebec Seen

OTTAWA (CP) — Veteran political observers here are predicting a bitterly fought election campaign in Quebec province next year.

The question of how much collaboration there will be between federal and provincial parties has raised considerable interest here.

The Quebec Liberal Federation is officially affiliated with the national federation. Provincial Liberal Leader Jean Lesage is a former federal cabinet minister.

HOW STRONG IS LINK?

—Left strong, at least in official terms, is the reputed link between the Progressive-Conservative party and Premier Paul Sauve's Union Nationale.

Conservative observers, at their meeting here earlier this month, demonstrated their intention of maintaining organizations in the provinces independent of provincial associations. There is no provincial Conservative party in Quebec, but it is generally assumed that the Conservative vote goes to the Union Nationale in a provincial election.

In any event, it is expected that the major Union Nationale will participate in the next Quebec campaign in one way or another.

Some Liberal sources have said the Lesage - Diefenbaker link may eventually be formed. They note that Mr. Sauve comes from an old Conservative family and that he has expressed support for that party in the past.

ELECTION FIRST

Any rapprochement, the sources say, would not take parties before the next Quebec election. They maintain that Mr. Diefenbaker's popularity in Quebec is not great enough to be of any help to the Union Nationale.

Not the least of the factors contributing to the interest in the forthcoming Quebec campaign is the strong personality of the two party leaders. Both young and dynamic, they are expected to make a strong bid for votes.

Date of the Quebec election has not been announced but will be formed observers expect it to be held next summer.

SOAPY FIRE

LONDON (AP)—A section of the new London - Birmingham super highway got an unscheduled soapy bath Thursday. A truck carrying 12 tons of soap powder caught fire and firemen churned up a sea of suds putting it out.

Duck Hunting Methods Used During Shotgun Death Are Vindicated by Coroner's Jury

SOMBRA (CP) — The duck-hunting methods used during the shotgun death of Harry W. Anderson, 67-year-old former vice-president of General Motors, were vindicated Thursday at an inquest into the shooting.

The five - man coroner's jury ruled that the death was accidental and did not criticize the practice of two men using one duck blind and each firing a gun.

The jury found that Mr. Anderson accidentally got into the line of fire of his old friend Harlow H. Curtice, 69-year-old former General Motors president, while the two were shooting ducks Nov. 18 on St. Anne's Island near Wallaceburg.

Mr. Curtice suggested that a system of one gun or one man to each blind would have prevented such a tragic accident.

URGE PUBLICITY

He said he made only one safety recommendation — that copies of two leaflets on hunting be supplied to all issuers of gun licences for distribution to hunters.

Dr. C. H. D. Clarke, assistant chief of the game and fisheries branch of the department of lands and forests, wound up the inquest testimony by saying that "there is nothing particularly dangerous about hunting in blinds."

"There is a calculated risk but all hunters are aware of that risk when they go hunting."

He estimated there were 500,000 small game hunters in Ontario. A large proportion of these hunted ducks, he said, yet fatalities among duck hunters have averaged only two a year for the last four years.

SOCIALIST FAVORED

He said there was nothing wrong in Mr. Curtice's practice of shooting from a sitting position and he didn't favor the suggestion that blinds should be restricted to one person. The social aspect of hunting was more important than merely shooting at ducks.

The leaflets recommended by the jury are the Hunter's Safety Code and the Hunter's Ten Commandments, both issued by the

Will Take Three Weeks to Get Men Into Canada

TORONTO (CP)— Legal procedures required to extradite two men on the RCAF's most-wanted list from Bangor, Me., will take about three weeks assistant commissioner W. J. Franks of the provincial police said Thursday.

Richard Maidson, 27, of Boston and Warren W. Durning, 24, of Economy, N.S., are wanted here on two counts of kidnapping and four of armed robbery. Both declined to waive extradition.

Assistant Commissioner Franks said the "prescribed procedure" for extradition includes quite a number of formalities but should not be difficult.

Crown witnesses first appear before a magistrate or commissioner here to give evidence such as would normally be produced at a preliminary hearing. A brief of the evidence goes to the department of external affairs in Ottawa. From there it is sent to the U.S. state department.

Maidson and Durning are wanted for armed robberies and kidnappings of Niagara-on-the-Lake and at Shannonville, and on two other counts of armed robbery at Iroquois.

Federation of Anglers and Hunters of Ontario.

The jury also commended the department of lands and forests for introducing a regulation which will require all new hunters after April Sept. 1 to undergo special training.

Ring Greats Admitted to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight former ring greats, including modern Rocky Marciano and Kid Chocolate, have been elected to boxing's hall of fame.

The six others in the list announced Thursday are oldtimers: Pete Hermans, former world bantamweight champion from New Orleans; former fireweight champion Jimmy Wilde and Welsh-Irish-born Tom Sharkey, an outstanding heavyweight contender 60 years ago; George Lavigne of Bay City, Mich., lightweight champion before 1900; Jack Dillon, former light heavyweight champion from Frankfort, Ind. who won the title in 1914, and John Gully, who became England's first heavyweight champion in 1805 and was elected to Parliament in 1832.

Marciano, who retired as undefeated world heavyweight champion four years ago, and Chocolate, who held partial recognition as world featherweight king, were elected in the modern group by sportswriters and sportscasters around the world.

'Nobby' May End up With Toronto Argos

CALGARY (CP) — General manager Jim Finks of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union said Thursday Toronto Argonauts have been given permission to negotiate with quarterback Nobby Wirkowski.

Finks confirmed a Toronto report that Wirkowski is a candidate for the position of backfield coach with the Big Four club. But Finks said Argos "will have to come up with a Canadian player in return—possibly quarterback Garry Lauretie."

Wirkowski, born in the United States but now a Canadian citizen, quarterbacked Argos to their last Grey Cup in 1952. Since then he has played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the Stampeders.

LANE REHIRED

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bobby Layne, 32-year-old star quarterback of Pittsburgh Steelers, signed a two - year contract Thursday and called it a lifetime contract because he hopes to wind up his National Football League career with the Steelers. He gave no indication whether he will play more than two additional years.

Rocky Calls Former Trainer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP). — Rocky Marciano's old trainer said Thursday he will meet the former world heavyweight boxing champion in Boston next week to help him work out.

Charlie Goldman, who said "I got a call from Rocky just a week ago. He said he had a friend who was going down in Fort Lauderdale and would I come down a few days. Said he'd like to do a little work.

"I don't know whether he just wants to himself out or what," Goldman said. "But it's the first time he's called me about working with him at all."

He said Marciano, who retired undefeated, is one of the few men who could make a boxing comeback after a layoff of 3½ years.

"But I hope he doesn't try it and I don't really think he will. And besides, his mother doesn't want him to try it."

Baltimore Wants Title Game On Television

BALTIMORE (AP) — The National Football League will be petitioned to relax a rule and permit television in Baltimore of the championship game it is played there.

Colts can clinch the Western Conference title and a chance to play Philadelphia Eagles Dec. 27 by beating Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

The championship game will be telecast throughout the country except within a 100-mile radius of the site.

Only about 7,000 tickets are expected to be available for general purchase to the game if it's in Baltimore. Season ticket holders will have first claim on 40,000 of the 57,127 seats in Memorial Stadium.

The thousands of thousands of dollars left out in the cold were being asked today to sign petitions to be sent to Austen Gunsel, acting league commissioner.

They will "urgently request" that the championship game be shown on open circuit television in Baltimore.

Eagles Rehire Veteran Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League announced today that coach Lawrence T. (Buck) Buckey, 60, has been rehired for 1960. Shaw made it clear he will retire at the end of next season. He has been coaching since 1922.

Legal Troubles May Make Ingy Free Agent

NEW YORK (PA)—Promoter Vincent J. Velella's legal troubles may make heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson a free agent.

This is the viewpoint of Johansson's adviser, Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlquist, following Velella's indictment by a New York county grand jury on a two-count charge of perjury.

Ahlquist said today Johansson is as eager as ever to give ex-champion Floyd Patterson a return fight.

If Velella and his group are by - passed, there are several other organizations anxious to sign Johansson. These include Joe Tepper's New York firm, which wants to stage the return fight at Yankee Stadium in June, and two rival British promoters—Jack Solomons, now at Goldenhorse tables, and Harry Levene—each of whom has offered Johansson more than $200,000 to defend his crown against British champion Henry Cooper.

AWARTS TRIAL

Velella, who holds the contract for the return, Thursday pleaded not guilty to the indictments and was freed on $2,000 bail to await trial. No date was set.

The indictments follow investigations into the promotion of the first fight. District attorney Frank Hogan charged Velella, ex-East Harlem Republican leader, with being "a front" for Anthony (Fat Tony) Salerno, an underworld figure, underworld figure, in the June promotion.

"Velella must be counted out now for the remainder," said Ahlquist. "All persons in this affair who have had connection with shady characters must get out, or Ingy won't fight Patterson".

Indians Wallop All-Stars 8-3

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Springfield's American Hockey League-leading Indians walloped the league all-star team 8-3 Thursday night as scoring five goals in the third period.

Bill Sweeney and Dennis Olson each counted twice for the Indians. Their other sharpshooters were Ian Cushenan, Harry Pilibrisy, Jimmy Anderson and Bruce Cline.

The stars from the other six clubs started fast. Buffalo's Fred Glover scored at 45 seconds after the opening faceoff and Larry Wilson of Buffalo at 9:45 for a 2-0 edge.

Springfield tied it in the first and Pilibrisy rapped in the only goal of the second period.

Ed Chadwick of Rochester was the victim of the Indians' third-period outburst. Buffalo's Bob Gamble wound up the scoring late in the period.

Chadwick made 17 saves as he divided the netminding chore with Hershey's Bobby Perreault. Perreault had 13 saves.

Gump Worsley turned aside 36 all-star shots.

The league returns to its regular schedule Saturday night with Rochester at Springfield, Providence at Hershey and Buffalo at Cleveland.

CAN STILL BET $2

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The 63 member tracks of the Thoroughbred Racing Association Thursday voted to keep the minimum wager at $2. TRA President Hal G. Calla, president of Oaklawn race track at Hot Springs, Ark., called for the decision. There had been reports the minimum wager would be hiked because of the increased cost of handling the $2 pari-mutuel ticket.

Turk Broda Puts on Act, 'Forgives' Cote

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Turk Broda of Toronto Marlboros has given his problem player Roger Cote just one more chance.

Cote, bad boy of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, left his temper during an exhibition game at Brockville Wednesday night and was heavily penalized after some fancy flatfoots. Brockville won 5-1.

Broda threatened to suspend Cote for two games but changed his mind Thursday.

"I gave him a severe reprimand this time," said Broda. "I realize it was an exhibition game, but if it occurs again I won't fool around.

"I won't suspend him I'll send him home. I've had enough. He's too good a hockey player to waste in the penalty box.

"He's a valuable man when he's playing hockey, but if he doesn't stop this silly stuff playing he's no good to the club."

Cote erupted in a wild scrap with Brockville's Keith McCreary in the second period after a stickhandling flurry in the first period. Officials and players intervened and Turk Broda escorted Cote off the ice.

The fight started again as the two were entering the penalty box. Cote drew a major and a game misconduct, his second in two nights.

EXPECTS CALM

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss said Thursday he does not expect his young league to wage a war with other major leagues.

Two organizations, including those in Canada, because "I think the other leagues will realize we are here to stay." But he added "I'll recognize a fight and know what to do if one comes along."

Hour of American Folk Songs, Dancing Enjoyed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Belafonte made one of his occasional television appearances in a special Thursday night. It was a solid hour of American folk songs and dancing, with major but unspoken emphasis on the contribution of the Negro to both.

The songs ranged from religious to funny, and Belafonte, lithe and graceful as a tiger, moved easily from mood to mood. He was assisted by a chorus of fine voices, a troupe of excellent dancers and a beautiful deep - voiced singer called Odetta.

Also upon a Christmas Time, the first of NBC's Christmas specials on Wednesday night, proved to be rather remotely derived from Paul Gallico's fantasy. It turned out neither fantastic nor even very entertaining to a bunch of yawning youngsters in my living room. The whole situation, however, were fascinated by "Mogambo," "King Solomon's Mines" and "Trader Horn" has a movie piled up as a big thrill highlights as are featured in "Watusi", which relates the typical and unusual conflicts encountered by young Harry Quartermain (George Montgomery) seeking to retrace his father's safari to a fabulous storehouse of ivory treasures.

In the course of his search, in which he is accompanied by Rick Robb (David Farrar), his father's old friend, and Erica Vesler (Taina Elg), daughter of a slain missionary, Harry Quartermain finds himself neck-deep in perilous adventures.

The trio is saved from a charge of hostile Kahasa natives only by setting fire to a bridge, which also sets adire a huge area of the African veldt, resulting in the stampede of ten thousand of terrified animals, among them zebras, buffalo, impala, hyenas and giraffes. In later sequences they face the onslaught of lions and panthers and the wrath of a herd of elephants, one of which they have wounded. There is another suspenseful sequence in which the two men and the girl fight the current of a raging stream in tree-trunk boats, with the story reaching its climax in a spear duel, a case of molten fire, with the trail to the coveted treasure made easy by way of a precipitous ledge.

Underlying the adventurous action is the emotional conflict engendered in the love of both Harry Quartermain and Rick Robb for Erica.

The action-Feature on the program co-stars Rock Hudson, Yvonne De Carlo and Maxwell Reed in "Sea Devils". In Technicolor. Complete shows tonight begin at 7.00 and 8.30. Continuous showing on Saturday from 1.00. Doors open at 12.30. At the 1.30 p.m. show a choice array of Colorful Cartoons, including Popeye and a funny Andy Clyde comedy.

No Picture in Eight Years, Is Roy Rogers Blacklisted?

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's this? Roy Rogers blacklisted by the film studios?

I think maybe that's what happened," said the cowboy star in a burst of frankness. "That's the only way I can explain why I haven't had a real offer to do a movie in eight years.

"Oh, we've had deals come up and we'd talk to people at the studios about them. But as soon as the negotiations got to the top men in the studios, the deals were suddenly dropped. I believe the producers blacklisted me. Why? Because I had the nerve to fight Yates for 4½ years."

COURT BATTLE

Roy referred to his historic battle with Herbert Yates, his long - time boss at Republic. Yates controlled 50 of Roy's feature pictures and aimed to sell them to TV. The cowpoke sued to restrain him, arguing that actors had a right to share in the profits.

"I won the case all right, but then the Supreme Court reversed the decision," Roy remarked. "It cost me $100,000 in lawyers' fees and I didn't get any help from the other actors. The Screen Actors Guild wouldn't go to bat because it was worried about the actors who were under contract to studios then.

"Well, I lost, and old movies started flooding TV, without a cent of payment to actors. A lot of them are pretty hungry now."

Roy's last feature was Son of Paleface with Bob Hope and Jane Russell in 1951.

Last year, he and Dale Evans did a tour of 26 appearances and earned $462,000. They do seven television specials a year in the Dinah Shore Sunday night show and the ratings have been consistently high.

The Rogers own 100 of their half-hour TV shows which are rerunning in 130 markets in the U.S. and Canada. Plus which they have comic books, dolls and a myriad of other enterprises. All this would seem to add up to box office appeal for an industry which has complained bitterly about a lack of name draws.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The Kitchener Dutchmen, engaged in a one-new battle for second place in the senior league standings with the Chatham Maroons, will be the guests of the Maes tonight.

The Maes 'whomped the Dutchmen in Kitchener last Friday night, and then clobbered the Maroons here Tuesday night. Johnny Horeck's Chatham crew, smarting from that setback, turned around and dumped the Dutchmen 9-6 on Wednesday on ice, so the Dutchies will be looking for Mc-Furland hockey blood tonight.

We hope the Maes have their shoulder' crew aligned tonight and that Bert Bradley, who has hit more pucks than a hopped-up Jaguar crashing down a guard-rail, waits his drives a little to the right or left so they by-pass the pipes and bag the keeps.

And it could be that Master Ernie Cowan, the mentor of the Dutchmen, is mentioned over in his mind the result of one Cedric Miss-O-Misshap, the alias wizard of the pipes who could model in a pastel factory after his hockey days are over. For the Kitchener lined thinks, the jailbirds of the cards for the Dutchies, is in a bit of a slump. Real, you will recall, has had 14 pucks whistle past him in the last two games, and that might and well with the Dutchmen in another court.

The Maes, apparently working a new strategy hit upon one that worked to perfection in their tilt with the Dutchies in Kitchener last Friday. They may have stolen a note from the Rangers' Allie Pilon for it was, in no small way, their tenacious forechecking that stopped the Kitchener offensives more times than not.

They moved up the centre for the CHU Pennington, before he could get started, They forced, and rightly so, that he would shoot instead of pass and worked their defence with that in mind. As a result Pennington's wings were fluttering along the boards with nothing to do but check.

Pennington, who has a blazing slapshot, will have to overcome his favoritism for the weapon to be completely effective. The Dutchmen brass knows this and is trying to get the clever youngster to modify the habit.

Dunk Saunder and Kenny Gribbons, the latter a one-time sensation from the Brantford Lions, are playing good hockey for the Maes but there are one or two of the veterans who have yet to reach the play pinnacle of a year ago. When they start to hold up their end, it may be a different picture.

Speaking of Gribbons, Maroon coach and master-mind Johnny Horeck had a glint of a tear in his eye the other night when we talked with him in the Chatham dressing room.

You could almost see Johnny's chest swell with self-consciousness pride as he spoke of the great sacrifice the Maroons had made in selling Gribbons to the Maes. Swelp me, if there had been a second crying bowl around we would have used it.

"We gave you a fine hockey player," said Johnny, "but we had to sacrifice him and another purely for financial reasons." There was a break in the great man's voice.

Johnny was right in the respect that the Maes got a good hockey player but you can take that "sacrifice for financial reasons" with your tongue-in-cheek.

The Maroon management has been making a concerted drive for bigger box-office returns and they are using devious methods and channels in the attempt to thaw the turnstiles. One was a threat to withdraw the club, and "cut the taxpayers back some $18,000" and another was the sacrifice of good hockey players to cut down the weekly budget.

Outside sources say the Maroons are drawing well and as for sacrifice of their star players, they are now in second place, three points behind the leading Whitby Dunlops and a point up on the Dutchmen.

Has Trouble Flying Nags To Canada

LONDON (CP) — A British bloodstock buyer says one of his big headaches is trying to transport racehorses to Canada.

George Blackwell, representing the Curragh Bloodstock Agency, bought three yearlings foals for E. P. Taylor of Toronto at the December sales in Newmarket. He told a reporter:

"Toronto is a big city and the only city in Canada to which we have to send horses, but I have yet to spend a lot of time outguessing the airlines into taking them."

One major airline hasn't the facilities for carrying "big cats." Another goes to Montreal and won't accept cargo for Toronto. Another insists on an extra charge of $2,000.

Despite the difficulties, Blackwell hopes to have the latest Taylor purchases in Toronto in a week or so.

Taylor paid 4,300 guineas for a chestnut colt by Aureole, second to Never Say Die in the 1953 Derby, out of Rhodia, a winner in New Zealand. He Lord Nordo, former governor-general of New Zealand.

The other two purchases, also chestnut colts, are by Montreal out of Persian Fire, acquired for 1,600 guineas, and by Petition out of Lone Bird, bought for 1,300 guineas. No names have been chosen.

Bruins Fatten Scoring Totals At Leafs' Expense

Gendron, Mohns Score Twice Bronco Gets Three Assists In Beaneaters' 6-3 Victory

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When it comes to scoring goals, Boston Bruins are not taking a back seat to anyone this season—not even Montreal Canadiens.

Several Boston members tested their scoring totals Thursday night when the Bruins downed Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 in the National Hockey League's only game.

Although the fourth - place Bruins are far down in the standings — six points behind third-place Detroit and last in the league - leading Canadiens—they have crept up on league-leading Canadiens and all along for leadership in the goal-scoring department.

Bruins have 91 goals in 29 games, Canadiens 91 in 27.

Thursday night's win left season Boston scored six or more goals in a game, Montreal managed the feat three times.

ROUGH INSIDE OWN END

Boston, then, is Boston not higher in the standings for reasons may be that Bruins are having fun. Thursday night's game was one.

Toronto's nephew goals Thursday night raised Bruins' goals-against total to 182, worst in the loop.

Left wingers Guy Gendron and Doug Mohns led the Bruins' scorers with two goals each. Don Marshall, Leo Boivin and Jr Bronsdell the others. Larry Regan, Dick Duff and Bob Pulford were the Leafs' goals.

Bruins grabbed a 4-1 lead in the first period and both teams scored twice in the second.

Gendron's first of the night returned to action for Boston and picked up three assists to stretch his total to 20 for the year, tops in the league.

Although Bruins and Canadiens are running up high scores, Canadiens' goals-against average is 2.37 goal a game and Bruins 3.28. Montreal's average last season was 2.69.

Six games are scheduled this evening. Saturday Detroit Red Wings visit Montreal while Chicago Black Hawks play at Toronto and New York Rangers visit Boston.

Canadiens are at Chicago Sunday while the Maple Leafs are at Detroit and Bruins at New York.

The standings remained unchanged but the Eastern Professional Hockey League got a rollicking Thursday night.

A coach resigned, a donnybrook erupted, and last - place Kingston Frontenacs scored their second big win in as many nights.

Don Grosso of the Soo Thunderbirds, who said he has been dissatisfied with the club's operations during the last month, resigned as coach and general chief scout for Chicago Black Hawks, handed the team during Thursday night's 4-3 loss—Soo's third straight—to Kingston.

Frontenacs had whipped league-leading Sudbury 5-1 the previous night.

At Hull, the second-place Canadiens trounced Montreal Royals 11-4 in a game marked in the closing minutes by a wild fight which resulted in eight players getting two suspensions each and a minor.

The Canadiens, down 1-0 after the first period, had begun to pull away from the two other periods. Bob Courcy got two and Gilles Tremblay, Eddy Carter, John Longarini and Frank Chiarelli the others. Montreal's marksman was Bill Sutherland.

The third - period brawl started during a scramble in a Montreal corner. Canadiens' Jean Gauthier and Montreal's Mac Mantha got two majors and a misconduct. Orval Tessier, Wally Chiarelli and Montreal received majors along with Jean-Claude Tremblay and Rob Ellet of Hull - Ottawa. Tremblay also drew a minor.

Carter, league-leading scorer, notched his first goal in 12 games.

Orval Tessier fired three Kingston goals, Willie O'Ree scored two and Hugh Bolton, Nelson Bolduc and Buddy Boone got singles. Sault scorers were Wayne Hicks, Mervyn Karpiak and Matt Ravlich.

Sault's new coach — Jerry Toppazzini — is the club in Trois-Rivieres Sunday.

GETS 12-GAME PENALTY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Bob Bailey of Buffalo Bisons has been suspended for 12 games for striking Ted Hartis of Springfield with a stick in an American Hockey League last Sunday.

AHL President Richard Cuming said Thursday Bailey will not be eligible to play until Jan. 3. Bailey originally was given a match penalty, which called for an automatic fine of $100.

Last season, he was given a match penalty and suspended for one game after a stick fight with Jerry Toppazzini, then in his five years ago he was fined $300 and suspended for striking the referee while playing for Pittsburgh against Buffalo in a Calder Cup post-season game.

What's That About Keeping A Still Tongue?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Frank Fredrickson, onetime National Hockey League great and a member of the hockey hall of fame, barely made it back to council in Vancouver's 1959 civic voting.

He took the fifth spot next, with a margin of little more than 300 votes in Wednesday's election.

Thursday he blamed his contentious criticism of professional football for his lack of support at the polls, which is a big city election.

Recently he opposed civic assistance to the Grey Cup game and in a magazine article he said football has become a "weird monster, part sport, part show business, with a slight case of assault and battery thrown in."

NAME NEW PILOT

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Former major league pitcher Al Hollingsworth has been named Thursday as manager of Mobile Bears for the 1960 Southern Association season. Hollingsworth, 46, succeeds Bill McGilvray, general manager of Toronto of the International League.

Tony Canzoneri Found Dead In Cheap Gotham Hotel Room

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, whose flailing fists carried him from a bootblack box on the sidewalks of New Orleans to boxing's hall of fame, no longer will hold court on his beloved Broadway.

The great little gladiator who was the world featherweight, lightweight and junior welterweight titles was found dead Thursday in a 65-a-week midtown hotel room. Medical authorities said he apparently died of natural causes three days ago. He was 51.

When Canzoneri failed to show for two days at the Broadway restaurant which paid him for the use of his name, a friend checked the room.

Tony won 140 fights, lost 24 and drew in 11. He retired in 1939 and joined consolidated Edison as a successful night club act.

Canzoneri's career began in his days but he earned more than $500,000 with his fists.

He was 17 when he beat Benny Bass Feb. 16, 1928 for the 126-pound featherweight title. Seven months later he lost it to Andre Routis of France. He knocked out Al Singer in the first round Nov. 14, 1930, for the 126-pound lightweight championship, but it was years later to Barney Ross and won it back with a victory over Lou Ambers after Ross moved up to the welterweight division.

Bathgate to 'Explain' to NHL Now Pollock Yaks Into Act

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers, who will get a chance to do some explaining on the National Hockey League's presidential level, may be interested to know he'll have been only three penalty minutes so far this season.

None of the penalties went to any of the six players singled out by Bathgate as expert stick-wielders.

In all of last season, penalty minutes for spearing were little more than one per cent of total time served.

NHL President Clarence Campbell Thursday took official notice of the ruckus raised by statements in a magazine article under Bathgate's name. The chief writer was Dave Anderson of the New York Journal-American.

Campbell said he wants to talk with Bathgate to determine if disciplinary action is necessary and is trying to arrange a meeting with him.

STRONG WORDS

The article by last season's all-star right winger spoke of "unchecked brutality" and dwelt on spearing, the rule book infringement spearing as "stabbing an opponent with the point of the stick blade as the stick is being carried with one hand or both hands."

Accompanying the article, the magazine carried pictures of the six players designated as "Andy Bathgate's rogues gallery"—Tom Johnson and Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens, Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks, Fern Flaman of Boston Bruins, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Lou Fontinato of the Rangers.

In the first 79 games this season the three penalties for spearing went to Vic Stasiuk of Boston, Billy Mitchell of Detroit and Leo Labine of Boston. Last season there were 63 penalty minutes for spearing—42 minor penalties, Total for all offences was 1,850 minutes.

Of the six players named by Bathgate, three received no spearing penalties last season—Johnson, Howe and Flaman. Lindsay received four and Harvey and Fontinato two each.

Campbell said he wants to find out Bathgate's degree of participation and whether a breach of conduct is involved by which he could be disciplined."

OTTAWA (CP) — Ball-Ottawa Canadiens will lodge a complaint with the Eastern Professional Hockey League over spearing tactics of Moe Mantha of Montreal Royals, Canadiens' general manager Sam Pollock said Thursday night.

Pollock accused Mantha of spearing five Canadiens in the third period Thursday night at nearby Hull, which won 6-1.

He said he will ask that disciplinary action be taken against Mantha.

No spearing penalties were called in the game, which blew up into a big third-period fight that produced eight major and two misconduct penalties. Mantha, a defenceman, came out of the donnybrook with two majors and a misconduct.

Wit the Stilt Scoring Star in Pro Hoop Loop

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boston Celtics' Bob Pettit, the St. Louis Hawks' stilt who broke a National Basketball Association record last year with 2,105 points, is off to a fast start.

You don't have to watch what he does now to see that a point a game.

St. Louis coach Ed Macauley says Pettit is playing at almost the same pace as last year but has been cooled off with the fine Chamberlain of Philadelphia Warriors in shutting the opposition here. If he is new and can't be stopped in the scoring race.

The seven-foot-one Chamberlain, who in good form again Thursday night, is right on his belayed left foot. He scored 34 points to lead Warriors to a 126-112 victory over Cincinnati in the second game of a double-header.

Chamberlain's output boosted his league-leading total to 376 points in 22 games.

In the first game, Cliff Hagan scored 31 points and Pettit 28 to give the Hawks a 129 - 111 triumph over Detroit and increase their lead to 3½ games in the western division.

Chamberlain, whose scoring has kept the Warriors in second place in the eastern division 3½ games behind Boston Celtics, has even a greater potential, Macauley says.

"But for rating a player over a period of years Pettit is the greatest in the game today."

Pettit is fifth in the scoring race with 371 points and 21 games.

There Is 'Ockey Over 'Ome Since Brighton's Got 'Elp

By ALAN HARTLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Memphis Belle Lou Antonelli and the Tigers brandished a sign of relief Thursday and said he thinks Brighton will continue playing hockey after all.

Last week Lou said Tigers would have to call it a day unless they got some reinforcements in a hurry.

Thursday the 34 - year - old manager rifled through a sheaf of cables from players in Canada who are ready to take the next plane for Britain. His telephone has hardly stopped ringing.

"I had 15 phone calls yesterday," he said. "Cables, too. They were pleading from Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. And this morning I had a cable from a fellow signing himself Hot Rod in Montreal, who says he's going to fly over right away."

Brighton has been limited most of the season to seven or eight players. The club was reprieved today with the arrival of Tony Parisi of Niagara Falls, Ont., Wiercioch goalie last year.

Lou said he will consider games behind Boston Celtics, has even a greater potential, Macauley says.

"But for rating a player over a period of years Pettit is the greatest in the game today."

Pettit is fifth in the scoring race with 371 points and 21 games.

Chisox Sign Mike Garcia

CHICAGO (AP)—Mike Garcia, 36, former "big bear" of Cleveland Indian pitching staff, Thursday was signed as a free agent by Chicago White Sox.

Garcia, a big winner for the Tribe in the early 1950s, was released by Cleveland after last season, when he had a 3-8 record in 22 innings. He made eight starts and had one complete game.

"Our reports on Mike were real good," said Sox president Bill Veeck. "He might help us in 1960."

Thailand, Burma, Laos, South Vietnam, Malaya and Singapore are participating.

Cambodia, which currently has strained relations with Thailand withdrew.

Thailand's 32 - year - old King Phumipol will light the torch in colorful opening ceremonies. A 231-man brass band will play a "SEAP Games" march song. After 21 days of athletic competitions will be released.

Irish Blanked By Marlies 2-0; Biltmores Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto's St. Michael's College Majors are hanging on to the Eastern Canada Junior A hockey lead they have held since Oct. 24.

They fattened a golden opportunity to overtake the second-place Toronto Marlboros last Tuesday when they were defeated 3-0 by them.

Now they're back within one point of the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series after downing Hamilton Tiger Cubs 5-3 Thursday night. Meanwhile, Guelph Biltmores won their long haul Peterborough Petes 6-4.

St. Michael's scored three unanswered goals in the second period.

Dave Keon paced the winners with three goals and one assist. Brian Draper and Jack Cole accounted for the others. Lee Komak got the other. Bob Dillabough, Don McLaughlin, Larry Jeffrey, Bert Templeton and Lowell Macdonald shared the Hamilton scoring, cheered by 1,672 fans.

Peterborough led 3-1 in the first period and 4-3 going into the third before Guelph's Rod Gilbert, league scoring leader, took over with 46 seconds remaining in the game, during which only one penalty apiece was assessed. Ken Kraft, Paul Macdonald and Ron Stewart got other Guelph goals. Doug Senior scored two for Petes and Dick Keon and Wayne Boddy added singles.

The first matches will be played in the city named first, unless the two teams agree to switch, the order. The quarter-final pairings:

Barcelona, Spain, vs Wolverhampton, England.

Rotterdam Sparta, Holland, vs Glasgow Rangers.

Nice, France, and Fenerbance, Turkey vs Real Madrid.

Eintracht, Frankfurt, vs Vienna S.K.

Not Finished Dealing Yet, Says Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Owner Horace Stoneham of San Francisco Giants said Thursday, "we're not through dealing. Any trade will have been part of business with the Cardinals and Milwaukee Braves."

Stoneham and his controllers returned Wednesday night from the baseball meetings in Florida. The owner indicated further trades involving the Giants probably would wait until spring training.

In their one big deal, the Giants acquired pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes from Baltimore Orioles for outfielder Jackie Brandt, relief pitcher Gordon Jones and catcher Roger Maxwell.

Talks with St. Louis involved second-baseman Don Blasingame of the Cardinals and Daryl Spencer, Giants infielder who played at second last season after several seasons at shortstop.

Saisman, and Gordon Webb and Mrs. W. J. Barlow.

PICTON

104 Year-Old Enjoy Nurses' Birthday Cake

PICTON — The cake was inscribed "104th birthday," and when it was presented to him yesterday, David Clark smiled and thanked the nurses of Prince Edward County hospital, who arranged the little party to mark the occasion.

"During the year he has been a patient in the hospital, Mr. Clark has become like one of our family and we were all quite thrilled at helping him mark his 104th birthday," said Miss Gladys Lehigh, superintendent.

Mr. Clark spent most of his life in Prince Edward and prior to entering the hospital lived for many years alone in his home just east of Picton. He has read the Bible through many times. He has four children, Percy Clark of Oshawa; Mrs. Stanley Thompson of Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Ada Longwell, Picton; Mrs. Thomas Howell, Moscow.

TITAN FAILS TO SOAR

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Fire spurted from the powerful engine of a Titan missile Thursday, but the intercontinental giant failed to get off the ground. The last time a Titan flew successfully was last May.

Sunday School Lesson

Not Always Easy to Change

By ROY L. SMITH

No man undergoes a more painful experience than when he changes his mind, and no society is ever more afflicted than when it finds itself in the midst of a great social change.

It is always a difficult matter to uproot our opinions, plant a new bed at the facts, make room for new facts, and then come to a new interpretation. It is the man who is able to suffer the pains that come with change is entitled to some kind of hero medal.

It is one of the elements of strength in any religion that it believes it is right. To consent to any change, either in doctrine or in discipline, is apt to cause much inner searching of soul and fearing of heart. Instead of criticizing those who are opposed to said, "These new ideas will not do them our congratulations, for they will save us from making many mistakes through premature action.

There is, however, a certain conceit in that religious attitude which declares that a change must be wrong "because we have never done it that way". As if all the wisdom were locked up in the past.

The first Christians were Jews and good Jews at that, for which we may well give thanks. Had they not been devout men they could never have been used by the Almighty in working out the new faith. As good Jews they believed their fathers and been right in laying certain restrictive rules upon them. To break with those rules was to break with everything sacred. No man could do that without heading into ruin, or into falsehood and one ought to know very surely which direction he is going.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for December 13: "Peter's Broadening Ministry", Acts 9:32 through 11:18.

But when the new Gospel was preached outside of Jewry, it produced the same results it had produced inside the faith of Israel. Believers received the Holy Spirit irrespective of the ancient rules. The fact that the Holy Spirit bypassed the ancient rules and requirements seemed very strange, and there were those who declared there must be some mistake. Either the work of the Holy Spirit was not authentic or it was not true.

When the Jerusalem Christians finally faced the facts, they were compelled to admit that the spiritual experiences of the Gentiles were authentic works or the Holy Spirit, they were honest they were honest enough to say "It is of God", died as He died for us.

Once they had made that admission, they opened the gates of their faith to admit the rest of us. Had it not been for some rugged honesty in the Jerusalem Church, we would have had the doors forever closed against us. If we could only have been there and listened while they debated our case!

It is honor to those Jerusalem Christians who voted to open the doors at least a little way, that we have any part in the work which they would have closed against us. To them we owe a debt of everlasting gratitude. But there is a long series of gates that are still closed.

In the midst of a section of the city that was changing from its one-time aristocratic status to a humbler sort, there stood a magnificent old church building. When it was proposed to the governing board that an aggressive program be formulated for the new conditions, one brother said, "Let us wait and look what they would feel at home among us." And that closed the door.

"I have sometimes wondered", said the pastor of another church, "what would happen if some of the people who have been converted in India, China, Africa, and the islands of the sea by our missionary gifts, should happen to be in town some Sunday and would want to come to worship with our church".

One of the chief responsibilities of the Gospel in our generation is to open doors that have been closed against other men for whom the Lord Christ died as He died for us.

MAKE IT A BIG CHRISTMAS WITH A BIG VALUE

QUALITY USED CAR

We have just complete an inventory of our complete stock of used cars and what we saw, we like. We saw several cars in the higher priced bracket that we feel can't be duplicated anywhere in the city for any price. These cars aren't like types that we have to put on sale to move. They are quality, one owner units, that insure the prospective purchaser the satisfaction that he is looking for.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Saturday, December 12

General Tendency: This is certainly a good Saturday for you to take time out to clean, and clear up, your surroundings so that everything is in better shape and condition and you can make greater headway in days to come, because you do not have a lot of unfinished duties about you. Avoid arguing, yip, anyone and you can save much trouble now and for a long time to come.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Avoid early 'AM' friends with loved one. Refrain from making irs-provoking caustic remarks. Later, in the day it will suddenly occur to you how to do your work more efficiently so that you realize a greater abundance. P.M. fix abode.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A family tie could really annoy you in early A.M., if you permit. Find out what is ailing him, or her, and you save precious respect, plus increasing harmony by into the future. Ditto with a business associate later. Be cheerful.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for caution, whether on the road, at work or in conversations with other persons. Don't let careless remarks of others bother you. Get those hard jobs out of the way that you cannot handle during busy work week. P.M. make new contacts.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Here is a day when comfortables and advisors all disagree as to what you should do in the future — and you also lack sufficient cash for your ventures. Listen and learn. Relax and do own thinking. Right ideas will hit you.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) — The morning is beset with all sorts of money and mundane worries, but don't make any snap judgments. Later in the day a family tie gives just the right advice and backing you need. Everything works advantageously for all.

Virgo (August 22 to Sept. 23) — There is a morning delay in starting off on that little excursion you had planned. Be glad to get duties or obligations out of the way early. Then off to where you wanted to go right after lunch. meet new people, get information, etc.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — It is far better to follow the advice of a tried and true comrade now than listen to an advisor who is jealous and pleasure-ish. P. M. plan wisely how to handle all important matters.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Associate and higher-up may go at it hammer and tongs today, and it is possible you, too, may become involved, if you permit. Remain neutral, go about own business and do not start any new ventures right now. Await another day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you are not careful with funds, or become too demanding upon others, you can get into a good deal of hot water, too. Be moderate in all that you do or say.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — During the early morning you want very much to turn over your obligations to one who is more capable than yourself, but this could not be fair. Paddle own canoe. Tonight is then fine for fun with comrades. Be happy.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Rather than bother showing others how beautify their abode, get busy, clean, add artistic touches to own surroundings Also be helpful to close kin who needs you. Tonight is fine for handling that important civic duty.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget that secret worry, now and keep busy doing chores, running errands, having conferences with important persons, and accomplish what is impossible to you during busy week. Impress others with your good, practical sense.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting child born today is the type who must always argue with others. Just for the sake of argument, it would seem. But this springs from an inner thirst for knowledge concerning the other side of any question. As soon as possible, show your youngster how to debate harmoniously. Get him, or her, interested in research so that one of the greatest habits that lead to success will be formed.

Budget Features New Deal for Universities

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec universities are due for a new deal in their relations with the provincial government.

The Quebec administration Thursday announced regular operating grants to the universities seven times greater than those they have been receiving until now.

Legislation now up for discussion in the Legislative Assembly opens the way for the university to embark on long - range capital expansion programs under a system providing provincial government guarantees of bonded loan floats for new buildings and equipment.

ESTIMATES PRESENTED

Provincial budget estimates, tabled in the Legislative Assembly Thursday show universities will receive $6,020,000 during the coming fiscal year compared with $1,110,700 this year.

News of the grants preceded by a few hours the announcement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that he will ask Parliament at the next session to pass legislation making it possible for provinces interested to collect an additional one per cent of corporation profits.

Out of this revenue—about $9,000,000 annually for Quebec — a province could pay directly to its universities an amount equal to the federal grants which Quebec institutions have turned down.

EXPECT SURPLUS

The Quebec budget forecast a record level of income and spending without any changes in the taxation level.

Finance Minister John Bourque forecast an over-all surplus of $488,900 for 1959-60.

Last February he forecast a deficit of $7,043,300 for the 1959-60 fiscal year, ending March 31, 1960, but he revised that figure Thursday to an over-all surplus of $530,900.

U.N. Faces Two Logjams In Path Of Adjournment

Algerian War, Seat On Council to Be Settled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The 14th general assembly of the United Nations was scheduled to adjourn its three-month sittings today—but it will be break a logjam on two important issues.

Turkey and Communist Poland were still deadlocked for a seat on the powerful Security Council, and a resolution on the Algerian war was still to be acted upon by the 82-nation assembly before gas fit final meetings.

The assembly also had to act on a joint plan for the peaceful creating a 24-power committee to study how mankind can co-operate on outer space. But this was considered a formality since the United States and Russia reached agreement in private negotiations before submitting a resolution sponsored by 40 countries.

CANADA'S VIEW

Canada, a member of the new committee as well as of the 12-nation body it replaces, called Friday night for a declaration binding this body to the principle of unanimity in all matters of substance.

Wallace B. Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, said "every effort should be made to avoid, with respect to matters of vital importance, that we have arises with respect to nuclear weapons the difficulty in which to develop at an early enough stage international agreements subjected to the jurisdiction of any state.

"Perhaps this result could be achieved by the new committee by general assembly . . . of a declaration establishing this principle."

TWO VOTES HELD

On the Polish-Turkish struggle, the assembly Friday took two more ballots—making a total of 50—without any sharp change in the deadlock. The assembly then accepted a proposal by Canada to postpone the issue to explore the possibilities of direct negotiations between the two countries.

Algerian Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada and other members of the delegations have indicated there will not be time in the last few weeks in support of the resolution before the Security Council Impasse. This would allow each country to serve one year.

Although the ballot is secret, it is known that Canada opposed several other Commonwealth and NATO countries, the U.S. and Britain backed Turkey.

TENSIONS EASED BY MARTIAL LAW IN ALBERT LEA

Farmers Demand Plant Re-opening

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—The pattern of community life has altered little in this Southern Minnesota city as the result of martial law imposed to prevent further violence in a meatpacking plant strike over working conditions.

Anyone excepting dramatic changes was disappointed. There haven't been any, aside from an obvious easing of tensions built up by strike - company friction.

Few guardsmen are to be seen around the city, population 18,000, except on patrol duty at mealtime.

The rifles carried at all times by National Guard troops appear curiously alien propped against tables in the eating houses.

A random sampling of guardsmen finds many college and high school students from Mankato and Rochester, the Minnesota home towns of the two militia units sent here to maintain the peace.

The guardsmen took over quickly and efficiently while the city slept in the early morning hours Friday. Martial law was here when they awoke, in the form of proclamations in windows with rifle and bayonet.

Martial law came at the order of Governor Orville Freeman, who acted to avert further violence in the strike of some 1,000 United Packinghouse Union employees at the Wilson pork packing plant.

Declaring martial law in the city and in Freeborn County, Freeman sent two companies of guardsmen to Albert Lea. Immediately the Wilson plant was closed and all pickets ordered off the premises.

Under the protection of the guardsmen, there was no further violence or demonstrations.

But in adjacent Fairbault County sheriff Lyle Philpps reported acts of vandalism directed at workers who took non-striking jobs at the meat packing plant.

Two unidentified bales of straw were burned on the farms of non-striking workers, he reported. Earlier in the week 20 miniature railroad ties on the tracks of a light airplane was damaged at other farms.

Re-opening of about 47 Southern Minnesota farmers lost in the 1959 strike, is the objective of the state farm bureau, march unanounced Friday at a meeting of Farmers office in St. Paul and demanded reopening of the plant.

Welch said farmers were being squeezed because hogs were becoming too heavy for marketing purposes. He told the gov. him farmers wanted the right to use trucks to keep the plant from being shut down closed. Freeman told the farmers it would be up to the packinghouse guardsmen to stay instead of 200, to keep the plant open.

Contract negotiations broke off October 29 when union workers struck the plant in a nine-hour day and the strike began Nov. 3.

ASK RECOUNT

AJAX (CP)—Thirty residents filed an application in county court at Whitby Wednesday for a recount of the ballot in the Ajax liquor plebiscite held last Nov. 23. In the plebiscit, approval for dining lounges failed by 16 votes to get the required 60-per-cent majority. Approval of cocktail lounges fell short by 65 votes.

Fairfield White House Near Kingston Given to Ont. Govt. In Memory of United Loyalist

MORRISBURG (CP)—Fairfield White House, a landmark near Kingston for 186 years, has been decided to be the province's memorial and will be set aside as a shrine in memory of the United Empire Loyalists who settled in Ontario in 1784.

A nine - acre "Fairfield Park" with 1,000 feet of shoreline will be developed around the 2½-story, stone, Georgian-style mansion.

George H. Challies, chairman of the Ontario-St. Lawrence development commission, today announced acceptance of the donation.

He said the donation fulfils a long-expressed wish of de-ceased, that a suitable memorial to the landing of the first United Empire Loyalists be established on the Bay of Quinte.

Among the many Loyalists who settled on the north-side shoreline of the Bay of Quinte was Richard Fairfield, a prosperous farmer.

His built Fairfield White House in 1792-93 near Fort Frontenac, now Kingston. There have been uncertainties as to what should include some well - kept handhewn logs furnished of the period. There are five usable fireplaces.

For five generations the Fairfield family, though recently it has been used only during the summer.

Dr. Fairfield, more than 80 years old, has lived in the Lethbridge area for 51 years. He established the Lethbridge Experimental Farm and was its superintendent for 45 years.

When built, the house was one of the largest in the Kingston district. It was the centre of community activity. Frequent guests in the 19th century were Sir John A. Macdonald, former Conservative prime minister, and Sir George Cartier, both a native of Kingston who broke with Macdonald over financial matters and joined the Liberal party.

Mr. Challies said the house will be maintained but not immediately opened to the public. It will be administered by the Ontario-St. Lawrence development commission from 1959 to re-publish and to keep parks in the Quinte-St. Lawrence area.

At present Highway 33 runs along the shore in front of Fairfield White House. Highway department plans for widening the road will remove the left north part of the shore to provide an area for a recreation park and a causeway across the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario and Amherst Island. Mr. Challies said in background.

The Challies, in outlining plans for the park, said:

"With the acceptance of this generous and patriotic donation the government preserves for posterity a unique and historic testimony of those years through which the present province of Ontario was achieved, with particular recognition of the faith and loyalty of United Empire Loyalists

"The Fairfield White House and property . . . will be a fitting memorial to the men who laid down in the foundation for this great country of ours."

Careless Driving Can Be Sin For R.C.'s Says Encyclopedia

OTTAWA (CP) — For Roman Catholics, careless driving can be a sin.

The point has been brought home by publication in Rome of an encyclopedia of sins, which includes among the 30 cited careless driving.

A spokesman for the Canadian Catholic Conference — the organization of the Canadian bishops — said Friday from Ottawa that the 928-page encyclopedia is not an official Church statement.

But it represents the opinions of prominent Church scholars and its editor is Magr. Pietro Palazzini, secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Council.

The Canadian Conference also repudiates Catholic teaching.

The conference office announced publication of the encyclopedia in Nov. 27. At the time, Attorney-General Fred Gardiner of Toronto said it was welcome news "for any citizen who has a sincere measure to bear on its followers to encourage traffic safety."

SIN DEFINED

Entitled El Peccato — sin — the book says its purpose is to provide men with "a traditional concept of sin. No new directives in the Encyclopedia are expected to be expected to follow its publication.

The conference spokesman said it also discusses atomic warfare, saying the 30-year Geneva agreement banning the use of gas in war was dropped on Hiroshima the day after the first atomic bomb was detonated and many very good Christians rejoiced at the news. Christians rejoiced because it was best to hasten the end of the war.

"Christian morals have never accepted the principle that the end justifies the means."

American Catholic bishops in formal statement in 1957, said careless driving is a sin and urged Catholics to join a crusade to keep the highways safe. One priest today told a reporter that he thinks the encyclopedia like needlessly could be considered a reference against the fifth Commandment: "Thou shalt not kill."

REJECTS THEORY

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association Journal says there is insufficient evidence to support theories that smoking cigaret smoking is the major factor in lung cancer and heart disease. A Journal editorial said that "although the studies reveal a relationship between cigaret smoking and cancer that seems more than coincidental, they do not explain why, even when smoking patterns are the same, case rates are higher among men than among women and among urban than among rural populations."

ARE CANADIANS PAYING TOO MUCH FOR DRUGS?

Investigation Going On for Two Years

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Do Canadians pay too much for drugs?

This question lies behind an investigation that has been going on for the last two years into drug prices in Canada.

So far, the inquiry hasn't reached the public stage as in the United States where a Senate committee conducted a 15-year-old yard and other parts of the world, increase the visit's importance now. He spoke to reporters in a press room established by the Indian government for coverage of Eisenhower's stay in India.

During a tour of press facilities, Nehru received 100 messages from cable officials in London and New York noting his presence in the press room. Responding to the messages in a telegram, Nehru said Eisenhower's "journey for the entire world and it is right that its significance be appreciated everywhere."

The two leaders have met for about three hours of private conferences so far in addition to conferences with public meetings and other events.

EXPECT MORE

More discussions are expected before Eisenhower leaves for Tehran Monday morning.

Mr. Chagla, Indian ambassador to the U.S., reported Nehru and Eisenhower were cheered when they welcomed Eisenhower here Wednesday at 2,500,000 persons. The cheering of New Delhi's reception for Nikita Khrushchev in 1955.

"It was the most sensational in history," the ambassador said in an interview.

The 2,500,000 figure is the biggest yet in estimates of the big throngs which cheered, waved and crowded in upon the procession in which Eisenhower rode from the airport into New Delhi.

TAKES RISKS

Eisenhower seized a chance today for his first real daylight visit since the beginning of his goodwill tour of three continents by stepping out with Nehru on local functions on his schedule, he relaxed at the russet-colored mansion of Indian President Rajendra Prasad and caught up on his mail. Tuesday he flies to Karachi during 9,300 miles from Washington.

First was an afternoon reception in the garden of Prasad's palatial home, to which he invited.

The only other event was a visit to U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's home, with Eisenhower and Nehru guests as the guest of honor. It will give the two leaders a chance to resume talks dealing with India's border troubles with China and the Khrushchev East-West summit meeting.

Struck by Car

STURGEON FALLS (CP) — A 13-year-old girl was killed Friday night when struck by a car on Highway 64 about two miles south of this North Bay district town. She was the daughter of Gerard Lemay, a Canadian Pacific Railway employee in nearby Springer Township.

Coroner Dr. Gaudaur identified the driver as Harry William Purdon of Elliot Lake.

Swiss Police Say Black Magic Cult Held 68 Hypnotized People Captive

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A black magic cult whose disciples were reported ruled by hypnotism and torture has been crushed barbed wire has been broken up by Swiss police it was announced.

Paul Baumann, 42, former patient in a mental home, is under arrest as the mastermind on charges ranging from interference with justice to murder and embezzlement.

Police Commissioner Ernst Spoerri released details at a press conference Friday night:

The cult was made last week on the fenced, secluded Fridberg estate at Guemligen, a suburb of Linden, a village 12 miles south of Bern.

Inside, raiding officers found 68 men, women and children in various stages of hypnotic trance.

One of the men, completely hypnotized, was hanging upside down from chains in an underground torture chamber.

All the disciples were in a state of fear and subjection to Baumann.

The group, made up of Swiss and foreign nationals including a 13-year-old girl and Baumann's wife, 25, had been said to be transferred to mental homes for psychiatric treatment.

The estate comprised five houses, a chapel with an altar bearing the magic spells, a movie theatre and mechanical bodies.

New disciples, found by pretional contact, were told they had been chosen by the spirits to join the community.

They had to swear an oath of allegiance to the sect on an electrified book of magic which sent a heavy charge through their bodies.

Incoming disciples were required to turn over all their cash and belongings in Baumann. The latter's estate found a small fortune in cash.

Wrong Boy Had Tonsils Taken Out

TORONTO (CP) — Someone in the operating room made a mistake in the middle of the tonsilectomy that the wrong three-year-old boy was on the operating table.

But, said Dr. Thornton Steele, who performed the operation Thursday, "at that stage we could do nothing but complete it."

The patient was Ricky Burt, scheduled for a minor skin operation in East General Hospital. His mother, Mrs. William Burt, said she was flabbergasted when told of the error.

She said the surgeon called her and said: "In any case, Ricky will feel much better now."

"He never had a moment's trouble in his life from his tonsils," said Mrs. Burt.

E. H. Wilkinson, administrator of the hospital, said there are "18,000 operations a year at this hospital."

"Sooner or later, whatever precautions we take, human error will creep in."

Dr. Steele said Ricky—and the three-year-old boy who was to have had the operation—were not similar appearance.

"The boy was clearly identified with a label tied on his wrist but I suppose there was some slip-up during the checks which are made before an operation."

Mom Whyte Will Build Mission In Early Spring

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Martha (Mom) Whyte says she will build a new mission in British Columbia "just as soon as the frost is out of the ground."

Mrs. Whyte, whose Whytehaven mission for children at Bowmanville, Ont., was closed by provincial authorities for health reasons, said in an interview Friday the new institution will not be only for children but "a religious mission offering assistance to anyone in need of help."

It will be built on a 25-acre site near Nelson, 100 miles east of here, which was given to her by retired orchardist Arthur Crehan.

Mrs. Whyte arrived at this Okanagan Valley community last week in a motorcade with her husband and children and the 40 Whytehaven workers and their children who have been living at Mountain View House, a 33-room home for elderly people.

Mrs. Whyte said they will operate the home while its owner and his wife are in Britain on business. The group will work in the spring on the new mission, she said, and Mrs. Whyte continue to operate the home.

"We are come to help people" said Mrs. Whyte. "We feel badly about the publicity our move has received."

When Adam discovered that one of her ninth graders was well stuck up with bubble gum, she removed him and sent him out to remedy the situation. As he left the class, there was a voice from the rear: "Have gum. Will travel."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis — Overnight the weather brewed a vile concoction of fog, rain and snow for the Labor Day holiday. This morning areas adjacent to Lake Ontario might be described as a sticky mess. A little to the west along Lake Erie snows very little, the snow has fallen, but extensive fog prevails.

This storm will pass eastward south of the Lakes today, and by evening at least partial clearing will be noticed in all areas affected. Temperatures are rising somewhat and there will be no signs of any change in the immediate future.

Three Large Drug Firms Cut Off Supply to Cut-Rate Co-op Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the house anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee said today an investigation of drug prices already has been a boon for federal legislation.

The Tennessee Democratic senator made the comment as E. G. Upjohn, president of the Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., was called for questioning about the firm's pricing of anti-arthritis drugs.

The subcommittee heard testimony Friday that three large pharmaceutical houses have shut off wholesale supplies of their brand-name products to a non-profit cut-rate drug service for elderly retired persons.

The testimony came from Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus, president of both the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association.

She said Parke, Davis and Company of Detroit notified the association it would stop supplies on Dec. 3 that it was "closing your account permanently, effective immediately."

This letter was addressed to Neustat Drug Stores, a chain operating in New York state which has been the main source of supply for the co-operative. Letters from Eli Lilly and Upjohn Laboratories and the Merrell Company of Cincinnati have specified bins by telephone they also are shutting off further wholesale dealings with him.

Dr. Andrus said this meant less for discounts now passed on to association members. They had been able to buy their medicines through the co-operative at 25 to 40 per cent below the retail prices in drug stores.

Patrol Leader Used 'Badly'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Friday that the leader of an Indian patrol captured in Ladakh had been subjected to bad treatment from the Chinese Communists.

He said he had received a fuller account from the patrol leader, Deputy Police Superintendent Karam Singh, only in the last few days.

His first impression was that Karam Singh's treatment was "bad — very bad — it seems a rather grim story of bad treatment."

Events Enhance Significance Of Ike's World Tour

Nehru Calls Journey Pilgrimage for Peace

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today called President Eisenhower's visit to India "a pilgrimage in quest of peace," of special significance at this time in world events.

Nehru said "it's obvious it would anybody be of significance," but added that events in Asia and other parts of the world increase the visit's importance now. He spoke to reporters in a press room established by the Indian government for coverage of Eisenhower's stay in India.

During a tour of press facilities, Nehru received 100 messages from cable officials in London and New York noting his presence in the press room. J. M. Wilkinson Associated With Cheese Industry 51 Years

Associated with the cheese industry in the county for the past fifty-one years, John M. Wilkinson retired as cheese inspector for this district, on Monday, November 30th.

His long service to the dairy industry began in 1908 when he was employed as an apprentice to cheesemaker, Daryl Shorey at the Hubbs factory south of the village. The next year he worked with W. H. Hubbs and was employed part of the Ontario Intelligencer, Belleville. In 1910 he took charge of his first factory, Premier factory near Thomasburg. The latter two cheese were closed, while Victoria ceased operations a few years ago, one of the many small plants in Hastings which have been casualties to the modern-day trend.

In 1911, Mr. Wilkinson was cheesemaker at Empey factory near Bethenville, and then returned to the Roblin factory where he remained until his appointment as inspector in 1943.

During his career as a maker he was a continual winner at the British Empire Dairy Show and at local fairs, and because of his knowledge as the art, he attended Dairy schools in Kingston for 16 years. He is also a charter member of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

RECALLS EARLY HISTORY

Mr. Wilkinson recalls the early days of the dairy industry in the county, when buyers called at factories to inspect the cheese to be sold at local cheese boards held in each small community. This method was later succeeded by large boards in Belleville and Kingston. Cheese are now sold by a clock system on an exchange in Kingston.

Government grading of cheese was started in 1933, and was carried out at Belleville and Kingston, thus eliminating the need for buyers to travel from factory to factory.

Following the death of Owen McEvoy of Marlbank, John Wilkinson was appointed field man for the Ontario Department of agriculture, which entailed the supervision of 32 factories, in territory bounded by Marlbank, Harmora and Bronk factory east of Cartwright.

FACTORIES CLOSE

During the ensuing years, there were many changes in the cheese industry, with many small plants amalgamated, as was the case at Eldorado, which is a combination of four factories — Eldorado, Bacon, Heenan's and Champion. Many factories were forced to close altogether, due to an ever-increasing trend of farmers to raise beef cattle. At the present time, Roblin is the only cheese factory in operation in Hungerford township, where thirteen once operated.

Mr. Wilkinson notes that there changes were due to cost of production and cost of living in the early days the dairy herd could call for farm meetings. Today the small farm cannot support a family, but the young boys more go into beef cattle or run calves on their own. New government regulations which call for cheese plants to adhere to certain standards have also been a factor in the trend. Mr. Wilkinson notes "our either have to progress or close down."

During the past years, the diminished number of factories in operation forced the change and consolidation of the inspection territory. Still with sixteen makers to supervise, they are on a one boarding Lakeview and Wentworth on the west to Thomasburg, Tweed and Madoc (Hamilton) and necessitated more travel and longer hours of work.

HONORED AT BANQUET

Last Wednesday evening at the Belleville Armouries, a dinner banquet, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson were honored by Daisy Shorey Association, cheese buyers and others associated with the industry. Each was presented with a beautiful watch and a gift of money.

A charter member of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, he has been actively interested and has worked just about since this show a success, as any through the years.

We know that all this would be impossible without the help and encouragement of his wife who he has beside him this evening, as he has for many years been a most useful life in the cheese industry.

As a small token of the appreciation of the Central Ontario cheesemakers and the cheese buyers of Belleville, we would ask you to accept these small gifts and the best of happiness be yours in retirement."

WILL REMAIN IN TWEED

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson (the former Ottaleen Graham of Thomasburg), were married in 1911 and have one daughter, Thelma Wilkinson, owns Bay-Ridge Dairy in Belleville with their daughter, Lois (Mrs. John Campbell) lives in Toronto, as has four grandchildren.

They plan to remain in Tweed, perhaps do some travelling, and enjoy the leisure that goes with retirement after many years of hard work.

Delivery Truck Skids Into Side of Diesel

Carl H. Hannah, 318-A Front Street, escaped without injury when a heavy stone v'clock Friday night when his truck skidded into the side of a CPR freight diesel on Newberry Street.

The delivery truck owned by Bill Deline Ltd., Coleman Street, was almost a complete writeoff.

Police said that Mr. Hannah was driving south on Newberry Street during last evening's downpour when he failed to see the eastbound freight in time and skidded into it after the diesel when he was unable to stop.

Damage to the truck was about $1,200 and to the diesel about $100. Engineer of the train, Oliver J. Powers of Lombardy, and Conductor George Robertson of Smiths Falls were also in charge of the freight train.

Boy, 10, Courageous in Sorrow, Buries Pet Dog Killed by Car

Rickye Green is a ten-year-boy.

"Bambi" was his chihuahua dog, a miniatur bundle of canine affection, the unbreakable tie that binds a boy to his pet.

But Death recognizes no ties.

It came Bambi's way, riding the bumpers of a passing automobile.

The other night, as was her custom, "Bambi" went to the door "wanting out."

Ten minutes later, she was a lifeless bleeding little body lying in the edge of the pavement.

The driver of the car did not return.

In fairness he may not known that his car struck the little dog. After all, "Bambi" was a chihuahua, a small delicate breed.

Later a heartbroken youngster buried his little dog in the family backyard.

There may have been tears in his heart, but few showed in his eyes.

He was courageous in his sorrow.

In a letter to a Toronto cousin he wrote, "I'm glad to know she died with a happy heart. Nobody will make me forget her."

Rickye is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Green, 71 Humewood Drive.

Here is the letter he wrote to "Cousin Ronnie" in Scarboro.

"Dear Ronnie,

On Saturday night "Bambi," my dog went to the side of the road. A man came along and hit her. Did you know a slight bump on a dog's head could make the inside bleed?

We buried Bambi in the back yard. To me it made me feel it was the end of the world when she died. That's been my 4th pet that had died. I had three dogs and a cat. I buried Mamli's dog and hamsters and I must admit she was the best dog I have had.

Dad said that it wasn't good to have a dog in the city. I put her in a box and put another box over top of that, and put her game on the box and lowered it. Nobody will make me forget her. We stop this thing in mind that she died so quick that her eyes were still open. I'm glad to know that she died with a happy heart."

Your cousin,
Rickye Green.

Obituaries

MRS. MORLEY P. DUFF

In ill health for the past six months, Mrs. Alice Janet Duff, widow of Morley P. Duff, 74 Alexander Street, former resident of this city, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon.

She was born near Hagerville, 88 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gardiner and has resided in this city for the past 40 years, moving to this city from Hagerville.

From her early life she became interested in music and developed talent in that profession. On coming to the city she became a member of Tabernacle Unified Church and was a member of the choir, a position she held with much ability for many years. Mrs. Duff was a talented soloist and her beautiful contralto voice will often be heard among the choir voices. She simply loved music and was always willing to assist any who might require it as a profession.

The Ladies Aid of the Church Association was formed in this city, Mrs. Duff being a charter member and lent her ability in building up this fine organization in the early days of the city. In her church besides being interested in the choir, she was a worker in the Women's Auxiliary and the Woman's Missionary Society.

In her earlier life, she was an active member of the Women's Lawn Bowling Club and with her husband enjoyed many social evenings with friends at the local greens. She was a kindly soul who enjoyed being with personal friends of which there was a wide circle and was deeply respected by all. Her death will be sincerely regretted.

Surviving are one daughter Mrs. Duff, manager of Duff's Drug Store, and several nieces, including Mrs. Gertrude Bell, in the last of her family.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Ave. at Church Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

SALVATORE BARBADORO

The funeral of Salvatore Barbadoro was held from the Duff Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien on Saturday morning to St. Michael's Church. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. William McGee, who also said the graveside prayers in St. James' Cemetery. There were a large number in attendance at the church to pay their last respects and the floral and spiritual offerings testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The bearers were James Waters, Percy Thompson, Patrick Tomaso, Stanley Beggs, Harold Putman and Joseph Crimmer.

PROF. W. R. ANDERSON
Cambridge, England

The friends of Mrs. Middleton, widow of the Reverend Middleton of Fairfield, near Plainfield Grange, have had the sad news of the sudden passing of her brother, Professor W. R. Anderson, Laurian professor of Cambridge University, England.

Professor Anderson's first appointment was at Queen's University, and there are many former students of his in Belleville and Odessa who speak of him with affection and appreciation.

This is the third sad suffering in Mrs Middleton's family in a few months, for a short time after her husband died in August, word came that her sister, Professor Alexander Souter's wife, of Cambridge, England, had died suddenly. Professor Souter was Latin professor of Aberdeen University and author of a Latin-English dictionary of Mansfield College Oxford. He was many at the author of Greek and Latin dictionaries and many other books.

There will be a special funeral

IN MEMORIAM

ABBEY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away December 13th, 1954.

We miss you now, from day to day,
But we know you're with God to stay.
We cannot see you, we cannot hear you,
And that makes us feel so very blue.
But we know when our life's over here,
We'll meet you over there.

Sadly missed by wife, son and daughter.

Black Hawks gained two points with a 4-0 whitewash job on the Habs. Steven White scored one goal and assisted on two others to lead the marksmen scoring list. Mike Tabry, Steve LaMoore and Don Muldoon had a goal each with Jim Bassett and Gary Lucas drawing assists.

Tuberculosis Assoc. Hears Test Report

A meeting was held recently of the members of the management committee of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association, presided over by the president, Mrs. A. H. Hallam.

Business arising from the minutes of the previous meeting was discussed and handled by the members present, and reports were given by committee members.

A report was given on the tuberculin testing just completed on students in Grade 9 and 13 in the schools throughout Hastings County, with the exception of the high schools in Belleville. This will be attended to at a later date and a further report given at that time. The Association is planning to report that 1,348 students and 75 staff members were tested, and of these number only 24 per cent showed a positive reaction. These positive reactors have also all been X-rayed and no active tuberculosis was found. This is only a part of the preventive program carried on by the Association in Hastings County.

Also an excellent report was given by Dr. D. Hoover. The meeting he had attended to represent the association at the Medical Advisory Section of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association held in Toronto recently. This was followed by a short question period after which the meeting was adjourned.

Prime Minister 'Misleading' Says Critic

OTTAWA (CP) — George Marler, executive vice-president of the National Liberal Federation, Friday night accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker of "deliberately misleading" Canadians about social security.

Speaking on the CBC's radio series The Nation's Business, he said Mr. Diefenbaker had declared he found evidence on taking office of "careless election" by the former Liberal government and that it took the Progressive Conservatives five years to begin to catch up.

Mr. Marler, former Liberal transport minister, said that in 1957, the Liberal government passed legislation involving the spending of $262,000,000 for national hospital insurance, old age pensions and other social security measures.

. . . Yet Mr. Diefenbaker has the gall to describe this as "careless liberality." His words may be colorful but they have no relation to the truth and when he talks glibly about 'catching up' he is just being misleading."

Speaker Stresses Need for Selling Canada to Canadian Youth

The annual "Executive Night" meeting of the Purchasing Agents Association of Eastern Ontario was held on Wednesday at the LaSalle Hotel in Kingston. President F. H. B. Shenton, field of the Northern Electric Company opened the meeting by calling to the attention of several terms just when the Purchasing Agents Association of Purchasing Agents involved with respect to the number of members and chapters.

Guest speaker was Austin Cockfield, president and general manager of the Massey-Harris-Ferguson Co. Limited, Brantford. Mr. Campbell's topic was "Selling Canada and Its Various Communities". Since Mr. Campbell is chairman of the Brantford Industrial Commission he is a seven, practising this in his everyday business life.

The speaker had one principal point to stress which we could well consider. We could sell Canada to industries in foreign countries if we had to first, "sell Canada to themselves" wholeheartedly, but not to be sure to sell it Sic sil of Canada. He criticized Canadians for the fact that they do not sell Canada — they assume that Canada is going to save and forget that it is the present that must be sold to the future generation, and they will choose Canada as the country in which to obtain their livelihood.

Mr. Campbell mentioned how the young people in Canada are to go to the United States because of the numerous opportunities offering, but they fail to realize the opportunity offered to them there are a greater number of graduates in Canada than are called opportunity.

Another fact that the speaker described was that many people in Canada today feel that just because a man is purchased from the border it must be bigger and better; however there are many times when there are as many and as good products to offer this side of the border.

Mr. Campbell summed up his speech by stating "I believe in the future by selling the present, and above all sell Canada to Canadians." The meeting was followed by a question period conducted by William K. Templeton of Fyvieview, Trenton, Mr. H. Burley of the International Hardware Company gave a short resume of the happenings during 58-record attendance at the Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents meeting which was held in Hamilton on November 27th.

The last item of the program was an educational lecture conducted by T. Whitney of the Dupont Company and the topic discussed was "Legal Liability of Field Service Contracts" which was a number of case histories were discussed.

Suggest Limit To Advertising At Elections

A limit to the amount of advertising which might be placed during a municipal election by any one candidate has been suggested by a member of the Bon Hill Ratepayers' Association.

The idea was put forward at this week's meeting of the Association by Mr. A. Bowerman, who claimed that many good men running for office might not be able to offset the elaborate publicity of other candidates and therefore would be placed at a disadvantage.

Due to the fact that the date was changed at the last minute there was but a slim attendance at the meeting. Future meetings, however, will feature a guest speaker, with the name of each speaker publicized in advance.

A letter will go out from Mr. Bowerman to Mayor-Elect A. McLean Haig expressing appreciation for the decision to cancel the civic luncheon following the swearing-in ceremony of council early in January.

Mr. C. French and Arthur Ellis were named as Association representatives to the Committee of Voters' Lists and Municipal Nic, member of the Council, answered several inquiries on behalf of the Council and the methods used to screen candidates prior to the municipal election.

President of the Association, Mr. Frank Lang, chaired the meeting.

Trees Feature Market Here Saturday Morn

Market square might have looked like Burnham Wood to a local Macbeth with the profusion of Christmas trees which were present this morning. But Christmas, like Macbeth, was making their presence felt. Amongst the trees and over the slippery ice forming from the light rain there were a few "regulars" on hand with their products on display.

Variety of produce was diminishing somewhat, although there were several "unusual" items on hand. Red potatoes, which cook whiter than white potatoes when cooked, were displayed in a small cardboard basket, and cirron, which looks like a small watermelon, were priced at 25 cents each, were the two uncommon items to be noticed.

Apples were available in several varieties, but not in large numbers. Prices ranged from 50 to 75 cents per basket with the $1.00 $3.00 a hamper. Pears were priced at $1.00 a basket. Cider and is 60 cents a gallon.

Vegetables available included cauliflower at 75 cents per head, potatoes (regular) at 80 cents each basket or $2.75 for a hamper, turnips at 75 cents per $1.25 the basket or hamper respectively, carrots at 75 cents per quarter; squash between 25 and 50 cents apiece according to size, and cabbages between a dime and a quarter.

Eggs were priced at 45, 40, and 35 cents the dozen for extra large, large and medium respectively. Chickens were priced at 50 cents the pound and boxey was available by the basket, the two-pound tin or $1.00 for four pounds.

A varied and interesting array of produce was on hand at the indoor market. Everything from petit point to pickled peppers seemed to be on display. An attractive display of baked goods was on sale by the various Girl Guide and Brownie troops in the Southeast Belleville district, the proceeds from funds for their proposed beadquarters building at Dundas and Herchimer Ave.

Those visiting it the late model car owned by Wayne Herrington, Hillside Street, which was on display outside the market.

During the night the car thieves had showed the car out of the driveway and apparently allowed it to roll down the hill to get the engine started. The vehicle was not missed until this morning.

MORE SHIPS SAIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Preliminary figures Tuesday showed that about 6,400 ships used the port of Montreal during the 1959 navigation season, now nearly closed. The number of arrivals and departures was estimated at 138,000. The 6,400 represents an increase of about 10 per cent over last year.

RCAF Personnel Informed Of Services of Town Boards

TRENTON — Pertinent points of interest to personnel of the RCAF Station, Trenton, 1959-60 were brought out by the chairmen of the various directorate of the Station Committee at the RCAF-town of Trenton meeting held at the Trenton Country Club on Thursday night.

T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the board of education, stated that there were 786 students in attending Trenton High School, 178 of whom came from the air station, and 238 of these were children of RCAF personnel living in town. Mr. Ketcheson announced the suggestion that a member of the airforce be appointed in the coming year to the position of a non-voting member of the board of education.

Dr. J. V. Byrne, chairman of the separate school board, said that there were 282 students were attending the two separate schools in town, 93 of whom were children of RCAF personnel. He also mentioned that there are 32 handicapped children attending the special class at St. Peter's School, some of them children of members of the airforce personnel.

Clifford A. Baker, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, explained the recent agreement made between the Department of National Defence and the commission as to the basic rate to be charged for supplying water to the airport.

James Cox, chairman of the library board, stated that there are 4500 registered members at the Trenton library, and during one quarter of whom are members of the airforce or their children. Mr. Cox said that the RCAF personnel were always welcome at the library.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills, chairman of the police commission, commented on the fact that the RCAF had always co-operated with the police department.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis remarked on the many occasions in the past when the RCAF fire department had assisted the Trenton department.

Committee-elect Dr. R. Fraser, speaking as a representative of the Community Gardens Committee, reported that a member of the RCAF be appointed to the committee when a survey to closer liaison between the town and the air force.

S. O. Graham, chairman of the board of directors of Trenton Memorial Hospital, said that the members of the RCAF Women's Auxiliary had donated $6,000 towards furnishings and equipment in the nursery which was recently built and was presently giving around $1,000 per month towards the cost of the purchase of linens and equipment. He invited the RCAF to participate in the current drive for funds for the proposed addition to the hospital.

Dr. E. W. Dow, chairman of the board of health, said that he had recommended that the services of the Trenton Victorian Order of Nurses be enlarged to include the Middleton Park area.

Councillor Howard Aziz thanked the RCAF for making the indoor pool at the airport available to the recreation commission for swimming and life saving instruction.

Fantham's Rink Wins Quinte Hotel Trophy

TRENTON — The RCAF Curling Club's fourth annual bonspiel competition has been completed with the rink of F/L. Fantham winning the main event and the Quinte Hotel Trophy.

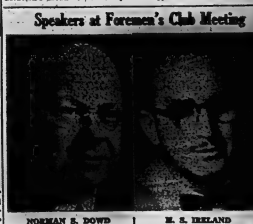
F/L. Fantham and his rink, vice-skip, Cpl. Empey; second, Sgt. Burried; and lead, F/O the president of the club, Flight Sgt. McCarthy, skip, WO1 Fry vice-skip, F/L. Phillips second and F/L. MacInnis lead to win the Quinte Hotel Trophy. Individual prizes also were presented to the winning rink with F/L. Fantham receiving a punch bowl.

The consolation event was won for the second year in a row by the team skipped by Sgt. Langlois, with Sgt. Kendall vice-skip, Cpl. Ruduck second, Cpl. Waugh lead.

The winning team was presented with blanket seat cushions and the runner-ups were given F/L. Emery skip, WO Ledingham third, F/L. MacIntosh second and Sgt. Elliott lead respectively, a pair of glasses.

The Club has now settled down to league play with the club split up into divisions based on their showing in the opening spiel. Each division is playing a round robin to determine which teams will advance to a higher division. This method makes a very even distribution of teams in ability and good close games for all.

The next bonspiel of the club is the annual Yuletide Bonspiel which is held between Christmas and New Year's. It is regretted that this is a closed spiel and open to RCAF Curling Club members only.



Camera Club Holds Meeting

TRENTON — The first meeting of the movie club section of the Town and County Camera Club was held in the Glen Miller Recreation Hall on Wednesday night. Many new members were present. Several films were shown and discussed by members in the use of lense, cameras, and set-ups for title backgrounds. The members will take movie shots with black and white and colored films. A movie library has been named as the temporary chairman. New members are welcome and the Glen Miller Hall are held in the Glen Miller hall on the 1st and 3rd Wednesday of every month. Instruction is also given in the use of 35mm cameras.

questions a better yardstick would be the company's return on investment rather than markup on specific items.

RESEARCH COSTS

Canadian businessmen were involved in research leading to discovery of a new drug and to recommend these costs the manufacturer had only a relatively short period before competitors came out with a similar drug or a newer and more effective one, Frank Howard, CCF MP for Skeena, said during the last session of Parliament that loss of after these research outlays are recovered prices of some drugs "are maintained at an arbitrarily high level. . . ." is urging that a royal commission investigate the drug industry, he charged that certain firms are responsible for some sort of price conspiracy to maintain an arbitrarily high price level."

This week, Jules R. Gilbert, president of a Toronto drug supply firm, said that by setting aside patent protection on particular drugs the government would reduce prices drastically. He said mark-ups of 4,000 and 5,000 per cent are common in Canada.

Ralph B. Thompson, a director of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association and president of Pitman-Moore Limited, said average net profit in the industry is 6% per cent on the sale dollar. The example of "a 4,000-per-cent markup is not a realistic figure if the total cost to the manufacturer of producing the drug is considered . . ." he said.

Bewildering Display of Old, New Toys to Bring Delight To Tiny Tots on Christmas

Christmas, it is said, is intended primarily for the kiddies —and the big day will be bigger than ever this year, judging from the number and variety of toys on the market.

Big boys, small toys, metal, wood and plastic toys . . . toys for boys, toys for girls, for tiny tots. Walk into any toy store—there have been added to those from the workshop of S. Claus in Belleville. The best is the bewildering display of old favorites and new playthings.

The line is drawn between the ages of about six to 12 or so, but there is no rule, very simple, according to local authorities on such matters.

Among the old favorites, which never seem to lose their popularity, are dolls and Indian. Western outfits are always on display at this time of Christmas.

They have played cowboys from grandmother's time, and their popularity, speed of rockets and jet planes, it appears the youngsters will still be setting their western heroes many years from now.

Next to this favorite on the boys' list comes hockey equipment. With their many-colored sweaters, pants and gloves, the youngsters make like young Maurice Richards.

TRUCKS POPULAR

Other popular items are new all-metal unbreakable trucks which are selling very well, and cow storekeeper.

And, like the electric trains which father commandeers now and then, there is a two-way inter-com set which can be used in the kiddies or by dad as an inter-room or inter-office phone.

The girls, too, have their outstanding favorites.

The biggest of which is, of course, dolls. Playing "mommy" has never lost its appeal and dolls are the biggest sellers for the younger girls, with stuffed animals being popular with all ages and age of female (even adults).

"Doing as mummy does" constitutes one of the largest of the girls' fields. Besides dolls, the young mothers can get miniature dishes, tables, TV sets, kitchen pets and sets which they can create into their own little "homes."

NOT RADICAL CHANGE

It seems, despite changing times, the children's choice has not changed radically for many years. But there are many variations on old themes and this is where the children — and their parents — fare better than their grandfathers.

The variety is amazing.

No matter what price range you choose, there is something to suit every taste and every pocket book, may not be as expensive as grandfather's pistol or rifle, it could be less a lovely piece of wood, but it is an awful lot easier on "Santa Claus."

Although business has been steady up to now, toy retailers expect the next two weeks to be the busiest. The only two more week left to purchase, business is expected to zoom.

And many youngsters will wake up Christmas morning and will hold their folks after examining each and every gift minutely — "this is the finest Christmas ever!"

2 Autos Stolen During Night, One Recovered

Two autos were stolen in the city last night, one of which was recovered by police early after it was abandoned.

The car of Harold Blanks, 214 East Bridge Street, was taken from in front of his house and was found abandoned on Herchimer Ave.

Also missing is the late model car owned by Wayne Herrington, Hillside Street, which was stolen from the same area.

During the night the car thieves had showed the car out of the driveway and apparently allowed it to roll down the hill to get the engine started. The vehicle was not missed until this morning.

White Crosses for Safer Driving

To say the very least traffic fatalities are one of the main considerations which face highway engineers, users, police and safety councils in our modern society. The number of fatalities increases each year, although there is some indication of a reducing ratio of traffic deaths to number of vehicles on the road. Nevertheless deaths from an automobile accident make very little sense or reason at any time, in any number.

Highway and driving safety groups have placed the blame on speeding, too much horsepower in cars, drinking before driving, and other faults. Although there may be something to be said for any and all of these propositions, basically any traffic death or accident may be attributed to one thing . . . drivers, we might better use the word operators, who refuse to act safely and conscious of or do not know their own limitations and how to handle a car safely.

Often the average automobile operator, to denote mechanical ability to set a vehicle in motion and guide it along a route, or driver, to denote proficiency in driving within the capabilities of his vehicle and his personal limitations, will think seriously about driving safety when he reads an account of a traffic fatality or serious accident, or when he sees a safe driving advertisement, or when he sees a Provincial Police cruiser on or beside the highway. But often, being only human, he lets this realization slip from his consciousness when on the road.

It is basic psychology that, if reminded enough of a certain thing, a person will eventually allow this fact to become what might be termed second nature to his way of thinking and his actions. It is also true that when a point is brought quite forcibly to the attention of a person he is liable to retain the impression for quite some time longer than under normal conditions.

With this in mind we would suggest a simple and fairly inexpensive method of reminding motorists of the need for careful and safe driving. Wherever there has been a traffic fatality there be a large white cross erected at the side of the road for each adult killed and a small white cross for each child. The large cross might be about five feet in heighth and the smaller one about three and one-half feet high.

Then as a person travelled along our highways he would be reminded of the need for safe driving, of the fact that at some time past death visited that particular section of road. We feel that this would increase a driver's awareness of the need for constant attention to the operations of the road, the movement of traffic about him, of the speed of his car for the conditions present, and of the need for safe handling of his vehicle in general. The crosses would also point out to the various accident-prone sections of our highways and make him more alert in observing what lies ahead.

The impact of these crosses, coupled with what will unfortunately be their frequency, would undoubtedly make an immediate and forceful impression, psychologically speaking. Where speed limits, including signals, radar traps, and various enforcements have failed to provide a cure-all this method might be quite successful.

It has been tried in the State of Arizona with some degree of success we understand. We have heard of it from various acquaintances who have travelled in that part of the continent and who were impressed with the impact which it made upon them and how it affects their driving attitude. All have agreed that it was a very impressive way of bringing home to the driver the necessity of safe driving and that they remember these crosses yet as they drive along a road in some other province or state.

Some of these persons we consider to be very good drivers and, in one case, an excellent driver. They have a very good sense of their own and their machines' capabilities (all incidently own and drive modern cars) with very high performance potential and limitations. Some are racing drivers on sport car circuits, others are rally drivers on normal highways, and all are keenly aware of the necessity of safe driving. But to these people nothing so impressed them with the necessity of safe driving as the white crosses along the highways in Arizona.

The provincial authorities might well take this idea and apply it in a limited way to sections of Ontario's highways. It's a sign for safe driving which no person can ignore.

Jean Claude Dubois, a parachute champion who has made a profession of testing parachutes at Breitigney, is unhappy: He will not be allowed to do his military service as a parachutist. He has flat feet.

PEACE RIVER VALLEY — HUDSON HOPE
(Article 11)

Starting southward on the Alaska Highway from Watson in Mileage 54, about eight miles northwest of Fort St. John, will be found to the right the beginning of the road which leads to the Peace River Valley, Hudson Hope, the mountains of coal which probably never will be worked and the Peace River Canyon, the source of the Peace, which deserves special mention in an article by itself.

This 54-mile stretch of gravel-ed road was built through a vast area in which there is not a sign of human habitation. And yet it is not a barren, desolate, monotonous wilderness. Instead, it is a vast area, an area which stretches as hundreds of miles beatwest-ward below the Alaska highway into the Yukon.

Mechanical trouble brought the car to a brief halt and there came the sound of a chain saw at work ahead. But this was not a new being used by a settler to clear his land for the coming crop for the winter. This was a telephone crew working from Hudson Hope to the highway, trimming the branches from trees along their line.

Standing on top of the cliffs looking down on the Peace River valley was reached, the valley appeared to stretch endlessly away from the east where the cliffs to the west. Here and there a log house nailed together of logs some miles westward, even beyond the pretty little Indian village of Hudson's Hope as it appears on the maps and in the travel folders.

MARVEL OF ENGINEERING

The road down the thousand foot high cliffs is in truth a marvel of engineering skill. Of course it is winding, it is steep in places, but it is almost a too perfect purpose for this is the only road into the valley from the northwest. From the top of this long series of cliffs may be seen the eastern slopes of the Peace River, which at this point is broad and contains several islands. The current here is fast, the water muddy (in June), with the only sign of life to be seen the flocks of ducks and geese feeding along the island shores.

The cliffs on both sides of the river at this point are of clay here because further up river the southern cliffs give way to bush and an artist's dream, most particularly when high-lighted by a clear afternoon sun. The rock formations, the designs etched by the passage of time and weather have to be seen to be believed. Dropping down through these cliffs to the valley bed it is like being let down into a gallery filled by the masterpieces of the world's greatest landscape artists.

The valley bed is in itself a Garden of Eden. Except for the occasional fields which wind through it, the soil is black and rich. The buildings record the settlement of the years, the generations which followed since the first settlers arrived. Here you will find the log buildings of the old-time settlers, here you will find the modern buildings of their descendants, or the newcomers. Here you will find farms not according to acreage for size but according to prosperity — seven miles in fact. But then this is the leading farm of the valley, the best farm and the farm machinery is put to use, this is the Palomino horses are bred and raised. Naturally crops are generally better in this valley than anywhere, generally the gardens produce extra well. Of course there is one church there may be a second church (there should be, we hope). And every mid-summer there is a rodeo which brings people from all parts of the countryside.

NO HUNTING

Everywhere along the road may be seen "No Hunting" signs. And that is no wonder, for as previously mentioned, beyond the cliffs to the north may be found vast herds of caribou and elk and bears of different shades of color, while the streams abound in foxes and other animals which in consequence come down into the valley in search of food, to trample the grain, to raid the chicken coops and the settler has to pay or pay on sheep or young stock. However hunting is not permitted and that is a matter that is enforced by the letter.

After crossing the small Middle River, one of the few that empty into the Peace from the north, the little hamlet of Hudson Hope is in sight.

Built on a flat with lots of room for expansion Hudson Hope has a long history. Up in Bucks Mountain, just to the east of it, is a vast deposit of coal, a coal bed so extensive that the Hudson Hope Bulletin claims that here will be found "one-eighth of the world's known coal." Back in 1921 years ago the mines was worked but not heavily. Now it has left its mark. After all the world has passed from the wood age and era into that of coal and natural oil and electricity and it is right here on the banks of still another new era, that of hydro-electric power which in time will make even the use of gas and oil quite unnecessary.

Hudson Hope has had a smattering of buildings, a village without any particular appearances, such as are usually found in the smaller places. The Hudson Hope Bulletin is a newspaper devoted to and when we were there the fifth issue was the current number. From next door there came a frequent reverberation to us that the "postmaster had gone down there." Addition of the people of Hudson Hope, there is a total of 1,000 have a town. And in the light of what is planned up river that is not so large.

NEW HOTEL BEING BUILT

There was at least some activity in Hudson Hope when there were carpenters were erecting a large, spacious hotel to take the place of the one nearby possibly. There was a trailer parking area and the Canadian Board of Commerce on it to show that the people were alive to the future. There was some air in the small stores, in one or two there was the odor of Gali, Ontario, who had gone away for a while but was back again to stay. There was the little Anglican church that dates back to the early days and the fairly modern Red Cross outpost hospital. Here, we found the answer to the questions of properties which would be for sale and it was evident that there were more properties up on the top than there was room for. Of course there is just reason for that. It is said that in the Peace valley away the Peace River will be found some of the richest farming the efforts of thousands of men for a few years.

REGENERATION

We often hear the term "regeneration" used in sermons or religious addresses. What does the word mean?

It refers to produce something new. Theologically it means to be born again spiritually. It is the placing by God's hand within our hearts of a supernatural influence which henceforth will make life different for us in every way. This divine Spirit will change our way of thinking. It will give us new desires. It will gradually cause us to evolve for ourselves a new philosophy of life. It will enable us to resist temptation. It will make us kindly to others to whom we were formerly blind. It will put love in our hearts and cast out hate.

Christianity is a religion of regeneration. Its characteristic is that it regenerates the human soul.

We have examples of such regenerations in the Bible. St. Paul, of course, is the outstanding example. But there are many others such as the keeper of the prison at Philippi, and the lady who was a dress shop in the Grecian city of Philippi.

In our own day we have had Dwight L. Moody, Jerry McAuley, Billy Sunday and the admirable modern evangelist Billy Graham. There men have been converted to Christ and their inner life regenerated.

Regeneration is not just a code of ethics. It is the implementing of God's supernatural power known as regeneration.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 12, 1938

For over fifty years the Salvation Army has served in Belleville, first in the upstairs of a building in the business section, then in the present recently removed to make room for the modern structure. With the opening of the Salvation Army new citadel, Belleville will be able to give even more effective service to the community in which it works.

"Army" has been a blessing wherever it labors. Its mission has taken it into almost every corner of the world to help men into a right relationship with God and to improve his status. Belleville acknowledges the benefits that the organization has been to the many thousands here in the past fifty years and Belleville is better for the service which the officers and women of the "Army" have rendered. The new building is a fine structure and it is hoped spiritual worship, the religious dynamic which will generate power that will save men and women and keep them from the storms of life.

Mrs. H. F. Tuck has returned to her home, Station St., after an absence of several months.

Miss Vera Humphrey, Bag. S., has returned from Montreal, where she spent the past six months.

Mrs. George Jeffery and Mr. Jim Jeffery of Toronto spent the past weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Jeffery.

Mr. Harry Lee of Vancouver visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Cedar Street, over the weekend.

There is one good thing about this cold weather and that is we are not worrying about the enforcement of the new by-law.

Can Hard Toil Be Dishonest?

Ottawa Journal

Life, we sometimes think, is hard; yet we make it harder. A service station operator in Ottawa found he couldn't look after his wife and seven children if he worked 24 hours a day. So he remained open all night, with the aid of his family and a couple of employees. Don't the community of Ottawa, via a civic by-law, have decided that a man may not work as hard as he wants. The bylaw did not benefit him, it may not make more other people work long hours; it said he must not work long hours. He never stumbled through a day, but accepted the demands with "Courage, Gaiety, and the Quiet Mind." Each one of us can do the same and make our prayer a thing of beauty and "heart" devotion.

There is a medieval prayer to a honest, sincere prayer of thanksgiving, a prayer for forgiveness, and spiritual guidance. The darkness falls as one reads certain lines, like a thick fog, and there is a ray of light that creeps in, a comforting assurance that all is well. But there is still in this bylaw the implication of a good sound basic principle: a man's own energies should be the limit of his right to work.

Mrs. F. B.'s youngster followed the familiar pattern of croup last year: Attacks in August, October and December. Three shots of 1½ c.c. for four months is a common pattern.

Mrs. D. K. asks why her children, 4 and 2, got croup in spite of having multiple vitamins plus vitamin C.

Mrs. I. L. L. wants to know, "Is there any way to prevent it? Is it possible to build up resistance enough, what can be done for it? Is it true that many are rushed to the hospital for an operation?"

"Croup" is laryngitis in an infant. As a rule a child outgrows it by three or possibly four years of age. Sometimes it continues later in life, although this is not customary.

Croup is the result of infection or a cold, a flu virus, streptococcus infection, sometimes (but rarely these days) diphtheria.

An attack of croup, you will find a child awakening with a "cold" which may, in fact, be a cold in so far as actually by one of the other previous infectious, croup will appear very suddenly. The time for croup is there first.

If you could look deep into the child's throat, you would find the vocal cords red and swollen. The membrane of the larynx is swollen and thus partially obstructed. That is why the little victim had to struggle for breath, and that is why you hear the characteristic croup which goes with croup. When the child is older, by the time he reaches age of large, he may have other throats, cold, strep throats and so on, yet not have "croup".

Besides the swelling, there is a thick mucus which clogs the air passages. It is this that causes the choking case of croup along toward midnight. Exactly why this occurs is not known; changes in the throat is a reasonable supposition, along with some other factors.

Another puzzling fact is that, although the child apparently will have colds and kindred infections, he will not have another attack of croup.

But enough of what I don't know! I do know that inhaling steam, perhaps with a bit of benzoin added, is the first choice in relieving a child with croup. Cold packs on the neck are an old-fashioned remedy which I have found to be very effective. Poultices on the chest also have been helpful.

Antibiotics or sulfa drugs are in order; they will curb some person, but of the infection is from a virus, they will prevent secondary bacterial infections from prolonging the trouble.

Please do not forget that some small object lodged in the throat, a bead, button, small toy, or any of the endless list of things that attract youngsters, may be the cause, too.

As to "rushing a child to the hospital for surgery," it is somewhat like the customary tracheotomy, or opening in the windpipe, if the case is a desperate one. Sometimes it is a life saver.

Oh, and one other thing. Ipecac is an old remedy and quite effective, but a messy one. It requires enough of a dose to insure vomiting. It should be determined by your doctor.

The above words are from a prayer written by Robert Louis Stevenson. It is addressed to Families who start the day with prayer usually have a good day, with a prayer in mind and heart, and a blessing at the end face the day's problems and anxieties with courage, fearless and serene.

Stevenson was ill most of his life, but he never let himself down. He never stumbled through a day, but accepted the demands with "Courage, Gaiety, and the Quiet Mind." Each one of us can do the same and make our prayer a thing of beauty and "heart" devotion.

There is a medieval prayer to a honest, sincere prayer of thanksgiving, a prayer for forgiveness, and spiritual guidance. God Helps Master Immovables

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

There is no trait which evokes more admiration in our time than that of masterfulness. To be a master of situations, to know what is to be done next when others around are hopelessly confused, to keep our head when others are losing theirs and blaming it on us — these are the abilities we applaud.

But in our admiration for mastery, are we catching the full extent of Christ's masterfulness? We have become expert in handling the material elements of our environment. We seem to be fulfilling the Biblical promise of the Creator that man should have dominion over the earth. And we have pretty well added the sea and air to his domain.

But with all our mastery of the movable factors around us, are we improving our self-mastery when we confront the immovable obstacles of life? Has our ef-

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINGFIELD WILSON ANCESTORS

In the British Museum there is a rock giving proof that our birds of today can trace their ancestry 150,000,000 years, for on it is the imprint of a creature about the size of a crow which, though lizard-like in some respects, had wings and feathers. This is the first known bird. The fossil was found in Bavaria in 1861, and named Archaeopteryx by a scientist of that time. It had no true beak, but a head like a reptile's, with teeth in both jaws; its long tail had twenty joints, and from either side of each bone a feather grew. At the end of each wing were three claws.

Only 16 years after the first important find, another fossil bird was uncovered in Bavaria, and while similar, in general characteristics was considered a different species, and named Archaeornis.

Judging by the kind of rock in which these fossil birds were found, scientists knew that they had lived in what is now called the Jurassic period, when Bavaria was a tropic sea with coral islands, and cold blooded reptiles moved about on all fours. Gradually these creatures developed habits of feeding on objects on which they must stand on their hind legs; then they took to climbing trees, and the tails became flattened, providing a help in gliding.

TEETH LIKE REPTILES'

Other fossil birds of a slightly later epoch have been found and named. One of these, the Hesperornis, which greatly resembled our modern loon, was discovered by a man named Marsh on our own continent in Cretaceous shales of Kansas — that is, in a layer above the Jurassic oolerys, showing it to be of a later date. Nevertheless, this bird had teeth like a reptile.

As time went on, slowly but surely birds multiplied, there were more different kinds, and they more closely resembled those we see today. At first they were mostly large water- birds, and it was a long time before songbirds developed. A fossil referred to as the "Bird of Montmartre" was another important find, showing what progress had been made up to what is called the Tertiary period.

All this was appealing as animals were becoming more like ones. However, at the end of the Tertiary period (long before man arrived) yet in an appearance), vultures and eagles, gulls, swallows, pheasants, ducks, and many other kinds of birds arrived on the scene.

Our grubes and loons are the lowest form of our present bird life, and the most closely allied to the reptiles from which birds originated.

MUST USE OUR RESOURCES

No longer should we blindly drift into disease and disaster and then piously call them the will of God. When we neglect the principles of health and fall sick we seek alleviation for pain and for us war it is blasphemy to blame the suffering on God. He holds us responsible for using all our resources to ward off accident, disease, starter and death.

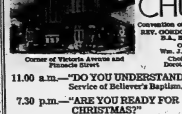
In spite of our best efforts there is bound to be an irreducible minimum of pain.

Sooner or later we all get some pain. And pain, like love, the most beautiful thing in life, carries the possibilities of intense pain — sometimes aching with anxiety, sometimes bruised by abuse, sometimes devastated by death. Every extension of love and friendship enlarges our exposure to the irreducibles of pain.

What help can we get from God in mastering irremovable pain?

We can acquire a better sportsmanship in our attitude. For most of us make more commotion over little hurts than serious ones. We commonly we advertise our slight disorders which nobody sees and make light of the serious injuries.

Let a husband sprain his wrist while helping move the piano and how vocally and repeatedly he announces the accident. But let her visit him in the hospital for an almost fatal accident, and he quiets her, outbursts of sympathy as if his lusty vocal cords and his whole inhuman attitude suggest that much of our admiration for pain is due for sire to catch the "sympathy of others?



USE OF IMAGINATION

Another secret in the mastery of pain is the use of the imagination. Robert Louis Stevenson in 1893 wrote that for 14 years he had not had one day of real health. Though racked with pain he sent out his thoughts in these adventures on "Treasure Island" which boys eagerly read. Stevenson deliberately turned the attention of his blinking away from himself and into the world of others.

Also, God imparts the courage to endure by setting before irremovable pain and loss. He reinforces our fortitude with faith, hope and love.

When illness limits us, we can with God's help turn the tide of our remaining strength. Youths in the glow of abounding health may dissipate their energy to be boundless and sometimes proceed to topple death by burning the candle at both ends. But when something happens to lower the vitality and spirits are limited, God teaches us "to number our days and apply our hearts unto wisdom."

Out of physical suffering has come some of the world's highest creative work. We think of the blind Milton, the tubercular Keats, the cripple Flaubert. Coleridge once said, "I never had as affliction that I didn't turn into a poem."

THE NEW AND DANGEROUS HERESIES OF "LIFE AND DEATH"

The Committee on Christian Faith, of the United Church of Canada has recently published a booklet entitled "Life and Death." The committee stated that the doctrines it contains, "may seem new and even startling to many people. We admit that they seem, so to us."

Since the book has been presented "for study", we feel obliged to give it a sincere analysis in comparison with the Holy Scriptures and Bible, as the Word of God. Rev. Robert Snyder, Pastor of the Parkdale Community Centre, Rev. Robert Snyder, the pastor of the Parkdale Baptist Church, will be conducting the services organized by the local in question. A hearty welcome is extended to all United Church people who wish to take advantage of this opportunity to study this book. The dates for the various subjects will be as follows:

Dec. 12—Heresy No. 4. The Bible is unreliable.
Dec. 27—Heresy No. 5. The physical body is not raised in the resurrection.
Jan. 3—Heresy No. 6. There is no spiritual growth after death.
Jan. 10—Heresy No. 7. Everyone will eventually be saved.
Jan. 17—Heresy No. 8. Hell is not eternal punishment.
Jan. 24—Heresy No. 9. The Judgment Day is nothing to fear.
Jan. 31—Heresy No. 10. Christ's return may not be personal.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Archie S. Lewis announce the engagement of their daughter, Diana Merle, to Mr. Isaac Allan Morgulis, Kitchener, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Morgulis, Toronto. The wedding will take place quietly on January 6th at the Holy Blossom Temple, Toronto.

Miss Lottie Vanluven, 12 Wicksteed street, received word yesterday that her sister, Mrs. Florence Livingston, Toronto, passed away Thursday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Ted Kennedy, Mrs. F. H. Deacon and Mr. Fred Deacon are attending the Hagerman—Lesnick wedding today in Montreal. Miss Ellen Hagerman, of Albert College, will also be a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan O'Flynn, Junior, spent the first of the week in Ottawa, attending the Liberal convention.

Canadian Legion L.A. Holds Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held its bazaar and tea in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon. A nice crowd turned out despite the bad weather. The hall looked nice with Christmas all decorations all around.

The quartet tea tables, covered with white cloths, were centred with pretty Christmas candle holders and red candles.

Mrs. Wallace poured the tea, while Mrs. Ross Hudson, Mrs. Burt, Mrs. Kellar, Mrs. Callow and Mrs. Tripp served the delicious sandwiches and cookies and tea.

Mrs. Allan Thompson and Mrs. W. King were in charge of the food table which was filled with good things to eat.

The touch and take table was looked after by Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Findlay.

The aprons and novelty table was in charge of Mrs. A. Ogilvy, Mrs. Alf Ogilvy and tickets at the booth of groceries. Lennie Hudson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson, had the winning ticket which was held by Mrs. A. Ogilvy.

18th Birthday Marked by Special Supper

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Warren McFaul entertained on Saturday evening at their home in honor of their daughter, Mary Ellen, who was celebrating her 18th birthday.

The guests enjoyed an evening of playing contests and dancing. About 11.30 they sat down to a delicious supper, including a lovely birthday cake, aglow with candles. This was served by Mary Ellen's mother.

Many lovely gifts were presented to Mary Ellen by her friends and each guest received a pretty favor from her.

Successful Tea, Bazaar Held by Moose Women

The Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue was gay and festive with Yuletide decorations for the recent bazaar and tea held under the auspices of the Ladies of the Loyal Order with Mrs. J. Young receiving the patrons at the door.

Mrs. Nelson Isles convened the table of homemade cakes, confections, cookies and angel cakes, with Mrs. Evelyn Rollins assisting.

At the white elegant table, with its many articles, were Mrs. Bernice Prindle, and in charge of the candy booth with all kinds of goodies were Mrs. Lillie Burd and Mrs. Annie Davidson.

ATTRACTIVE APRONS

The apron table was most attractive with many colorful aprons, both large and small, and in many materials and colorful as the rainbow. Convening this was Mrs. Alma Besley.

The fancy work table had many articles so suitable for Christmas gifts, and in charge of Mrs. Venlaw.

The country store was well stocked with all kinds of canned goods, as well as fresh vegetables. Mrs. E. Bird acted as the general store-keeper.

A table of baby clothes and dolls' wearables as well as dolls was in charge of Mrs. C. Siemer.

PRETTY TEA TABLES

As highlight for the bazaar were the attractive tea tables covered with lovely lunches cloths and centred with Mitile Christmas arrangements, serving were Mrs. R. Stapley, Mrs. V. Keelar and Mrs. G. Rich, with pourer in tea was Mrs. Althea Craighead of Trenton.

The committee, under the direction of Mrs. Lillie Burke, was highly complimented on the supervision in the replenishing of the plates and serving of the tea.

The president thanked all concerned with the success of the bazaar and tea, and also to all for their appreciative thanks to all who helped in any way to make it so.

Tweed O.E.S. Installs Patron, W. Matron

ROSLIN — Mrs. Ethel Silkeworthed of Roslin was recently installed Worthy Matron, and Mr. Russell Green of Tweed, Worthy Patron, at Tweed Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Nelle Wormwood of Minerva Chapter, Belleville, and Mr. David Hollinger of Belleville were installing officers, assisted by Mrs. Gwen Green as chaplain; Mrs. Annie Bates as pianist; Messdames Hilda McCrory, Ethel Hagan, Hazel Albert, and Annie Thompson, and Messrs. Frank Forsyth, Frank Cook, Charles Porritt and Clarence Thompson. Also assisting in the East was Mrs. Fred Furnidge of Milnes Corner, who is a sister of the Worthy Matron.

Mrs. Furnidge was heard in a solo during the ceremony.

The immediate Past Worthy Matron, Mrs. Kathleen Bird, and Past Patron, were presented with her jewel by Mrs. Marion Thompson of Ardoch, who was the W.M. for the preceding term.

Past Worthy Patron, James Taylor, of Arden, was presented with his jewel by Mr. Frank Bowerman of Tweed.

Other officers of Tweed lodge installed in the ensuing term were: Associate Matron, Ruth Taylor; Associate Patron, Percival Gees; secretary, Irene Coulter; treasurer, Ella Bowers; assistant conductress, Edna Thompson; chapain, Jean Green; marshal, Blanche Hudgins; Ada Mae Morton; Adah, Eileen Coulter; Ruth, Margaret Foster; Esther, Eileen Wilson; Martha, Ethel Palmateer; Electa, Geraldine Smith; Warder, Wilmina Bertrand; sentinel, Charles Slingerland.

The chapter room was attractively decorated for the occasion.

CRACKED POTTERY

LONDON (CP) — The average family in Britain spends only 36 shillings a year on china and earthenware, says the Pottery Manufacturers' Federation today. The added that housewives will use cracked plates and cups rather than buy new china.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SCOTTS W.A. — W.M.S.

STH. SIDNEY — The December meeting-cum-dinner of Scotts W.A. and W.M.S. was held in the church hall on Wednesday with only a fair crowd in attendance.

In the afternoon Mrs. George Pollard called the W.M.S. meeting to order by a call to the worship. "Glory Be To God by Prayer" was sung, followed by prayer.

In the absence of both the secretary and the treasurer, it was impossible to carry out the duties of the meeting, so the meeting will be called for Wednesday, December 17th next week to finish the business of the year and elect officers for 1959.

The program included readings, "Light of the Christmas Tree," by Mrs. R. Dafoe and "The Unspeakable Jesus," by Mrs. Pollard.

The meeting was closed by singing "Silent Night."

There were seven members present.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The first meeting for December of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue, Belleville, on Monday evening with members enjoyed a family Christmas supper, convened by Nellie Burns, Nellie Shandrew and co-workers.

The hall was beautifully decorated with a lovely tree on the platform, which was under it placed a real Christmas picture. Bernice Prindle was in charge of the decorations.

Gladys Ritch, Nora Kaiser and Clara Seaman took a plate of food to the hospital to Nellie Scrymgeour, who was convalescing from an operation. They also took her gifts from under the tree. She was pleased and thanked the members for their thoughtfulness.

After the supper the co-workers washed the dishes and reported that all had been done at the door. Mrs. C. Channel, M.M. welcomed the guests.

Seventeen tables of euchre and five tables of cribbage were in play. Prizes for euchre, the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Channel, presented each one with the following, for euchre: ladies' high, Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth, low, Mrs. Lena Bird; men's high, Mrs. Don Bailley, who played in many's stead, and low, Don Morden. For cribbage: ladies' high, Mrs. S. Broadbridge, low, Mrs. Godfrey Upton, men's, William Yandt and low, Godfrey Upton.

Refreshments were served by the members, after which a draw for the gifts under the tree was made. Mr. W. King held this lucky ticket.

Another party will be held in the near future.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD - W.M.S.

PORGERO — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild and W.M.S. met in the home of Mrs. Ross W. Chappelle on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened by the Guild president, Miss Tena Ferris, who conducted the devotions as prepared by Mrs. Muriel Hitchcock. "Seek the Kingdom First" was sung, followed with Mrs. Dickson at the piano. This was followed by Scripture taken from St. Luke 2:8-20 and read by Sharon Chappelle. "O Come All Ye Faithful" was sung and Mrs. Bartlett gave the prayer.

Mrs. Chappelle opened the year Memory of the W.M.S. and all responded sounds the same. Reports of the various committees were received; thank-you cards and calls were reported; "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung, followed by a reading by Mrs. Ketcheson and Mrs. Bartlett.

Sharon Chappelle rendered a piano solo, "Star of the East." Mrs. Dickson read the Junior Christmas readings and Mrs. Chappelle read a poem entitled "A lovely solo, "O Love Divine," Mrs. Buskard and Mrs. Chappelle each gave a reading.

Mrs. Bartlett invited the ladies to her home for the January meeting.

Mr. Wannamaker closed the meeting.

A contest followed with Mrs. Ketcheson and Mrs. Dickson winners.

A social half hour and refreshments served after which Miss Tena Watt moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

O.E.S. Lakeside Sponsors Cribbage

YELLINGTON—Lakeside Chapter 81, O.E.S., held a successful euchre and cribbage party in the banquet hall of December 9th, in the Masonic Hall, which looked pretty with its gay Christmas decorations.

Mr. Clifford Channel and Mrs. Percy Johnston were in charge of the door. Mrs. C. Channel, M.M. welcomed the guests.

Seventeen tables of euchre and five tables of cribbage were in play. Prizes for euchre, the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Channel, presented each one with the following, for euchre: ladies' high, Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth, low, Mrs. Lena Bird; men's high, Mrs. Don Bailley, who played in many's stead, and low, Don Morden. For cribbage: ladies' high, Mrs. S. Broadbridge, low, Mrs. Godfrey Upton, men's, William Yandt and low, Godfrey Upton.

Refreshments were served by the members, after which a draw for the gifts under the tree was made. Mr. W. King held this lucky ticket.

Another party will be held in the near future.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET HEYMAN

Nigeria is to secure its independence on October 1st, 1960, and Princess Margaret has accepted an invitation to join the celebrations! At a glance this may not be too interesting to us here in Canada, but because on the surface this would appear to be no concern of ours and a problem for the Colonial Office. Let's see if we can dig up a story.

The first word to strike us is the word "independence." One of the little kingdoms or dependencies of the commonwealth until 1897 when a British force took it over. The Kingdom of Benin was ruled by the present Oba or king is the 35th in his line. The awakening in Africa is not entirely political although we see little in the papers about the knowledge being uncovered to prove that in the great dark continent, many civilizations existed and flourished. We wonder sometimes what some of the peoples of our world whose antecedents are not as sure further back than we can trace our own, would have accomplished.

From 1483 the white man maintained contact for commercial purposes with the following order — Portugese, Dutch, English, Spanish, Danes and Brandenburgers. Then the British came in force and when they first arrived, they found a non-literate people who nevertheless had an organized state running back into the past few we don't know but ancient Benin was then at its peak of power. As it declined it supplied the white man with thousands of captive Negroes for the slave trade. Recently T & T read that the white man for at least a couple of centuries had an annual tournament of about 40,000 human chattel. The Department of Anthropology at Pennsylvania College of Obadan in Nigeria is the area of research centre on in various parts of Africa. Here at this and other centers are discovering signs that civilizations existed in Africa to the Mediterranean which are not known to man.

UNESCO is doing all it can to encourage and support such undertakings because it is current news of vital importance when it prods our thinking and appreciation.

Experts believe that these studies have a vital bearing on tomorrow's approach to better understanding.

T & T was not aware of the interest people have in little bits of information and we will endeavor to continue to find them whenever we can, so long as the response continues.

We are led into our thought for the weekend which comes from a far cry from Benin in Nigeria:

One of the aspirations of Alcoholics Anonymous reads, "Give me courage to change what I can, the serenity to find strength to accept what cannot be changed, and the wisdom to know the difference."

What changes we are witness from Belleville proper to little Benin and what a challenge to know the difference, accept what cannot be changed and the courage to change.

Today we go to Campbellford for the Christmas Santa Claus Parade; it was an honor to be asked to act as one of the judges. We are sure it will be a splendid parade and that the pure joy and excitement and happiness on the faces and in the eyes of the children will more than repay those who worked toward it for any tiredness they may feel. We are looking forward to the conclusion that the cynics who say "Commercialism" and who therefore do nothing for anything, would feel better and happier if they just participated.

We heard nothing but praise for our Belleville parade last week: it was appreciated by adults and loved by the children and we commend our committee late all who worked for it.

From the 'Y' bulletin — Did you know that active membership in the 'Y' increased 23 during last month bringing the total to 1043 as of now. Highest attained yet. Last year's membership at this time was 914.

House of Dior Shows Summer, Spring Fashions

LONDON (CP) — The London house of Christian Dior has been his collections for spring and summer of 1960.

If these designs by Marc Bohan are indicative of what can be expected later from Yves St. Laurent in Paris, women will just have to worry about sudden fashion changes for a while.

In the London collection, often a pointer to what St. Laurent may offer, skirts remain just below the knee, jackets are mostly short and waistlines normal.

Collars add more mandatory than ever, and the sailor collar is in evidence.

The tunic skirt is seen in many variations. Chic on tailored suits and dresses, it is perhaps most effective on dressy evening wear in flounces and overskirts.

Fashion writers particularly admire the new bell-shaped cocktail dress with a hobbled puffball skirt. The line was condemned five months ago as unflattering and impracticable. It would seem that English women have become more accustomed to high fashion.

Jean Soward of The News Chronicle calls the Dior spring line a "pretty patch of all the charmingly attractive Dior ideas." Evening dress correspondent says that none of the clothes would make even the most delicate eyebrows lift, and goes on to describe them as "beautifully made and flattering to wear."

The gossip columnist of The Star says that the collection stresses styles already seen in one form or another.

The Star's final comment is: "No definite new line. No clear cut idea."

Versatile Wool Outfit

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's a very special recipe for a costume that will prove to be an important and versatile addition to a fall and winter wardrobe.

Underneath is a short-sleeved wool dress with a high rounded neckline finished with a tailored bow in front. Unpressed pleats give its skpline a softly rounded look. With it is worn a matching jacket with a wide, reversed collar, three-quarter length sleeves, and a three button closing.

Homes Are Fashioned of Love Alone

By ALMA MASON

(1th in a Series)

Years ago children cultivated a solemn respect for the school and its teachers. Then came the school, which was periodically used to punish the young who had been naughty. From grass, was held in awe and reverence.

Then came the strap and the hickory stick were neglected items of a past era. We entered an age where the profound doctrine of unbridled self expression by the young was fostered. During that period children were seldom spanked. The permissive principles of child psychology were spread abroad. Catastrophic and upheaval resulted as we cast out upon reckless, lustful society homeless, badly disciplined monsters.

Today, many of our teen age children who were accustomed to swimming in the swift current of unchecked desires during the war years, where parents, stride slightly apprehensively into a universe where parental respect is scorned and where regard for the well balanced opinions of wise old age is a comical myth.

A young Canadian doctor who has studied the problems of his youth in Europe, commented sadly on the difference between the American and European parents that themselves in today due to the apparently uncontrollable problem we term "Juvenile delinquency."

He said, "This juvenile worry which confronts us is like a dark cloud hanging over the future of fearful eyes. It shuts out the sun of reason and common sense. We see that it is the result of a volcanic mountain which may, unchecked, erupt and spread its black, enveloping ash to smother and forever silence the voice of love, and progress of many continents. We can see the outcome due to these misdirected young lives continue to flaunt waywardness and wickedness and stride forward unchecked. There is no doubt that some of the poor parents with homes that are poor traitors to their own young. We must do something about it before it is too late for nation thrives and grows only on the virile and steadfast aims and principles of its people."

"When the aims and principles of a nation are weak and without the integrity gleaned and manifested through wise experience, only by disruption and extermination of that nation can result."

"If we are to be saved from the present dangerous trend, this right-about-face attitude, a desperately concerned attitude must take root in the hearts of our homes. Mothers and fathers will be the ones who must answer the Godly rearing of children for the future to the "teens." Mothers and fathers will have to so live that their young will follow footsteps imprinted in honesty, courage and love and self sacrifice."

"Perhaps we can still make this a glad, glorious, growing Godly Canada. As children we caught the spirit of the mental and moral progress from our pioneering, forefathers ancestors. So we where along the twisted highway we have come. We lost the respect of our children and they have become a generation of selfish and sacrificed self discipline and self sacrifice for our own selfish desires."

The greatest vocation in the world, motherhood and fatherhood, is a twenty-four hour a day job. From the protective cradle of the home reared over by wise and God fearing parents, are the greatest men and women have emerged. Most of them were reared in humble homes where money was scarce but where love and trust and security were plentiful.

Let us strive to give our children homes where love reigns supreme and where parents are wise guardians, shining examples of kindly discipline.

Wandering down a street in a western city, recently, I casually glanced in a shop window. Resting in the midst of a bright colorful scene was this framed motto, "Houses are made of sticks and stones, but homes are fashioned of love alone."

"Houses are made of brick and stone;
Homes are fashioned of love alone.
Castels tall of stone and steel
May hate and misery conceal.

A humble cottage may enfold
A horde of riches, vast, untold;
Its door may shelter wisdom, truth
Where age is dignified by youth.

God give us homes where people
Are fashioned in a Christian land;
Where children stride forth staunch and brave,
Through hearth of home our nation save.

CANADIAN NEEDLE WORK — ALTAR CLOTHES

". . . stitched with special care."—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

* * *

The Mother Superior opened a long white box, then lifted out, one by one, the beautiful white linen altar cloths and placed them on the spacious cutting-table in the bright convent sewing-room, for inspection.

"What length would these be?" we asked.

"Five yards, each of them. And all by hand" we are told. "See, here is one, with a nine-inch border of cut embroidery, which features the grape cluster, the head of grain and the Holy Cross, symbols of the Church. This is entirely hand done by one of the sisters. Two sisters worked together upon this one. See how the design forms a single row of crosses straight across the edge."

A concrete answer indeed. Canadian needle craft is still very much in vogue.

The question arose last summer at the Belleville Fair, while serving in the Hastings County Historical booth, and adjacent to the Catholic booth with Mrs. Marion Fleming, 523 Dundas Street, East, in charge. Mrs. Fleming mentioned that the altar clothes were hand made, after it was stated that many women feared that the art of the needle is past and obsolete.

This led on to some work at the House of Providence Convent, Smithfield, Kingston, it could be arranged, Mrs. Sunny Mrs. Panting said.

So one morning recently arrived with a letter of introduction, and accompanied by Mrs. Robert Martin, Trent Road, who is much interested in historical matters, and a member of the Historical Society, we found ourselves being shown exquisite needle work, in person by Assistant Mother Superior Lenore, who is formerly of Belleville. She had taught at St. Michael's for twenty years. The place I had become fond of, and which I left in August to come here, where a lovely population are taught to sew. Even the vestments worn by the officials are made here" she commented.

We were shown beautifully finished garments of rich, colorful material, abundantly supplied with emblematic details that date back to the beginning of Christianity.

"Now, perhaps you would like to see a finished piece entirely, how the Holy" Host bread is made?" said with interest we observe the large roomy kitchen equipped with large electric waffle-like irons. Their lids are engraved inside with a series of religious crests which imprints the dough (of water and flour), while baking.

The thin, baked, sheaves are then placed on racks over moist air, but they became too brittle. Then, they are cut into large or small disks, as desired, by cutting machines that compute the number cut. "This is a marvellous time saver," declared the Sister in attendance, "for we still have a great difficulty in dividing orders which come from all over Canada, since this bread is needed in Church ceremonies. We've had to refuse American orders once for the demand is too great."

Thus, our research on one phase of Canadian needle work came to a close. We shall remember the graciousness of those who made it not only possible but such a charming experience.

Belleviginite Speaking of baking: "What delicious cookies," business everywhere would envy such a culinary display. "Is there cinnamon in these date bars?"—was enquired of Mrs. Sherwood, dietitian at the Quinte Secondary School, who markets and prepares the school day meal for some two hundred students on school days.

"Yes, I always add a bit of cinnamon to date bars," Mrs. Sherwood said busily serving visitors with coffee and cookies, at the recent students' art exhibition. It was noted mosaic work was displayed as well as a film shown on "Mosaics" as art, which prevailed long before natural painting and impressionist work took over, and is now shown to be making a decided come-back in modern architecture.

"Adults interested in this form of art may find instruction given in mosaic work by the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club," said the president, Mrs. John Grant, the president.

Did you know that this club was largely responsible for bringing the exhibition of Eastern Ontario Art to Belleville last week, where it was held at the library," which makes such an excellent art centre? So central." And, "the pictures were surprisingly good and really interesting," were many among the favorable comments heard.

Parish Guild Closes Season With Luncheon

A successful year's work was pleasantly brought to a close on Tuesday afternoon when the Parish Guild of Christ Church held its annual Christmas luncheon and program. The tables were most attractive with their pretty decorations of snowmen, choir boys and Christmas trees, the "eats" consisted of delicious dishes, special favorites of each member present enjoyed to the all.

A hearty welcome was extended to the many guests by the president, Mrs. R. H. Dawson, Archdeacon J. B. Crawford asked the blessing and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. A. C. Mansish.

With the exception of one item, all business was postponed until the January meeting. A cheque will be forwarded to the church wardens for church extension work. Christmas gifts, purchased and prettily wrapped by Mrs. E. Shaw Field, will be distributed by the Guild to a number of shut-in parishioners.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Mrs. Cleo Colling, as chairman of the nomination committee, presented the slate of officers for the year 1960 as follows: honorary presidents, Mrs. G. G. Wright and Mrs. J. Ross Robertson; past-president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby; president, Mrs. R. H. Dawson; vice-president, Mrs. J. Allin; secretary, Mrs. E. Colebourne; treasurer, Mrs. C. Sauter.

In charge of the program, Mrs. E. Hickey introduced Mrs. Ross Copeland, His father was the timely theme "The Origin, Customs and Purpose of Advent in the Life of Our Church." All joined in the singing of several lovely Advent hymns.

Mrs. Harry Stevens delighted her audience with an amusing monologue, "Her Final Choice," and, as an encore, with an inspiring reading, "Santa."

Films taken during a trip through the United States to Yellowstone Park and back through the Canadian Rockies and principal Canadian cities were shown by Mrs. F. A. Beeby.

Mrs. Hickey graciously thanked all those who had contributed to a most enjoyable program.

Gifts and good wishes were exchanged among those present and the Guild adjourned until the New Year.

On which the Prince of Glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.

Forbid it, Lord, that I should boast
Save in the death of Christ my God;
All the vain things that charm
me most,
I sacrifice them to His blood.

See, from His head, His hands,
His feet,
Sorrow and love flow mingled
down;
Did e'er such love and sorrow
meet,
Or thorns compose so rich a crown?

Were the whole realm of nature
mine,
That were a present far too small;
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all.

Isaac Watts' beautiful hymn of the cross, which has been thrilling Christians of every land for well over 200 years, is still sung oftener than most religious songs.

Matthew Arnold always spoke of this hymn as his favorite. He gloried in it. He sang it frequently. And, when he called it the finest hymn in the English language, most hymn lovers endorsed his tribute.

Watts was born in 1674 in Southampton, England, His father was a "dissenter", was several times imprisoned for his religious beliefs, and, Isaac, an infant in arms, often was carried by his mother when she visited her husband in prison. Even as a lad Isaac, poet of the church began to show evidence of his genius as a hymn writer. When he was seven year old he amused his parents with his rhymes and a few years later he began to find fault with the paraphrases of the Psalms which were then in use in Teformed churches in his neighborhood.

"Very well", said his father, one day, when young Watts ventured to criticize the songs being sung in his own parish, "give us some better hymns!" And Isaac set himself to the task. He was still in his teens at the time and before the next Sabbath services arrived he had written his first lyric.

"Behold the glories of the Lamb
Amidst His Father's throne;
Prepare new honors for His Name,
And songs before unknown".

The hymn was well received by his parents and, during the next two years, the young poet wrote more than 200 others including his "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross" which he published in his famous collection of "Hymns And Spiritual Songs", in 1707, when he died, on November 25, 1748, he was buried at Bunhill Fields, London, near the graves of John Bunyan and Daniel Defoe. His name will always be linked with his hymn of the cross but many others of his lyrics are widely sung. The world would be poor, indeed, without such gems as "Joy To The World. The Lord Is Come!", "O God Our Help In Ages Past", and "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er The Sun", a missionary song based on The 72nd Psalm. And for the children whom he loved so well Isaac Watts left some delightful lullabys.

The Experts Say

Biggest Demand Made on CAS Is for Infants Says Official

By EDNA BLAKELY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Of the nearly 11,000 children who are permanent wards of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies, 32 per cent are either on adoption probation, in appropriate treatment institutions or are in the process of being cared for.

It's the remaining 48 per cent that worry the Children's Aid Workers most about the province.

The largest portion is 2,100 teen-age children for whom there are no applications for adoption, says Waldron A. Goff, executive secretary of the association.

"The biggest demand is for infants, and the demand exceeds the supply," he explained. "There is a demand, but not so great, for children up to seven and eight and sometimes even 10." Wardship usually ends at 15.

NEED FOSTER PARENTS

"We try to follow nature by having interested couples, say in their late 40s, adopt older children," said Mr. Goff.

The teen-ager is a special problem because he is at the age when most children tend to become independent of their parents. "This makes it even more difficult for him to accept substitute parents," he said.

There are 337 mentally defective children in the care of societies, at least half of whom should be in Ontario Hospital schools for the mentally retarded, Mr. Goff said. The hospitals at Orillia and Smiths Falls are full and are not able to take these children They present a problem to the care in normal foster homes.

Many families do learn how to care for them and take two or three such children," Mr. Goff said. "Foster parents are paid a nominal fee for keeping the children "but they're not paid for the work involved." Mr. Goff explained.

SPECIAL CASES

In addition, there are 277 emotionally disturbed children who require treatment before permanent placing could be thought of.

"Some are the result of very severe treatment," the executive secretary said.

The medical problems of 284 of the children who are permanent wards creates an adoption problem for them.

"They are adopted, if we can find parents big-hearted enough to take a child with, for example, a hole in the heart," he said, "but the operation has given only to parents who live in or near a treatment centre."

"There is a great need for adoptive homes which will accept children of mixed race and children with severe medical problems," he said.

River Valley W.I. Sponsors 5th Euchre

STIRLING — River Valley Women's Institute sponsored its fifth euchre party at the school house on Friday evening with 12 tables in play.

There were 23 visitors in attendance from Frankford, Stockdale, Picton, Stirling and Wellman.

The coffee was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ireton and the prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brooks.

Prize-winners were as follows: ladies' high, Miss Janet Thompkins; second, Mrs. Bert Bedford; men's high, Percy MacMullen with 96 points, and second, Mrs. Roy Thacker, playing a man. Mr. McMullen and his partners scored 12 lone hands and the eighth round the prizes were donated by Mr. Bedford scored 20 points and four lone hands.

The conveners, Mrs. George Hoskins and Mrs. Gerald Brooks, with their assistants, served light refreshments.

At the December euchre party for this season, there will be a draw for a door prize.

LAUREL PAST GRANDS CLUB MEETS

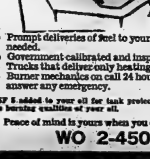
Mrs. Nina Neal, 17 Reynolds Crescent, Belleville, was hostess for the regular meeting of the Past Grands' Club of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, Stirling.

Mrs. Isobel Good conducted the meeting in the absence of the president.

An interesting program was enjoyed, and among those who contributed readings were Mrs. Ulman, Mrs. Reta Grills, and Mrs. Mary Vandervoort.

Mrs. Gladys Elliott expressed thanks for the hospitality, and the committee in charge served refreshments.

The next placing could be thought of.



"Some are the result of very severe treatment," the executive secretary said.

The medical problems of 284 of the children who are permanent wards creates an adoption problem for them.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

My grandmother used to make a jelly using port wine, for festive occasions. I have no recipe for this and am hoping that you may be able to help me out by giving one in your column. I plan to use it with turkey instead of cranberries . . . Marion F.

ANSWER:

I am glad you asked for wine jelly for I think you have had an excellent idea. I made up the following two recipes and served them with both roast beef and chicken. Either would be good and appropriate with turkey instead of cranberries over which there is so much trouble now.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

Mixed Grill: Fresh Chicken Livers, Bacon, Mushrooms; Broccoli; Scalloped Turnip; Mince Pie; Cheese; Coffee.

PORT WINE JELLY:

(Relish for turkey or game or beef).

Note: I should add that this is a lovely old-fashioned dessert jelly with whipped cream' or unsweetened as a relish for meat.

1 1-4 tablespoons plain gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 3-4 cup boiling water, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1 1-2 tablespoons Tawny Port, 2 cups red currant jelly.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water and dissolve in the hot water, stirring well. Stir in sugar until dissolved. Add wine and fruit juices and enough red food coloring to give it a rich wine hue. Strain if desired. Pour into a 2-cup mould or into individual moulds and chill until set. Serve with game or fowl or beef as a dessert jelly with whipped cream or custard accompaniment.

SHERRY JELLY :

1½ tablespoons plain gelatine ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 3-4 cup sherry, few drops red colouring (optional).

Soak the gelatine in the cold water and dissolve in boiling water, stirring well Stir in sugar until dissolved. Add lemon juice and sherry and red colorig (if used). Pour into 1 2-cup mould or into individual moulds and chill until set.

NOTE:

To unmould loosen edges with knife, dip bottom of mould into hot water (not boiling) and count steadily up to five. Invert plate over top and quickly turn over.

NOTE:

Recently a reader requested recipe for homemade mincemeat with or without meat. An unsigned recipe arrived in the mail, from a reader, which looks very good.

MINCEMEAT:

(With meat — contributed by anonymous reader).

One tongue, about 2 pounds, boiled and minced (add a little salt while boiling), 4 cups suet (about 1 pound), 8 pounds apples, when chopped, 1 pound raisins, (more if desired), 1 pound currants, 1-2 pound candied peel, 2 cups molasses, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup vinegar (or some of each), 2 1-2 cups brown sugar, 1 quart canned pitted red cherries, 1 dessert spoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice (more if desired), 2 tablespoons salt. This is an excellent recipe, keeps well if kept awhile, keep cold can be frozen. Do not boil or brown before using. (Note from Xmen: Makes about 15 pounds)

Promoting Mutual Esteem Between English and French Speaking Canadians Life Work

By LEO LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Madeleine Foby St. Hilaire, who spearked the formation of the Canadian Alliance as an organization promoting mutual esteem between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians, might be described as a pusher. That's why the Alliance is spreading.

"But a good thing is worth pushing," says the red-headed free-lance writer, mother of two grown-up boys.

Former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, Toronto lawyer Vincent Price and Most Rev. Arthur Melneur of Laval University third, that she is right. They are respectively patron, honorary president and president of the volunteer organization. A score of others give part of their time, free of charge, to the cause.

The cause is the strengthening of links between the two main language groups. Through the exchange of qualified writers, and meetings, the Alliance is telling each group about the other.

DEVOTED WORKER

"It's a who's who and what's what in the other fellow's yard," says Mrs. St. Hilaire, whose title in the organization is co-ordinator.

As far as the Alliance is concerned, this other fellow's yard is taking on the proportions of the whole of Canada. Mrs. St. Hilaire in mid-November started on one of her tours of the West in which she is hoarding the kind of better understanding among spread in western branches of the Alliance. The groundwork had been laid in previous trips. Contacts have also been made in the Atlantic provinces, so that the Alliance is spreading west and east from Toronto-Quebec City origins in 1953-54.

No one who works for the Alliance is paid, not even the secretary-general, Marian Roy, nor Mrs. St. Hilaire, who travels on free-lance projects and work she has been doing for the Quebec provincial-publicity bureau.

FRIENDLY LINKS

The vivacious Mrs. St. Hilaire got the Alliance idea at Laval University's summer school in 1950. She was teaching phonetics and diction and met English-speaking professors from all over "who were wonderful people." She decided French-speaking Canadians should know more about them; Canadians of the rest of Canada should equally know more about French-speaking Canadians.

In Toronto a few years later, studying English, radio and magazine writing—she wrote on the Alliance idea for different newspapers and revues.

"I want to tell Quebecers they have friends in Toronto," she said on the television program Tabloid.

She was without funds, and was taken in by a Toronto family who liked her Alliance idea. Her two sons, Andre and Pierre, then 13 and 10, were in Quebec boarding schools.

HARMONY THEME

The Alliance officially came into being in Toronto on Nov. 22 1953, feast day of St. Cecile, patron saint of harmony. Quebec City soon set up a permanent branch. Three other permanent sections later came into being—Ottawa, Montreal and Saskatoon. Winnipeg has a temporary committee and work is being done in Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria, says Mrs. St. Hilaire. Contacts have been made in Moncton, Fredericton and Halifax. Bases have been laid in London, Ont., and Sudbury.

How does the tireless Mrs. St. Hilaire operate? When she gets to a new centre she knocks on the university door. She tells the people inside that she has a great idea and wants to talk about it. They usually listen.

When not travelling she sits in her small Quebec apartment at her typewriter and telephone. Amid correspondence, notes, manuscripts, files and clippings she takes the kinks out of the Alliance's growing pains. A look on her experiences in the Alliance is in the making.

PROMOTES CANADIAN UNITY — Madeleine Foby St. Hilaire, founder of the Canadian Alliance, is dedicated to promoting better relations between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians. Mrs. St. Hilaire founded the group in Toronto in November, 1953, with the aid of Toronto friends. Permanent branches have been organized in Quebec, Ottawa, Montreal and Saskatoon. Mrs. St. Hilaire pushes her idea at universities and other organizations and when not travelling keeps up a flow of correspondence from her Quebec home. (CP Photo)

Her walls exhibit souvenirs from other provinces, like the Haida totem hat given her by mayor Don MacKay of Calgary at her first stampede in 1956. Pictures on commonwealth subjects are alongside religious images. Folklore objects are all over the place. Her doll Lili-Pat always watches over her for good luck. The name is a combination of "Lili" after her sister and "Patricia" after the daughter she would have liked to have.

Mrs. St. Hilaire is also honorary correspondent for the Overseas League whose aim is to tighten the bond among commonwealth countries which promotes friendly ties among all English speaking seats nations and an honorary member of the English speaking countries.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marian S. — I don't want to spoil our marriage.

Michael D. — She is being unrealistic.

Marian S. — My boy friend and I are both sophomores in college, different colleges, unfortunately. We are both 20 and have been going together since we were 15. In the first years of our dating we did very little petting. We were usually with a crowd and we would just kiss good night at the end of our date. Since we have been going to college, however, we see little of one another and then we want to be alone. By degrees the barriers have broken down and now Mike suggests that we go all the way.

We are very much in love and plan to be married. But we must wait at least three years. That's a long time to wait. Yet I don't want to do anything to spoil our marriage.

Michael D. — Marian certainly doesn't need to be concerned my love or loyalty. We have had five years of steady dating and I have never given her any cause for jealousy and always treated her with the utmost respect and consideration. I never made any demands although I know that many aggressive guys went further with girls who were by no means trumps.

Anyway, I feel there's a limit to how good a man can be about this thing. Three more years is just too much and we both want very much to finish college and get a start in jobs before we marry. Our families can't help us any further than college and we must work before we get married.

I think Marian is being kind of unrealistic about this.

The Council: The tone of Michael's letter suggests that he is holding a threat over Marian. He cites his long years of decent behavior and implies that he should now be rewarded — or else. We think he has worked himself up to a pitch where he feels that he has been a sucker and demands that Marian make amends.

It would be worse than foolish for Marian to submit to this form of blackmail. We gather that she is not afraid of the competition. Aside from the moral aspects, of the case, Marian would be making a big mistake to accede to Michael's demands because she would be doing so out of fear.

The big mistake in this relationship is the five years of steady dating which preceded this period. There is no good reason for this prolonged period of steady dating at this age. At ages 15 to 20, Marian and Michael could not possibly be certain that they were the only ones for each other. They clung together out of fear of being left out of dates entirely. Now they feel more or less stuck with one another and are fearful about the future. Calling these feelings love does not make them that.

If love and the desire for a happy future together were uppermost in the minds of Marian and Michael this issue would not arise. Michael would accept and respect Marian's standards. Marian would not fear that upholding her standards would result in the loss of Michael's affection.

After this long period of steady dating, it is indeed difficult for Michael and Marian to venture into the turbulence and insecurity of dating others. But we think that is just what this relationship needs — a break. If after a couple of years of social relationships, Marian and Michael find they still want one another, they will be far better prepared for marriage and for the restraints and unselfishness required for successful married life.

That beloved author, Charles Dickens, in "Little Dorritt" says that Tattycorum comes in carrying "an iron box two feet square under her arm". Tattycorum must have been a pretty strong, very long-armed girl.

The poet Cowper tells us "The Swallows in their torpid state composes their useless wing, And bees in hives as lifeless lie". The call of early Spring".

There are two errors here, as swallows do not hibernate and bees in hives are not idle in winter!

Even the mighty Shakespeare nodded at times! Can you spot the error in "Julius Caesar" when Casius says "The Clock has stricken three"? Or when he has the ghost in "Hamlet" talk about Purgatory and Absolution? Well, clocks with striking mechanisms were not invented until 1400 years or so after the death of Caesar! And the Danes were Pagans!

Of course, everybody makes a mistake sometimes! The trick is not to make the same error twice. For instance, if your family ever moved, from one house to another, without the help of a professional mover, that was a mistake you should never make again!

Carolyn Hazard Says.....

DRIVERS TAKE HEED

Part of the spirit of Christmas is our desire to be courteous and friendly that probably we haven't seen since last year. This often necessitates a trip by auto.

I recently listened from such a trip with Mr. and Mrs. Inexperienced. That I received from such a trip at all is a miracle.

Mr. Inexperienced was at the wheel when they called for me. We hadn't gone two blocks before Mr. Inexperienced failed to signal his intentions (going under the assumption, I presume, that the driver behind us was a mind reader) and made a right-hand turn from the left-hand lane. The resultant bumped fenders almost resulted in fist fight as Mr. Inexperienced loudly, and profanely, berated his other driver. Finally, peace was restored, and we drove on.

Several miles of city streets had to be traversed before we reached the country, where we were to visit some cousins of theirs. Mr. Inexperienced seemed to be under the impression that we were going to a fire. He skidded around corners, muttered of epithets (that did not need to be heard to be understood) when some luckless pedestrian did'n move fast enough to suit him; furiously blasted his horn the second the light turned green (if the individual in front of him did not get going immediately) and generally took exception to the other fellow's right to be on the road at all!

Finally the country was reached. Mr. Inexperienced promptly slowed down to twenty miles an hour, steered the car into the middle of the road and settled back with the comment, "Now, we can take our time!" Soon horns began to honk behind us. This disturbed Mr. Inexperienced not one whit. We placidly proceed along in the middle of the road and refused to budge an inch. He never failed to speed up, however, when the driver behind was brave enough to try to pass him!

Now Mr. Inexperienced is a nice little man. He means well and attempts, when mingling with people socially, to observe the rudiments of good manners. But when driving a car he seems to consider himself a person apart. Here is a case of the ordinarily courteous person who completely disregards manners or consideration for the other fellow the minute he gets behind the wheel.

Unfortunately, he is not alone in his thoughtlessness. Our roads are full of such people. They forget that the staggering death toll on our highways is not caused entirely by unavoidable accidents. Often these "accidents" are the result of a complete disregard for the other person's rights on the road. Something to think about, isn't it — when you make that holiday trip?

Goes to Work Early Because She Finds Mail Fascinating

By NINA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The 86 years Mrs. C. Maxwell Lowrey has gone to work early because she finds her shift fascinating.

Since 1925 she has been boss of sorting operations at the headquarters of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. Now almost to retire she is actingly temporarily as general secretary of the society.

When she quits at the end of the year she plans "to do volunteer work with the church."

REWARDING WORK

"Every day of my job was satisfying," she said. "Many of the 30 to 35 letters a day brought a need which could be satisfied. That's why I always came half an hour ahead of time to read the mail."

Her work with the Woman's Missionary Society began in Montreal in 1924 when as a missionary secretary she handled grants arriving at Sheaverville Station. She recalled the difficulties of the work in the days when the workers from the various churches would spread newspapers on the station benches and eat — nap between trains which came and went at all hours.

In 1934 she married. Her husband, a CNR employee, died six months later of a heart attack so she returned to work with the church.

During her service as executive secretary many hospitals were built throughout Canada. The hospital at Massing, Alta., in the Peace River Country, was the first big building in the community, she recalled.

"I have talked in every kind of a building — in box cars, a restaurant and stately churches," she said.

In 1932 she took a year's half day during which she visited many of the families she had met during her immigration work in Montreal.

The former Isabel McIntosh, coast, she was born at Glengarry, Ont., the daughter of a Presbyterian minister. Her mother was a charter member of the WMS.

As a child she attended a country school set in her grandfather's maple bush.

Mrs. Lowrey says there are two fields that need particular attention—the new areas such as those along the DEW line and the downtown areas of large cities.

"We must be more concerned with the downtown areas and the new industrial areas," she said.

Her friends regard her memory for names as phenomenal. Her own name is known to hundreds of church workers from coast to

Women's Activities

ROSLIN W.A.

ROSLIN — The December meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Bates with a good attendance.

The president, Miss P. Sills, presided and conducted the devotional period.

Several items of business were dealt with. The report of the W.A. Thankoffering was given. The leader for the evening, Mrs. G. Willoughby, was in charge of the program and read a portion of Scripture taken from Luke 2, describing the message the angels gave the shepherds and what they did about it.

Mrs. Willoughby spoke of the new W.A. study book which will be "Africa" and asked the question how will Africa spread Christianity? She also conducted a quiz on "Africa", stating that the East is coming up, while the West is growing rich, lazy and degenerate.

Mrs. Bert Tray read a letter which had been written from Africa by a Missionary telling how she had spent her first Christmas there.

A humorous reading "Post Marty for Christmas" was given.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed.

There were 158,000 more males than females among Australia's population of 10,003,000 at the end of June, 1959.

Highest Rate Of Alcoholism Said in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — An attractive brunette, Miss Barbara Geoffrey, is a new member of the consulting staff of Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia.

A University of B.C. graduate, she has been on the staff of the Children's Aid Society for the last nine years.

She told an interviewer that she takes a drink. "How can you teach someone to swim if you've never been in the water?

"You don't make me sound like a do-gooder because I am not. But there is so much misery in the world, one should do what one can to help."

Foundation statistics give B.C. the highest rate of alcoholism in Canada and the rate has doubled since the war.

Women make up only slightly less than 50 per cent of alcoholics. However, says Miss Geoffrey, there is less known about women drinkers than men.

DRINK AT HOME

"Many women drink quietly in their homes and no one, not even the husband, knows," she said. "Of course, there must be something wrong with the marriage or he certainly would be aware."

During its four years of operation the foundation treated more than 2,000 persons with 37 total cures and 25 per cent show improvement.

Early diagnosis and treatment is apparently as important in cases of alcoholism as in any other disease.

"The physical and psychological damage done by alcoholism over 15 or 20 years can be disastrous," Miss Geoffrey said.

"Now more and more young people are seeking help. They are aware of the dangers and come to us before too much damage is done."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

I have just finished reading Andy Ballgate's "classic" story in True Magazine. It will be on the newsstands and hockey addicts should not miss the Ballgate expose of what he calls "unchecked brutality" and "Atrocities on Ice."

Ballgate pulls no literary punches—or at least his typewriter agent, Dave Anderson, a New York sports writer does not.

They say "there are five spearing specialists in the National Hockey League, Doug Harvey and Tom Johnson of the Canadiens; Ferale Flaman of the Bruins; Ted Lindsay of the Black Hawks and one of my own Ranger teammates Lou Fontinato."

"Jungle law rules hockey," says Ballgate. "If somebody gets you then you get him back. Maybe it takes a week—a year, ten years, maybe as long as five years. But someday you'll get your chance. I'm waiting for a shot at a couple of guys myself—with my fists."

He says his story is "no crybaby complaint. Hockey players don't cry." Then Ballgate has been blasted by at least two National League players as the "biggest cry-baby" in the circuit). "He think we're the toughest group of athletes in sport. He envisioned useless hockey sniper; the only sport in which each player must carry a stick and two knives. The skate blades are sharp enough to slice through a leather boot and make a neat job of it. There is always the danger that a player will gore somebody with his skates. But as a regular thing it wouldn't be too effective—distance is just as vicious. Just as deadly. And you can get away with it."

While Ballgate blasts several players as being "dirty," he pays particular attention to Gordie Howe. "Of all the players in the league," he writes, "the meanest is Howe. Howe doesn't spear. But he uses all the other tricks. Plus some of his own. Like lifting the puck at your face. Howe is reminded of every dishonest trick Howe is sneaky in self defence. Most hockey people think he is the best player in the league. I know I do.

"Howe is too smart to be trapped. Over the years he learned to be sneaky to protect himself without getting a penalty. The dangerous thing Howe has the strength to back up his mean streak."

And so Ballgate rants on. But there is a lot in some of the things he writes; a lot of truth.

His story may get him into trouble, and cause a lot of trouble when fists turn grim in the various National Hockey League rosters. There will be more than one player "laying" for him.

Ballgate concludes his story with "Hockey spears are double-edged. Red Sullivan was speared—and should have been killed. Howe has speared somebody else—and could have been killed in retaliation. But I guess nothing will be done about it until somebody is killed. Then it will be too late."

. . . Perhaps some of these days a Junior "A" player will have the guts to come out and write a similar story. Perhaps the public will learn what causes some of these wild swinging stick incidents in some games and among their fellows, with something akin to murder in their swinging sticks and lunging skates.

Perhaps the Junior "A" ranks are the breeding places of some of the finest players in the game. Nearly every day the sports pages carry stories of bloodcurdling knuckle cursing wild, cursing injury and crushing downstrokes with little or no restraint on the part of the coaches.

There was an instance when a Toronto Marlboro player, Roger Cote, who earned a well-deserved "badman" name for himself last season, and looks as though he wants to create a new record for himself this year. Cote, the wire story said, "ran amok."

"And," it continued, "his irate coach Turk Broda, went out on the ice and escorted him to the bench. He will likely draw a suspension from Broda."

And what happened?

The next day the news story stated "Broda, had forgiven Cote." He probably slapped his wrist, told him to be a good boy and the next time just put two opposing players out of action, not three.

Dunnies Give Complete Line, Macs, 'Dogs', Other Teams Chip in With Player Stars

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have been offered a flood of player help from Canadian hockey teams and expect to have a strong entry for the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Leading the list of support is a complete forward line that helped Whitby Dunlops capture the world title for Canada at Oslo last year — Don Attersley, Fred Etcher and George Samoilenko. The line is regarded as one of the best in senior hockey. Dunlops also were in the defence picture, with Harry Sinden.

Announcement of the aid was made by Dutchmen Friday at a rally to launch Canada's participation in the Games. Feb. 18-28.

And Dutchmen manager Ernie Goman said his boys won't be hypocrites when they sign the Olympic oath.

INTERPRETATION MATTER

The form, said Goman, simply says amateurism is defined by the participating country's association. They play under the auspices of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Some interpretations of an amateur player is one who is not a professional.

Other players for the Dutchmen now in third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series have been offered:

Belleville McFarlands, last year's world champion defenceman Moe Deroiti.

Windsor Bulldogs — Goaltender Don Head, least scored on this year in OHA Senior A play, and centre Jim Pappin.

Chatham Maroons — Defenceman Elmer Lach, winger Gary Sharpe and right winger Jim Connelly under conditions yet to be settled.

North Bay Trappers — Cheo Sorcenzy, a forward.

Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan League have offered defenceman Theo Sterpka for the month of February provided Kitchener-Waterloo provide a replacement.

Also available to be called on if necessary are Gordon (Red) Stevenson, with Belleville last winter; Dave Keon of St. Michael's College Majors in the OHA Junior A circuit; and Bob White, a former OHA player now at the University of Michigan.

Goman and George Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHL, said they were disappointed at the lack of NHL co-operation.

Goman said four players controlled by men in planning for the Squaw Valley tournament did not even get to training camp because they were taken over by NHL clubs. He mentioned defenceman Dick Matusni and right winger Bill Sanders, taken by Toronto Maple Leafs for their Rochester farm team.

Dudley agreed the NHL teams were not "so hard up that they couldn't leave those players amateurs for another year."

Other words on amateurism came from Wren Blair, manager of the Dunlops, "Our players are more amateur than the Russians," he contended.

"The Russians are even more professional than our pros, as our boys play hockey only six months of the year and the Russians are subsidized the year round."

Dudley said new problems have arisen with the advent of Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden as powers in international hockey.

"These countries have first call on the services of any hockey teaslent, while we must first of all eliminate the 300 professionals and another 300-400 ex-pros who cannot compete in the Olympics."

Marlies, Bolts Win Over Flyers, Teeps

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros, with ragged Roger Cote scoring one and assisting in the opposing forwards' off balance most of the game, lengthened their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A lead to three points Friday night with a 4-2 win over Barrie Flyers.

Cote threatened with suspension by coach Turk Broda after a wild brawl at Brockville centre ice in the week, drew a minor and misconduct penalty in the first period.

The big defenceman settled down after that and applied himself to heavy checking. His goal came in the third period.

In the night's other game, St. Catharines Teepees dropped a 6-4 decision to the Biltmores at Guelph. Jacques Laperriere twice for the Bilts to run his season total up to 21. Bert Brown, Barry Jakeman, Marc Dufour and Eno Kraft got the other Guelph goals. Ralph Backstrom had goal leads at the end of the first and second periods.

Ray Cullen got a pair for the TeePees, Chuck Maki and Mike Corrigall the others.

At Barrie, the Marlboros took the lead anyway in the first period and never lost it. Jack Marcia, Barry Hay and Howie Young scored their other goals. Pierre Gagne and Marcel St. Onge tallied for the Flyers.

Wolves Nip The Soo 5-4

By The Canadian Press

The regular high-scoring forward line of Sudbury Wolves was a man short Friday night, but that didn't stop the Eastern Professional Hockey League leaders.

Sidelined was Cleland Martinson, one of the league's top scorers. Teammates Sam Bettio and Ralph McCarthy, however, each scored three goals as they found Chex Goupille a pretty good replacement in defeating Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 5-4.

Crowd of 3,334 Sudbury fans saw Wolves rap in three third-period goals.

McCarthy's three-goals performance was his second effort of the year. He added three assists for a six-point total. Only other players to score that many points in a single game this season are Morrison and Milan Marcetta of Sault Ste. Marie.

Bettio, born in Sudbury, carves and a veteran of professional leaguer, began this week's hockey spotlighting as the league's second highest scorer. He also picked up two assists Friday night.

FOURTH STRAIGHT LOSS

Sault scorers were Matt Ravlich and Kim Moro, each with two, and Marcetta. It was the Thunderbirds' straight loss for the Thunderbirds.

Sudbury outshot Sault 47-34 as it chalked up its 18th win in 28 starts. The Wolves now lead two Montreal Royals will have 34-year-old veteran Gerry McNeil in the nets when they meet the Wolves Sunday. McNeil, playing his first game this season, will replace regular Charlie Hodge.

Hodge has the lowest goals against average in the league.

Goyer Scores In Seattle 12-4 Victory

By The Canadian Press

A stellar performance by Winnipeg Warriors' goalie Al Rollins and the game but inadequate scoring of Ed Litzenberger Canadian pinch-hitter plucked from the sidelines took the limelight Friday night as the clubs traded places in the Western Hockey League.

The Warriors moved up from the cellar with a 5-3 win at home over Edmonton Flyers and Spokane beat 12-4 in Seattle Totems.

Rollins, who kicked out 32 shots, paved the way for a comeback Winnipeg victory after Edmonton had led 1-0 at the end of the first period and 3-2 after the second.

Barrie Boas scored two goals, including the winner, and had one assist, Gerry Brisson, Bill Robinson and Elliott Chorley scored other Winnipeg goals.

Flyers' goals were scored by Archiymchuk who was back in the record period.

Winnipeg scored unmercifully in the Seattle encounter after Spokane netminder Lorne Worsley had been struck with a dislocated shoulder and Ron Anderson of the Spokane Amateur League volunteered to take over.

Totems were all over the ice but couldn't lost his spick, attempted to make a save with his hands and banged his shoulder painfully on the goal pipe.

Bill McFarland and Tom McFie each scored twice for Seattle and singles went to Gerry Leonard, Gayle Fielder, Gene Sinclair, Gerry Goyer, Bill Dobson, Frank Arnett, Dave Powers, Rhodes. No reason for the change was given.

It is to believe earlier Patterson said his is confident he can win this title.

He said he resents the fact that champion Ingemar Johansson has engaged in making a movie in the United States and feels the Swedish fighter, who knocked him out last June, is delaying a rematch unnecessarily.

Patterson said he would like to meet the champion in January or February. Johansson has refused to set a date until he finds a promoter he believes is honest.

general manager Frank Carlin and McNeil has been practising regularly and feels he should get work in regular play "in case he has an emergency."

Patterson Opens Canadian Tour

QUEBEC (CP)— Former world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson boosted with two extra sparring partners Friday night on a boxing-wrestling card. The New Yorker hopes to open a Canadian tour of practice fights.

In a warmup match Patterson was matched with Billy Tisdale who wore a helmet. In the second bout Patterson had a fight with Norden twice with uppercuts after getting him against the ropes.

Patterson was scheduled to box three two-round bouts with training partners Julio Medero, Jean-Paul Beaudry and Powers Rhodes. No reason for the change was given.

Hockey Problem Goes to Supreme Court

OWEN SOUND (CP) — A motion was filed late Friday in the Supreme Court of Ontario by lawyer Arthur Marron, representing Kenneth Douglas and David Lobsinger of nearby Mildmay.

The motion requests an order for the releases of the three brothers from the Mildmay Hockey Association.

The motion also asked for a declaration that would rule sections 236, 232 and 234 of the Ontario Hockey Association manual 1959-60 invalid, inoperative and not binding on the boys.

Affidavits filed with Lobsinger, father of the brothers who also filed affidavits, were filed along with an affidavit by A. M. (Tony) Simon, suspended manager of the Owen Sound Greys.

The three brothers have been trying to obtain their releases from the Mildmay Junior C hockey club so that they may play Junior B hockey in Owen Sound.

NOTICES SERVED

Notices that the motions were filed were served on OHA business manager William Hanley, Toronto; Lorne Kimbel and Peter Lobsinger, coach and manager of the Mildmay team, and Alf Lockridge, business manager of the Western Ontario Athletic Association in which the Mildmay club operates.

Section 236 provides that a player must register for the team in his home community except when such player's services are waived by such club, in which case he may play for any club for which he is eligible.

Section 323 deals with appeals and states that any player not under contractual obligations to a club and refused a release by the club of which he is a member, may appeal to the association to be granted such release.

If the player is applying to transfer to a club within the branch, such appeal shall be heard by the executive committee.

Section 234 provides for the hockey.

MacFarlands Whip Dutchmen For Second In Row

Score Trio In Third Period To Clinch Neat 5-2 Victory; Clash With Whitby Tonight

By GEORGE M. CARVER
Sports Editor

Ernie Gaman didn't show up.

The referee didn't show up. Taves Kitchener players didn't show up.

But the Mac-Gi

True they scored a goal before Dutchmen Sly, Rope and McKnight put in an appearance in the second period, but just to show it didn't make any difference they forged ahead and scored four goals to the Dutchies two.

The MacFarlands won a 5-1 victory but a quirk of hockey fate gave the Dutchies a second goal with the clock a second off game-ended. Shed a tear for Lionel Bolly, who played a whale of a game, but who unfortunately booted the puck into his own net almost as the teams were leaving the ice.

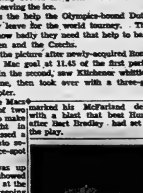
Another story reveals the help the Olympico-bound Dutchmen will get before they leave for the Squaw Valley games. The play last night revealed how badly they need that help to battle teams like Russia, Sweden and the Czechs.

They were seldom in the picture after newly-acquired Ronnie Muir blasted in the first Mac goal at 11.45 of the first period. The Macs went two up in the second, saw Kitchener whittle it to 3-1 in the same frame, then took over with a three-goal splurge in the final chapter.

Don't look now but the Macs have a winning streak of two games. And they expect to make it three in a row tonight in Whitby. The Dutchies figured a chance to piggy-back into second place over the place-spot Chatham Maroons.

Young Mr. Manago was up to his old tricks and chalked his alter-ego Bout Hurley at the other end here goalkeeping should be played. The tall youngster again came up with a fine display and his effort in beating the Dutchies' centre star Cliff Pennington on a one-on-one breakaway was a masterpiece.

The game was delayed 20 minutes by mutual managerial consent when Referee Stan Boright failed to put in an appearance. The game eventually was started with Linesmen Bill Ehnert and Tim Williams acting as referees. Boright showed up in the second period as did the missing Kitchener players.



But the damage was done by that time. The Macs put a tail on every Dutchman who ventured the Shaw-Cup-Winning checked the Gamemakers into the ice. Time who did get through were well taken care of by Master Manago who was beaten but once, during the score, and that with a clearcut shot by Pennington which zipped into the net on the short side in the second period.

The game was a clearcut affair with His Ribs or Theis Ribs handing out nine minors, five to the Mac, one of them costly. Elik recently acquired by the Dutchmen for Olympico purposes, drew three of his team's sentences with Makl getting the other.

The Macs points were distributed with Ron Gagnon leading the polls with a goal and two assists. Other triggermen were Muir, Smrke, Hildebrand and Payette. Gribbons had two assists, with Bradley, Marlowe, Hildebrand, and Boucher drawing singles.

Pennington and Lauzman were given credit for the Dutchmen counters with Lauzman, McKnight, Hosking and Forbes getting assists.

In a close-checking first frame the teams couldn't do anything but score-wise. Until midway through the heat when Ronnie Muir

RON MUIR
(Shoks Goal Debut)

Manago electrified the crowd midway in the period when he whipped aside Pennington's blast after the sleeper Dutchie rambled and surged through two Mac defencemen into the clear.

Just two minutes past the Macs two up after three minutes of play when he slammed home Gagnon's pass from Hamilton-Tiger-Cats, will attempt a comeback with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union.

Waggoner, 30, an all-star, in 1951 and 1953, was placed on Argos' negotiation list this week after two years on the sidelines following his release by Hamilton during the 1957 season.

He said Friday night he is interested in playing with Argos or any team that will give him a chance. Waggoner said he is at his playing weight of 165 and expects to get his Canadian citizenship papers next March.

Apple a Day Keeps That Poundage Away

NEW YORK (AP) — "Apples," says rightfielder Bob Turley of the New York Yankees, "are keeping wrinkles off my stomach. What's more important, they might put those dollars back in my pocket."

That's a terse self-appraisal Turley made public Friday through a dietary off - season dictated by an 841 - American League record that followed his great year in 1958.

"The way I got it figured," Turley said in an interview from his home in Lynwood, Ill., "I was bad last year because I felt sluggish because I was too heavy."

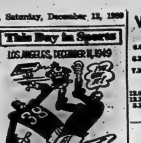
"I like to eat," said the husky pitcher, "and I like to eat a lot. I used to say 'It's only December. I'll eat what I want. Walk out on that refrigerator and go for those big desserts and snacks.'

"Sure, I get tempted every day. But I just grab another apple. My stomach tells all the time for another apple.

"But I'm getting now so I'm not

Sugar Ray Fights Monday

BOSTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, still recognized as middleweight boxing champion in New York and Massachusetts, is scheduled to fight for the first time in 21 months Monday night.



Robinson is matched with Red Young of Providence, R.I., in a non-title scrap at Boston Garden, one of five 10-rounders on the program.

Robinson scheduled the bout as a tune-up for his Jan. 22 title bout, New York - Massachusetts version, against Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., also at the Boston Garden.

Pender also is fighting on the card, meeting Gene Hamilton of New York.

Utah, is recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing Association which stripped Robinson of his world title for inactivity.

Richard Carlson Gets Ideas From All Sorts of Situations

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Got a great idea for a TV series? Richard Carlson has a workable series. Richard Carlson is worth listening to on this matter. He has had two successful series, I Led Three Lives and Mackenzie's Raiders and now is devising a third.

No mere actor is Carlson. He has set-written many of the scripts for such as The Man and the Challenge a week from tonight.

"I get series ideas from everybody, even the mailman," commented Carlson. "He can't laugh. My milkman actually suggested that I should do a series based on his adventures. Something happens to him every day. Like trying to tame a dog who is unfriendly. Or trying to avoid the housewife who is too friendly.

"The series would be great—if you could get Red Skelton to play it. That's the trouble: The idea isn't enough. You've got to have a combination of things that add up to excitement. You've also got to find someone willing to put up $2,000,000 to finance a series. If you have the element, it's a hanker isn't too hard to find. The profits in TV series are enormous."

HAS EXPERIENCE

Carlson knows from personal experience. Both of his series have been big moneymakers. Mackenzie's success was understandable; it fit into the pattern of western adventure.

But I Led Three Lives was something else again. He played an undercover spy against the Communists, and anti - Red themes have failed in films. Yet his series is still playing on TV.

"I have tried to figure it many times," he pondered. "But I am not sure why it succeeded. Perhaps because it was a cliff-hanger. I still have people come up and say they were scared to death that I would get caught in last night's show. My own mother won't watch the show because she's afraid of the danger."

Carlson has numerous ideas for future series, including one that would be a bold venture. He proposed a show that would feature all of the stars of the 21V company: Broderick Crawford, Barry Sullivan, Richard Carey, Lloyd Bridges, Adolph Menjou and himself.

"Each week, one of us would be the star and the others would play bit roles," he said. "I had all the money and time elements worked out, but the conflict of sponsors defeated the plan. I still hope to find a way of doing it."

March 4 at Santa Anita race track.

Otash, 37, was acquitted on two other conspiracy counts.

On his five co-defendants, one — Donald Poulter, 36 — was convicted of the same offence. All other charges in the multiple-count indictment were rejected by the jurors.

Otash failed to return to Superior Court next Wednesday for arguments on a defense motion for a new trial.

The six men were indicted, along with two others, on charges of conspiracy to bribe jockeys at Santa Anita and Hollywood Park tracks at Santa Anita. Two of the original defendants were dismissed before the trial.

Strange How Weird Antics Follow Warwicks

WARSAW (AP) — Canada's Warwick brothers are having trouble getting anyone in Poland to believe how Dick, youngest of the three, got that big cut in his head.

The Polish press first reported it happened in a bad fall during training at Katowice in the Silesian coal - mining district last Sunday. Later, another version was published saying the Warwicks had been mixed up in a brawl with a visiting Swedish hockey team and that Dick was hit over the head with a vodka bottle.

"So help me," said the 31-year - old Dick today, "neither story is true. You won't believe it—nobody does — but a mirror fell on the wall and hit me on the head."

The Warwicks were guests of the Gwardi Sports Club in Katowice and lived in a five-roomed apartment overlooking the ice-skating rink. The Swedish team was quartered in another apartment on the second floor of the building.

As the Warwicks tell it, the Swedes were having a lively party upstairs and apparently the mirror jarred loose from the wall just as Dick was taking by. Result: Dick cut a two-inch slit in his scalp and severed an artery which was sewn together again at the hospital.

The injury kept Dick down only a few days. He and his brothers Bill, 35, and Grand, 38, now are in Warsaw for training sessions and lectures to Polish hockey coaches in the area.

A few days before the mirror incident, an overhead crash - iron water tank dropped from the bathroom wall with broken plumbing attached and injured Bill's head by inches. Another time, when the brothers who had come to examine Dick's cut opened a window in the ice stadium building, the window fell out of its frame.

Twenty Start In Car Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Twenty men who live for the thrill of speed were set to roar from the starting line today in one of 1950's most important sports car races, the Grand Prix of the United States.

At stake in the dangerous 218.4-mile battle was the world's road racing championship. The event was to start at 1:30 p.m.

In the pole position, because he was faster than anyone else in two days of practice, was England's Stirling Moss. In the time trials he blazed around the hazardous 5.2 - mile Sebring course in three minutes flat at an average of 104 miles an hour.

With Moss in the front row when the cars broke from a standing start with engines roaring were Jack Brabham of Australia and Tony Brooks of England.

The daredevil trio was still in the running for the championship in this eighth and last grand prix race of 1952. Brabham won the middle position in the front row of starters by turning a practice lap in 3:04. Brooks got the front outside position with a clocking of 3:03.8.

Leading in points for the world title was Brabham. The champion will succeed England's Mike Hawthorn, who retired after winning the 1951 title only to be killed a short time later in a highway accident.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, December 13

General tendencies: This is certainly a Sunday in which the whole foundation and basis of your life on a lofty plane of wholesomeness can be improved by getting off to the services of your choice, since there will be found, today especially with its brilliant aspects, a new standpoint that serves you and your whole existence better. Be alive, alert, aware and active, now. Then put swiftly in effect.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Don't fail to hear that inspired spiritual speaker this morning. This will give you strength to cope with any problems you may have. Later, meet interesting people. Become an inspiration to others by living the Golden Rule.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Think back upon the fine standards under which you were reared, and be applying the proven, age-old tenets you can come through present evils with flying colors. Also, read the philosophers and sages.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Follow your own inclinations today for more successful living. Get into the so-called Silence for a while and contemplate; let inspiration flow through your consciousness. Then you know where you are going and how to get there in any sphere.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — An excellent day for reflection and concentration and successfully working out your future mentally. Study and prayer must not be neglected, either. Today's thoughts and a very well change your whole life for the better.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Make sure you get together with clever and clear-thinking friends today, since there will be many fine ideas given you. This makes the future brighter, easier and more prosperous. P. M. relax and have fun together.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Exactly the right time to give thought to the future and intelligently map out your plan of action. Go to church early, then get in touch with the most powerful persons and know and get their support. Career first, now.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You have every opportunity now to listen to that truly inspired person of God at church. Begin to apply excellent wisdom propounded and watch the change for the better in your life.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — If you remain quiet for a while today, you can concentrate deeply and think out the best procedure to follow in days to come. Get next week's work properly outlined. P. M. ideal for any romantic business. Be thoughtful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — How can earnest and better relations and plan for greater prosperity today if you get together socially with all associates. Inexpensive but tasteful entertaining will work wonders. Smile and charm all.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be of service to those vital in your life now, but be sure your appearance and health are A-1. P. M. make plans for the future by following a constructive and intelligent pattern of thought. Retire early.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If you have been following faithfully your astrological chart, do you should awaken today in the very highest of spirits. Be sure to attend church, then get together with friends who are wonderfully congenial. Be happy.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — During A. M. see that everything in your home is in ideal order, so that you may invite guests in for a charming and informal day, evening. Fine ideas can be exchanged that will mold the future brighter for all.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will be so full of energy and inner spiritual fire that you must see to it that he, or she, has the finest educational and cultural advantages. There is great brilliance in this chart and great success is possible in almost any sphere, particularly in music, writing, medicine and philosophy. The sports champion could also be here, male or female.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Today's Full Moon brings so much stimulated activity that you would be wise to try early and keep very busy all day at the particular outlets of your choice, especially as stated as good for your own sign following. Excellent for Christmas or other shopping tasks or purchases of all kinds, visits, etc. Action.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Fine day to learn what associates desire you to do, and then for constructive activity that will take you closer to your goals. You have clever ideas. Be sure to start shopping for Christmas, too. Read, study, get ahead.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A good idea to consult with financier or business experts in A. M. so that you are better apprised how to forge ahead in early future. Also, set up a more flexible bookkeeping system for yourself. P.M. take health treatments.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for thinking in terms of self and how others regard you, out and about early seeing the right people, gain prestige and learn how to increase your income in the future. P.M. discuss conditions with persons who can help you.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Any secret angling or research has possibilities for bringing right results today. Also, look into ways to have a greater abundance, and to grow. P.M. revisit those who look to you for help. Be generous with deserving ones.

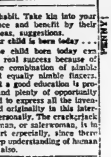
Leo (July 23 to August 21) — Sacking can be yours from dynamic and progressive individuals today, provided you make the effort to see them and state your aims. Later, make as many contacts as time will allow. Begin an upswing in all of your affairs.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Begin this week properly by sprucing all of your prospective activities well and planning them intelligently. Begin working out the most important ventures now. Also remember that your motto "I serve" is a passport to success.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — There are many constructive opportunities open to you right now and you would be very wise to look into them, meet the people who want to see you. Be broad-minded, clever. Grow.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Your children's problems are very fine today, so be sure to follow your hunches in connection with all of your affairs now. But be certain your visualization is true. Rely on feeling. Tonight should be spent with loved one.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Ideal day to come to better understanding with everyone, since there is friendliness in the air and all are responsive now. Tonight you must relax, so be sure to go out and enjoy your self at favorite amusements.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If attuned properly, this is one day when you should be full of ambitious fire to get things done. Work every minute and you will accomplish all that you set out to do. Come to understanding with fellow workers first. Then go, go, go!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Being filled with all sorts of creative and constructive ideas, take time in early A.M. to catalogue them wisely. Then get busy and promote them. P.M. excellent for any social activities that will add you in your career.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — An uptrend in all of your affairs is possible now, even where it seemed almost impossible in the past. Don't be nervous; this is only a habit. Take his into your confidence and benefit by their good ideas, suggestions.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today can achieve real success because of the rare combination of aimbition and equally nimble fingers. See that a good education is provided and plenty of opportunity afforded to express all the invention and originality in this interesting personality. The crackerjack salesman, or salesperson, is in his chart especially, since there is a deep understanding of human nature also.

Frost or Ice On Carburetor Causes Stalling

By EUGENE MILBOE

Frequent stalling these morn-ings will usually be blamed on a cold engine. In some cases, this difficulty may be strangely irregular, occurring only on certain days — not necessarily the coldest ones. Carburetor frost or icing is often the reason.

High humidity and air temperatures ranging from slightly below to several degrees above freezing can form frost or ice on the carburetor throttle plate. This is due to the drop in temperature caused by rapid fuel vaporization when the engine is started.

After stalling the engine can be restarted, but it will continue to stall at idle speed (because frost on the throttle plate strangles fuel flow) until increased engine temperature prevents icing. Often a mechanic will simply advance carburetor idle speed a bit to prevent this kind of trouble.

E. F. writes: "My engine has developed a tendency to die out at high speed. I've also noticed it's running hotter than usual."

(A) Have the fuel pump checked. Weak pressure will tend to set the fuel too much for high speeds and also promote engine overheating.

H. J. asks: "I am buying a U.S. economy car. Is there any appreciable gas mileage difference between an automatic transmission and manual shift model?"

(A) With manual shift you can get up to four miles per gallon more than with the automatic transmission model.

P. W. writes: "When my engine is accelerated a whirring noise can be heard from the fan. Could this be loosened?"

(A) More than likely fan blades are unevenly pitched, bent or distorted.

From K. D.: "I have a '51 sedan which may be on its last legs because water is somehow getting into the engine oil. What does this indicate?"

(A) A cracked engine block or a damaged head gasket. Let's hope it's the latter.

Mr. Herbert Smith outlined how to form a club. Mr. Eric Summers thanked Robert Merrick for arranging the service. He summed up the conference with the thought of promoting Christian fellowship in the church.

The service closed with the theme, "Give heart and soul and mind and strength to serve the King of Kings."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retired Couple With $200 a Month Can Get Along But It's No Picnic

By THOMAS COLLINS

What follows here will be of great distinction to people who like to scold me.

Always they're asking how a couple can live in retirement on $200 a month. And they scoff at the notion that it can be done.

This is intended to spell the matter out.

Couples who retire on $200 a month will spend, in the main, about $2.30 a day for food — or $75 a month. They will spend about $50 for housing, and about $50 for utilities. The remaining $67 or $68 will spend by car — a little bit each month for clothes, hair-pins, and razor blades; a little more each month for doctors and pills, and maybe a movie.

These figures are for people with no property or investments, and who live in rented city quarters.

Most economic studies show that living costs will vary by as much as seven different parts of the country, and between big cities and small cities. These studies usually deal with families. Retired couples on a small income — as best I can determine it — live about as cheaply in one place as another. Except that in some rural areas in the southern states they can live on $200 a month and have a bank account. It's a low standard, but it's living.

A budget for a retired couple could be much more. The reason it doesn't is that there is such a wide range in the tastes, customs and circumstances of every couple. Here is a rundown of the range:

FOOD BIGGEST ITEM

Food. This is the biggest item in the budget. And the best way to reduce it is to produce some of your food with your own hands. You can do this by hunting (if you like rabbits and birds, have a shotgun, or like to shoot it and have a place to hunt), by fishing (if you like fish, have a pole and can get to a fish hole) and by planting a garden (if you have a plot of ground you can use, and the soil is fit for planting).

Any of these can reduce the $2.30 a day spent for food, and give extra money for housing or hairpins.

A couple that drinks $1.50 worth of coffee a week, and goes for steaks instead of vegetables will not get by on $2.30 a day, and thus will have to find housing for maybe $40 a month, or $10 a week. And they must also be content to buy packaged concentrate herbs, instead of stringing the beans themselves, probably will have to do the latter.

On the other hand, the couple that can remain healthy on two meals a day instead of three can pay $60 or $70 a month for housing.

Housing. In the normal city the choice is a room with kitchen privilege, housekeeping rooms, the upstairs of somebody's house, an apartment, a rented house, a trailer. The monthly cost will range from $25 a month (modified it was very nice) on up to about anything a couple wants to afford.

The couple must balance its desires in housing and type of neighborhood against its desire to find, always, a place where other people are.

Clothing. The concern of a couple over the appearance they make to other people is in direct ratio to their income and each person must assess his own vanity. One couple may be content to buy garments in keeping clothes in repair, and the couple's habits in taking care of clothes.

CLIMATE MAKES DIFFERENCE

Climate makes a difference in the cost of clothes, but many people go into retirement with a fund of clothes that will last a long time with little buying.

Location. Most couples who have all their marbles had rather retire under an orange tree than under snow banks and sit on a park bench instead of beside a radiator. Heating costs money. But strictly on the basis of economics a couple can get by about as well on $200 a month in a big city in the North as in a small city in the South because of the wider choice in housing and the more intensive bargain counters the big city offers.

A small town that is outside the orbit of a city or a metropolitan area has cheaper housing, less precious food, and fewer social demands than a city. And as for entertainment and a good many other things people associate with a decent standard of living.

But if $200 is all you've got — and it is all many people have — you can get by on it. Which is what this column has tried to show.

F.F. Discusses Unemployment Insurance

SIXTH SIDNEY — Brookdale Farm Forum meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard on Monday evening with 11 members present.

The question of unemployment insurance for farm workers is quite a difficult one. It might be possible where seasonal workers are employed in numbers, but the monthly most farm workers are employed singly and on a yearly basis. If such a scheme could be carried out, it would have to be on a compulsory basis.

The F. F. would like to see some form of pension plan for farmers. It is possible to receive such from insurance companies, but the forum would favor some form of government plan on a contributory basis.

NATO Exercises Marred By Run Of Bad Luck

Canadian Ships Hit Bad Weather From Start

HALIFAX (CP) — The storm-tossed aircraft carrier Bonaventure and four destroyer escorts arrived here Sunday after six-week NATO exercises in the North Atlantic. The exercises were marred by a run of bad luck climaxed Saturday by the crash of a twin-engined trainer aircraft in which four men were killed.

The anti - submarine aircraft crashed minutes after leaving the carrier's flight deck near the Nova Scotia coast.

Naval officials said an investigation will be held into the crash which killed pilot Lt. - Cmdr. Roger S. Harris, 35, of Dartmouth, N.S., and his three crew members: Sub-Lt. G. C. Hayward, 25, of Montreal, PO Jack Lorito, 24, and AB Francis Ronald Dawson, 33, both of Dartmouth.

Their bodies were not recovered. A naval official said the aircraft had a chance to get out of the aircraft."

The Bonaventure and her escorts — Algonquin, Athabaskan, Iroquois and Sioux were accompanied throughout by the rough weather that plagued the task force almost since the day it left here.

MORE TROUBLE

Almost as soon as it arrive, about a half-hour behind her escorts entering the harbor, had to wait while tugs battled a 70-mile gale before berthing. A 35 - mile - an - hour headwind also hampered tugs berthing her.

Relatives waited in a torrential downpour at their loved ones.

The ships ran into a Dec. 6 storm that caused heavy deck-level damage. Seamen grinned happily as they enjoyed ashore. Several commented that it had been "a rough one" with "little time for sleep."

Gouges in the ships' paintwork were evident. One side of the Sioux showed a gap where there had been a lifeboat.

Winds were as high as 110 miles an hour and waves ran up to 60 feet when the ships were caught in the storm about 500 miles off the Azores.

ONTARIO MAN INJURED

Lieut. Carl Hortle, 41, of Portapique, N.S., was seriously injured when hurled against a bridge support. He was left in hospital at Santa del Grada in the Azores.

Commodore James Plomer of Winnipeg and Halifax, senior Canadian officer afloat (Atlantic), said heavy superficial damage was caused in the storm "but the ships' fighting power continued operations if an emergency had arisen."

There had luck started last month when the destroyers were forced to return to Halifax for port. One seaman was drowned when he fell from the deck of the Iroquois.

20-Hour-Day Takes Ike From India to Greece

ATHENS (AP) — Working a 20-hour schedule, President Eisenhower said goodbye to India today and won rousing welcomes in Iran and Greece.

In Athens, hundreds of thousands of Greeks turned out to cheer and wave. King Paul greeted the president enthusiastically at Elleniken airport, saying the Greek people had watched his journey so far with deep emotion.

In reply, Eisenhower noted how the long history of Greek culture and said Greece's devotion to democratic principles has won the admiration of the world.

"I assure you that the welcome from His Majesty, the government, the people and the individuals here means very much to me."

Premier Constantine Karamanlis and Crown Prince Constantine also welcomed Eisenhower, the first U.S. president to visit Greece.

The people were responding to Karamanli's urging that they show the United States the nation that helped Greek crush the Communist uprising at the end of the war. That was under the Truman Doctrine, which came into play after the British withdrew their protection of Greece.

No Heavy Loss Suffered Says Union Official

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Larry J. Daley, president of the Newfoundland Federation of Labor, Sunday said since 1951 he has said it is "widespread belief" that the province has suffered heavy membership losses in Newfoundland.

He said in a statement he doesn't deny that "the phoney propaganda by the Liberal Party party of Newfoundland has made serious inroads in the labor movement ranks" but it is "totally incorrect" to say that the federation is losing members in the bulk of workers in the province.

Only three unions with a total membership of about 2,000, had withdrawn. Seventy - two unions with more than 18,000 members remained.

The three unions which broke ties with the federation were the Newfoundland Government Employees' Association, the John's Local 514 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Office Employees International Local 233 of Grand Falls.

The only serious losses suffered by the IWA have been in the government employees and that portion of the woods workers which have left the International Woodworkers of America," Mr. Daley said.

COUPLE IDENTIFIED

EDMONTON (CP)—Police Saturday identified a man and woman found dead Friday in an apparent murder and suicide at a remote logging camp south of Entwistle. They are Mrs. Mary Gaudet of Fort Norman, N.W.T., and Garnet Orvis, 47, formerly of Portage la Prairie, Man. Police said Overseas—the man's estate apparently shot Mrs. Gaudet and then turned the gun on himself.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Sunday night was clear and cool across southern Ontario but the week storm moving across the north country brought cloudiness and comparatively mild weather to localities north of Lake Superior. Today's weather clarification indicates a warming trend during the next few days with a major storm developing in Texas or Oklahoma probably on Tuesday and then moving toward the Great Lakes.

U.N. ASSEMBLY CLOSES ON NOTE OF COMPROMISE

'Spirit of Camp David' Reigns

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The "spirit of Camp David" reigned unconditional at the 14th general assembly of the United Nations wound up its session early Sunday on a note of compromise.

Victor Belaunde of Peru, president of the assembly which held its early meetings under the shadow of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at the Camp David Maryland, summation recreat, told the UN delegates that the assembly as a general had reflected this relaxation of East-West tensions. And before he formally declared the conclave of 82 nations, he gave it the title of "the assembly of peace."

The venerable Peruvian, who has represented the South American republic at the UN since its 1945 inception, could point to an assembly that in which was marked perhaps by fewer East-West clashes than have occurred in recent years.

The session was marked, too, by a growing role of Canada's role as a behind-the-scenes negotiator of compromise settlements in disputes which might otherwise have marred the windup spirit of this assembly.

NOT ALL SOLVED

While the long-neglected questions of Hungary and Tibet, for example, reflected areas in which no agreement was to be possible, compromises were reached in the Middle East and West Africa. East and West may still get together as conferees instead of opposing military powers.

Chief among these, from the Canadian point of view, was the settlement in the waning hours of the assembly of the contentious problem of a security council seat for Poland or Turkey in the coming two years. Poland

USAHA Ignoring Suspension Of Canadian Players, Could Be Tossed Out Says Dudley

KITCHENER (CP) — Bitterness is growing between the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and its United States counterpart over the use by U.S. amateur teams of players suspended in Canada.

George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, told the Kitchener Record that, as a result, may be a demand by the CAHA for the suspension of the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association by the international Ice Hockey Federation of which both bodies are members.

Dudley said the USAHA is ignoring suspensions imposed by the CAHA on several Canadian players.

The two amateur associations have a agreement to respect suspensions imposed by each other.

Dudley singled out Tommy Lockhart, president of the USAHA, as one of the offenders. Lockhart is using Minnie Menard, formerly of the Kenora champion Bellaville McPhersonlands, despite Menard's suspension here.

Lockhart operates the New York Rovers of the New York Metropolitan Hockey Association. The team plays out of Commack, N.Y.

The CAHA hockey Association asked the CAHA to suspend Menard after it learned he was playing in New York without a release from the Belleville club. The suspension was granted for a week but only as far as the CAHA knows, Menard is still playing with the team.

Dudley said he has found it almost impossible to get in touch with Lockhart to learn why the latter has ignored notifications that Menard has been suspended.

Should the CAHA ask the International Federation to suspend the USAHA and the federation grant the request, this would prevent the USAHA sending amateur teams in Olympic and world hockey tournaments.

The U.S. is to be the arena for the Olympics and the 1960 world hockey championships.

It Was a Texas Storm, Suh, That Iced Us up Like This

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Texas storm centre, swirling across the northeastern United States, brushed Southern Ontario with an icy hand during the weekend and slashed visibilities in the Maritimes.

Freezing rain and a host of traffic accidents were the chief effects in Ontario before the storm moved on. The Canadian Press wirephoto network was knocked out Saturday. Ottawa and Montreal was disrupted by ice-laden telephone lines and cable, and was still out of action Sunday.

Ontario police reported 62 accidents on snow - covered city streets Saturday, causing an estimated damage of $15,000. Toronto police investigated about 35 accidents and reported personal injury and more than 70 traffic mishaps were reported in the Hamilton area.

A deep low pressure system originating over Texas Friday evening brought heavy rain, sleet, to freezing rain, ice pellets and snowflurries Saturday. The end result was a blizzard on Sunday.

Power blackouts were reported in the north shore of Lake Ontario, cancelling a professional football game at Kingston and leaving Newcastle, near Oshawa, without electricity for several hours Saturday.

Ice-laden trees, toppled by strong winds, created more damage as they snarled hydro wires and fell across Highway 2 near Cobourg, blocking the east-west artery until Sunday afternoon, reports Today it away.

Several injuries were likely with the storm.

Gaining speed as it moved east, the storm gave the Maritimes their first taste of winter.

POPE CREATES 8 NEW CARDINALS, TWO AMERICANS

Membership Now Highest on Record

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Pope John XXIII created eight new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today, bringing membership in the Sacred College of Cardinals to 79, the highest in the history of the Church.

In his Latin allocution naming the new cardinals, the Pope recalled the recent audience with President Eisenhower — without specifically naming it—against communism.

He also discussed peace at both control.

In the solemn, secret consistory electing the eight cardinals to their high rank, Pope John said:

"Peace is the chief part of humanity, the problem of hunger is still grave. To avoid the great calamity, no case can erroneous doctrines be adopted or lethal principles in the action of brinks."

The eight prelates made princes of the Church include two Americans, the Archbishop of Chicago, Albert Gregory Meyer, and the Archbishop of Newark, N.J., Archbishop Alois Meunch. Both are natives of German stock.

The others are Scottish - born William Theodore Heard, dean of the Holy Rota Court; Portuguese Agostino Bea, Jesuit confessor of the Pope; Italians Francesco Morano, 87 - year - old secretary of the Congregation of Rites; Gustavo Testa, 73-year-old nuncio to Switzerland; Spaniard Fernando Quiroga Y Palacios, secretary of the Vatican's Congregation of Rites, and Italian Egidio Marella, 64-year-old nuncio to France who, according to an old tradition, will be the next envoy to France, has to receive his nationality.

The cardinals-designate themselves were not present. Except for Cardinal Marella, they waited at various points in Rome or elsewhere in Italy. Official notification from the Pope's messengers.

Today's secret consistory will be followed by a great public consistory in the Vatican Thursday at which the new cardinals will receive the insignia, the broad - brimmed red hats symbolic of their rank.

The Pope formally announced the elevations to 23 cardinals who met in the secret consistory with him. Among them were five who had come from abroad.

The Pope made his implied reference to communism when he said:

"In particular we, our thoughts and our prayers turn to that part of our flock which is still denied the possibility of practising its faith openly and publicly.

"We exhort with most ardent love all those peoples among whom the laws of God are violated, the most elementary rights of human liberty and conscience are suppressed.

The Pope's thoughts also turned towards victims of the Communist revolution when he said "How can we forget the grave loss of human lives, the ruin of flourishing lands and destruction of buildings and especially by floods in many regions."

He referred to the needs of the whole planet during the "the duty of justice and of humanity to help the needy and research taxgrave problem," he said.

France Protests Gen. Twining's NATO Criticism

'Leak' to Papers Adds To French Resentment

PARIS (Reuters) — France today protested to the United States against remarks by Gen. Nathan F. Twining blaming France for being the main stumbling impediment for delays in carrying out NATO's current defence program.

The protest was made by Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville when he received Secretary of State Christian Herter this morning, a French foreign ministry spokesman said.

Twining made his remarks at a secret NATO meeting last week. His remarks on France's NATO defence efforts later leaked out.

Couve de Murville expressed his "extreme surprise" at the American press revealing statements made at a session of the highest authorities of NATO.

Such meetings, he contended, were to be considered as the secret.

STRESSES MANNER

According to the spokesman, Couve de Murville also stressed his disagreement and resentment at the dramatic manner in which the problems raised by Twining were put forward. The request for reorganization of NATO had been agreed to.

This was all the more regrettable coming on the eve of a NATO at a moment when unity of the 15 NATO nations prior to the Paris meeting was vital.

Meanwhile, the news was leaked that Twining warned the military committee that the Soviet Union dangerous numerous unless member nations lived up to their commitments. He said it was clear he was referring particularly to France.

COMPLAINS OVER UN

Couve de Murville also complained to Herter about the attitude adopted by the United States over the Afro-Asian motion of Algeria at the United Nations Assembly Saturday.

The French government has difficulty in understanding," Couve de Murville told Herter, "the attitude of the American government which, while continuing its traditional support for policy of the French government, nevertheless has not come against a resolution calculated to make the application of the French government's Algerian policy more complicated."

The Afro-Asian motion, Couve de Murville said, insisted on the holding of political negotiations on the basis of self-determination, a viewpoint the French government would not accept.

"It is serious matter in present international circumstances," he added, "to have to note that of the United States government, the Atlantic alliance, six abstained or voted in favor of the Afro-Asian motion on Algeria.

Fighter Ace Not Bitter Over Two-Year Imprisonment by Reds

OTTAWA (CP) — "I knew it was Christmas at night. I had marks off each day of the year on the side of my bed."

Flight Lt. Russ MacKenzie was recalling what it was like to spend two years in a Communist prison camp, including 16 months and 16 Christmases, in solitary confinement.

"I'm not bitter at all," said MacKenzie over the picture of health and contentment.

"I was young, and I went through it. I read 300 books, including a huge dictionary. And I learned how self-discipline and self-control.

"Solitary confinement is such a thing as heartache. Your heart really can ache from loneliness."

MacKenzie now is preparing for his sixth Christmas at home since his ordeal. He is serving at the RCAF station at Chatham, N.B., where he lives with his wife Joyce and four children. He teaches tactics on the Sabre jet, the plane he was flying when he was shot down over North Korea Dec. 1, 1952 and taken prisoner by the Chinese.

He was released at the Hoag Kong border Dec. 2, 1954.

"The last two years hasn't been as bad as the first two. When I was in solitary I was forbidden to write. So I used to write out the solitary doesn't seem to have been there. I suppose Bill took's Store and Club Commodore Shop. 14-16-18-21

Ike Standing Trip Well Says Physician

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Eisenhower "is doing fine and standing up really well" on his strenuous visits to three countries, Maj.-Gen. Howard Synder, his physician, says.

Despite his 59 years and three major illnesses in the last four years, Eisenhower is standing the pace far better than some younger members of his party — the newspaper correspondents, for example. The president has been given an occasional throat spray to relieve dust irritation.

At times, he has seemed less chipper than usual. He coughed occasionally on a visit to the U.S. Embassy early Friday. He used his handkerchief at later events, but Snyder said he had no cold.

"It's just that he's been doing so much speaking," Snyder said. "His voice is just a little rough, but he's all right."

Snyder, Eisenhower's personal days in Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan and India and Iran, has lost 15 lbs., with only brief rest periods between events.

Fate of Maroons May Hinge on Meeting Tonight

CHATHAM (CP) — The fate of Chatham Maroons may hinge on a meeting of Chatham Hockey Association tonight, it was learned.

Maroons are faced with expulsion from the OHA Senior series unless payment of a $2,500 guarantee and back funds owing the league pool are paid by Wednesday midnight.

Ken Farquharson, president of the association, said today that "the performance bond was not paid because we didn't have the money."

In regards to the association's petition to transfer in the Senior A pool, Hamm said: "We still have the plan, but it's not active. We didn't want it. Chatham paid in more money last year than any other team but we have to put money in from last year."

What action the association will take toward the OHA ultimatum was not disclosed.

George Sherman, vice - president of the OHA, said: "I feel confident Chatham will pay. The Maroon club has a few corporate backers in the group putting up money and if it is at all humanly possible they will come up financially from heroics, we shall do so."

Sherman close to the team said that the players would be asked to take a penalty cut.

No Likely Mr. K. Will Meet Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—A Vatican press office spokesman today denied that he knew anything of rumored approaches by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to obtain an audience with Pope John before an East-West summit conference next year.

No comment was available in Soviet Embassy circles in the capital. The secretary of state, Domenico Cardinal Tardini, normally does not give any regular questioned on government matters during the Pope's audience.

Saturday night, unofficial Vatican sources said reports that Khrushchev had requested an audience with the Pope were inventions." Vatican observers thought highly unlikely that an audience would take place.

Some observers thought that if the Soviet Premier pressed for an audience the Pope could not refuse politely.

But they thought he would insist on a number of guarantees beforehand, such as freedom for Catholics to practise their religion in the Soviet and Soviet intervention to obtain the release of Archbishop Josef Beran, imprisoned Communist countries, including Communist China.

Eight Rescued

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Eight men were rescued from the sinking schooner Daphne and Phillis were rescued from a dory Saturday in the Atlantic off Newfoundland.

They were taken by the French motor vessel Miquelon to St. Pierre, off St. Pierre et Miquelon, tiny French islands south of Newfoundland.

South Korean Forces Put on Alert As Refugees Leave Japan for North

NIIGATA, Japan (AP) — Two ships, both Soviet vessels chartered by the North Korean Red Cross.

They were scheduled to arrive Wednesday morning at Chongjin, North Korea, and unofficial them Jobs, education and homes — promise they said they failed to get from South Korea, North Korea's bitterest foe. Brought to Japan before or during the Second World War, most were destitute.

Hundreds of police guarded the departure. As the migrants stepped from buses that took them to the pier, police clashed briefly with members of a Japanese leftist group about three score trucks. Five demonstrators were arrested. No one was badly hurt.

At this time, he said, only five or six delegations in the group had instructions that would have enabled them to switch their votes to Turkey in case Poland withdrew its candidacy. Two of ultimately all might have been willing to do so. Nehru said the switch of 14 votes would have been given Turkey the two-thirds majority necessary for election.

Poland suggested — and this was agreed to by the United States—that it should be elected for the first two years and Turkey for the second two-year term.

Nehru said that while the group preferred to see Poland elected it was even more interested in seeing the council properly constituted, and asked that Poland offer some compromise.

Nehru related that he saw Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski Tuesday and told him that while the group preferred to see Poland elected it was even more interested in seeing the council properly constituted, and asked that Poland offer some compromise.

Poland, Turkey Compromise On Security Council Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Wallace B. Nesbitt of Canada told Sunday about the sequence of events that led to the compromise agreement breaking the deadlock between Poland and Turkey for a seat on the United Nations Security Council.

The agreement was that Poland and Turkey the second of the disputed two-year terms. Nesbitt said elements should be made indicating that in the future be Soviet bloc and Western UN nomination in such elections.

Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, said in an interview that a start toward the compromise was made on Thursday when Canada met privately with six other delegations — the six staunch supporters of Poland—Austria, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Norway and Yugoslavia.

"We felt that something ought to be done about the deadlock on the election of and the proper constitution of the security council and that some compromise should be worked out."

Nesbitt, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Howard Green and Progressive Conservative Member for Oxford, said the group sought the help of presumed Latin American delegations from Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Cuba, Ecuador, Mexico, Venezuela and Guatemala.

The 14 countries met Monday. Nesbitt said, and asked him to bring them together in search of a compromise.

Nesbitt went back to Poland, Thursday, and Poland offered to split the two-year term with Turkey, he said, provided assurances were given that after that the seat would go to the Soviet bloc.

Then he got U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Fusenkov to discuss this idea. They held two meetings Friday and talked again Saturday, when they agreed.

2 Wanted Men On Way Back to City for Trial

BANGOR, Me. (AP) — Two men on the RCMP's most-wanted list unexpectedly waived extradition hearings in a court here in Belleville, Ont. for trial.

Warren H. Fry, 41, of Economy, N.S., and Richard Madison, 37, of Boston, are charged on charges of kidnaping and armed robbery.

They appeared before Superior Court here on charges of illegal entry into the country and had indicated they would fight return to Ontario.

Fry was arrested in a police and said they would return willingly. Belleville Mounted Police and Constable Earl Macdougal of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The two policemen brought Fry to Belleville to face charges of kidnapping and three of armed robbery in connection with the Coburg, Brighton and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Coca-Cola Ltd. Holds Yuletide Party at Plant

The employees and their families of Coca-Cola Ltd. held their annual Christmas party on Saturday.

The offices, conference room and lunch room were gaily decorated in Christmas fashion and of course the children's day was complete, when Santa made his entrance through the fireplace to distribute gifts to them all. Minutes later the conference room floor was knee deep in children all trying out their new toys.

Santa then presented the manager, Leo McKee and his wife with a Koffee-Kraft on behalf of the employees. Earlier in the day the children and their parents enjoyed a program of cartoons and carol singing.

Everyone everyone thoroughly enjoyed a sumptuous buffet dinner complete with the traditional turkey and all the trimmings. This was served in the lunch room.

With almost 100 per cent attendance, everyone agreed that the committee, which was chaired by Don Charlton, had done a wonderful job in producing the best Christmas party yet. This committee looked after the children's gifts and the decorations while the company provided the dinner and the candy, etc. for the children as well as plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola.

As each family left there was a tray for the lady with individual package of candy, apples and oranges for each child.

J. Fred Wilson, OSD Bursar, Dies Suddenly at His Home

J. FRED WILSON

Prominent in the civic, political and church life of this district for many years and a present Bursar at the Ontario School for the Deaf, J. Fred Wilson, Trent Road, died suddenly at his home Friday in his home late Saturday afternoon.

Born in Sidney Township 70 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wilson, he had lived his entire life in the community and in his quiet and unassuming way contributed not greatly to all phases of community life. He was educated in the public school of the township, attended the high school at Trenton and in his early life took up farming, which he successfully conducted for many years. He became interested in municipal politics at an early age and was elected to the township council. The election brought as much of his work he soon became reeve and attended Council.

In that body he served on many committees and chaired many of them. His work was shared by Warden, serving with great distinction in that office. He also ses voted into the seat on condition that she relinquish it to Peiping next year.

Canada and Japan are putting their two-year terms at year's end on this major peace-keeping body. Ireland, Iceland succeeded to Canada was Ceylon, a Commonwealth member and also member of the Afro-Asian voting bloc. No opposition was shown to this candidate, but the final considerations of Turkey and Poland as a successful Israeli-Arab move to make the seating an East-West cold-war split.

For this reason, it is believed, Canada broke with the United States and backed Poland's candidacy, although the U.S. had been campaigning for the Western aligned Turkey, which like Canada is a NATO member.

REASON FOR STAND

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, in his first session at the UN since he took over the ministry, was understood to have backed Poland on the ground that it would be a logical appointment and one which should not become a political football in the cold war.

But the opposing factions ran through almost the whole session voting is the tradition in security council contests — without a clear majority on either side. At that time it appeared that the membership would be adjusted with an unsolved issue left in the air.

It was learned after the closing session voted early Sunday for Poland by a 10 to 2 vote compromise had been made known that Canada last week had taken the initiative of attempting to settle the dispute.

The long closing session of the assembly, which lasted from 10:30 a.m. Saturday until 4:13 a.m. Sunday, also showed a spirit of East-West co-operation by passing unanimously the authority to set up an international committee for studying the problems of outer space.

RAD FISSION AGREEMENT

Russia and the U.S. already had agreed to the terms of the body, so the parties had been certain from the start. Canada will take part in the new committee which may provide the nucleus for an international scientific conference in the coming year.

The final session also threw out the Asian-African resolution that would have urged talks on Formosa's place in representation. Canada, backed France's contention that this is an internal affair of China. President de Gaulle's government should be allowed to attempt a settlement without outside interference.

The assembly's session which every UN assembly has had to deal with, was passed on to the new General UN Armaments committee, including Canada, which is expected for the first time in Geneva next February. This too was a Russian-Western East-West or Russian-American accord.

Transport Firm Makes Awards To Safe Drivers

TRENTON — Saturday night the first of what is hoped to be a series of annual "Safety Awards" dinners was held for employees of the Lafferty-Smith Transport Company in the dining room of the Trenton Hotel, with Harry Lafferty, president of the company, as host. Twenty drivers and their wives were present at the banquet, as well as guests from the Canadian Insurance Services and other members of the company.

Jac Rollins, accountant with the Belleville office, was guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Rollins introduced the head table guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Plumpton, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. George Williams. Mr. Smith is the vice-president of the company and Mr. Plumpton is manager of the Belleville office. Mr. Plumpton is the traffic manager of Corby Distillery.

Mr. Sanford Wilson, a representative of Markel Service, spoke briefly on the subject of safety. He encouraged the Lafferty-Smith drivers had an enviable record for safety practices.

A film was shown to the guests, dealing with road hazards and direct causes of accidents. A semi-documentary entitled "SPEAKS ON SAFETY".

Mr. George Williams, a representative of the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario, gave a short resume of the 1958 record for fatal and injury-producing accidents in Ontario.

In 1958, the speaker said, there were 3,580 children between the ages of 5 and 14 killed or injured in Canada by road accidents.

Mr. Wilkins spoke particularly about the annual total of accidents that occur during the Christmas season. The darkness of the night and the time of year, bad, arduous driving conditions due to the weather, crowds cluttering and the excitement of Christmas shopping all contribute to the "Yuletide accident rate."

Drivers with a one-year record of safe driving without a "chargeable" accident were presented with safe driving plaques by Mrs. Charles Wilson, Earl Chard, Russell Parkhurst, Jack May, Gerald Lafferty and Peter Gumolius.

Drivers with a four-year safe driving record were John Carney and Russell Ryckman.

Drivers with a six-year record received a five-year award and Mrs. Ryckman received a special bracelet, as an award for making it possible for her husband to continue to drive safely on the road.

Jim Payette received a five-year award and a bracelet for the lady of his choice.

Jack Gourp presented Mrs. Lafferty with a beautiful bouquet of red roses on behalf of the employees, and Alex Macklan presented Mr. Lafferty with a gift from the drivers. Mr. Macklan also thanked Mr. Lafferty for the enjoyable banquet.

Slippery Roads Cause Many Minor Mishaps

TRENTON — While there were no serious accidents in Trenton over the weekend, the slippery condition of the streets gave rise to a number of minor mishaps.

Saturday morning, a dump truck being towed by an Embleton Bros. tow truck, was struck in the rear by a Canadian Pacific Express truck, driven by Joseph Soulette, Jr., 448 Front Street, Trenton, due to the fact that the Embleton truck was unable to stop on the slippery road in front of Soulette's home, parked in the line of traffic on Dundas Street East, to make a left hand turn. The express truck received damages to the estimated amount of $200, while the dump truck was unharmed.

At 2.25 p.m. on Sunday, a car driven by William Finlay, 31 Jones Street, Belleville, slid into the rear of a car being driven along Front Street by James D. Wilson of 31 George Street, Trenton, causing damage to both cars of a minor nature.

MAY BE U.S. PLANES

At 11.20 Sunday evening, residents in the Middlefield area heard another mysterious "boom". On afternoon of two equally mysterious and still unexplained booms heard in Sophiasburg on Friday.

At 4 a.m. this morning, residents were rudely awakened by the echoes of the seven were awakened out of sound sleep by yet another boom.

Officials at the Trenton airport say that the explosion do not have any connection with any of their planes. It was suggested, however, that American planes passing overhead might be responsible for the disturbances.

Cartage Employees Welcome 'Money Tree'

TRENTON — Fox Cartage and Storage employees and their families attended the annual Christmas "Money Tree" party in the Masonic Hall on Saturday night.

A turkey dinner, catered by the W.A. Group No. 2 and the Afternoon Branch of the W.M.S. of Grace United Church, was served to the guests.

Following the dinner, those present enjoyed entertainment in an entertaining nature, shown by Mr. R. Stewart.

The Christmas tree, laden with red bags of employee-dividend gifts, was completely emptied to the satisfaction of all the families represented by Ray Fox and Mr. Clark officiating.

Building Is Damaged When Struck by Car

TRENTON — In the past few months, Trenton has been beset by a number of hit and run accidents, none of which, fortunately, has involved the loss of life, but which have caused considerable property damage.

On Saturday, it was reported to the Trenton police department that sometime before the snow fell on Friday, a car, believed to be a light blue 1956 Pontiac, backed into a storage house used by the Cal Nichols Moving Van Company at 23 Bleecker Street, smashing the rear wall of the building, damaging a toilet bowl and breaking a water pipe, which allowed water to flow over the floor of the building. The damage was estimated at $75. The car, which did not remain at the scene, is believed to have a damaged rear tail light and possibly other rear-end damage.

German Believes Russians Tried to Put Man in Space

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) —Professor Hermann Oberth, German spacia scientist said Sunday he believes published reports that four Soviet astronauts have died in attempts to get man into space.

"I know from American intelligence reports that one attempt at the end of 1957 or beginning of 1958 failed," Oberth said. "I believe the Russians made several other attempts."

He was commenting on reports published by the Italian news agency Continentale, that reliable informants in Prague said the Russians have made four vain attempts to get man—first one a woman—into space.

In Washington, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had no comment on the report.

Oberth, 66, said the Russians have experimented for years with unmanned rockets but have not yet used first-line test pilots in space ships.

A Soviet embassy spokesman in Bonn said he knew nothing about the reports, but added: "I'm say case I am sure they are pure fabrication. I believe all such things never happened."

There were the limited attempts by unmanned rockets.

The first astronaut sent up was probably a dog, he said. He was fired aloft in a rocket after putting 6 months of training shortly after the successful launching of Sputnik II. Instructions followed Ledovsky to a height of 186 miles. Then transmission ceased. Nothing was heard of him again.

Schiborn went up in February, 1958, and also disappeared into space.

Mikhov, a lead Soviet test pilot, made the third flight last January in a rocket similar to that sent to blast Lunik II to the moon.

Mirtis Gromov made the fourth attempt in February. The agency said he entered the atmosphere in a space aircraft "similar to the American X-15," but that too ended tragically.

Vera Youker Given Highest Award in Guides

TRENTON — Vera Youker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Youker, 26 Borden Drive, Midland Park, was presented with the highest award possible to attain in Guiding, on Saturday evening by Mrs. Thorne Spence, area commissioner.

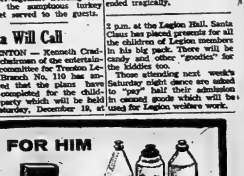
As the date coincided with Vera's 16th birthday, there was a birthday cake to signalize the anniversary. Vera is a Grade 11 student at Trenton High School. She plans to enter a school of nursing following her graduation from high school.

Assisted at the ceremony were Mrs. William Smith, Guide captain; Mrs. Eva Smith, area camp adviser; Mrs. Helen Ferguson, area commissioner and Mr. and Mrs. Youker.

PLANT PARTY SUCCESS

At the annual Christmas party for employees of the Peter Company in Trenton which was held Friday night at the Quonset Hotel, it was announced that the company would be closed over the Christmas and New Year holidays. Following a delicious supper served by the Afternoon Branch of the W.M.S. of Grace United Church, was entertainment for the guests.

Vagn H. Lange and John Fetter came to Trenton seven years ago. They had been associated in partnership in Toronto. Mr. Lange is entering his first year as term as councillor in Trenton, and is a member of several municipal boards. Mr. Fetter is prominently connected with the retail hardware trade in Trenton.



Sixty-eight employees and wives attended the supper. Gifts got-together. Dancing followed the supper. Carols were sung.

Santa Will Call

TRENTON — Kenneth Craddock, chairman of the entertainment committee for Trenton Legion Branch No. 110 has announced that the plans have been completed for the children's party which will be held on Saturday, December 19, at 2 p.m. at the Legion Hall. Santa Claus has placed presents for all the children of Legion members in his big pack. There will be candy and ice cream for the kiddies too.

Following next week's Saturday night dance are asked to "pay" for the admission with canned goods which will be used for Legion welfare work.

The British Labor Party's Future

Post-mortems are being held on the British Labor Party's last election campaign. There is a feeling in some quarters that the post-mortems might better be held on the party itself. This is certainly premature. The party is not dead—yet. There is, however, considerable evidence to suggest that if it recovers it may never be the same.

The party is split into two factions. There are those who wish to stick with the old socialist creed, particularly the doctrine of nationalisation of the means of production. There are many good reasons for doubting whether this policy is feasible today or for doubting whether it will do anything to further if it is feasible, whether it will do anything to further the party's aims, since nationalisation, after all, was never an end in itself but only a means to an end. On the other hand, the faction which would sort-pedal talk of nationalisation often seems more than willing to abandon not only the socialist creed but the means by which it seeks ends. It seems to be not so much concerned with discovering ways to progress further along the road towards equalisation of opportunity and income, the party's original goal, as to be eager to discover what the majority of the voters want, in order that it may be elected to power.

When the Labor Party was born it didn't worry too much about whether the policies it advocated were then popular. Election to power, like nationalisation, was not so much an end as a means. It is a strange, but we think a fortunate, truth that no political party is less likely to win votes than when it frankly admits that winning votes is its highest ambition. It is only when a party puts certain principles above vote-getting, or at least successfully pretends to do so, that it wins support at the polls.

Alarming Prospect

David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, has predicted that the time is coming when "one gifted instructor" can teach 100,000 or more, by television.

"On the coast-to-coast hookup, one chemistry professor is able to teach as many students as would require 2,000 teachers under the ordinary classroom system," said Mr. Sarnoff.

"The day will come, I feel sure, when there will be a nation-wide television network devoted exclusively to education. The ablest teachers will be better-paid, and will do a better job, for more pupils, in less time, at less cost, than ever in the past."

That TV can be used with profit, indeed already has been so used, to supplement the regular instruction program, we do not doubt, but this Sarnoff plan is alarming.

The day when the ablest teachers are better paid to teach 100,000 students at less cost will bring with it the danger that the classroom will be in charge of an "attendant" more poorly paid and poorly trained, whose duty will be to keep order rather than to teach. How efficiently could such an attendant discharge the responsibility of explaining what the abler, better-paid TV teacher had failed to make plain? And not even the ablest teacher can get his meaning across to all of the students, all of the time, with no re-runs.

A Grievous Loss

The service which any newspaper can offer to its subscribers can be no better than the calibre of its newsboys, for without their faithful service all the work of gathering, writing and printing the day's news would go for nought. No newspaper is more fortunate in the character of its carriers than The Ontario Intelligencer and one of the most faithful and energetic of these boys was William Wettlaufer, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wettlaufer, R.R. 3. Wednesday evening, as William was riding his bicycle home after delivering his papers to his subscribers, he lost his balance. By ill chance, a car was passing him at that moment. He fell into the path of the car and struck his head. Thus once chance blow ended a promising young life.

This paper lost a valued newsboy, but, of course, the death of a boy of William's energetic nature leaves other, even bigger, gaps. He will be missed in the Boy Scouts, but most of all will he be missed in a home in which he was an only child. Mr. and Mrs. Wettlaufer have the sympathy of their many friends and of this newspaper in the loss of a son who, in his tragically short life, had displayed much promise for the years ahead.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

When the heart goes Christmas shopping
It is then that I regret
That I'm not as rich as Croesus
And it's then I start to fret
And to make sad sum of money
All the things that they can do
To make glad the lives of others
As the Christmas gifts I view.

When the heart goes Christmas shopping,
With the brake of Reason set,
With Necessity beginning
Even the little things I get,
Who gets Duty over warning
Me to have a little care
Whispering always when I'm shopping
"That is more than you can spare."

Then it is I long for money;
Then it is I stand and sigh
As I gaze upon the splendors
That the heart of me would buy.

Then, and only then, I envy
Those who have the wealth to spend,
When the heart goes Christmas
shopping,
Can do what it longs to do.

Letter To The Editor

Former City Resident Enjoys Life in Yukon

Editor,
Intelligencer.

There are many people who think that we are all covered by snow and not able to get out for months at a time, but we are having a wonderful winter so far, about six inches of snow so that the sleighing is very warm from twenty to forty degrees above zero.

The first part of November we had a cold spell and we were lucky to have the curling rink ready, so now we have four sheets of very good natural ice.

In the curling club we have a new and handsome two-storey brick, we have twenty-one teams playing and some sports and have had finished the bonspiel.

During the summer and fall we were all busy, so we did not have time for visiting. The ice is now ready to take a clock at night. The hotel and motel were filled to capacity and the Dawson Creek Club is now busily waiting for their turn to get in. Dawson with only the local trade we have time for a birthday party and of course the Curling Club and the Community Club. We are now starting our hockey and so far we have twenty-five applications for membership.

I take this opportunity to wish all my friends A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and prosperous new year.

Larry Fleming,
P.O. Box 87,
Watson Lake,
Yukon.

Editor's note: We hope Mr. Fleming's letter will start a stampede, but we suspect it is a case of the strange but true saying that winning votes is its highest ambition. It is only when a party puts certain principles above vote-getting, or at least successfully pretends to do so, that it wins support at the polls.

Why Brains Cross Border

Financial Post

"In 1857, the latest year for which figures are available, Canadian industry employed 19,000 men, with 32 million with U.S. recorded investments, while another 320 millions were contributed to U.S. parent companies for research purposes by Canadian subsidiaries in Canada."

These disturbing figures were presented recently by Alexander Crate, director of the Province of Ontario's Trade and Industry Branch.

By their very size, they go a long way towards explaining the flow of Canadian graduates in chemistry, physics, mathematics and biology to the U.S. For the U.S. obviously, is where most of the biggest research jobs are to be found — whether paid for by American or Canadian money.

Both Mr. Crate and Herbert H. Dow, president of Du Pont of Canada Ltd. have some sensible suggestions for remedying this situation.

Mr. Crate advises small manufacturers, which can't afford adequate research facilities of their own to turn more frequently with their problems to the low-cost research facilities now furnished by government. And he suggests that the companies whose very their size, consider the philosophy behind Bell Canada's long-term borrowing services, as well as when buying goods.

Mr. Dow urges Canada to specifics and tells all U.S. subsidiaries operating in this country that the Canadian research is a necessity and more by every subsidiary's self interest:

"The accessibility volume and possibilities of utilization of certain resources such as hydro power in certain districts, timber, metals, natural gas and oil, calling for many present unique possibilities for research scientists and engineers. Research scientists and planners.

It's quite true that a great deal of U.S. research is directly applicable and extremely valuable to Canada. And there is no denying that their ownership of Canadian companies operating in the re-

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FOUNDATION AND SUPERSTRUCTURE

There is only one way to understand Christianity and that is by trying to put its principles into practice.

One can take a copy of the Bible, read it, and wade through it in comparatively short time, but he does not know Christianity simply by reading the New Testament. Only by the study is out of which we get our information, and synthesis of the two as it is, it by no means tells the whole story. Sometimes the whole of Christianity is a mystery to us until we come in contact with some plain, wholesome man or woman who lives Christian principles every day and lives them perfectly.

We become living epistles and living Gospels of the Christian religion if we take seriously and try to put into operation the faith we profess. It is true that the principles of the Christian religion are written on pages of paper, but they are even more beautifully and clearly written in the hearts of men and women. Indeed, and let us be sure that men and women everywhere understand this truth and judge the Christian religion more by the way we act as Christians than by anything we may say. The New Testament, given us by God Himself, is the foundation. The super-structure is of our making. It is built every day in "our daily walk and conversation."

Strictly Personal

TV Industry Itself to Blame For Its Ills

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the very first columns I wrote, years ago, warned the public that the "quiz show scandals" were going to happen, sooner or later. I was writing about radio, but the same conditions is cut from the same piece of cloth.

I compared radio with newspapers. In a newspaper, the advertising is sold by the column-space; the publisher and editor and staff put together the editorial matter, and are responsible for it.

Imagine a newspaper which threw open its news and editorial columns to advertisers and their agents, saying in effect: "Here is the white space — buy it and fill it pretty much as you please."

This would be a shocking attitude of irresponsible responsibility. Yet this is precisely what the radio industry has done. They have sold time to sponsors, and permitted the sponsors to fill that time with programs of their own devising.

Radio began on the wrong foot, and so did TV. What these media should have done was to prepare, plan and present their own programs, under their own supervision, and then sell the sponsors the chance to buy time, if they liked the offerings — as they do in newspapers.

Many, if not most, radio "soap operas" are addressed to the "package" That is, they are put together by an agency for the entertainment company and sold to a sponsor, and then time is bought for the broadcast.

The network itself — as we see in the case of the quiz shows — did not exercise authority over the content of its programs, and either did not know or did not care about the honesty of the proceedings.

I also warned, 15 years ago, that radio would be a powerful force because of these germs. As the boll weevil, or pear blight, or any other ways escape, they are free to spread over the whole land, in which to set up another infection — and another boll weevil.

This is the explanation when a cluster of boils erupts, or boils appear in different parts of the body. The answer? Have your doctor treat the boils, not merely constantly by existence. He will instruct you to keep the site of the boil covered with a sterile bandage and perhaps, depending on his judgement of the case, suggest that you carefully wash the area with one or another of the many types of soap that change the dressings.

The purpose, remember, is to prevent germs from a boil from spreading to some other part of the skin and starting the trouble all over again.

Men on staphylococcus infections will appear in later columns.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have two black patches on my face and I know they are growing larger as the years go by. These patches look like moles on the face. Can they be removed without treatment? Could it be a dread skin—X.S."

Dead skin? I'd hardly think so. They could be moles of some sort. If they are changing in size, I'd have a physician look at them right away. If need be, they can be removed, but whether this would be simple or somewhat complicated depends on the nature.

Was Einstein A Low-Brow?

Toronto Star

Albert Einstein was a low-brow. No matter that our mastery of the scientific philosophy of the universe must date back deep in reverie on the mysteries of the cosmos of existence for humanity, while he drew slowly on his pipe.

Einstein was the tall-talk sign. Or would be, if you believe Professor Lothrop Stoddard's department of public health and social welfare. He insists that heavy masters are lowbrows and members of the high-brow class. The distinction is drawn from one of those mental tests which show clearly the humans like butterflies on pins.

Now no more than one smoker in a hundred who isn't a heavy smoker. The university seems to have us taped.

To no avail, the doctors have told us that cigarettes are bad for one's heart trouble and bad for many other vital parts, in this age of the Chatau Seabees, into imagining that tobacco is a symbol of intellect and success. Hop roobbish can be found.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHERE KNOWLEDGE BEGINS

Knowledge begins right where you are — inside of you. In yourbrain, in your heart, in your own varied experiences.

Your eyes see. Your hands feel. Your feet travel. Your brain thinks. All these activities of life, it is by what outward and surrounding and "happening" things mean, that you must teach what you already are.

This fact is one of the most important for you to know.

Any man can sit upon his own doorstep and watch the world at work. Any man can also sit in his own home and read the thoughts that have helped to move and interpret this world.

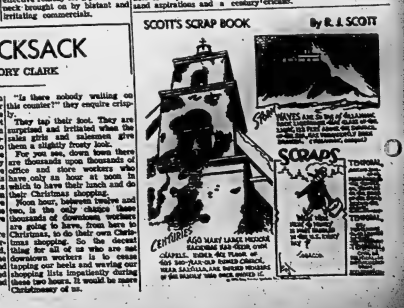
Knowledge is two preciously. The knowledge, not only that you are a son of God, but that you are the figure of a man. With infinite vision. With a soul that is able to reach into the heart and aspirations and a century of human sympathy.

At time passes, knowledge may grow.

Your little figure may expand your experiences. Years. Like it sorrows may become life's truest experiences.

Then you set "just you." You think, as I say, that you are beginning to be real. It's unreal and its oncoming future.

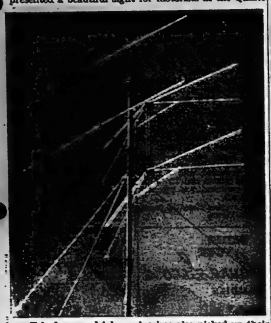
But it is going to worth more to live, and you are going to know more tomorrow than today. For you are going to realize that knowledge emanates from the centre of your Christ-to Know.



They Are Americans

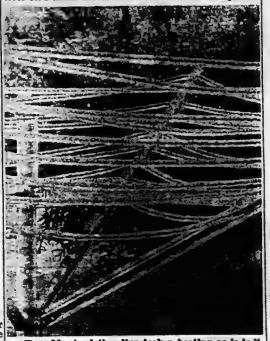
Peterborough Review

It is said that people in Europe do not look like Americans, but this is an illusion caused by the fact that most people in Europe really are Americans.



SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT



Ice covered trees, reflecting the light of a bright sun, presented a beautiful sight for motorists in the Quinte district Sunday. Typical was this line of ice covered trees on Dundas Street in the east end of the city.

Telephone and telegraph wires also picked up their quota of ice causing some disruption of service in the area. Television antennas also took on an unusual appearance as is seen above.

Even Mom's clothes line took a beating as is indicated by the wintry appearance of this rotary line.

26 Germans Die As Apartment Houses Burn

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—Hundreds of rescue workers searched for bodies today in a smoking heap of rubble that had been two apartment houses until Sunday.

Twenty-six people were feared dead. Police believe 22 were in the two houses when they were wrecked by a blast and ensuing fire.

Sixteen bodies were recovered. Two persons died in ambulances or hospitals. Eight survivors were blown out into a back garden by the force of the blast. That left eight unaccounted for.

Statements from neighbors inclined police to suspect a gas leak.

District Turned Into Winter Wonderland by Ice Storm

Freezing rain which put a heavy blanket of ice over everything turned the Bay of Quinte district into a winter Wonderland during the weekend.

At the same time the icy conditions made driving hazardous on city streets and country roads and also disrupted telephone and telegraph communications as ice heavy wires and tree limbs were carried to the ground.

Following the all night freezing rain a thick coating of ice covered roads and sidewalks, trees and buildings and Sunday morning a dazzling bright sun turned the whole countryside into a thing of dazzling beauty.

Sweeping in out of the north east the rain accompanied by freezing temperatures iced doors shut on homes and effectively locked motorists out of their cars until a de-icing job was completed.

Sanding crews both in the city and on the highways put in overtime as they strove to keep roads passable.

But despite the slippery conditions there were few accidents of a serious nature as motorists either stayed at home or made their way with caution.

A car occupied by two youths went out of control on the Prince Edward county road west of Rossmore and flipped on its top in the ditch. The occupants escaped injury.

In the city only minor mishaps were reported.

U.S. Is Prepared To Join European Economic Group

PARIS (Reuters)—American Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon says the United States is ready to join West European countries in efforts to reconcile the conflicting interests of the six-nation common market and the other nations of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

Government sources here said he has assured French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Sunday that the U.S. is ready to study the possibility of becoming an active member of some European economic bodies, somewhat on the lines of O.E.E.C., although necessarily modified in certain respects.

Dillon's talks, although not closely backing on Washington, left a favorable impression here among those who feel that active U.S. participation in a European —or Atlantic— economic organization would be the best way of preventing Western Europe from splitting into two competing trade groups.

Albert College LG. Appoints 1960 Officers

The regular meeting of Albert College Guild was held in the home of Mrs. Charles Hyde, on Tuesday. The president, Mrs. Charles Hyde, presided and after welcoming the guests reported on the sick.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Mantle.

Mrs. Blake gave the report of the nominating committee and presented the following slate of officers for 1960:

Past president, Mrs. Charles Hyde; president, Mrs. E. Hickey; 1st vice-president, Mrs. F. Mantle; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. S. J. Hibbard; secretary, Mrs. F. M. Hubbs; treasurer, Mrs. G. Macfie; convenor of program committee, Miss Helen Sulman; assistant convenor, Miss Grace Tucker; membership convener, Mrs. R. B. Herlehy; planning, Mrs. K. Bird and Mrs. T. F. Townsend; visiting committee, Mrs. Phair and Mrs. Moon; maintenance committee, Mrs. A. E. Hagerman, Mrs. J. Gillis and Mrs. A. MacKenzie; nominating committee, Mrs. Charles Hyde and Miss Erma Panter.

Mrs. Hyde thanked the members of the committees for their help and co-operation during her term of office and read a very delightful poetry poem which she had composed.

Mrs. Williams, who was in charge of the program opened with Christmas carols, Christmas vice with carol singing and story of Christ's birth from Luke 2. Mrs. Owen sang "O Holy Night" and in a Christmas meditation: "Our inn of many rooms may not have room for Him, but we can shut out all the rubbish. He will come to our humble inn."

Christmas should cause us to bring happiness to those who have something to return."

In her prayer she made a special plea for "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men."

Mrs. Rosebud, a student at Albert College, pleased his listeners by playing two parts on his Schmoo-Schmoo, "Memories of Childhood."

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. Wilbert Barber, demonstrated how Christmas floral decorations could be made.

To do this creative work, one needs a good eye and plenty of imagination. Ideas may be gained from magazines but work it out in an original way. Since trees should not be crippled, she used artificial greenery for most of her creations.

By employing such common things as embroidery hoops, plate cups, a compact disk, and a wooden ring or cardboard ring enhanced by angel hair for foundations, she showed how beautiful and attractive decorations could be fashioned by skilful use of ribbons, artificial sprigs and flowers, leaves, beads, bells and even candles.

However the base for most of the arrangements was a piece of styrafoam and usually odd numbers were used in her arrangements.

She reminded her observers that height depended on its intended use.

The great attention of her audience, as they watched the Mantle build next week's meeting, from materials available to every one, showed their interest.

Mrs. Fred Wilson thanked the speaker, guests, members and members would soon be attempting to re-produce the ideas they had seen demonstrated.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held on January 14, and will be in charge of the new executive.

Women's Institute

LATTA W.I.

LATTA — The Women's Institute held its monthly meeting on December 3rd at the home of Mrs. Jack Salmon. An exchange of Christmas gifts took place between the members and each one presented a gift to be taken to the Home for the Aged.

After the business section of the meeting, Mrs. Jack Salmon and Mrs. Harry Harrison showed slides of films. Refreshments were served and enjoyed by all. There were 26 members in attendance for the meeting.

Women's Activities

PAREDALE BAPTIST L.N.F.

The Ladies Missionary Fellowship of Paredale Baptist Church held their first meeting on December 3 at the home of Mrs. Steve Chapman with 24 ladies present.

Mrs. Lillian Bates, the president, opened the meeting with prayer, and led in the singing of a few choruses. During the business session the ladies chose as a name for this group "The Ladies Missionary Fellowship" and the following officers were elected: secretary, June Warren; treasurer, Greta Wood; social committee, Mrs. Sayder; leader, Mrs. Sayder; leader of social committee, Jean Allen; leader of personal committee, Mrs. Marion Lakeford; visitation, Mrs. Charles Culley; devotional, Mrs. Sills; missions, Mrs. Barnes.

Mrs. Sills closed the business session with prayer.

GUEST SPEAKER

Miss Bertha Belch, a missionary from Africa, with the Regular Baptist Missionary Society was the guest speaker and chose as her theme the letters "M.I.S." — the "W" for worship, "A" for meditation and "T" for talk.

Marion Foster thanked Miss Belch for her interesting talk and closed the "Ladies Missionary Fellowship" meeting with prayer.

Following this, Mrs. Sayder served lovely lunch and shower gifts from the ladies of the Baptist Church.

Next month the hostess served refreshments and Lillian Blake voiced thanks.

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The Christmas meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald on the evening of December 10, with an attendance of 24. Mrs. K. R. Vivian, president, welcomed all the members and visitors to the meeting.

Items sung "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The president gave a reading, "It's Up to Us." Mrs. Ross Malcolm Little, group leader, took charge of the program. Mrs. Ada Cook read the Scripture lesson from Galatians and Mrs. Vernon Hinchey read the lesson thoughts from the devotional leaflet. Items sung "Perfect Harmony," followed by "Silent Night."

Mrs. Robertson read a poem by the late Birdie B. Anderson entitled "December," and a piece regarding the union of the Presbyterian people of the church.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey read "The Christ Church at the Christmas Season" and Mrs. Frank Doxtator "The Christmas Spirit Within."

Mrs. Little thanked her group and received the thanks of the president for the program and lunch and also thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. Little took charge of the business. A note of thanks from Mrs. D. D. Robertson for cards of sympathy sent her at the time of her brother's death, was duly read.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey thanked the W.A. for the donation to the Sunday School.

Happy Birthday was sung for the ladies who contributed to the birthday box and for little Nancy Clarke, whose birthday was December 1.

Mrs. Ross Cook, treasurer, gave her report, and the bill for the oil burner for the church was ready to be paid.

Christmas presents, brought by the members were placed around a beautifully decorated tree, and exchanged by numbers.

Mrs. MacDonald and her assistants served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be at the parsonage on January 14, 1960, the regular meeting day.

ST. ANDREWS GUILD

WELLINGTON — Recently, St. Andrew's Guild met at the home of Mrs. J. B. Lavender, when 15 members enjoyed a pot-luck buffet supper at 6.30 p.m. Later, the regular meeting of the Guild was opened with the president, Mrs. D. Herrington, presiding.

New business was the election of officers for 1960 with the following results as follows: Mrs. B. A. Evans; 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. Lane; treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Rogers; secretary, Mrs. D. Murphy.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by the Rev. J. J. Robertson, followed by the annual exchange of Christmas gifts.

Jubilee E.A. Enjoys Supper, Yuletide Carols

The Christmas meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bethesda United Church was held in the Sunday School auditorium. A delicious supper was served by Miss Daisy Young, Mrs. Willis Young and group, was enjoyed by the members, their guests and the Explorer group.

Mrs. Grace Anderson presided and opened the meeting with a Christmas carol followed by prayer and silent prayer for all missionaries in the home and abroad.

A special welcome was extended to the Explorer group and other guests.

Miss Grace Kenny reported on the allocation and reaching of the goal, the thermometer registering close to the top.

Mrs. Lillian Bates gave a brief summary of the calls made by the Baby Band leaders and secretary during the year and suggested that this be all the members' duty.

Miss Claire Wilson presented the slate of officers for 1960 and thanked the nominating committee for their co-operation in this important task.

The following was taken by Explorers, Misses Helen Colwill and Heather Ross.

PRAYER

The Christmas program was in charge of Miss Jessie Scammell and her group. The worship service opened with the hymn, "As With Gladness Men of Old." Miss Sulman read a Christmas poem and the Explorers then rendered two Christmas carols, "Away in a Manger," and "Away in a Manger."

For several years the Auxiliary has had a Candle Service at Christmas meetings, the Explorers, each with a lighted candle, passed by both groups and Miss Heather Ross lighted the large candle for their delicious supper.

The Christmas story, Luke 2, was read by Miss Helen Sulman. Miss Loretta McDougall, accompanied by Miss Ann Demeza, sang the "Magnificat." Miss Ann Morden delighted her listeners with the story of "Another Other Woman," bringing to mind the advent and the joy of the Christmas season.

'Keeping Christ in Christmas' Topic at WMS

The Christmas meeting of the Canadian Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Doug Brenton.

Mrs. Doug Brenton, president, welcomed the members and guests. The Rev. J. J. Robertson opened the meeting with prayer. Mary Mansfield will sing in Welsh.

A letter was read by Mrs. Fred Spring, missionary secretary, from Ann Davis. Miss Mary Mansfield will again be the missionary for Christmas in December 1960.

The Mission Band will be packing boxes at their next meeting for the needy in the mountains. The Christmas Story, taken from St. Luke's Gospel, was read by Mrs. Willis Brenton.

Mrs. Townsend, of Belleville, the guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Doug Brenton.

In her message to members and friends present, Mrs. Townsend used as her theme "Keeping The Christ in Christmas".

"Christmas is a season of carol singing. Carols express joy because Christ is no longer the expectant one, but a living presence. One carol tells of the search of the Wise men for the Christ Child. When they found Him, they gave Him gifts and adoration. We, today, open our hearts, minds and souls to Him. Then there are all the people who might have heard the angels announce: "Unto you is born this day in the city of David a saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Yet they preferred to went to humble shepherds watching their flocks.

"This brings us to the realization that God does not withhold His treasures from any because of humble position. God gives equally to all, and He loves equally, and opens his or her heart to Him.

"There is one way to get the gift of Christmas that is to open our hearts and share our blessings. That was the reason for the first Christmas in Bethlehem centuries ago, God's gift of His Son to bring peace and good will."

Mrs. Brenton expressed her thanks to Mrs. Townsend and a time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

C.G.I.T., Explorers Hold Vesper Services

Families, friends and Explorer Groups joined with the Bolder Girls and Canadian Girls in Training on the evening of December 6th at Bethesday Street United Church in their annual vesper service.

Carolyn Harwood of Hollingsworth U.C. led the service, assisted by Judy Dilzer of Bethesda; Lillian Vincent of St. Andrew's, and Judy Bolter of Trinity Baptist. Their presentation joined with the girls in the following activities. Special music was provided by the Explorer quartet of Bethesday Street choir with Mr. Templar at the organ.

Mary Reid, of Easternaster, told the story of "The Other Wise Man."

In the service of re-dedication of their lives, C.G.I.T. members of Zion, Bethesday Street St. Church; Iris MacLean, of St. Andrew's and Amanda Parker of Victoria Avenue Baptist, led in the candle lighting ceremony.

The congregational hymn was sung, the girls with their lighted candles filing out in a circle around the church; and, as the lights were extinguished, the service with the quiet singing of "Taps."

The Rev. W. Coleman pronounced the benediction.

Couple Mark Silver Wedding Anniversary

FRANKFORD — On the evening of December 5th, Mr. and Mrs. John Wickens, of Frankford, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple provided dinner and entertainment for a few close friends and relatives.

Some of the guests who contributed to the served by Mrs. Wickens were: Mrs. Wickens' two daughters, Mrs. Ken and Mrs. A. Poulter, the Rev. and Mrs. C. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid; Mr. and Mrs. H. Wiley; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bubbins; Mrs. Ethel Wickens, Hazel Bird; Lyle Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickens were married by the Rev. A. Poultar in Wooler, 25 years ago.

After tea had been served, the couple received lovely gifts from their friends. Their son Jack, who travelling from Toronto for the occasion, presented his mother and Mrs. Poulter with beautiful corsages and his father and Mr. Poulter received silver pipe lighters.

Providing the entertainment for the evening were Sandra Williams and Hazel Bird, who sang solos.

Carl Wickens, who has enlisted in the United States Army at Fort Dix, New Jersey, is regretfully unable to be with his parents for this happy event. Toward the end of a pleasant evening, Mr. Poulter and Mr. Judd each gave a short address, extending congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple.

Chinese Dress Latest Fashion Fad in London

BY JUDITH AYER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Londoners hardly turn their heads these days if they see one of their typical blonde English beauties towering down the street in pidgin and a Chinese dress. It's getting to be the latest fashion fad.

The Oriental influence is being strong. Part of its popularity can be traced to The World of Suzie Wong, the play about a Chinese prostitute finally married on the west end stage.

The play didn't stir the critics but it had repercussions in the field of fashion. In make-up was clothes, the Oriental look is having a vogue. One London newspaper, for instance, reports that a number of London fashion houses are starting to go into production on the almond eyes, the high-necked, slit-skirted Asian dress favored by many Asian girls.

More discreet dress firms have added Oriental details to their outfits, in the recent showing of the International Dress Creators in London, large, straw coolie-type hats were worn.

FEW WORDS IN DAYTIME

The current Oriental craze caused Michele Mok, Miss Hong Kong in the Miss World contest, to point out that the Cheongsam reflects the difference in moral outlook between East and West.

"In London," said the sloe-eyed beauty, "slit-skirts are considered daring.

"In Hong Kong they are generally worn and nobody thinks anything of it. A woman's worth is judged by the height of her collar."

Although some women have taken the slit-skirt and luxurious materials ideal for evening wear, the fashion between Orient and West.

By TRACY ADRIAN

Tall girls should be delighted with this coat, which was designed for those who are five feet eight inches and over. Tailored on straight lines, it features a wide, classic collar and a single button closing.

The topper is of a multi-colored nubby tweed in blue, rust and green. It has slit side pockets and wrist-length sleeves.

Homemade Candy For Christmas

by Mary Moore

Last April Helen P. Asked not have a thermometer test her and because candy-making time is here I worked on it this week. She said it is the most delicious candy but tends to be sticky — a bad fault when it is intended for packing and mailing for Christmas gifts. I have now corrected that fault and have some that I am nibbling on as I type. It is delicious as Helen says, and Pete says so too, so what more do you want?

TURKISH DELIGHT:

2 tablespoons plain gelatine, 1-2 cup cold water, 2 cups unsweetened applesauce (peel and cut up a quart), 2 cups white sugar, 1-2 cup cold water (find amount), 1 cup broken walnuts or pecans (or chopped almonds or filberts), 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon orange extract, confectioners' sugar.

Soak the gelatine in the 1-2 cup cold water and let it stand in large bowl until later. Add the sugar to the applesauce and cook until temperature of 240 deg. F. is reached — it takes about 2 hours on "low" heat, stirring frequently. When sugar is dissolved add the gelatine which should be mixed together. Pour into large pan 10 x 14" buttered pan and bake at 250 deg. F. for 20 minutes. Do not overbake. While warm cut into 1" squares. Drizzle with melted chocolate. Top with whole walnut.

Tomorrow: Homemade chocolates.

TEEN-AGERS TAKE HEED

The following few hints to you teen-agers may help to make a happier holiday season for you and for those with whom you come in contact. With vacation time around the corner, it would seem appropriate to go over some of the offenses against good taste which you thoughtlessly might be guilty. Expressing your exuberance over having a vacation by keeping on the nerves of others is certainly flouting the beautiful traditions of the Yule season.

First, let's remember that vacation, like charity, begins at home! Mother isn't on vacation, even though you are. Though you may sleep late, do you still show consideration for the family by keeping your room in order or doing your share around the house? Do you check with the family first, if you plan to have the "gang" drop in, to make sure that it is convenient for all concerned? Do you time out to help with the dishes, to run errands or help with the chores that mean a waste of your precious time, but doesn't the glow of appreciation on Mother's face make it worth while?

When appearing in public with your friends, are you ever guilty of walking down the street, arms linked, three or four abreast, bumping into unfortunate pedestrians and forcing them off the side-walk? Do you gang up in front of drugstore entrances blocking the door and forcing other folks to push their way in? Once inside the store, do you take over the soda fountain, and chat for over an hour while drinking your cokes? Do you "make your way with dignity," or do you prefer to attract attention rather than be overlooked? Having your arms, laughing boisterously and giggling in a high-pitched, over-emphasized manner will attract attention all right, but not the kind of attention you have in mind. Quite the opposite, in fact.

Cavorting three deep in a broken-down jalopy and skittering precariously through traffic, singing and yelling at the top of your lungs, may be lots of fun but, a mile from being downright dangerous, it can be extremely annoying to those who witness the display. What it means to other motorists had best be left unsaid.

This same thoughtlessness for the other fellow is too often apparent when you and your friends attend a holiday matinee. Talking, giggling, making cute comments, standing up to wave to a friend across the aisle, may also come under the heading of fun, but it is certainly an affront to other patrons. How much better to conduct yourself with the idea that your manners reflect credit, rather than be one!

Please believe that I am not criticizing. Most of the faults I have mentioned come only from thoughtlessness. It is well to realize that you can have just as much fun if you restrain yourself a little — and you can be assured that the less abusive company will be coming your way. Make an effort to remember the Golden Rule and the please's and other simple words of politeness that you've been taught. Above all, show some consideration for others and don't blithely assume that, because you are on vacation, you are a privileged character.

Question: I am presenting my daughter in society this season and would like to know if it is correct to leave the cards on the flowers that she will receive so that the guests may see who sent them. — Mrs. W.L.K.

Answer: Definitely not. The cards should always be removed before the party. A list should be kept of those who sent the flowers, so that notes of thanks may be written by the debutante expressing her appreciation.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two women. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Margaret R. — I am ashamed of the way our house looks.

Stephen R. — I don't want to live beyond our income.

Margaret R. — My husband and I have been having quite a battle about money. We seem to have such different ideas about how to manage it.

When we were married five years ago, we had all of $600 between us. We spent $200 on the most minimum things for the home. We filled in with hand-me-downs. Now we have two children and of course we are using up many more things.

I want to have a nice home — not a luxurious one, but a better one than we have now. My husband says wait until the children are grown, but I feel I could get practical but nice things. I am ashamed of the way our house looks.

In order to get those things we would have to borrow or buy on credit. My husband objects. He doesn't realize it's the way everyone does things today.

Stephen R. — I never could go along with this idea of doing something just because everyone else is doing it. I have my own ideas, and to me going into debt is terrible. I don't like to deprive Margaret of the things she wants, but I don't see why she can tolerate the idea of living beyond our income.

The reason I feel this way is because my own father was a regular spendthrift. Our family always lived beyond his income. Mother had died young and such a mess it took years to straighten things out, and my mother was left with practically nothing.

I have a pretty fair job with a good future and we could sail ahead smoothly if we don't overreach ourselves. Peace of mind means much more to me than having a home we can show off to the Joneses. We can't Margaret understand this?

* * *

The Council: We agree with Stephen that peace of mind is important, but he should recognize financial peace of mind is not the only variety.

A woman who gives herself wholeheartedly to making a pleasant home for her family cannot enjoy peace of mind if she feels her home is shabby and unattractive. It is a little unfair to accuse her of merely trying to keep up with the Joneses.

We can understand why the word "debt" holds terror for Stephen, but he should realize he is having emotional reactions unrationally to his past. Evidently his father went into debt beyond all reasonable proportions.

Stephen should try to be a little more objective and recognize that borrowing can be done in a sane and sinful way.

It would be a good idea for Stephen and Margaret to talk over the problem with an adviser of their bank. He can discuss their budget in detail and can work out a conservative plan which allows for insurance, an emergency fund and, other essentials.

Depending on Stephen's income, there probably will be a safe margin for some borrowing or credit. This will enable Margaret and Stephen to expand and enjoy life a little more without being swamped in a financial mire.

FOR EARLY wakers-up — a lockable playbox. Any sturdy small container will do: a plastic pail, a cardboard box (teal and chocolate motif!). Keep in it an assortment of tiny toys to be played with quietly — in bed, mind! It's definitely time to retire. Change the toys occasionally, so familiarity won't breed boredom.

Order Inventory of Museum After Discovery of Theft of Tutankhamen's Gold Sceptre

By DAVID HINMAN

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptian archaeologists discovered a 2,500-year-old mummy recently right in a dusty basement corridor of the Cairo Museum.

The perfectly preserved mummy, in ex exquisite coffin, was not listed in museum records. Officials had no idea where it came from, who had dug it up, and just how it got to the museum.

This is just one example of the chaos which Dr. Selim Hassan, emergency curator of the museum, is uncovering in the handling of Egypt's invaluable ancient heritage.

An inventory of the museum was ordered last August after the discovery of the theft of Tutankhamen's 3,000 - year - old gold-plated sceptre from a museum showcase. Investigations in the theft disclosed additional unpublicized pilferings, lax security measures and careless management of the huge collection.

A report dug up from the files on the registration department of the museum showed 20,000 pieces of antiquity missing from the museum. The report, published in 1936, collected dust for more than 20 years. Nothing was done about it.

No inventory had been made of the museum's contents, reported to amount to 2,000,000 objects, for the last 30 years.

UNLISTED OBJECTS

Two months after the inventory began Hassan announced that thousands of objects in the museum's basement have never been registered, photographed or assessed. Hundreds more still lie in wooden boxes which have not been opened for 50 years.

Some of the boxes from Luxor, Minia, San al Hagar and East Zagazig, all scenes of important excavations, have never been opened since their arrival at the museum.

Says Hassan: "Wandering through the basement of the museum is just as exciting as making new discoveries. You never know what you may come across."

Because of the humidity and lack of attention, many of the limestone statues in the basement have changed color and deteriorated markedly. Hassan says. Others dumped in boxes on top of each other for many years have been badly damaged.

The inventory committee, seven teams of five experts working daily nine hour shifts, will complete its work in four months, Hassan says.

The 47 - year - old archaeologist was recalled from retirement two months ago to put the museum into shape. One of the leading Egyptologists in the world, he graduated from the Sorbonne in Paris with degrees in history, philology and ancient Egyptian history.

FIRED BY FAROUK

Hassan was appointed assistant curator of Cairo Museum before the First World War, but was fired in 1939 by former King Farouk when he suspected him of selling archaeological treasures abroad, Hassan says.

The tall grey-haired Egyptologist says the former king, collaborating with former museum directors, shipped antiquities by the bazload to foreign museums.

The Cairo Museum, a three-storey structure covering one-quarter of a mountain representing a span of 5,000 years, Egyptologist Kamal Malakh, together with the discovery in 1954 of a Pharoah's solar boat, liberating the museum should be 20 times its present size.

"The rooms are jammed with discoveries," he says. "Antiquities crowd showcases and are piled on makeshift shelves above and beneath showcases. It's not a museum, it's a storehouse."

MARVELLOUS HAIRDO

TENTERDEN, England (CP)—Engine driver Don Darlow was tired of his wife's long, black hair so he asked her to have it dyed a different color. Next day she returned from a hairdresser in this Yorkshire town, hair carefully coiffured in bright pink and daffodil yellow. "It's marvellous."

Mining Magnate Leaves $10,000 To Queen's U.

TORONTO (CP) — Education and charities will be the chief beneficiary of the will of mining magnate James H. Rattray, who died in September.

The residue of the estate, subject to annuities for relatives, a few friends and servants, goes into the James H. Rattray Memorial Trust to be administered for educational and charitable purposes. Its gross value is believed to be considerably more than $2,000,000.

The estate was estimated at $2,683,562 at preliminary probate Friday. Mr. Rattray, a graduate of Queen's University, was vice-president of Kerr - Addison Gold Mines.

Queen's University receives $10,000 for a scholarship fund to bring promising Scottish students to Canada. It will finance students in a course of their own choice and will be named for Mr. Rattray's father, Rev. James Rattray.

Trustees Alfred Harry Segsle, a broker, and Leonard W. Brockington, will receive $30,000 jointly, the largest cash benefit in the will.

Another $10,000 was left to the Grand Duchess Olga, Mrs. M. Koulikovsky, referred to in the will as "my friend." Her granddaughter Ioais will get $5,000 with a stipulation the money must not be paid to her father "under any circumstances."

Heavy Building Program Scheduled for Maritimes During Next Two, Three Yrs.

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Are the Maritimes catching up with the rest of Canada?

Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, born in Pugwash, N.S., says the area can't expect to prosper as fast as the rest. But he loves the Maritime provinces and comes back every chance he gets.

Alfred C. Fuller, builder of the $100,000,000 Fuller Brush company of Hartford, Conn., who came from a farm at Welsford, N.S., says the same thing.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker takes a more optimistic approach. He said here recently that the Maritimes are catching up. Retail sales and labor income had increased faster in the Atlantic region this year than elsewhere.

MAKING PROGRESS

Whether this trend seen by Mr. Diefenbaker continues remains to be seen. However, despite the perennial debate about what's wrong with the Maritimes and what to do about it, some progress is being made and looking into the future isn't all guesswork.

Here are some fairly safe bets for 1960 based on recent developments:

Work will start next spring on a $60,000,000 chemical pulp mill for Nova Scotia Pulp Limited at Point Tupper, N.S. The site is being prepared now. By 1962 the mill should be giving full or part-time jobs to about 1,200 people. They will split a $18,000,000 annual payroll.

A new $40,000,000 oil refinery will start turning out petroleum products at Saint John, N.B. The planners say Irving Refinery Limited will pay out about $4,000,000 a year in wages.

TO POOL RESOURCES

The power systems of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will extend their resources in a provincial power grid, now almost completed. Interconnection will provide more than 100,000 horsepower in spare capacity to help meet growing demand.

In the next year or two Nova Scotia Light and Power Company hopes to make a start on a thermal generating plant at Dartmouth, N.S. Work may start in 1960 on a large new thermal plant at Saint John, N.B.

A $600,000 abattoir and meat-packing plant will open for business at Halifax. Already it has stimulated cattle and hog production in Nova Scotia.

A new coal mine will be developed at Springhill, N.S., where hundreds of men have been jobless since the 1958 disaster stopped mining there.

The new mine will ease Springhill's unemployment problem but it won't solve the troubles of the Maritime coal industry as a whole. New Brunswick coal producers had a better year in 1959 but on Cape Breton Island, the No. 1 mining area things are worse.

COAL OUTPUT OFF

Nova Scotia coal output fell drastically in 1958. So did sales. Prospects are for a further decline in 1960. Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, the biggest operator, threatens to close three of its eight remaining Cape Breton mines for lack of markets. With financial aid from Ottawa, Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia aims to prevent this, at least until the Rand coal commission reports, perhaps late in 1960.

Prince Edward Islanders hope 1960 will bring definite action on the long - discussed Northumberland Strait causeway to link them with mainland Canada. They haven't had much encouragement lately.

Federal Works Minister Walker says a feasibility study of the proposed nine-mile causeway will take longer than expected. Some islanders have suggested the delay stems from New Brunswick's campaign for a Chignecto Canal between the strait and the Bay of Fundy.

Transport Minister Hees hasn't given the canal boosters much encouragement either. He told Saint John port officials he would like to be shown that the canal is an economic proposition.

LIVED IN CAR FIVE MONTHS — Mrs. Delores Louise Zamojcin and her daughters, Adele, 7, (left) and Carmen, 9 (right), rest in their apartment in Detroit today after living for five months in a 1953 automobile. Their plight was discovered by police who stopped her for speeding. Overdue rent caused their eviction and a boarding home held the children's clothing for a $23 debt. A club of business and professional men moved in to pay her debts, re-rent the apartment, stock the cupboard with food and get Mrs. Zamojcin a job. Her husband whom she divorced four years ago, has disappeared. (AP Wirephoto).

Halifax enjoyed increased port traffic in 1959 despite gloomy predictions about the St. Lawrence Seaway. Port chairman Stanley Lee predicts "a bang-up winter season."

Saint John is less optimistic. Canadian Pacific reduced its sailings from there this winter.

To help speed traffic through both ports the CNR will open a new $15,000,000 freight classification yard at Moncton in 1960. The CPR is spending $1,300,000 on a new freight yard at Saint John.

On the political front 1960 looks like a busy time. Expect provincial elections in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, say the wise ones. Conservative governments in both provinces are in their fourth year of office. Prince Edward Island can look for a peaceful year. Its voters elected a new government—also Conservative—in 1959.

LIFE EXPECTANCY

A UN estimate shows Norway has th ehighest life expectancy in the world—73 years for women and 71 for men.

RETURN TRUE BILL

TORONTO (CP) — A grand jury Friday returned a true bill in the case of David Moody, 43, charged with having an offensive weapon and assaulting a police officer with a chain. Moody, shot in the shoulder Oct. 15 by one of two police officers disguised in old clothes, contended he did not know the men were police and said he was in the laneway behind his apartment to fix his car and put out garbage.

Marrow Bone Attracts Birds

By WINIFRED WILSON

The practice of giving your dog a Christmas present of a bone is not uncommon, but few people think of doing the same thing for wild birds. A marrow bone with a string threaded through the bone can be tied to a branch in sight of your window, so that you may see your birds gathering there to enjoy the marrow. Even in towns nuthatches and woodpeckers are attracted by this kind of a present, and if you live on the outskirts or some distance from any large settlement you should have the pleasure of entertaining blue jays, chickadees, and various other winter birds.

The custom is to tie a red ribbon around your dog's bone. If you like the string through the marrow bone might be red, but that is up to you. When the bone has been emptied, stuff the hole with suet to prolong the pleasure.

Another idea for a present is a special Christmas pudding made of all sorts of food appreciated by our feathered friends, and held together with melted suet. One important ingredient is nuts, and although almost any kind will do the peanut is as good as any. Seeds are a treat. Most birds have a preference for sunflower seeds, but they are fond of hemp, millet, and broken pumpkin seeds. Dry bread crumbled fine and dried meat ground up can also be used. Any or all of these foods may be added to the suet while it is hot, and the mixture poured into suitable containers before it cools.

For this purpose the best thing is rough bark. Make little slabs of wood with the bark left on, about six inches long and two inches wide. Attach to the window sill or some shelf. If not secured, they will be knocked off or carried away by the smaller birds that should be drawn to your feast.

Some people pour the hot mixture over an evergreen bough which can be tied to a tree within sight of your window. But do not put it directly on a living tree. An empty mayflower head has been successfully used as a container.

The Audubon Society has a recipe for bird bread made with oatmeal, peanut butter, cornmeal, cream of wheat, water and lard. It requires cooking and kneading, and just the right quantities of each ingredient to be truly successful! There is, however, one point in its favor. Any bread not required immediately can be kept in a refrigerator until needed.

Canada's Relations With U.S. Show Noticeable Improvement

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada's relations with the United States often strained by economic differences, showed noticeable improvement during 1959. Guess Eisenhower held a warm two-day visit with but spectacular Chicago visit during her momentous Canadian tour.

In many ways it was a year of achievement as the two neighbors struggled to erase the continuing growth of border irritations. But many problems remained unsettled and Canada is headed in 1960 with mixed feelings of confidence and apprehension.

The new year likely will see the two countries getting down to serious negotiations and perhaps even a start on the harnessing of the mighty Columbia River for a great new flow of power to benefit the west coast border area.

Canada would likely benefit also by the U.S. plan to open world negotiations next fall to reduce U.S. tariffs by a total of 20 per cent over a four-year period at the rate of five per cent a year.

The flow of surplus Canadian natural gas to the U.S. is likely to increase with import red tape cleared away. To some extent this might offset the psychological decline of Canadian uranium shipments to the U.S. following the American decision to drop Canadian uranium contracts after 1962.

MAY FORGET FRIENDS

But 1960 also is a presidential election year.

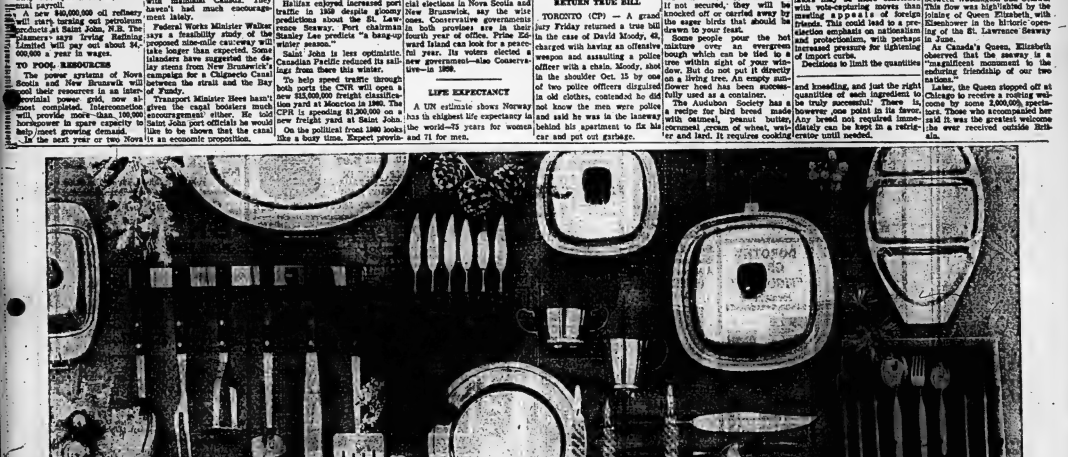
The Canadian fear is that legislators may be more concerned with vote-pulling moves than meeting appeals of foreign friends. This could lead to a pre-election emphasis on nationalism and protectionism, with perhaps increased pressure for tightening of import curbs.

Decisions to limit the quantities of goods which could be shipped into the U.S. would offset the advantages of tariff cuts. The U.S. has given wide publicity to its deficit in international trade in goods and services, but less known to the American public is that Canada also has its big bugs trade deficit, particularly in trade with the U.S.

It is clearly in Canada's interests to widen her markets in the U.S. But the U.S. government and Congress is under constant pressure by industry. Early in the new year, Congress will be studying reports to decide whether to recommend a boost in present import curbs on lead and zinc. California oil interests are clamoring to reduce or eliminate Canada's hard-won protection from U.S. oil import curbs. Another battle is likely to shape up in Congress on Chicago's proposal to divert more Great Lakes water for sewage.

Canada's need for more orders, particularly defence orders, was emphasized at a November meeting of Canadian and U.S. cabinet ministers at President Eisenhower's Camp David retreat.

CONTACTS EXPANDED



The U.S. agreed to do what it can to increase the flow to Canada. It also agreed, also under obvious Canadian insistence, to consult more with the smaller non-Atlantic powers on world negotiations, especially between East and West.

A new committee of Canadian and U.S. legislators began operations in 1959 in increasing attempts to resolve issues between the two neighbors.

The widening network of cross-border committees swelled the flow of cabinet and other officials between Washington and Ottawa. This flow was highlighted by the joining of Queen Elizabeth with Eisenhower in the historic opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway in June.

As Canada's Queen, Elizabeth observed that the seaway is a magnificent monument to the enduring friendship of our two nations.

Later, the Queen stopped off at Chicago to receive a rousing welcome by some 2,000,000 spectators. Those who accompanied her said it was the greatest welcome she ever received outside Britain.

Canadian Bond Market Down During Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian bond market was unsettled last week with shorter maturities going down from one-quarter to one half point.

The unsettling in the market can be explained partly by the $300,000,000 Canadian National Railways issue a week earlier.

The issues were quoted at 97¼ for the 25-year 5¼-per-cent bonds and 98 for the 5¼-per-cent five-year maturities. The long maturity was down one point from last week and the short - term bonds were off one - half point. Price restrictions are still in effect on sales to the public.

The 91-day bills came at an average rate of 5.02 per cent this week compared to 4.93 per cent a week ago. The longer 182-day bills were quoted at 5.32 per cent compared to the 5.12 a week ago.

The provincial market was rather quiet during the week and attracted little attention. Prices remained steady.

On the municipal market, sales were slower than a week ago but debenture offerings were numerous. Features issues included the $998,452 in debentures by the city of St. Catharines, and the $1,000,000 County of Lambton debentures, both of which yielded 4.40 per cent.

Charlie bought
A Christmas tree
That was dry
As it could be!
He didn't pet
The trunk in water—
He didn't even Know he ought to!

He didn't check
The lights before
He strung them round
The tree—the deer!

On Christmas Eve,
While smoking, he Set fire to the
Christmas tree!
He burned it
And his residence;
And lost his chance
For Christmas presents....

'Cause Santa couldn't End his trip—
Fire had ruined
His landing strip!

Christmastime brings extra fire hazards!

Remember to take extra precautions.

Best wishes for a happy accident-free holiday!

Shown Drug Firm Uses Only 14 Cents Worth of Raw Materials for Pills at $15

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate investigator said Saturday a large drug firm uses only 14 cents worth of raw materials to make a product it sells for $15.

"We figure this difference is about 10,000 per cent," said Rand Dixon, chief counsel of the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, in referring to a female ant hormone sold by the Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The firm's president, E. Gifford Upjohn, protested that the comparison was drawn between the raw material cost and the sale price of the finished product at retail outlets. Raw material is but a fraction of the cost, he said.

Upjohn said his firm's profits last year were 11.7 per cent on sales and 18 per cent on invested capital.

The subcommittee counsel went into the pricing of the hormone, known as progesterone, after telling the subcommittee the Upjohn firm sells an antiarthritic drug to pharmacists at a price 1,416 per cent above its bulk sale price.

Upjohn said this difference should not be described as a "markup." He said it is much more costly to sell from the manufacturer's tablet form for the retail trade than it is to sell it in bulk form.

Such things as administrative, selling, advertising and distribution expenses and taxes should be included as part of the "cost of doing business," Upjohn said.

Upjohn's testimony came as the Senate group neared the end of the first phase of an investigation into drug prices. Another round is planned for late next month.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) said the hearing recently has shown the need for new federal legislation. He told reporters it was too early to say what form the new laws should take.

In testimony on the hormone, Upjohn said only small amounts are sold and that other drug firms market it at about the same price. But Dixon said smaller firms sell it for as little as $2, compared to Upjohn's $10 price.

Dixon said during earlier testimony on the anti-arthritis drug that Upjohn last year sold Pro-Banthine in bulk form to the Schering Corporation at $2.37 a pound, and another major drug firm.

Upjohn said Upjohn charges druggists $35.80 for an equivalent amount of the drug — the same price for two bottles of 100 tablets each. Upjohn said the sale to Schering was at a profit.

Both Kefauver and Upjohn said the bulk sale price of Upjohn's female hormone is only below the $2.37 a gram charged last year. Kefauver said: "We want to know how much the price had been lowered."

Upjohn said his firm's prices to druggists on many products are still similar or identical to those of other large companies. But he said there were no consultations on prices by the big drug manufacturers.

CHICAGO (AP) — The chairman of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Associated said Saturday the industry's anti-trust subcommittee has produced no evidence of the actual profits of drug firms.

Austin Smith, president of Barter Laboratories Inc., said the pharmaceutical industry will spend $90 million on chemical research a year, only about 40 of which is spent on "new drugs."

"The new drugs marketed must help bear the cost of the unsuccessful research," he said.

Graham said his own company will spend more on research next year totalling about 90 per cent of the firm's net profit after taxes.

Cuban Priest Attacks Castro Over Church

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban priest, seeking political haven here, said, today that Fidel Castro wants the Roman Catholic Church in Cuba to separate from the Vatican.

Rev. Eduardo Aguirre Garcia said the Cuban premier has broached its edicts informally to Catholic clergy.

"He suggested that a national church be founded, independent of Rome," Aguirre said in an interview. "That is what they do in Communist countries to divide the church and weaken it."

Aguirre declined to name any churchmen as approached.

PEOPLE WOULD KNOW

"No true priest would do such a thing. Castro could found a church by himself, but the people know it was not the church without a priest."

Aguirre said the number of about 8,000,000 is more than 90 per cent Roman Catholic.

Aguirre and Rev. Juan Ramon O'Farrill said they came to Miami to flee the Castro regime. Catholic priests to seek political asylum outside revolutionary Cuba said they intend to denounce the Castro government as a Communist dictatorship.

Aguirre and O'Farrill spoke at an interview arranged by a radio station.

Father O'Farrill and I both worked with the revolutionists to overthrow dictator Fulgencio Batista," Father Aguirre said, but the Communists have taken over the revolution to their own purposes. Now it is dangerous for those of our ideals to remain in Cuba."

His Daughter's Former Friend Runs Him Down

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Hadlington, 34, told police Sunday night he clung for 1,000 feet to the hood of a car driven by his daughter's former boy friend before he was hurled to the street when the vehicle rounded a corner.

Police said Hadlington's daughter, Fred and the latter's wife were driving their niece home when they ran out of gas. Hadlington volunteered with a can of gas and Fred told him a short cut. Following them and was parked across the street.

Jim Hadlington said he saw his 16-year-old daughter's former boy friend and three youths inside the car. He said Fred "put it in gear, found it locked and turned away.

The car suddenly moved forward, hitting him. He fell on the hood.

The car swerved around a corner at about 30 miles an hour and he was thrown off," he said.

"As I left my right arm smashed through the driver's window grabbed a big gash."

It took nine stitches to close the wound.

Hadlington said the youth had been "continually bothering" his daughter Sandra since their breakup.

Donald Sparrey, 17, of suburban Lesside was charged with criminal negligence.

Greek Freighter Will Be Sold By Public Auction

DETROIT (CP) — A Greek freighter, apparently abandoned here by her owners, will be sold by public auction Dec. 28 to satisfy more than $100,000 in claims filed by her crew and creditors.

Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle has ordered the sale of the 42-year-old Theodoros A for the Detroit United States marshal's office.

The aged ship was seized on a writ of attachment Nov. 3. Creditors have filed claims for more than $50,000 against the vessel. The other $50,000 suit is being lodged by the crew for wages and expenses.

Only the captain, Vasilios Tyrakis, his wife and a steward remained aboard the ship, now docked at the Detroit Harbor Terminal, a group of 25 crew members left New York Friday aboard a ship bound for Greece. Three others were sent home previously.

The freighter's $300,000 cargo of Canadian and American wheat has been unloaded for transshipment by rail to Baltimore, where it will be loaded on another boat for shipment to Greece, original destination of the Theodoros A.

Green, Arriving in Paris, Hopes NATO Will Pick up Ball on Disarmament Issue

PARIS (CP)—Ecteral Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada arrived early today for a meeting of the North Atlantic Council and said he hopes NATO will pick up the ball where the United Nations left off on the subject of disarmament.

Green, Defence Minister George Pearkes and Finance Minister Donald Fleming arrived at Orly airport just after midnight in RCAF Comet jet airliner from Ottawa via Shannon, Ireland and Bay, Labrador.

The ministers stressed the importance that Canada placed on disarmament in the talks—beginning today—of the 15-nation NATO council.

They will be followed Saturday by the Western summit meeting of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle.

Green, Pearkes declared the job of assessing Soviet Prime Minister Khrushchev's UN proposals for total world disarmament within four years should not be made high priority at the NATO gathering.

Pearkes hoping that the new 10-nation committee on disarmament, of which Canada is a member, will begin work early next year," said Green, indicating that that is what they intend to do other countries to drag their feet.

Being a full-scale meeting of the committee—which has five Western members and five Iron Curtain countries—Green indicated he hopes the Western group at least will be further for pre-liminary discussions.

Green noted that the UN, in setting up the 10-nation committee which was formed by the great powers, decided to refer all disarmament proposals to the new body, including those of Khrushchev.

"Now, our main aims is to strengthen NATO and another is to assure that the voice of the Western nations are heard in the Western summit and in the later Eisenhower-Khrushchev and West," Green said.

He said he was happy about the performance at the UN, where the country had shown "considerable initiative."

He referred particularly to the talks between Turkey and Communist Poland for a seat on the Security Council, in which Canada backed Poland in opposition to the United States and Britain.

"I think we showed we will take up the seat we think is right," Green said.

Asked about a report that U.S. Gen. Nathan Twining had criticized some countries, particularly Britain, for failing to live up to their NATO commitments, Green said: "I don't think Britain or any are meeting their obligations.

But he indicated the Canadian defence chief didn't name Britain by name as it would only cause trouble.

Pearkes said it is usual "for all military men to criticize each other at a time like this" in advance of a council meeting.

NATO Ministers Gathering For 'Annual Review' Meet Amid Some Question Marks

PARIS (CP) — Leading NATO ministers open their December "annual review" meeting Tuesday amid a question-mark international climate.

Apart from the usual financial-military issues, the big political will be whether Russia's new belligerence represents a genuine change of line.

Some leaders argue that the Kremlin's present bristling approach represents merely a shift in tactics, but not in the latter's strategy remaining the same.

Another group considers Russia has a sick society and that no opportunity should be lost for the West to bring them to the negotiation.

Other NATO themes include a reappraisal of economic burdens among the 15-nation alliance and a call for "military residence."

BEHIND TARGETS

A changed setting 10 years ago, NATO has lagged behind its targets in men and arms. A prominent French officer admitted recently that only Canada and the United States have lived up to their commitments.

Pressure may be exerted on the other partners and there is a suggestion Britain will reverse an earlier decision to reduce her BAOR forces on the Continent.

Discussions on finance will produce NATO's argumental moves for the next financial crunch. The dollar gap has disappeared and the U.S. now has a balance-of-payments deficit.

Behind the meetings will be held before and after next Saturday's Western summit with Premier Khrushchev. Macmillan may force the pace in insisting that the Big Three agree on an early date for an East-West summit, perhaps in the last week of April.

There are signs that Britain's patience with President de Gaulle's delaying tactics is wearing thin.

Paraguayan Rebels Maintain Their Revolt Going Well

POSADAS, Argentina (AP) — Rebel Paraguayan sources say they have the military situation their neighboring homeland and are still waging successful guerrilla operations against the regime of President Alfredo Stroessner.

Stroessner's government in Asuncion claimed the revolt has been crushed.

The rebels, reported by their spokesmen here to number about 1,000, crossed border rivers from Brasil and Argentina Saturday and were reported to be fighting astride the city of Encarnacion, a river port of about 30,000 lying 186 miles southeast of the capital of Asuncion.

The rebel spokesmen said their forces have split up into at least three groups. One group operates around ports on the Parana River. The rebels said the river separating Argentina and Paraguay, had been mined, apparently by the government troops.

The rebels were reported to have attacked the hall at the Puerto Stroessner and been driven off by government troops. Stroessner is a former army general.

Encarnacion is nine from 15 to 200 apparently have spread out from the region of Asuncion, Paraguay and begun harassing Paraguayan government troops and gunning the malaatay of Stroesmer's dictatorship.

Government officials in Asuncion characterized the self-styled rebels as "bandits" and "agents of political deliquents." They contended the rebels dispatches and said that mopping-up operations were continuing successfully.

The patrolmen rushed to the car and pulled open a door.

Foreman was calmly peeling a tangerine.

Two Boys Missing

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A search by provincial police and conservation officers was launched along St. Mary's River for two 16-year-old boys who left in a canoe Saturday night and did not return.

The boys were reported Sunday beached in St. Joseph's Channel. Missing are Tom Hall and Don Stone of Sault Ste. Marie.

JUSTIE DIES

QUEBEC (CP) — Hon. George Farar Gibsone, 84, a justice of the Superior Court of Quebec since 1918, died in hospital Saturday night following a short illness. Born in Quebec City, he was an alderman thru 1911-1919 and was elected to Quebec Protestant board of school commissioners 1913-1924.

26 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Traffic mishaps accounted for 18 of the 26 accidental deaths across Canada during the weekend. Only two provinces — Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan—escape fatalities.

Ontario led the list with seven traffic deaths and one person killed in a fall, a Canadian Press survey showed.

The count, from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday, includes motor accidents, drownings and other accidents connected with weekend activities.

Two of Quebec's six violent deaths occurred on the roads. There also was a fatal fall, a drowning upset, a shooting and a person killed in a car-repairing accident.

Other provincers reporting highway deaths were British Columbia with three, Manitoba with two and Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Alberta with one each.

Newfoundland and Nova Scotia each had a hunting fatality. In Ontario a child was drowned after falling through ice while skating.

The Fatalities Listed:

Clifford Kilby, 14, Pembroke, struck by night train as he lay on Highway 17 at Pembroke.

Lloyd Sproule, 21, Hagarsville township, Friday night when struck by a car while crossing Highway 3 near Hagarsville Falls.

Orve J. Heine, 77, Anderdon township, Saturday night when struck by a car on Highway 18 near Amherstburg.

Donald Corporon, 25, Coniston, Sudbury district, Sunday was riding in went out of control and hit a pole south of Sudbury.

Heinz Jaeger, 23, London, Sunday when his car hit an abutment on the outskirts of London.

Stanley Jurabek, 5, London, Saturday when he fell 25 feet to the pavement from an eighth-floor hotel room in Hamilton.

David Lockhart, 15, Kenora, Saturday when his car was in collision with a car on Highway Kenora and Keewatin.

Percy Kinsman, believed from Tillsonburg, Friday night when his car collided with a car on Highway 1 at Cortland.

Prison Warden Shoots Two Men Who Stab Guard

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Three prisoners, one of them a two-time killer, stabbed a guard and took over the cell block in Washington state prison during visiting hours Sunday. They were subdued after the warden grabbed a gun and shot two of them.

Warden Ralph Rhay, 54, was moved by a frightened clerk in an outer corridor and rushed to the scene from a hesitant guard and shot Richard D. Peirron, 39, and George Milton Atkins, 31. Convict John J. Regan, quickly surrendered.

Peterson, apparently the ringleader, was shot in the chest and heart and died in critical condition today. Guard Gorman Barnhart was nailed in the back by Milter, was in serious condition. Barnhart's condition was said to be satisfactory.

Rhay said that when he arrived on the scene, Miller was holding a knife on Barnell. The guard's back was covered with blood.

IGNORES ORDER

A second guard in an inner security cage nearby had his gun but ignored the warden's order to shoot. Rhay grabbed the man's pistol.

"I told Miller: 'Drop that knife or you're dead.'

"He shot at him. He still had the knife on the guard. I walked over to point blank range.

"He still held the knife. I shot again.

"Then I released Barnett and crawled into a corner."

Rhay said Peterson, who killed his father and a policeman four years ago, came through the door the visitors' room with a knife in his hand. Rhay shot him. He died later.

Miller — the first bullet only creased his arm — jumped up and ran into the outer corridor. Rhay fired again and Miller collapsed at the front door of the building.

The abortive escape attempt began when the trio gained entrance to the administration building, which forms one wall of the prison, and contains the visitor's room.

Iran Praised by Eisenhower For Refusing to Stand Idle In Fight Against Communism

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — President Eisenhower, after another tumultuous welcome, lauded Iran today for refusing to stand idle as Communists in the fight against communism.

Eisenhower praised Iran's bravery in the face of a "powerful propaganda assault" a few hours after a cheering, flag-waving throng of 750,000 hailed his arrival in Tehran, half - way point on his mission of peace and good will.

In an address to a joint session of Iran's parliament, the president said the people of Iran "continue to demonstrate that quality of fortitude which has characterized the long annals of your history as a nation."

Eisenhower arrived after the parliament after a two-hour private review with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi through the streets of Iran, a southern neighbor of the Soviet Union. The president told the legislators the free world must not abandon such defence measures as the Baghdad pact, Central Treaty Organization—to which Iran belongs—and the Soviet Union agrees to an enforceable world peace.

EISENHOWER ARRIVES

At the airport, as Iranian air force jets supplied by the United States flashed overhead, Emperor Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi said to his guest:

"It is good you have come to our country at such a time when two countries have brought security, democracy and freedom to their people."

The president in reply recalled that in his former capacity as Supreme Allied Iran was then known—"was a land of wonder and romance for an Irish colleague who lived on the plains of Kansas."

Recalling the Iranian people's protection against the sub-freezing weather, the president told them he saved to the Iranian people and the shah drove in an open automobile.

More security forces were out by far than in any of the other five countries the president so far has visited.

Soldiers stood all along the route at about six-foot intervals, bayonetted rifles at the shoulder, periscopes of other military units with rub-machine-gun fire-power covered the roofs. Police, kept crowds from balconies overlooking the route.

HOLDS TALKS

Within 15 minutes of their arrival at the residence of the palace, the ruler and the president began a two-hour review of cold war problems and the state of the vast pressure on Iran.

The president scheduled talks lasted less than six hours in Tehran before departing for Greece, the next stop on his airliner brought Eisenhower to Tehran from New Delhi, where before dawn he wound up a triumphal four-day visit to India.

Sunday night more than a million Indians massed in Ram Lila Maidan between the old and New Delhi, to hear the president once more.

"We believe that freedom will be won everywhere," Eisenhower said. "The hunger for it is far too deep-seated to be put off by a contrived definition or a manmade philosophy."

"Freedom, as Gandhi said, is a gift of God and God's gift cannot forever be kept from his children."

Prime Minister Nehru said the turnout was the greatest civic reception he had ever seen. He told the president he left India with "a piece of our heart."

Eisenhower arrived on the talks between Nehru and Eisenhower will center on Indian and Pakistan problems for the president and assured Eisenhower of a full support in his "unremitting efforts in the cause of peace."

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the two leaders discussed India's border disputes with Red China and relations between India and Pakistan, including their long-standing dispute over Kashmir. He added U.S. military support in the event of a Chinese attack on India was not discussed.

President Takes Good-Look at Taj Mahal

AGRA, India (AP) — President Eisenhower fulfilled a lifelong ambition Sunday as he gazed in awe at India's Taj Mahal — "this temple of love," he called it.

He told Prime Minister Nehru quietly, "I read about this when I was a very little boy in Kansas and I have always dreamed of coming to it. It is one of the things I have looked forward to on this trip more than anything else. It is much the most wonderful than I ever thought it would be."

The gold-plated mogul emperor Sha Jahan built the Taj Mahal 300 years ago as a memorial to his young empress, who died giving birth to her 14th child.

About 100,000 Indians jammed the grounds to see Eisenhower and Shrimati Eisenhower all along the route from Agra Airport.

Jane's Fighting Ships Says Russia Believes Its Fleet Can Cut Atlantic Lifeline

LONDON (Reuters) — Jane's one - atomic-powered submarine, Fighting Ships, the authoritative another in an advanced stage of naval reference book, says the construction and a third being Soviet Union believes its fleet launched. Seven of Russia's 15 would be able to cut the Atlantic submarines were reported to be lifeline between North America building in the Baltic.

and Britain in the event of war.

The 1958-59 edition of the annual, published today, was compiled by Captain (Retd.) Fred T. Jane and Raymond Blackburn, the United States tour that Russia was scrapping 90 per cent of its cruisers.

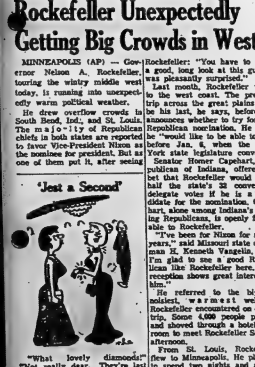
In a foreword to the new edition, Jane's says special emphasis is to the reduced role of the cruiser in the fighting navies of the world — particularly the United States and Britain.

But Jane's reported surprise at Khrushchev's statement, since he came here last September, that was built during the last few years.

The publication suggested the Russian decision meant the Soviet Union now would concentrate on increasing its fleet of nuclear submarines.

Jane's reported that Russia has little missiles.

Russia's objective, said Jane's, is to "cut the Atlantic lifeline, to isolate Great Britain and the United States control of the seas, to destroy sea-borne and land power and induce the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to give up its policy of hostile operations."



Russia was not slow to follow the example of the German Admiral Doenitz who in 1939 prejudged that Great Britain could be brought to her knees by the destruction of her merchant shipping by submarines in the Atlantic.

Jane's predicted that the nuclear-powered submarine will become the backbone of the battleship of the future. It said the U. S. Navy planned to have a fleet of 75 nuclear subs by 1967, some 40 of which would be armed with ballistic missiles.

Rockefeller Unexpectedly Getting Big Crowds in West

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, touring the wintry middle west today, is running into unexpectedly warm political weather.

He drew overflow crowds in South Bend, Ind., and St. Louis. The man a lot of Republican chiefs in both states are reported to favor Vice-President Nixon as the nominee for president. But as one of them put it, after seeing "What lovely diamonds!" "Not really dear. They're last years."

Rockefeller: "You have to take a good, long look at this guy. I was pleasantly surprised."

Last month, Rockefeller went to the west coast. The present Republican governor there is under the gun for two bottles of 100 tablets each. Upjohn said the sale to Schering was at a profit.

Both Kefauver and Upjohn said the bulk sale price of Upjohn's female hormone is only below the $2.37 a gram charged last year. Kefauver said: "We want to know how much the price had been lowered."

Upjohn said his firm's prices to druggists on many products are still similar or identical to those of other large companies. But he said there were no consultations on prices by the big drug manufacturers.

Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle has ordered the sale of the 42-year-old Theodoros A for the Detroit United States marshal's office.

The aged ship was seized on a writ of attachment Nov. 3. Creditors have filed claims for more than $50,000 against the vessel. The other $50,000 suit is being lodged by the crew for wages and expenses.

Only the captain, Vasilios Tyrakis, his wife and a steward remained aboard the ship, now docked at the Detroit Harbor Terminal, a group of 25 crew members left New York Friday aboard a ship bound for Greece. Three others were sent home previously.

The freighter's $300,000 cargo of Canadian and American wheat has been unloaded for transshipment by rail to Baltimore, where it will be loaded on another boat for shipment to Greece, original destination of the Theodoros A.

The Problem of Bird Control

When I was a little boy my father used to regale me with stories of the way in which he would collect the main ingredient for robin pot-pie, which was an annual table delicacy in Maryland when he was a boy.

In the fall of the year when the robins were migrating south, the flocks would gather in the trees near my father's home. Armed with a 10-gauge shotgun and with No. 10 shot, he would take his position near a known roosting tree. One cherry of bird shot, properly placed, usually was enough to do the job.

These would cover the task of gathering dead birds, running down cripples and, finally, the endless chore of picking and cleaning the spoils of the chase. He declared, however, that the labor soon was forgotten, once the dish appeared on the table. It was delicious.

There are other birds which lend themselves to the making of pates, notably the redwinged blackbird. Since North American was first settled, the Yellow Rail has rated top position as a tasty item of table fare. The Rail is fellow also to called rice bird and reed bird, depending on whether you get him in Maryland, Virginia or the Carolinas.

Of course, Birds and Federal conservation laws now protect these birds as does the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. No longer do they turn up in potpie or sautéed on toast. Now they are slaves from agricultural and conservation agencies throughout the nation were in attendance.

"You would think," wrote Tom, that the job of keeping blackbirds and starlings out of your orchard would be a serious one. After all, these birds are small and quick. Well, talk to a resident of Philadelphia or Baltimore or Washington and see what they have to say about our little feathered friends; It won't be long until you regard the little devils with a completely humanized eye. During migration time the flocks of starling, blackbirds, robins, etc., actually are a major problem in these cities.

A friend of mine owns and operates a regulated shooting preserve on Long Island, New York State. He tells me that starlings are the bane of his existence. Not only must he feed what appears to be an army of hungry mouths, but also, he must feed them in such a way that the birds which have been specially reared in order to keep them on his own acreage.

A SHOCKING DEVICE

Each day he and his men fill the feeding troughs. That is when the starling show up. They come, by the thousands, led by the tens of thousands. Unfar various natural means to kill starlings a few of these robbers. With the aid of the shocking device attached to a metal feeding trough, he can exterminate from a thousand to five thousand birds at a single time.

Not only do such methods fail to make a noticeable dent in the supply; also, there is the disposal problem set up by the truckloads of dead starling. He figures that in one way or another the starlings eat between $1,000 and $1,500 worth of grain each year.

Rams' Coach Asked to Quit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sid Gillman, in a dressing room press conference last reseanded a wake, disclosed Saturday that he was asked to quit as head football coach of Los Angeles Rams.

"The ownership of the Rams told me I should resign and I agreed," he said. "I just didn't go and resign."

An earlier announcement by a club spokesman gave the impression that Gillman had resigned by his own decision. The spokesman said Gillman had advised the team before it took the field against Baltimore Colts in a National Football League game that he would not be with the club in 1960.

Names mentioned as possible successors include Wayne Robinson, coach of B.C. Lions who resigned a contract Friday to head the same club another four seasons and Jim Trimble, coach of Hamilton Tiger - Cats. However, the top name to crop up in the coaching derby was Bob Waterfield, former Rams quarterback.

Hog cost him somewhere between three and five thousand dollars a year.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports that there is vital need for much basic research before any kind of bird control can be attacked intelligently. Scare devices, such as the automatic carbide cannon which exploded every minute or so, have been giving some relief, but do not provide effective relief for any length of time or over any large area. Because of lack of funds, many fields of research have been untapped — chemical repellents, chemical sviricides which are somewhat selective to the pest species in question, and biological controls. All these need study.

Meanwhile, Mr. Ernest Vaughn of the Maryland Game and Inland Fisheries Commission, representing the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners, came up with the idea of opening up the hunting season on blackbirds. Of course, strenuous objection was raised by some representatives of other organizations, but generally it was conceded that the idea has merit.

Maybe, before too much time has passed, we can join our forefathers in the appreciation of a regal dish of blackbird potpie. come migration time. Reports have it that it tastes mighty fine.

OHA Orders

Maroons Pay Commitments Or Face Loss of Franchise; Have Until Wed. Night

TORONTO (CP)—Chatham Maroons have been served an ultimatum to pay up all monies due the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit on pain of being disenfranchised.

They have until Wednesday midnight to post a $2,000 bond which should have been deposited before the season started, and turn in 10 per cent of all their gates up to the present time for use in the league pool.

The remaining four clubs in the circuit, Windsor, Whitby, Belleville and Kitchener - Waterloo, voted Saturday unanimously for drastic action against the Maroons in a senior council meeting.

The Maroons were not represented. The meeting was informed that co-manager Johnny Horeck had been ordered out of attend but the official reason was pressure of business.

The other clubs and OHA officials, stressed their belief that the move would not deprive Chatham fans of senior hockey. It is aimed at the present executive who still either have to do as they agreed to before the season started or find themselves out of business.

WILL HELP REORGANIZE

It was indicated that in the event the present executive does not pay up as ordered the league will help Chatham reorganize and continue with a new group in control.

Other operators were particularly bitter about Chatham's frequent claim that they will withdraw if they don't get a better arena rental basis and if the attendance doesn't pick up.

They claimed that these "scare" stories, which appeared to be part of pressure on Chatham groups to win concessions, were hurting attendances all over the league.

Chatham's average attendance, better than 1,688 by Maroon admission, is considered, at Chatham price scales, to be enough to operate the club right now without a deficit "if the team is being operated properly under the salary limit."

"Chatham is too good a hockey town to have to put up with this sort of management," said Whitby's Frank Blake.

George Dudley, treasurer of the OHA, said that the time had come to take a stand.

GREAT WEAKNESS

"The great weakness in senior hockey over the years is that you are always trying to keep someone in every time they make a threat. If you had faced up to the issue on the pool last year and told the NOHA clubs they were either paying or you would have to play with them, this entire situation would never have arisen."

Chatham's payments to the pool could be as much as $3,500 to $3,000.

The pool to which four teams are contributing, is in a healthy condition. Pool administrator Lorne Cook of Kingston reported that there was more than $4,300 in the kitty, 71 will be continued regardless of what happens in Chatham.

If the Chatham club is suspended all its players are frozen and will be disposed of by draft to other clubs in the league at a price determined by them.

The senior clubs have been told to stand by for an emergency meeting in Kitchener on Wednesday night.

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Tuchin scored 23 points and led St. Lawrence to a 72-62 basketball victory over Queens University Saturday. Queens took an eight - point lead early in the game, but by the time the half was over St. Lawrence had 38-36. The teams been snatched the edge until the final whistle.

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Clarkson sank two last - second foul shots Saturday night to give Lawrence Institute of Technology Blue Devils a 76-68 win over the University of Toronto Blues in an exhibition basketball game here. Blue Devils led 67-62 at the half but Toronto came on in the second half as their six-foot, five-inch centre Jim Maguire poured in 26 points.

Mayor, Reporter Stage Feud In North Quebec Community

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP)—A hockey rink squabble has touched off a bitter, slandering feud between Mayor Hubert Murray and a hard-boiled newspaper man in this fast-growing community in the Laurentian foothills.

The controversy has stirred up many of the 25,000 inhabitants, split the city council and sparked notice of a $25,000 damage action by the newspaper man, athletic - looking Marc Fortin, 26.

Tall, 178-pound Fortin is a reporter and co-owner with his uncle of the 8,000 - circulation French - language weekly L'Echo du Nord (Echo of the North).

At the insistence of 61-year-old Mayor Murray, Fortin has twice been ejected from the council chambers at city hall and has been banned from attending council meetings.

Two constables quietly escorted Fortin from the chamber the first time. But when Murray ordered the second expulsion—saying he was acting on "authority given to me by God" — two councillors complained and sponsored a motion against the mayor's action.

But Fortin was removed nonetheless and councillors stomped from the room in protest. One argued Murray's action was "the gesture of a dictator" and the other remarked "my presence is futile."

A consulting engineer by profession, Mayor Murray has since allowed another reporter from L'Echo du Nord to sit in on council meetings.

And Fortin's damage notice pertains to matters apart from the expulsions. He claims Murray slandered him during a council meeting and in a letter to Laurentian householders in this community 35 miles north of Montreal.

The pair first came to grips after the official opening of the hockey season at the St. Jerome arena Oct. 25.

In the next issue of Fortin's newspaper an article appeared criticizing civic authorities and the arena administration for the ice condition.

The article said someone had obviously turned off the rink's refrigeration system. But arena officials said the ice was soft because of high temperatures

Minor Hockey Notes

Barons, Maple Leafs, Canadiens, Red - Wings and Rangers were winners in the bantam division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena Saturday morning.

Barons blanked the Black Hawks 4-0, Bill McCormack, Bob Leppan, Ron Post and Harold Bachock scored one goal apiece for the winners while Wilkinson drew the game's only assist.

Maple Leafs decisioned the Bruins 3-1. Pat Glancy, Martin Walsh and Billy Angove triggered the Leaf goals, Cullen Dybke helping on one. Dwight Rathwell replied for the Bruins, aided by Billy Goodfellow.

Canadiens squeezed by the Mocs 3-1 on Denny Fraser's unassisted goal. Junior Golka also scored with Harry Tuchmayer assisting. Lawrence Pollock was the lone Mac marksman.

Bill Dovey scored a brace of goals to lead Red Wings to a 6-3 victory over the Browns. Marvin Mountney and Jim Mairs had a goal apiece while Francis Bean drew an assist. Doug Stickle, Bob Skinner and Jim Meens paired the Browns' goals, Jim Pointer and Ken Rydman earning assists.

Rangers copped a 3-1 win over Quins. Bob Ethier, Bill Leslie and Tom Dolan fired the winners' goals, Bill Leslie helping on one, Pete Mitchell had Quinte's goal.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

We heard some facts about Egyptian mummies, and made some notes on the lesser known information which we thought you'd find interesting.

As you know, the Egyptians were preserving their dead long before many other parts of the world had reached a civilized state, and they had it down to a science.

For example, the soles of the feet of females, when surveyed after as much as 3000 years, were still soft and elastic.

Historians estimate that by 700 A.D., when the practice finally died out among the Egyptians had embalmed approximately 730 million bodies, almost one third as many people now living in the entire world, or more than thirteen times the number of all the people now living in the United States.

Of course many have been destroyed, or over the centuries disintegrated in the tropical heat of northern Africa, but several million are estimated to still be preserved in undiscovered tombs and burial places.

It is our job to provide you with a car that will stand up under today's conditions and traffic, and then to preserve it for you so that you get the most in use over a longer than normal period. And this is the job that we've got down to a science . . . and we do so for you most economically.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"The proo wen't BE a finger in hole, over if they could. The Canadian Amateurs, Intelligencer may overstate, the Ontario senior "A" hockey league, at least, wasn't let the Dutchmen down."

Wren Blair tossed back his blonde wandering forelock with a shake of his head. We were talking hockey shop in the Dunsies' dressing room some two weeks back.

Blair agreed with this reporter that the carnival edition of the Dutchmen wouldn't stand much chance against the Russians and Czechs, not even the Swedes, let alone the United States.

"The Russians will skate and pass this club into the ice, and the Czechs will make monkeys out of them," was the Blairian opinion. We agreed.

At that time the Dutchies were seeking the services of Blair's pal, scout, Bobby Attersley. They had "approved" Bobby, and were trying to get goalie Harry Edwards as a stand-by for veteran Basil Hurley.

The big-hearted pros of the National Hockey League who screamed to high heaven the other day when one of their ilk exposed the NHL's hypocritical attitude on cold cur in the Dutchmen players, including Dick Maitland and Bill Sanderson, a couple of youngsters who could have easily enjoyed no other income in their rookie year.

"It leaks," said Blair, rubbing his chin fast, "that the senior clubs will have to help the Dutchies. It also leaks like we are the only hockey organization in the country who gives a tinker's damn about Canada in the an Olympic title."

Truer words were never spoken. And after what the Dunlops' management did the other night at Kitchener, our columnar chapeau is doffed to the Whitehall outfit who has his fingers in at least three organized hockey pies.

As is now known, Blair gave the Dutchies the services of Attersley, Samalenko, Etcher, said to be one of the best offensive trios in senior hockey, and defenceman Harry Sinden, easily one of the top two-percenters in the business.

However, for all the magnanimous gesture, Blair is pretty confident his Dunsies will end up in a playoff berth. They should. They have played 23 of the scheduled 24 games and had 16 victories, 6 losses, seven points out of the second place Chatham Maroons.

However, the Dutchmen are not in too enviable a position. They completed the first half of their 48-game schedule Saturday night. The news of the Dunlops' Whitehall acquisitions came in the written, but regardless of a win or loss the Gunsen men must needs look some wins under their belt to obtain a playoff berth. And it should be remembered that their final league game comes with other teams of the circuit are each good for four points. The Dutchies' playoff spot can be made or broken in the eight-game series.

The Maos missed a good chance to pick up some much-needed points Saturday night when they bowed to the Dunlops. They have now played 25 of their 56 scheduled games and are eleven points in arrears of the Windsor Bulldogs.

They do not play again until Friday night when they entertain the Bulldogs in what is a "four-pointer" for both clubs. The Maos need the victory badly and it is hoped the Fans will set out and support them in an all-Intelligencer pentimonial battle.

And don't forget the Macs' Booster Club is coming a party after the game Friday night. Both teams will be entertained at the Elks Club hall and lots of fun and a victory party for the Macs. Club members only are invited and the admission is their membership ticket.

Power Failure Halts Game At Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

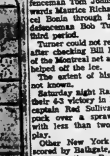
The lights went out at Kingston Saturday night as a result of a power failure and the game was called at midnight when the lights were still off.

The game will be completed Saturday, Jan. 16, when Belleville next plays at Kingston. The teams will have to use the same players.

Frontenacs still managed to go into a tailspace tie with Smiths Stc. Marie Thunderbirds, however, by whipping Hull - Ottawa Canadiens 7-4 Sunday. Soo lost 3-0 to Trois-Rivieres Lions Saturday, their fifth straight defeat.

Sudbury continues to lead the league with 38 points though dropping a 5-3 decision to the Royals in Montreal Sunday.

Hull-Ottawa failed to gain any ground but remained in second place with 31 points, three ahead of Trois-Rivieres, whose win over Thunderbirds kept them one point ahead of Montreal.



Coach Don Grosso quit Thunderbirds Thursday, when they lost 8-3 to Kingston, saying he was dissatisfied with the team's performance in the last month. He has lost six of its last two games by one goal.

Hockey Hints

by Lloyd Percival

"A SKATING SECRET"

Skating is the key fundamental of hockey. Most players fail to make the "big leagues" because of skating faults than for any other reason.

A common fault is inability to "cut" squarely well to either side. This limits skill and mobility. Most players cut better to the left because skating on public rinks is done to the left.

Sports Collyer's hints show that only top hockey players move equally well to either side — so can they are tops.

In testing a player we time him on a course which is a 60 ft. square, first to the left and then to the right. Gordon Howe is equally fast both ways. Most young players are much slower skating to the right.

A good drill is to skate a figure-8 frequently. Start with straight runs to goal and gradually make it smaller. Skating in squares is good too.

Improved skating can help your hockey more than anything else.

Rangers, Wings Score Twin Wins Over Weekend

Detroit Back in Second Spot After Dumping Habs, Leafs; Broadway Blues Bop Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Form outlook was considerably brighter today for New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings, after they completed weekend sweeps in National Hockey League action.

Rangers defeated Boston twice by 4-3 scores and moved to within five points of the fourth place Bruins.

Detroit reoccupied second place by defeating Canadiens 3-2 in Montreal Saturday night and returned home to whip Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3 Sunday night. Red Wings now trail the league leading Canadiens by six points.

Chicago Black Hawks came close to a sweep. They trimmed Leafs 4-3 in Toronto Saturday night but had to settle for a 4-4 tie with the visiting Canadiens Sunday night and fell back into the cellar, one point behind Rangers.

TWO GAMES IN HAND

New York and Chicago have played two less games than the slipping Bruins, who have won only two of their last 16 games.

Red Wings came from behind Sunday night to run their unbeaten string to five games. They have had one tie, Leafs' Frank Provonost, at an 80-foot shot, and Red Kelly and rookie Murray Oliver to thank.

Jack McIlhargey scored Detroit's goals against Leafs. Bob Pulford and Johnny Wilson scored for Leafs, who twice had one-goal leads.

The result gave Detroit a three-point edge over Toronto in the standings. Leafs, who have not lost four straight, are seven points ahead of Boston.

RANGERS WEARS MASK

Coach Milt Schmidt put Don Simmons back in the nets Sunday for Bruins' night's engagement in New York—and Simmons wore a mask—but Rangers were not to be denied.

Ranger rookie Ken Schinkel scored the winner with less than four minutes left to play. Dean Prentice, who scored two goals in his eighth and ninth in seven games — and Andy Bathgate scored New York's other goals. Larry Leach, Charlie Burns and Bronco Horvath replied for the Bruin marksmen.

Bruins were without Bronco Horvath, the league's top scorer, Fleming Mackell, Fern Flaman and Don Ward, all out with injuries.

It was Simmons' first game since Nov. 12. Harry Lumley had been Bruins' goalie in their last 13 games.

Chicago defenceman Dollard St. Laurent scored a goal of the season produced the tie against Montreal Sunday night. It came late in the third period while Hawks were short-handed, using only four players.

ONE FROM 300 CLASS

Ted Sloan, who boosted his NHL career total to 199 goals, Bobby Hull and Eric Nesterenko scored Chicago goals. Bobby Geoffrion boosted his career total to 296 with two goals. They got Montreal's. Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau also scored for Canadiens who went through their sixth straight game without a win.

Canadiens' only defenceman Doc Seaman Tom Johnson and forwards Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion hurt through injuries, lost defenceman Bob Turner in the third period.

Turner could not regain his feet after checking Bill Hay in front of the Montreal net and had to be helped off the ice.

The extent of his injury was not known.

Saturday night Rangers gained their 4-3 victory in Boston when captain Red Sullivan lifted the puck past Montreal-loaned Lumley with less than two minutes to play.

Other New York goals were scored by Bathgate, Bill Gadsby and Andy Hebenton. Boston scorers were Leach, Jean-Guy Gendron and Don McKenney.

Red Wings outskated Canadiens most of the way for Saturday night victory in Montreal. Alex Delvecchio, Val Fonteyne and Gerry Melnyk scored for Wings. Phil Goyette and Belliveau for Canadiens.

Two goals by Sloan, one of them fired into an empty net in the last minute of play, led Black Hawks to their 4-3 win in Toronto.

Nesterenko and Stan Mikita were the other Chicago goalgetters. Frank Stewart got both Toronto goals.

In the next league game Boston will be at Chicago Wednesday night.

Seven-Point Spread Covers Top Junior Four

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In the first division of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series, nobody's position is secure.

Only a seven - point spread covers the top four teams which have been jockeying all season. Toronto Marlboros have a three-point cushion in first place but a single game would change the status of the other three.

It was Barrie Flyers' turn Saturday to move up. They upset Guelph 5-4 with a win over St. Michael's College Majors at Toronto to move into possession of second place, two points ahead of the Majors and four up on Guelph Biltmores.

The Marlboros won Sunday's other game at Toronto, retaining all their goals in the first period to defeat Hamilton Tiger - Cubs 5-1.

PETES WALLOPED

At St. Catharines Saturday the TecPees blasted Peterborough Petes 5-1 to move within five points of the fifth-place Petes.

With a little more than four minutes remaining in the first game at Toronto John Miller scored the winning goal for Barrie Flyers, who had come from behind to tie the score on Pierre Gendron's goal. The game was time of Gagne's shot Barrie was playing a man short.

Bob Avney scored the first goal of the game for Flyers mid-way through the second period only to have Gene Rebellato match it before the period ended.

Bruce Draper gave St. Michael's a 2-1 lead in 1:6 of the third period but Barrie battled back, which took five of the nine penalties called, scored it up.

TWO FOR MARTIN

In the other game, Jack Martin scored two for Marlboros with singles coming from Sonny Osborne, Gary Jarrett, Dickie Hay, Goaltender Ken Broderick's shutout was foiled by Hamilton's Neil Ford at 9:44 of the third period.

Marlboros, who outshot the cellar-dwelling Cubs 36-31, were handed nine of 13 penalties during the second game of the doubleheader watched by 3,324 fans.

TecPees' Duke Harris scored two goals Saturday, Bryan Cullen, Murray Hall, John Brenner, Stan Weir, Hatfield, Chino Maki and Larry Burns got the others. Claude Larose scored for Peterborough.

St. Catharines was in command all the way, taking an early 2-0 lead, making it 4-1 by the end of the first period and 5-1 by the end of the second.

The win was the fourth so far this season for the Port Arthur native. It was Peterborough's sixth loss in seven games.

Trenton Scores 2 in Each Frame, Racks up 6-2 Win Over Belleville

Trenton Lafferty Bees potted two strikes and a spare in each of the first and third periods on their way to a 6-2 victory over Belleville Lambert-Rollins in an OHA Junior "B" fixture in Trenton last night.

The Lambert-Rollins will entertain Picton Merchants in a league tilt at Belleville Memorial Arena tonight at 8.30 p.m.

The home side built their 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Lewis and Short. Santamore and Belleville never got closer than two goals thereafter. Ken Lewis fired in 2:56 for Trenton at 10.30 of the second with Bucky Ethier getting that one back for Belle at 11.15. Westfall, assigned Trenton's fourth at 14.05 while Ralph Plaxton fired the final Lambert-Rollins goal at 19.39, leaving his club trailing 4-2 going into the last period. Hess looked after both Trenton markers in the third, making it 5-2 at 3.06 and closing the scoring at 7.30.

The game was clean for a junior affair. Belleville drawing three minors and a major while Trenton picked up just two minors and a five-minute misconduct. Referee Hanley collected majors for fighting at 15.43 of the second period.

Hess with two goals and one assist led the Trenton cast. Lewis, Short and Westfall had singletons with Yardy earning two assists. Ethier, Lavender, Jones and Yome one apiece.

Ralph Plaxton topped Belleville scoring ace and assisting on the other by Ethier. Moe Hunter also got a pair of assists.

Smith in the Trenton goal was called on to make 28 saves while both he and Monzon of Belleville had plenty of work to do on the defence.

Lineups — Belleville: Monzon, Manns, Hall, Gilmour, Goyer, Hunter, Kerrulish, Ethier, Pisne, Himler, Rowbotham, Forsythe, Hall, Gill, Mackie, McCoy.

Trenton: Smith, Jones, Platter, Short, Lewis, Yardy, Lavender, Westfall, Hess, Lavender, Ellis, Yome, Payette, Titterson, Ellis (Jones).

McFarlands Drop 5-0 Verdict To Whitby Dunlops

Macs Lacked Offensive Fire That Sparked Previous Tilts; Hildebrand, Payette Missing

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The front-running Whitby Dunlops snapped Belleville McFarlands' winning streak at two games in Whitby Saturday night, handing the Maroons their first defeat of the season, as they blanked the Macs 5-0 in the second and added a final pair in the third. The winners had much the better of the play as the McFarlands appeared to lack the drive that sparked them to convincing 7-3 and 5-3 victories earlier in the week.

Long" John Henderson who had a rather soft job in collecting his third shutout of the season, said against the Macs, was called on for little work in comparison with Cesare Maniago in the Belleville cage. He did pull off a couple of "steals" on Ken Ormerod and Ronnie Payette when the latter two circled and ruined the goose egg when he bounced one off a goal post. Maniago played his usual fine game and the press box opinion was that Whitby must have doubled the Macs' shots-on-goal total.

Bobby Attersley scored two of the Dunlops' goals, Bobby Hassard at 19.40 sandwiched the fistcuff.

Belleville: goal, Maniago; defence, Ormerod, Kennedy; forwards, Benoit, Solby; forwards, Gribbons, Gagnon, Brown, Bradley Muir, Boucher, Smrke, Toppazzini, Marineau, MacDonald.

Whitby: goal, Henderson; defence, Ted O'Connor, Sinden, McHolin; forwards, Hassard, Rabando, Pogue, Attersley, Kane, Etcher, Myles, Tom O'Connor, Air, Darling, Reich.

Referee — Hugh MacLean of Hamilton.

Linesmen — John Sullivan and Al Barnes.

First Period
Whitby Rabando (Air Hassard)	10.19
Whitby Attersley (Pogue)	14.39
Penalties: Muir, Benoit.
Second Period
Whitby Air (Rabando)	19.47

Sugar Ray Fights Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, the dapper dancing master from the wicked city of New York, tonight is scheduled to put his flitty wares on display for the Boston folks in 10 rounds.

Robinson, a sometimes champion of the world on parts of it—hasn't fought since he regained his world middleweight title from Randy Turpin at London's Battle Stadium, Sept. 25, 1951.

The National Boxing Association has stripped Ray of his title but is trying hard to get the world champion in New York and Massachusetts.

Ray, if he will take on Bob Young, the New England lightheavyweight champion from Providence, R.I., is an overnight, non-title 10-round bout.

REPORT LOSS

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders Sunday reported a loss of $27,500 on operations during the 1953 season. The deficit, excluding all income except gate receipts, was $76,000.

Will Form Junior 'B' Booster Club

Jim "Snipe" Hamilton, president of the Junior 'B' Booster Club, announced over the weekend that plans are being made to form a Junior "B" Booster Club for the Belleville Lambert-Bulldogs.

A meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday night of this week at 7.30 at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle St., for the organization of the club.

Matthews said that a number of young people have asked him recently about the formation of a junior booster club but because they have been talking about so I will help to get these meeting but it is important that they turn out en-masse on Wednesday," he concluded.

Blames Virus For Knockout Of Welter Champ

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—"That was the shock of my life when I went down," world welterweight champion Don Jordan's manager, Jack McCoy, said today. "Why I say that is because they told me the guy couldn't hit hard enough to break an egg."

"I'll tell you this," McCoy continued. "We're going back to Los Angeles tomorrow and we'll get Don in good shape. Only right away to find out what's wrong. We won't fight again until I'm positive he's well."

McCoy made the statements in a hotel room prepared to return to California still shocked over the champion's fourth knockout loss to an obscure Argentine lightweight, Argentino Gonzalez, Thursday night, in a non-title bout at Luna Park Saturday night.

It was the first knockout loss of Jordan's pro career and he suffered it on a penalized virus condition.

24 HOURS' SILENCE

"I've had it for the past four months," Jordan said Sunday night as he ended a period of nearly 24 hours of silence following his stunning defeat.

"I felt very bad during the time I've had it—during the past four months and I just can't seem to shake it. I found that I could only eight days ago but took this fight so soon even though I didn't feel good as I could get back to my family before Christmas.

"I never saw the punch (a left to the jaw). The first thing I knew I was down. I didn't know and had to get up very fast but I had no strength in my legs."

McCoy said he was aware that Jordan had been ill but added "he began to feel better here and two doctors who examined him said he was okay."

WAS TRAINER-COACH

PENETANGUISHENE (CP) — Peter (Larry) McKinnon, 25, trainer of the Orillia Junior C hockey team, died here early Saturday following a heart attack suffered in the midst of a hockey game. Born in Newmarket, he played softball and hockey at Newmarket, Collingwood and Camp Borden. He coached two championship women's softball teams in the Barrie district.

It's Patterson And New York Says Johansson

GOTEBURG, Sweden (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson said today he still wants to meet Floyd Patterson "first of any challenger, but it simply has to be in New York."

Jim Farley Jr. of the New York State Athletic Commission met Johansson during a brief stopover here and said he agreed on every point with the champion.

Farley, who flew into Goteburg Sunday en route home from a business trip to West Germany, also said Ingemar's purse from next summer's fight, in which he lifted the crown from Patterson, could be about $171,500 "and there is still more coming in from movie revenues."

The New York commission is hoking the purse pending completion of an inquiry into the promotion of the June bout at New York's Yankee Stadium. Farley said Johansson has not applied for the money.

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson gave a pair of two-round exhibitions with sparring partners here Sunday.

It was his second stop on a tour of Quebec and Ontario cities.

Industrial Hockey League Results

Booth, T.'s took over undisputed possession of first place in the Industrial Hockey League Tuesday afternoon with a 10-8 triumph over Chris' Drive - In while Ellis Painters upset Wilson Brothers 5-3.

Williams will have an opportunity to tie Booth's for the top spot when the two clubs clash next weekend in the afternoon's feature.

Gordie Irwin spearheaded Booth's attack, scoring four goals and assisting on two others as Chris' fell behind late in the first period 5-4 and were never headed until the final 15 minutes although they drew level twice. Leo St. Denis had two goals and one assist to back Irwin's scoring splurge while Chuck Bowen collected one and two. Don Wood, Cam McKenna and Jack Hughes also scored with Bob Brooks drawing three assists. Jack Calnan two, Bob Hughes and Ron Archer one apiece.

Bill Vesterfelt potted two goals with Leo Goyer, Buck Reeves and Phil Carnell getting the others for the Drive - In squad. Vern Goyer, Jim Burrows, Vesterfelt and Aitkens picked up assists.

Ellis Painters overcame an early 3-0 deficit on the way to their victory over Williams. Jack Weston and Doug Dafoe had two goals each with Pug Kellar setting up the other. Eugene Painter, Dafoe, Clapp, Kellar and Gatchgher had assists.

Defencemen accounted for all the losers' markers, Gordie Green getting two and Doug Murray, the loop bad man, scoring the other evening out Green's assist. Bert Faulkner and Doug Lucas also had assists.

Ground-Gaining Title Won by Browns' Brown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns won his third straight National Football League ground-gaining title Sunday and set a league record for rushing attempts. He has been in the league only three years.

The Syracuse Negro fullback carried the ball 33 times against Philadelphia Eagles Sunday, making his total for the season 290. Ed Price of New York Giants set the previous season record of 271 in 1951.

Brown had a season ground-gaining total of 1,329 yards. He had gained last year when he rushed 1,527 yards on 297 carries. Brown won the title in 1957 his rookie year, by carrying the ball 202 times for 942 yards.

McGILL WINS

TORONTO (CP) — McGill University Redmen won the Ontario - Quebec intercollegiate water polo championship Saturday by holding the University of Toronto to a 10-10 tie in the second game of a two-game, total-points championship series. McGill won the first game in Montreal 9-4 two weeks ago.

Springfield Ups League Lead With 3 in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Goaltender Gump Worsley, sieved down to his 1953-54 Hockey League by new York Rangers three weeks ago, has been named mainstay of Springfield Indians' record comeback.

He posted his second shutout in nine games as Springfield downed Providence Reds 3-0 Sunday night. The Indians' third straight victory increased their first-place margin over runner-up Cleveland to six points.

Third-place Rochester Americans routed Quebec Aces 6-3 and Hershey Bears blitzed two goals apiece in the first period against Seattle Totems.

Worsley, 30, 11-year veteran of the league and two clubs, suffered the break when checked heavily at centre ice by Providence's Ed Litzenberger, who was given a minor penalty for charging.

Fired by the incident, Doreen Hamilton scored at 2.43 and Danny Belisle, each scored twice to lead Cleveland to a 5-3 victory. Ben Hatskin's scored Vancouver's other tally.

PROVIDENCE — SPRINGFIELD

Saturday, Vancouver edged Spokane Comets 3-2, Victoria Cougars defeated the visiting Flyers 6-1 and the Hamilton Tigers beat Winnipeg Warriors 6-2 before 4,229 Calgary fans.

Gerry Goyer, Gerry Filion and Bill MacFarland shared the scoring for Cougars in their fourth win in Vancouver.

Goals by Dave Duke, Orland Kurtenbach and Norm Corcoran gave Canucks their win over Spokane. Kurtenbach's goal was his 20th assist from Al Johnson and Alex Delvecchio.

Gordie Terry Gray sparked Calgary against Winnipeg, scoring two goals. A record 4,000 were in Stampa. Gray played with Bill Gee in the Pacific coast Hockey League and Montreal Royals of the old Quebec League four years.

Jackie McLeod, Sid Finney, Ron Jaskowski and Murray Wilcox scored the others for Stamps while Bob Bandiak and Red Johansen scored for Winnipeg.

In Victoria, Gordie Haworth provided the Cougar drive with two goals. George Ford and Arlo Goodwin also scored for Cougars. Gerry Goyer scored Seattle's goal.

SPORT CLINIC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Legion decided Saturday to hold 100 clinics across the land to field clinic at Toronto the week of Aug. 23rd.

Lectures will be held at St. Michael's College and University of Toronto's varsity rink. The intercommittee will be held at about $25,000 each year to enable some 150 athletes from all provinces to attend the week-long field clinic, also confirmed its plans to go ahead with its physical fitness program for school children, called Operation Stay-Sharp.

Gerry Goyer Scores Twice Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

First man in the Western Hockey League to score 20 points; second in the Edmonton Flyers' scoring race; first scorer for the league-leading Vancouver Canucks; now a triple-tarled jet.

Viktoria centre Eddie Dunlop, who was leading for Alberta's great season, was also tied last night with Spokane Comets' Ron Richter, shown the right ankle in the first period against Seattle Totems.

Dunlop, 30, 11-year veteran of the league and two clubs, suffered the break when checked heavily at centre ice by Providence's Ed Litzenberger, who was given a minor penalty for charging.

Fired by the incident, Doreen Hamilton scored at 2.43 and Danny Belisle, each scored twice to lead Cleveland to a 5-3 victory. Ben Hatskin's scored Vancouver's other tally.

Dutchies, Dogs Split Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops registered their initial shutout of the season against second champion Belleville McFarlands Saturday night in Whitby intermediate A hockey action as they whitewashed the visitors 5-0 before 1,000 fans.

The whipping moved Whitby into a four-game winning streak and left the clubbers-leading Belleville Macs with their first defeat in 7 games played so far this season.

Meanwhile at Kitchener Saturday night Dutchmen snapped a three-game losing streak, defeating Windsor Bulldogs 6-4. In a return contest at Windsor Sunday the Bulldogs came from behind with a pair of late goals to earn a 3-3 deadlock.

The Kitchener — Waterloo victory Saturday night was their first win in three starts. Windsor's previous win was a 5-4 decision over Chatham Maroons who were fifth during the weekend. Windsor is in second place.

Bob Attersley led the Dunlops attack as the first period ended in a scoreless deadlock. Pete Rabando, Sandy Air and Garry Darling were the Dunlop marksmen.

Goaltender Long John Henderson played a standout game for Whitby to inflict his third shutout.

Bob Forhan paced the Dutchmen in the first game scoring twice goals in the first period to give his club a 3-1 lead. They split two second-period goals and got the only tally in the final.

The game was featured with numerous fights and the ends of the ice and the Bulldogs were in the penalty box for 24 minutes. Windsor scored midway through the third period.

Coach Martin scored the other goal for Dunlops in the second. Alex Szuma, Ron Reid and Morris scored for Windsor.

Eleven minor penalties were handed out in the second drawing six. Windsor's unexpected win Sunday gave them their first victory in six meetings with the Dutchmen.

Lautman scored the only goal of the first period, Irwin Grosse and Jaskowski added two second and Murray Costello got the winning goal early in the third period.

Dutchmen got five of nine penalties and one of two misconducts.

Eddie Constantine Called Humphrey Bogart of France

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eddie Constantine, is one of the idols of the French movies. He's often called the Humphrey Bogart of France.

At the box office, he is a male Brigitte Bardot.

But a decade years ago, the Los Angeles - born Constantine was getting nowhere in American films.

"I used to sing in the chorus of movies like Born to Dance with Eleanor Powell," he recalls.

He didn't go to the Brown Derby in those days; he couldn't afford even to park his car in it. And that's what made an incident, the other day, so memorable for him.

Back for a television appearance, he was sitting in a booth in the famous Hollywood restaurant when he was paged over the headwaiter "Telephone for Mr. Eddie Constantine."

SUCCESS AT LAST

A waiter brought the telephone to his table. It was Gene Kelly inviting him to a party.

"You can't imagine what a tremendous thrill this is," he told Kelly over the loudspeaker paged in the Brown Derby by Gene Kelly."

He added later to his companion: "And I am actually here, drinking creme de menthe and soda."

This led up to his statement that he is one of the main reasons why you see cab buy whisky in French bistros.

He says when he first went to Paris in 1947, it was almost impossible to get whisky except near hotels that catered to American and British tourists.

"Now," he says, "it's in nearly every bistro. A big whisky distributor said publicity that I am mostly responsible—then sent me a case of free.

MAN GIMMICK

"I can't appear in public over there without drinking whisky. It's my trademark or what you call gimmick."

Eddie first went to Paris with his wife, a ballet dancer, who had a job dancing there. He hit the movie studios and got a few bit parts. Then in one picture, he went into a saloon, smacked a pretty girl on the derriere and ordered a straight shot of whisky.

"It's a nation of cognac and wine drinkers," Eddie recalls, "somehow that made me a star."

The stocky, tough-looking Constantine soon became the favorite of French movie goers.

PARISIAN APPEAL

One French actor, now in Hollywood, describes Eddie Constantine's appeal thusly:

"He speaks pure Parisian French with a touch of American accent. The combination makes him well loved very much like Charles Boyer's effect on American women a few years ago.

Constantine has analyzed his own success too.

"In the French character, there is no one who quite acts or looks like me. A Frenchman doesn't look natural playing as American gangster. And French audiences love American gangsters."

Many Efficient Quizmasters Working in Other Positions

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Where have they gone and what are they doing now, those bright, ebullient and efficient quizmasters who imposed the questions, rang the bells and gentled down the presumably innocent contestants?

There are just about as many answers as there are quondam quizmasters.

Jack Barry, late of Twenty-One, is dividing his time among several enterprises in which he has financial interests, particularly a company concerned with "scented advertising." He is executive vice-president.

"We're interested in improving newspapers, magazines and even plastic bags with scent," explains Barry, "and in the general use of aroma as another advertising medium." He says he expects "to be back in TV—some time."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Jack Narz, a quizmaster who had double trouble, is sitting out a contract with a soap company. But he has heard some troubling news: "by the grapevine."

Narz was brought to New York from the west coast to take over Dotto the first show to collapse from rigging charges. Then he moved over to Top Dollar, which was banished by network edict.

His contract with a large soap sponsor runs out at the first of the year. Meanwhile he's biding his time, hoping another emcee job will come through. If it doesn't, he may go back to doing commercials.

Hal March of the $64,000 Question, is touring in the national company of Two for the Seesaw. March won a returning to California to acting long before the TV quiz craze developed by a few years ago, and even asked for release from his contract.

Ralph Story, last quizmaster of The $64,000 Challenge, has made a couple of panel shots and films, is doing some work on the west coast, and appeared briefly recently in a commercial on The Big Party.

EXTRA HOME

Randy Merriman, once on The Big Payoff, quit the show to return to TV and radio work in Minneapolis. Bob Paige, who succeeded him, is returning to California for motion picture and TV work—and is reported to have an interest in some oil wells.

Bert Parks took over The Big Payoff three weeks before it was dropped and now is host on Masquerade Party, a games show which replaced Name That Tune.

George Dwelli, who presided over Name That Tune, for such a long time, is frankly pleased to be without a television show and trying out for host jobs on program panels, shows and has several night club bookings.

Bill Nimmo of Fox Love or Money, has been busy doing commercials; Sonny Fox, once of The $64,000 Challenge, has his own show on an independent New York station; Bill Wendell, late of Tic Tac Dough is back as a staff announcer at NBC.

Giants Whip Redskins 24-10; Browns Win

NEW YORK (AP)—The eastern conference's New York Giants closed out their most successful season in nine years while Chicago Bears nailed second place in the west, as the regular National Football League schedule ended Sunday.

The eastern champion Giants, rallying from a 10-7 halftime deficit, whipped Washington Redskins 24-10, at Washington and finished with a 10-2 won-lost record, the first eastern conference club to win 10 since Cleveland Browns in 1953.

The Bears, winding up with a seven-game winning streak, defeated Detroit 28-24 and grabbed second place in the western race with an 8-4 mark. Baltimore Colts, who meet the Giants in the title game at Baltimore Dec. 27, finished 9-3 after downing Los Angeles 45-26 Saturday.

THIRD-PLACE TIE

San Francisco 49ers, with a chance to share second place with the Bears, lost to Green Bay 24-21 and wound up in a third-place tie with the Packers, each with 7-5 records.

Cleveland with Jimmy Brown scoring twice in the second half, defeated Philadelphia 29-21 and tied the Eagles for second in the east at 7-5.

In Sunday's other game, Bobby Layne fired four touchdown passes and came within 22 yards of Sammy Baugh's all-time NFL passing yardage record as Pittsburgh Steelers whipped Chicago Cardinals 38-20. Baugh's mark is 22,085 yards in 16 years with Washington.

Layne rolled up 201 yards passing with 11 completions in 17 attempts and kicked five conversions.

Victor Mature Makes Marriage An Official One

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif. (AP)—There was no room for confusion and doubt, we just decided to get married a second time."

Victor Mature's British bride, Jay Sloane, says this explanation Sunday of a ceremony performed Saturday by the Mexican border town of Tijuana.

She and the actor met when he was in Rome on a film assignment. After they returned to Mature's home in October, she told a reporter that they had been married on the Isle of Capri last June.

Then Italian officials stated they couldn't find any record of the ceremony.

"We did it in secret," Mrs. Mature told reporters later than let there be any doubt, we decided to go about it again. We wanted to marry again."

Mrr. Mature, 25, has never been wed before—to anyone else. Mature, 45, has had three previous wives.

Wizard of Oz Still as Good As Production 20 Yrs. Ago

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether it's called the Hall of Fame Christmas Festival or see Judy Garland in a 20-year-old movie as good it doesn't need adapting for television. Whether to see Gore Vidal's play about the ordeal of his grandfather or keep an eye on Frank Sinatra and friends.

These are all two of the decisions to be made during a weekend. Starting with yuletide spirit.

My impression that NBC's Christmas Festival would just be more of what it started a few days earlier on CBS's Hall of Christmas Time, so I stuck with The Wizard of Oz. I realized in last year but found that 20 years has done nothing to destroy its excitement. CBS seemed it necessary to add Red Skelton and Dennis Day to make a few cut-of-mood remarks now and again.

Vidal, one of TV's bright young writers, not only wrote the Indictment de Mr. Corey, about his grandfather, the late Senator Thomas Gore, but wrote Sinatra's part of the narrator, too. It was the story of a determined, bright and blind young lawyer determined to become a senator.

SINATRA LISTLOWN

The second Sinatra show on ABC was a letdown from the smartly - paced program several weeks back. For one thing, the fellow who Coles sparkling conversation for Sinatra apparently is on vacation. In addition, they did the whole show on that big empty stage with only some chairs and an occasional umbrella for props. It wasn't as cute an idea as they thought.

Hermione Gingold, usually a funny woman, and Peter Lawford, an amusing fellow, seemed self-conscious and hard - put to find much to do. Ella Fitzgerald did her usual fine singing and Sinatra's singing was not up to standard.

There was a bit of embarrassment flus about plugs on the Friday night NBC Bob Hope show, I suppose it is film or is a monologue and the elimination of all of them wouldn't have hurt his spiel at all. There were only five in the dialed popsicle sketch, which wasn't very funny or very witty anyway.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

"How-to-do-it" books on nearly every subject have become very big business in the United Canan, but books dealing with home television repairs can lead to trouble and expense. A TV set is extremely complicated and amateur tinkering can easily transform a simple adjustment into a major repair job.

However, the handyman type can quite easily remove the tubes from his set and test them himself with little fear of bungling. —and CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 264 Colborne St., offers a free tube testing service for this purpose. Without any charge or obligation you can bring in your TV (or radio) tubes and check them on our tube tester. As for any other type of repairs . . . it will pay you to phone WO 8-6710 for experienced, expert service.

Don Simmons Second Goalie To Wear Mask

NEW YORK (CP)—Don Simmons of Boston Bruins is the second National Hockey League goalie to use a protective face mask this season.

Replacing Harry Lumley in the nets for the first time since Nov. 12, Simmons played with the fibreglass covering Sunday night. He was touched for four goals by New York Rangers but completed a weekend sweep of the Bostonians, both nights by 4-3 counts. Lumley played Saturday.

Jacques Plante, Montreal's remadic goaltender was the first to wear a face mask in the 1959-60 campaign. He suffered a fourstitch face cut early in a Nov. 5 game against the Rangers in New York and returned wearing the mask.

In the last few weeks, the Plante-type protection has been tried out in practice by Marcel Palle, the new Ranger goalie. Muzz Patrick, New York's general manager, also has provided all netminders in the Rangers' minor farm ranks to start wearing the mask.

Gil Mayer of Cleveland Barons of the American League, suffered the fractured his jaw early in the season, also visited Montreal for consultations with Plante.

Aussie Wins World Auto Racing Crown

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Jack Brabham, 33-year-old daredevil driver, hoped for his native Australia and a hero's welcome after pocketing the coveted world auto racing championship.

Brabham won the crown Saturday when his two teammates Moss failed to overtake him in point standings during the inaugural Grand Prix of the United States.

The new champion clinched the title the hard way—by pushing his green Cooper-Climax a half mile to the finish line after it ran out of gas and then collapsing at the finish.

"This really is the greatest thrill of my racing life—winning the world championship," Brabham said as he lay on a sofa a few minutes after the run.

Brabham actually clinched the title when Britain's Stirling Moss pulled his Cooper-Climax off the track during the sixth lap and walked dejectedly back to the pits. Moss needed a victory to edge Brabham for the title, but he was thwarted when the transmission of his car broke.

Moss, runnerup in the driving title four times, wound up third behind countryman Tony Brooks. Brabham finished with 31 points, two more than Brooks. Moss had 27. Phil Hill of Los Angeles 20, Maurice Trintignant of France 19 and Bruce McGregor of New Zealand, winner of the U.S. Grand Prix, 18½.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

(A Member of the Belleville United Appeal)

On December 22nd there will be a joint meeting of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets Corps "Quinte" and the local Navy League Cadets for a Christmas party. The Women's Auxiliary have been instrumental in getting this event underway and the officers of both corps will be meeting tomorrow evening to finalize the arrangements for the party.

A recent meeting was held with the officers of both the Sea Cadets and the Navy League Cadets with Mr. Ross Boyce, chairman of the Sea Cadet and Navy League Cadet committee of the local Navy League. There was a general discussion on the problems and activities of both corps and many suggestions were made and contemplated for the betterment of both corps and the Sea Cadet barracks.

In line with the new program just getting underway for the Sea Cadets a number of appointments were made in the past week. Assigned to the duties of divisional Petty Officers were Leading Cadets Bruce Parks and Manley Ste, who will be Acting Petty Officers. Able Cadet Art Horn will be responsible for the duties and position of Acting P.O. Able Cadet Robert Lott will be taking on duties re the rifle range, work. P.O. Wayne Bunnett will carry on duties as the Bugle Cadet of the Corps whilst Leading Cadet Stewart Godden will handle the duties pertaining to the position of regulating petty officer in the ship's office.

While the formation of a band is still to be a Band Petty Officer appointed in the near future as well. Ken Bradshaw, L-S, RCN, is giving the Sea Cadets assistance in the basic organization of the new band L-S Bradshaw is a bandsman in the Royal Canadian Navy and is currently in Belleville on leave.

Last Thursday's parade at the barracks on South Front Street consisted of several classes. Instruction was given in navigation, telephony, and parts of a ship.

William Shaw, recently of the Royal Canadian Navy, is assisting the officers of the "Quinte" with the training program in the position of acting civilian instructor. Chaplain R. Mazzah was on board giving assistance in putting the ship's records in order. Petty Officers Bunnett and Don Terry and R. Reid were "drilled out" with their uniforms by Petty Officer Midshipman Rogue Davis prior to being taken on strength as Ordinary Cadets.

Last Tuesday's parade, held at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Armouries, consisted of drill and rifle practice. Chaplain (RC) McGee was on board for the presentation awards at the second part of the evening's parade.

The "Quinte" has received an issue of new model rifles and the older rifles, which have seen many years of service, are being surveyed (returned) to Naval Stores. Sticky wicket, sailboats and frogs for the old style of lanyards are requested to have them into the Stores Officer by this week. New ones will be issued shortly.

Any boys who wish to join the Sea Cadets are invited to attend Tuesdays at the Armouries, at the corner of Pinnacle and East Bridge Streets and Thursdays at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street, at 7:15 p.m. Those lads between the ages of 14 and 18 and in good health are eligible to join the corps.

For those boys between the ages of 13 and 14 years, there is the Navy League Cadet Corps which meets on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock at the Sea Cadet barracks. New entries are welcomed to this corps also.

Astrological Forecast

General Tendencies: Daytime finds some pretty depressing changes likely if you look on the dark side of them. However, by using tact, method and diplomacy you can make them extremely beneficial to you. You might you can tune in on what is best for you in days to come by almost every department of your existence by being quiet, alert.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A.M. is excellent for beginning any new ventures, making changes of all sorts after sufficient thought. After lunch, take care you do not jet a higher-up. Be thoughtful, efficient. P.M. is fine for the lighter side of life. Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Secret talks with right people in A.M. give you the answers you have been seeking. Avoid that overly dynamic new contact, or do not listen to advice in afternoon. P.M. be with associate and get co-operation and help.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Consider what your true goal in life is this A.M. and then take the steps that will lead you in the right direction. After lunch, do not follow blindly suggestions given by one in authority who does not have all the facts. P.M. retire early.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Research results satisfactory in A.M., after lunch, take care you are not forceful with an associate. Timing is excellent for any social functions and you can add much prestige if you are diplomatic and very courteous.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You are fortunate to have a practical-minded friend who can get the right advice concerning how to get one of your desires. Be sure that you have studied or you can cause some severe problems. P.M. get true picture of your standing with him.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Morning is fine for handling all monetary and important career matters. Be careful at that lunch not to avoid necessary duties. P.M. confer with partners and have a conference. Co-operation brings beneficial results.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Get ideas from books, your paper, new contacts this morning. Be careful after lunch that you do not get angry arguments at home. P.M. plan how to solve those financial problems wisely. Think.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Find out what your true position is with regard to securities, taxes, stocks, etc. Be most careful after lunch while out driving or in motion. P.M. one of your personal dreams will be realized. Be ready to accept.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — During A.M. your clever associates give some excellent advice or suggestions. Follow immediately. Later in the day do not invest impulsive unwisely. P.M. look into whatever puzzles you. Then be off for fun and romance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Work almost with a vengeance in a.m. Accomplish much. Later carry on and do not feel that you are being abused. P.M. contact clever comrades and plan co-operative ventures. Study that has every promise of success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Morning is the ideal time to look after health and appearance, also to have some lighthearted fun. Later, do not accept gifts lavishly to keep you from doing your work. P.M. fame and fortune can be yours through some specialized talent.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — In the morning do whatever is necessary to make your family happy. Later, do not allow some depressed friend to discard you. P.M. do some research work. Then be out for fun and frolic with new friends. Smile and win them over.

If your child is born today... The interesting child bore today is the type who early reads to study and be well equipped for life, but there is a tendency to jump from one thing to another. Hence it is your duty to teach constancy of purpose. Most of your progeny's work will be done in later life, and there can be a great deal of success. The closing years of this life will bring forth a wonderful philosopher. Fine chart.

Two Armed Men Escape Police In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Two armed men Sunday escaped from police after a bullet-punctuated chase through alleys, over roofs and through a restaurant on downtown St. Lawrence Boulevard.

The men were surprised by Constable Jean Deziel in the rear of a lingerie shop and fled over the roof of a building as he fired two shots after them.

Hearing the shots, a second policeman joined the chase and the two fugitives raced into a restaurant as another two shots were fired. Inside they grabbed a waitress and threatened to shoot unless she showed them a rear exit.

The pursuing policemen, unable to fire among the restaurant customers, chased the pair out a back door and along Belanger Street before the men escaped down a lane.

Garden Notes

Christmas Gifts for Gardeners

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

No matter what his, or her, age the gardener will be delighted with a gift of seeds, plants or anything that will make growing plants more easy.

Why not a kneeling pad? It will provide a dry spot that is smooth and soft to kneel or to sit. An apron made with two or three really big pockets in a carpenters apron will keep handy the need pencils, and small tools. Other suggestions are garden gloves; or a basket of plastic or wicker for gathering flowers, vegetables or fruit. Add a pair of good secateurs for cutting them. The secateurs are useful for pruning too.

Stainless steel tools are real treasures. There are several sizes and styles in trowels that would make a good gift. Plastic pots are colorful, light and look much more longer than clay pots. They are sturdy and "weigh" sterilized. A bottle of plant shine will add lustre to leaves. Put these items and give a gloss to foliage, vegetable and fruit to be used in arrangements. Material will be welcomed also the various plastic materials used in this purpose.

A terrarium for making a garden inside glass provides an interesting gift. You can provide all the material or just the case and let the gardener to combine with his own plants. An ornamental pot or basket of vines, wrought iron or wood lends importance to a vase or bowl of flowers. And the gardener who has welcome small ornaments or figures which would fit into plant arrangements, or a pair of florists scissors.

For the gardener who likes to take cuttings here is a jar of rooting hormone powder. A jar of hygenic fertilizer is good too. It is also suitable for fertilizing house plants. Directions are included with package.

Bonsai, living mini trees, can be had in pots for planting in ornamental bowls, or all ready in them.

In the more expensive gifts you might consider a flame gun with destroying weeds and sterilizing seed beds, a king size aluminum rake for raking leaves, a fertilizer spreader or a soil testing kit.

GARDEN CALENDAR

A garden calendar with large spaces for writing around each date would be welcome and so would a waterproof note-book with pencil attached for jotting down those garden notes.

For the price of a postage stamp you can have a soil preparation chart. This is 11 by 17, to be hung on the wall and gives suggestions on the use of peat moss throughout the garden year. It is free from Premier Peat Moss Corp., Dept PG, 535 Fifth Ave. New York, 17 N.Y.

Pruning guide will cost 19 cents. It describes the best tools and methods as well as a calendar for pruning. James Wiltz and Sons Co., Dept. PG, 31 Littleton Ave. Newark 7, N.J.

For a catalogue of rare English flower seeds — nearly 2000 different kinds listed, in color send 25 cents to Thompson, and Morgan Ltd., Ipswich, England.

ANCIENT CHURCH

Part of St. Martin's, one of the ancient churches at Canterbury, England, dates back, is built of Roman brick and tile of the sixth century.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher entertained to dinner on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pitcher and Mr. and Mrs. Will Pitcher, all their respective families, of Stockdale.

Mrs. George White and Miss Mildred White visited Mrs. E. Wescott, Frankford, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thompson, St. Ola, were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eggleston.

Messrs. Don Williams, Kenneth Gillies, Elwood Bateman, and Carl Dafoe of St. Paul's A.O.T.S. Men's Club, attended an afternoon Church service at the Mount Pleasant United Church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carr, River Valley, recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith and family of Mount Pleasant.

Mr. F. M. Wood, Toronto, was a recent dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pitcher and attended a party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance.

Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, M.A., B.D., D.D., secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, was guest speaker at the A.O.T.S. conference held at St. Paul's United Church in Stirling. The theme of the conference was "Men Wanted." The worship services were conducted by Messrs. Clare West, Frank Watson and Walter Elliott, of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton attended a special conference in Toronto; also the Motorola show.

Reeve Kenneth Ray attended the County Council session.

Mrs. Earl Eggleton spent a recent weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McGregor, Bensonville, Ont.

The ladies of St. Paul's United Church are planning to pack a bake of good sweet clothing this week for overseas relief.

Several Stirling and Rawdon residents took the Oath of Allegiance and received their citizenship papers at the County Court House, Belleville, recently, with Judge J. C. Anderson in charge of the ceremonies.

Mrs. Edwin Warren, Hagerty, and Miss Rose Sopy, attended a welcome on behalf of the local I.O.D.E. group.

Mrs. Eleanor Leard, assistant minister of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, gave an address at St. Paul's W.M.S. and W.A. combined meeting in the new Sunday School rooms.

The two presidents, Mrs. Arthur Packman of the W.M.S., and Mrs. Ashley Brooks of the W.A., welcomed the guests. The two slates of officers for 1960 were presented.

Mrs. Leard, an ordained minister in her own right, spoke on a missionary with her husband in India. She based her address on the theme, "Changing Conditions in India." She suggested scholarships for Indian students and special training for musicians and other groups, to help the people of India achieve their proper status.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. George Clothier.

At the conclusion of the meeting a luncheon was served in the lower Sunday School rooms under the direction of Mrs. W. Pryce and Mrs. R. Patterson. Christmas decorations were used in both rooms.

Wooler

WOOLER E.A.

WOOLER — The December meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. met in the church parlors Tuesday to entertain their husbands to a turkey dinner. 46 were in attendance.

Following the dinner a Yuletide worship service was held, with the president, Mrs. F. Smith, in charge, assisted by Mrs. N. Crosby and Mrs. Lloyd Dorland. A number of carols were sung.

Mrs. J. McCallum sang "Silent Night, Holy Night" and Mrs. McColl gave a reading, "Farmer Brown's Xmas." Mrs. Austin played two saxophone selections accompanied by his wife at the piano.

The group enjoyed a couple of games which were in charge of Mrs. Max Haggerty.

Mr. C. Heyworth thanked the ladies on behalf of the men present for an enjoyable evening. The Wooler Mission Band held its December meeting last Sunday with Mrs. N. Crosby and Mrs. J. Putnam in charge, opening the meeting with "God loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" and the hymn "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and prayer.

Mrs. Crosby took the roll call and the offering was taken by Denise Haggarty and Karl Dorland. The second chapter of the study book was told and previous chapters reviewed.

"World Friends" were discussed by each family.

Miss Annie Richards, Marmora, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Richards.

Mrs. Gerald Ross is in Trenton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell and daughter of Peterborough, spent Thursday with his grandmother, Mrs. Clara Easterly.

Mrs. Lloyd Dorland, Mrs. C. Easterly and Mrs. A. Dawson spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. B. Wade in Brighton.

Mr. Charlie York's barn blew down on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Jack Allen is in poor health at time of writing.

The Wooler 4-H Girls' Club met on Monday evening with 25 members and two leaders present.

The meeting was opened by the president, Nancy Low. The demonstration was on "Preparing a Vegetable Plate."

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Regan, with four friends of Toronto, spent the weekend at the Callaghan farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Putnam and Briane of Trenton, spent Sunday an hour with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Putnam.

Mrs. Newman and Doris of Peterborough, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with Mrs. A. G. Austin.

MASTERPIECE CHECKED — The 15th century Florentine masterpiece "The Assumption of the Virgin" by Neri Di Bicci is checked by officials of the National Gallery after being taken down from the wall. The painting is one of thousands of works of art being moved from the gallery's old home in the Victoria Museum at Ottawa to a new home in Lorne Building near Confederation Square. Multi-Million-Dollar Art Show Moving to New Gallery

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Gallery's multi-million-dollar art show is moving to a permanent booking in its own showplace.

Surrounded by security precautions, trucks will transfer the gallery's vast collection of Canadian and European works from their old home in the Victoria Museum to a gleaming new building just off Confederation Square.

The project, in active preparation for six months, will be Canada's largest movement of art.

56-YEAR STAY

Since 1910 the gallery has occupied the east wing of the museum, a grey rambling structure on Elgin Street about half a mile south of the square.

Its new quarters are in the seven - storey Lorne Building, named after the Marquis of Lorne, former governor - general who founded the gallery in 1879.

For obvious reasons, gallery officials will not disclose just when the transfer will take place.

"We are not anxious to have a hijacking," said associate director D.W. Buchanan, in charge of the moving operation.

There has been speculation that at least part of the varied collection of Canadian, British, Italian, Spanish, Flemish, German, Dutch and other works will be moved at night, under heavy guard, streets along the route of the caravan would be closed to other traffic.

USE HEATED TRUCKS

Trucks used in the operation will be electrically heated to protect the paintings against deterioration. Paintings will be transported in vans with a camera copy erected to shield them from the elements.

Many of the works—especially old masters mounted on wood—have been hermetically sealed under glass to prevent damage from fluctuations in humidity.

The new $5,000,000 home of the gallery will have air conditioning and humidity control. It will provide three times the hanging space and five times the over-all space available until now.

Officials are hoping for a run of warm, dry weather for the moving operation. Ideally, said one, the temperature should be about 70 degrees and the relative humidity 50 per cent. If air conditions are exceptionally unfavorable, a day's moving might have to be put off.

Trained staff now are taking works down from the walls of the old gallery and assembling them on the ground floor. With the elevators of the new wing, one of the classical works have had to be carried down four flights of stairs.

CLOSED FOUR MONTHS

The gallery has been closed for four months to allow the taking of an inventory, packing, and attending to other details. Feb. 17 is the target date for opening in the new quarters.

Transfer of office supplies and equipment, including the gallery's extensive reference library, already has begun.

Involved in the move are perhaps 400 paintings, 800 to 1,000 prints and drawings, and hundreds of sculptures from the museum building. Well over 1,000 paintings that have been in storage will also be moved.

In addition, 700 or so paintings on loan to government offices and foreign embassies are being called back. Also being transferred are 25,000 photos — 10,000 of them lantern-slides and 20,000 slides, in both color and black and white.

Associate director Buchanan said it is impossible to place an over-all value on the collection of paintings. It has been estimated variously at anywhere from $3,000,000 to $20,000,000. In effect, it is priceless.

Car Production Takes Big Jump In Past Week

TORONTO (CP)—With General Motors swinging back into production following its steel-shortage shutdown, Canadian motor vehicle output last week is estimated at 5,000 vehicles compared with 3,322 last week.

Chrysler still had no car production.

The figures — from the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce—show 4,424 cars compared with 2,772, and 576 trucks compared with 726.

Production of cars by companies last week and this year to date, with figures for a week earlier and the corresponding period last year in brackets, was: Chrysler nil (nil), 40,003 (62,-540). Ford 2,478 (2,280), 85,539 (81,401). General Motors 1,796 (223), 140,655 (148,303). Studebaker - Packard 150 (160); 8,668 (6,982).

Truck production: Chrysler 108 (108); 5,830 (5,988) Ford 236 (478), 17,649 (15,585); General Motors six (all), 27,632 (28,134). International 267 (272), 13,006 (9,145).

Even Reds Cheer As Eisenhower Talks To Greeks

President Boards Ship For Three-Day Rest

ATHENS (AP)—President Eisenhower received a rousing ovation in the Greek parliament today and then boarded the United States cruiser Des Moines for his first vacation since 1945 for "peace and friendship" mission 12 days ago.

The American leader, renewing his call for peace in his address to the 300-member parliament, was interrupted a dozen times by applause and cheers that almost shook the rafters. The Communist-led minority sat silent.

Five hours later the president left the Greek capital for the family and drove in a procession to the Phaleron station where he boarded a helicopter for the short flight to the Des Moines.

The president will make a three-day rest aboard the cruiser, broken only by a meeting Thursday in Tunis with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba.

THRILLED MESSAGE

The president touched off his greatest ovation when he told parliament that the people's faith could be summed up in three words: "North Atlantic Treaty."

Thousands of Greeks filled historic Constitution Square in front of Athens, to cheer Eisenhower as he arrived at the parliament building.

KEPPAUS THREE

As he has done in the six other countries he has visited previously, Eisenhower in his address reiterated America's belief in freedom in say solid East-West understanding.

"We mean freedom in which, under the rule of law, every human will have the right and a fair chance to live his own life, to choose his own path, to work out his own destiny."

The Greek legislators rose with a roar of applause when Eisenhower told them his message would be spread around the world: "Peace is freedom."

Mr. American president said it was easily the most enthusiastic reception given Eisenhower by any of the parliaments he has spoken to on his tour.

REPEAT AFTER APPLAUSE

The president lauded the Korean reinforcement, which has been vigorously anti-Continental, as "a splendid example of the loyal roll of Greek statesmen whose devotion to freedom has shed the world."

Introducing Eisenhower, the speaker of the one-house Parliament, Constantine Rodopoulos, welcomed him as "an unifying crusader of peace at this a same-time for a just peace in freedom."

Eisenhower's talk with Karamanlis generally ranged over American aid to the Soviet propaganda pressure on this country, including the long-term the question of intermediate-range missiles.

Karamanlis has said his government is considering letting the United States establish missile ranges missiles in Greece, as a deterrent to Russia.

But strong objections have been raised in parliament, where there are 98 Communist members compared with 170 of the pro-American bloc. The Soviet A Soviet campaign, reminding the Greeks that they might become missiles targets if missile bases are constructed on their soil, has had its effect.

Eisenhower was an overnight

Frost Interested In Granting Aid To Universities

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Monday reiterated statements of three weeks ago that he is interested in a new federal-provincial plan of granting financial aid to universities.

Since a new Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Sauve of Quebec have announced there is an agreement of a plan by which Quebec would increase its own corporation income tax rate by seven per cent and assume responsibility for paying university grants at the same level as present federal payments.

Quebec has refused aid to universities since 1953 on the grounds of federal interference in educational affairs.

"I have the same opinion today as I had three weeks ago," Mr. Frost said in reply to the premier. said the new aid plan to universities is "a very definite step in the right direction."

CROSSBIR CHANGES

Premier Frost asserts "will immediately consider the desirability of making a change in the new incentive in 1960."

The present agreement with provinces, which expires March 31, 1952, provides Quebec calls for a $1.50 per capita payment to universities.

Ontario has accepted federal grants to universities; since their inception. Federal grants to universities in the province for the year 1950-60 amounted to $6,000,000.

If the new plan is adopted in Ontario, the provincial government would levy an additional one per cent tax although there would be no increase in the overall level of taxation for corporations.

The new tax would be "abated against the federal taxation."

Mr. Frost said earlier the new alternative does not provide the provinces with additional revenue but it is a "very fundamental recognition" of the responsibilities of the two levels of government under the constitution.

In the administration of the university grants there "has undoubtedly been an infringement on provincial responsibilities, though not to any objectionable extent."

Makarios Will Head Govt. In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)— Archbishop Makarios has been elected by a 5-to-4 vote as first president of this east Mediterranean island when it becomes independent of British Feb. 19.

A tremendous ovation greeted the pro-Enosis Monday night of the results of Sunday's balloting by Greek Cypriot community. The Greek Orthodox archbishop, political leader of the fight for independence, won 114,221 votes to 71,133 for Dr. Cardelo, former mayor of Nicosia who accused the archbishop of wanting to be a dictator.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A weak disturbance moving eastward over northern Ontario resulted in mainly cloudy skies throughout the province last night. Early-morning temperatures were generally below freezing light and definite was reported from Georgian Bay northward. A developing storm over Southern Texas is expected to maintain mild air over most of the provinces. Rain or wet snow is expected to spread over western portions of the province late tonight and Wednesday while snow is likely over Central Ontario. In the north little change is expected through Wednesday.

AGING CF-100 MAY BE REPLACED BY U.S. F-101

Start Negotiations On Price, Number

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF's aging CF-100 jet may be replaced in the Canadian air defence system with the U.S. Air Force supersonic McDonnell F-101.

Negotiations on price and number of planes required have started but have not yet reached the government level, informants say.

There is still no indication as to whether the government will decide to replace the subsonic CF-100 with another manned interceptor or to rely on Canadian air defence to the two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases scheduled to be built near North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que.

Several months ago, the government strongly suggested that the Bomarc would provide adequate sufficient air defence against manned bombers in the 1960's.

MANY CHANGE VIEW

But in recent weeks there have been indications it may be coming around to the RCAF view that Canada must have a new interceptor to patrol its own air space and build up its end of North American Air Defence Command.

Defence Minister Pearkes has made it clear that the government doesn't want to be "caught napping" by a new interceptor.

Gen. Laurence Kuter, NORAD deputy commander, told reporters Nov. 17 that the CF-100 should be replaced by a "much better" aircraft "at an early date." He added he was confident that both the Canadian and U.S. governments were discussing replacement of obsolescent planes. He made this remark after meeting with Mr. Pearkes.

It is understood the USAF has offered the RCAF some 60 two-seat F-101 jets from its Strategic Training Plan. Under it, 132,553 aircrew were trained for combat.

At the time of the signing of the agreement, 1,000 pilots had been put through the mill and 279 aircraft.

By the time the scheme ended in March, 1945, some 360 schools and auxiliary units had been established on 231 sites. The training planes logged more than 2,000,000 flying hours, covering more than 2,000,000,000 miles.

Starting almost from scratch, the RCAF set up an organization to train pilots, at every four weeks 330 pilots with elementary flying training, 544 with service flying training, 340 observers and 300 wireless operators and gunners.

Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of air staff from 1940 to 1943, promised to "turn everything we had and the air force did, with the driving help of Hoy C. Ross (Chubby) Power, Canada's first air minister.

On April 15, 1940, four months after the initial signing of the agreement, the first class of graduates, 164 fledgling pilots of No. 1 initial training school at Toronto.

Britain and Canada supplied the trainers and Britain most of the engines. Some Canadian airframes and engines were also obtained from the United States.

The peak period came in late 1943 when 97 flying schools were in operation. Every month more than 3,000 trained aircrew joined the Allied air forces.

Canada Should Borrow Less Says Canada Bank Governor

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians should borrow less from other countries, James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, said Monday night.

They should either save more to pay for their own expansion or they should not attempt to do so much, he said.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Ontario district of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, Mr. Coyne said forecasts of growth envisage a continuing deficit in our trade.

He threw cold water on the theory that increased spending by governments at less than the market rate.

Combatting his outline of the problems of steady growth, Mr. Coyne said he is not in agreement with price stability along a broad front of policies caused by governments in the total supply of money or credit."

Mr. Coyne said the United States finances all its own continuing economic growth out of its own people, with enough left over to make a substantial contribution to other countries, including Canada.

The United Kingdom and several other European countries also produced savings in excess of their own capital requirements.

Canada's own savings rate was high, but not high enough to finance the rate of capital expenditure, and in recent years she had imported capital to the tune of $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 a year.

"Some may feel," said Mr. Coyne, "that capital expenditures of this scale are necessary to maintain full employment. Surely not. No economy as advanced as ours can afford itself to be committed into a pattern of expenditures of capital to those which can be satisfied with smaller supplements of resources from abroad."

Stating that this year's gross national product will be 50 per cent more than 1939, Mr. Coyne said that a 50 per cent increase over 1939, Mr. Coyne said this suggests a demand for goods and services 50 per cent available through new saving.

Mr. Coyne said: "Large increases in the total volume of consumer credit in the United States in a short period can add to instability in employment, prices, and interest rates and the degree of foreign borrowing."

Commonwealth Air Training Plan Started 20 Years Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Twenty years ago this Thursday marked the official beginning of a plan which turned out to be one of the masterpieces of Allied victory in the Second World War.

On Nov. 17, 1939 a Sunday, Canada, Britain, Australia and New Zealand signed into being the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Under it, 131,553 aircrew were trained for combat.

At the time of the signing of the agreement, there had been only one thousand officers and men and only 270 aircraft.

By the time the scheme ended in March, 1945, some 360 schools and auxiliary units had been established on 231 sites. The training planes logged more than 2,000,000 flying hours, covering more than 2,000,000,000 miles.

Starting almost from scratch, the RCAF set up an organization to train pilots, at every four weeks 330 pilots with elementary

Three Drowned As Car Plunges In Lake Ontario

OSHAWA (CP) — Two teenaged sisters and a family friend were drowned Monday night when their car plunged into Lake Ontario.

Their bodies were found in the car in 25 feet of water after witnesses passed a warning sign marking the end of the road, then leaped over a seven-foot retaining wall into Oshawa Harbor.

Dead are Judith Claire Wallis, 18, her sister Arlene Marie, 15, and Nancy Fleve, 18, all of Pickering, about 10 miles north of here.

The girls' mother said Rowe, a mechanic who works here, told her he would be unable to pick the sisters up after school and told them shopping in the area.

Three witnesses said they saw the car leave the sign shortly after dark, cross the 100 - foot width of the installation wall and brake just before it reached the edge.

Edward Carey, 16, said he heard screams as the car went into the water.

Oshawa skindiver Raymond W. Gerrie said he found the car merged car on his first dive. In two subsequent trips he raised the three members and attached cables so that it could be lifted by a construction firm's crane.

Once Canada's Wealthiest Indians, Blackfoot Band Faces Bleak Winter

GLEICHEN, Alta. (CP)—South-ern Alberta's 1,526 Blackfoot Indians, once one of the wealthiest bands in Canada, said they are facing the worst winter privation in history. Meanwhile, the Indian Affairs branch has said assistance will be withheld if the Indians ask for it.

Chief Clarence McHugh said Monday the tribe faces a severe shortage of food and housing. There is little employment for those who can work and a third of the tribe's grain crop is still in the fields because of early snows.

An official of the Indian affairs branch in Ottawa said that apparently the tribe so far has because similar conditions

Fraser Hunter, Former Liberal Member, Dies

DURHAM (CP) — A retired British Columbia lumberman and former Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto St. Patrick, Lt.-Col. F. Fraser Hunter, died here at his home Monday.

Born in Durham in 1876, his first military service was in the South African war. He left in training during the Riel Rebellion. He was a graduate of Upper Canada College in Toronto.

His father, the late James H. Hunter, was a former member in the legislature for Grey South from 1908 to 1911.

After qualifying at RMC, Lt.-Col. Hunter joined the engineering corps, building several years in India with the Bengal Lancers. He left the army after 12 years' service in China and was later appointed assistant superintendent of survey in India, compiling maps of little known districts of Asia. Later he was director of map publication in India, his last post before he left the engineering service. He held decorations from Britain, several European and Asian countries.

He sat in the Ontario legislature from 1919 to 1923. His retirement from politics he made his home in Victoria, where 36 miles south of Owen Sound.

CONTRIBUTION "FALTBT"

WINDSOR (CP) — Canada's contribution to International Refugee Year—the admission of 100 tubercular Europeans as Canadian immigrants—was labelled "pretty paltry" Monday by Ontario Health Minister Dymond.

"I haven't made any comment on the project until now," Mr. Dymond said, "because, frankly, I've been rather ashamed of it. It's a pretty paltry gesture on our part."

Timmins Woman Charged With Killing Husband

TIMMINS (CP) — Mrs. Anne Lizer, a local resident of two, will face a murder charge in connection with the rifle slaying of her husband, Joseph Lizer, 36 South Porcupine magistrate's court Wednesday.

An inquest into the death of her husband, 36, scheduled for today, was cancelled Monday when Mrs. Lizer was formally charge after uncovering new evidence.

Mr. Lizer, prominent sportsman and blanager of the Molson Brewery here, was found dead Sept. 3 lying in the doorway of a bedroom in their home about five miles south-east of here. He had been shot through the head with a rifle found beside him. His wife told police he committed with a bullet wound in the stomach. The rifle had been fired five times, the last causing into an exploding duplex.

Prairie Farmers Keeping Mum At Hearings

OTTAWA (CP)—The Prairies are keeping mum while Canada's major railways plunge through hearings before the transport commission studies of the cost of moving western export grain at rates pegged by law at pre-1939 levels.

But simmering beneath the calm at hearings of the royal commission on transportation is the railway-Prairie squabble that could erupt almost any time into a slam-bang battle over the controversial Crowsnest Pass grain rates.

START RESEARCH ON SYSTEM FOR MISSILE DEFENCE

Ascension Island Chosen as Base

OTTAWA (CP)—Remote Ascension Island in the South Atlantic next month will become a new base for Canadian scientists seeking a defence system against the intercontinental rocket, it was learned authoritatively today.

The British island between South America and Africa is near the end of the United States missile range whose chain includes Cape Canaveral, Fla., plunge into the sea.

The Canadian scientists, assisted by an RCAF team, will try to determine the feasibility of using infra-red wave lengths to detect the long-range rockets as they re-enter the earth's atmosphere. Infra - red works on the principle that every object gives off heat waves above absolute zero emits heat.

Two RCAF CF-100 jets based in Scandinavia will be used to carry the infra - red equipment to more than 40,000 feet. The equipment was designed by United States and Canadian Government Research and Development Establishment at Valcartier, Que., by the Canadian Armament Research Board, and they will carry out the experiments.

The Valcartier centre has been working for some time with the U.S. Army, Navy and British scientists for several years on research into the Nike anti-aircraft missile system.

WOOD LAUNCHER

Scientists at Valcartier are using a 40-ton, 72-foot-long launcher with a muzzle 14 inches across to fire 180-pound model nose cones down ground ranges at speeds that would be achieved by intercontinental ballistic missiles that is, some 19,000 miles per hour.

The Valcartier experiments also include use of infra-red wave lengths to detect missiles in flight and development of solid fuels for rockets.

Three other Defence Research Board establishments are currently engaged in research related directly or indirectly to missile defence.

Dr. Herbert York, director of research, U.S. defence department, said Monday the U.S. Army-Nike-Zeus is the only country - missile system in which has real possibilities. It was sufficiently promising for a production decision to be reached though no commitment has yet been made to go into production.

Commonwealth Parley Date Set

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today that a Commonwealth prime ministers conference will open in London May 1.

The last meeting of Commonwealth premiers was held in London in June and July, 1949.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the date of the conference was fixed after the subject of a number of exchanges of messages over the past few weeks."

Pnuemonia Rings Down Last Curtain For E. Wallace Hopper, 90's Belle

NEW YORK (AP)—Edna Wallace Hopper, the toast of Broadway on the turn of the century and later a shrewd stock trader, died Monday of complications of pneumonia.

No one knew her age. Her youthful appearance belied her years. Estimates ranged from 85 to 98. She said the 90's figure. Birth were destroyed in the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

Less than five feet tall and weighing only 95 pounds, Miss Hopper became the darling of Gay '90s, appearing in Broadway shows. The first big splash was in David Belasco's The Girl I Left Behind. She followed by triumph in Madame Sherry and abroad.

She starred in Florodora, which introduced chorus girls to Broadway and ran for two years, a spectacular accomplishment in those days. However, Miss Hopper was not one of the famous Florodora girls herself.

During those years, Miss Hopper married Augustus de Wolf but stayed married. Until then, her stage name had been Ana Wallace. But she kept the name after her divorce because it had become a trade mark.

Later she devoted herself to Wall Street. Addicted to girlish hats, high heels and frills, she was a familiar figure on the floor of the exchange.

Somebody asked her once how she managed to stay so young in appearance.

"It's leading a normal, full life," she replied. "I take exercise. I've never smoked. I never drink. I eat sensible things—lots of proteins and no fats. I go to bed early during the week, and weekends I entertain or am entertained."

NATO Must Put Military Forces In One Command

Herter Issues Direct Challenge to France

PARIS (AP) — In a direct challenge to France, State Secretary Christian Herter of the United States today told the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization they continue to integrate its military forces under one command.

Herter's remarks at the opening session of NATO's annual ministerial review simply underlined the major task of the session—the differences of opinion dividing President de Gaulle from his allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. De Gaulle has openly rejected the principle of integrated forces.

Herter spoke in a closed session of the ministerial council. A NATO spokesman reported his speech to a press conference.

The American foreign minister told the ministers reports implying that the U.S. might be withdrawing gradually its forces from Europe. His said these "inherent in budgetary misconception of Washington policy, and that the U.S. intends to maintain its NATO commitments.

INTEGRATED DEFENCE

Speaking of the concept of integrated defence, Herter said that it was on this basis that the U.S. had built its defence forces in Europe. The idea of integrated defence was more important than ever, he said. Despite flatly rejected this concept in favor of NATO countries building national armies under their own fiefs. However, he is reported to have given assurance that, at this time, he will withdraw no more French forces from NATO.

Herter warned the ministers that any weakening of the Atlantic alliance will undermine the West in future summit negotiations with the Soviet Union. He said the ultimate Russian goals remain the same despite any recent appearance of change.

Herter said the West must seek tangible agreements with the Soviet Union on two points—the future of Germany and the future of Berlin. The Soviet Union, he added, will be the Russian attitude on Berlin.

Herter told the NATO ministers that one summit conference with the Russians would be worth it enough and that others might follow.

Despite the fact that basic Soviet objectives were unchanged, Herter said, there had been a "progression that there is a genuine fear in the minds of the Soviet Union and they may be disposed to a more conciliatory attitude in solution of current problems."

On the other hand, Herter warned, the Soviet Union's intervention could also be made of Soviet intentions.

"The West must remain strong, and any weakening of the Atlantic alliance now negotiating position."

Before Herter spoke, French Premier Michel Debre called on the 15 peaceful countries of the alliance to end their differences and preserve their "political and military solidarity."

"There is no doubt that the division and lack of unity of operation call for the permanent victory of aggression," he said. "We assure that our political and mili-

Accident-Free Drivers to Get Cut in Rates

MONTREAL (CP) — Accident-free drivers and owners of cars that cost less than average to repair will benefit most from changes in 1950 automobile fire rates, the All Canada Insurance Federation said Monday.

The federation said that drivers with a five - year accident - free record will be given higher discounts than those already in effect for drivers with a one-year, two-year and three-year safety records.

The five - year safety discount will be set at per cent off standard rates provided the insured can average less than 10,000 miles annually; is not used for business or is not driven by anyone under the age of 25, if he can be used to drive to work, there will be a 45 per cent discount provided the driver is 25 years of age or over.

OTHER DISCOUNTS

One accident - free discounts are 20 per cent for the first year, 30 per cent for the second year and 35 per cent for the third consecutive year without an accident.

The new discounts, however, depending on an area's susceptibility to accidents, the cost of insurance that covers a driver. There are 880 standard rating areas across the country. Using $100 as an example of a driver's basic annual rate, the 1950 rates would work out this way: after one year without collision the driver's insurance would cost $90; after two years, $80; after three years, $65; and after four years, $60. A second - free year's big insurance would cost $55 and a fifth year, less than 10,000 miles annually, or $35 if the car was used to drive to work.

The federation said lower rates on cars that prove to be less costly to repair will be put into effect as soon as possible. Previously, rates were based apply mostly to the smaller models.

The federation said, however that, the new rates would be based on past repair costs of the cars and not on expected operation.

Ottawa Girl Found Dead, 3 in Hospital

OTTAWA (CP) — Annette Martin, 17, was found dead in the rear of a panel truck in a central Ottawa garage Monday. Three other Ottawa residents found with her are in hospital suffering from shock.

They are Lucien Bourdin, 21, of Ottawa; Jean Pierre Pouliot, 21, and Oscar Labrie, 18.

Police said the three, apparently victims of carbon monoxide poisoning, were found in the truck parked in a garage behind his St. Patrick Street home.

The discovery was made after Boudrin's employers phoned his wife, Mrs. Cecile Boudrin, when Boudrin did not show up for work.

Police, called after Mrs. Brennan discovered the truck's motor engine apparently ran until it emptied the gasoline tank.

CHRISTMAS TREES OFFERED ON MARKET

Christmas trees were the main item offered on the city market this morning. Tree vendors were offering Scotch pine, balsam and spruce, quoted from $1 to $2 each for the trees.

NATATORS GETTING READY FOR MEETS

In January, the various swimming and diving meets scheduled for the winter months of the season will be announcing and members of the Belleville and the girls' synchronized swimming teams at the local YMCA have been training in earnest for these events. Training once weekly under coaches Bill McDermott and Lorrie Ball, the boys and girls respectively have been stepping up their pace, it has been learned in being kept for their prospective swim - meet schedules. Both coaches and assistants are encouraged to join the fun.

Also, active in the sports program of the "Y" are the basketball judo lessons from Doctor Hallet of Trenton, assisted by Jim Driscoll, member of the Senior Belleville Judo Club of the local YMCA. The boys train each Wednesday evening for one hour. Strength, speed and method are closely agility as a sport rather than a term of self-defence. The judo classes find a very high level of competition for the various grading bouts.

BLAST BASEMENT FOR NEW BUILDING

Blasting operations at the site of the Trenton Victoria and Grey Trust Company building at the corner of Front and McAnnany streets, Trenton, occurred this morning at 7. Andies and Rose, general contractors, moved back for the preparation of the basement.

Light charges of dynamite boomed at intervals as holes were drilled and the broken rock and logs were fired.

Prior to each blast city police stopped traffic briefly as a precautionary measure along Front and McAnnany Streets.

Seven Cows, 2 Pigs Victims Of Barn Blaze

Still blazing almost two hours after the alarm was turned in at 1.47 a.m. this morning was the barn of Everett White, located one-quarter mile south of Hillcrest Corners on the 7th concession of Tyendinaga. The structure was totally destroyed by a short circuit in the milking machine, took hold quickly after igniting some 1,400 bales of hay. A number of livestock, including seven cows and a couple of pigs were victims of the blaze. Members of the Belleville Fire Department were still fighting the flames at 9.45 o'clock this morning.

Dyno Timberman Falls 450 Feet Down Ore Pass

BANCROFT (CP) — Gustav Kangro, 47, of Peterborough was killed Monday when he fell 450 feet down an ore pass at Madawaska Dyno Mines, 13 miles southeast of here.

The timberman, with helper Ernest Ericsson, was repairing an upright timber to the sill of the opening to the ore pass when he apparently lost his balance and fell.

Mr. Kangro was an experienced mine timber man and came to Canadian Dyno Mines 16 months ago after working many years in the Timmins and Kirkland Lake areas.

An inquest has been ordered.

Christmas Rush Has Started At Post Office, With Peak Anticipated This Thursday

The annual Christmas mail rush has commenced and the local Post Office is being turned into an around-the-clock proposition in order to handle the anticipated 2,115,000 pieces of Christmas mail this year.

Postmaster Albert Clare states the "rush" of incoming and outgoing mail started Friday and the peak is expected to be reached on Thursday of this week, the final deadline for local mail delivery.

The deadline for mail going anywhere in Ontario or Quebec is today.

To handle this heavy volume of Yuletide mail the permanent post office staff of 48 is being augmented by 134 temporary employees, 82 of them women. The temporary help, 26 of whom have been taken on to date, includes 30 letter carriers and helpers, and 104 sorters. All were hired from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, and the majority were unemployed.

The peak of the Christmas rush last year was reached on December 16th when a total of 151,000 pieces of Yuletide mail were processed, Mr. Clare disclosed. A total of 1,030,458 pieces of outgoing mail went through the cancelling machine last year, and it is estimated approximately the same amount of incoming mail was received at the post office and delivered to local homes.

An average of 4,500 Christmas parcels are dispatched and delivered from the local post office daily, Mr. Clare said. The total of incoming and outgoing parcels for the Christmas season is estimated at approximately 13,000.

600 MORE HOMES

"Due to the growth of the city and year through annexation, the local volume of Christmas mail and parcels is expected to be slightly higher," the postmaster stated. He added the mail carriers delivery to 600 more homes this year than last year. The postal home delivery area extends to all the municipal boundaries, except the Hillcrest, Avondale, and Parkdale areas.

The postmaster anticipates some difficulties to arise from incorrectly addressed incoming mail for residents in the newly annexed areas.

"We expect to receive a good deal of mail addressed simply "R.R. 4," instead of a street address," he explained. "We will do our best, but for this reason, we might not be able to get all the Christmas mail delivered to the new residents in the annexed areas before Christmas.

Mr. Clare urged everyone to put the return address on their cards and parcels, so if they cannot be delivered for some reason, they can be returned to the sender, with a notation as to the reason.

He also urged people to verify addresses of people to whom they are sending cards and Christmas greetings, particularly if they only hear from them once a year. Otherwise if the card or parcel is incorrectly addressed or the person to whom it is sent is not at that address, and there is no return address on it, it will end up in the "Dead Letter Office," he warned.

An estimated 15,000 pieces of Christmas mail are tied up in the Undelivered Mail Office in Toronto each year, he said.

The Postmaster suggested if mail deadlines are missed, mail over eight ounces should be sent by Air-Mail or by Air Parcel Post. All first class mail (under eight ounces) sent anywhere in Canada, even though sent at the regular rate, is automatically "air-mailed" whenever possible.

ARE CO-OPERATING

"Local citizens have been most co-operative in meeting their deadlines for mailing over the past few years," he stated.

Mr. Clare also suggested cards be tied in bundles to aid postal employees engaged in pulling letters through the cancelling machine.

One of the biggest problems confronting local postal employees in handling the annual flood of Christmas mail is the cramped floor space on two levels which hinders the efficient operation, he explained. Despite processing, Mr. Clare expects no delays.

He noted this will definitely be the last Christmas rush in the old building.

The local post office staff will move in new quarters in the new Federal Building, at the corner of Station, Pinnacle and Church Streets, around the middle of January, he said. The new Post Office will have approximately six or seven times the floor space of the present building and will have the added advantage of being all on one floor. There will be five mail doors instead of one, and 11 wickets all in a row, he said.

JOSEPH B. ROTH

Tribute Paid Late President Of Rotary Club

The scheduled Rotary Club program was dispensed and replaced by a short memorial service to honor late president, J. Fred Wilson, who died suddenly at his home, Saturday.

Fellow members of Mr. Wilson, Jos Dennis, a past president of the club said it was a difficult thing to do.

"For," he said, "because of a scarcity of material, he'd left much, and the problem is one of selection. He was associated with many organizations, and shared in service.

"Throughout his life, even before he joined Rotary, he put service before self (the Rotary creed) and was active in many aspects of community life, and even found time for golf.

"Although he had no children of his own, he was very interested in working among children."

Mr. Dennens said Mr. Wilson had worked with the Children's Aid Society, and would be missed by many children whom he helped and who have since grown up.

He was busy in his church, both as an individual and in the organized activities of the church. He was a member of the choir of his church before he was married.

Serving his community further, Mr. Dennens went on, Mr. Wilson was a member of Sidney Township, later becoming warden of Hastings County and finally a member of the Provincial parliament.

In more recent years, he was at pointed Bursar to the Ontario School for the Deaf.

"A gentleman — who is superintendent of the OSD — said Mr. Wilson had successfully combined a knowledge and understanding of the staid problems and ideas of the children with the duty towards the Department of Education.

He began his life on a farm, and helped on the Fair Board in a quiet but outstanding way. In Rotary, said Mr. Dennens, Mr. Wilson had been chairman of committee chairman, later program committee chairman before becoming president.

"On the attendance committee, he was outstanding — and perhaps the biggest dent in the attendance committee which has been made in the club.

"He served the highest principles of Rotary," said Mr. Dennens in conclusion, "and we should all be kept in mind, for the things he stood for in the club".

"His leadership will leave its mark on us".

Following Mr. Dennens's address, Archdeacon Jack Creighton read excerpts from St. Paul's to the Romans, and the 103th Psalm following which the members observed a minute's silence. Rev. Harry Davis then led the club in a prayer. The club then sang "O Canada".

The club will attend the funeral en masse.

Robert M. Hill Elected Chief Of Mohawks

Former chief of the Mohawk Reservation several years ago, Robert Melville Hill was the choice of band members yesterday as they went to the polls to elect a chief and councillors for the next two years.

The new chief defeated the incumbent, William Isaac Hill, and George H. Marsele for the position by a wide margin. The votes were: Robert Hill, 112; William Hill, 63, and George Marsele, 72.

Yesterday's election also saw the defeat of four new councillors from a field of seven candidates. Elected for the two year term were: Arnold J. Brant, 124; John P. Brant, 132; Ernest R. Marsele, 127, and Cyric Marsele 124. Defeated were Lawrence W. Marsele, 78; Reginald Sero, 114, and George Hill, 87.

Albert Marsele, a construction foreman, with the Tatham Company at Belleville, was elected as councillor, in a civilian election held in the R. B. D. John Brant is construction superintendent at the new Federal Building here in Belleville. Wife Cedric Marsele is a farmer on the reserve.

Electoral officers were John M. Brant and Bennett Brant, with Mrs. Eva Brant as clerk.

This year there was a residence requirement for all the voters' list. Previously band membership was a voting qualification. Of 370 voters on the list a total of 284 turned out at the polls.

Committee System of Govt., Afternoon Council Meetings Favored by 1960 Council

Plant Location Subject of Talk To Accountants

Describing ideal conditions under which a plant should—theoretically — be located, a university professor told a meeting of yesterday personal whims of management frequently over rule and circumstances take precedence over the cost.

The speaker was professor J. S. Campbell, chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Queen's University. He was addressing the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario.

To the layman, who generally just notices a plant being built, then a few months later begin production the professor's remarks illustrated there was a great deal more to it than that.

"Theoretically", he pointed out, "the most favorable location is that place where in consideration of business as a whole, the cost of producing and delivering goods to all customers is lowest.

"Actually, however", he said, "the decision is not based on profits reason. Frequently this management frequently overrule this.

Prof. Campbell suggested those who were locating to consider all the available sites on a comparative point basis for each factor to be considered.

MANY FACTORS

These factors, he said, should include industrial, social, geographical, recreational, cultural and buildings and the selection of building installations (services).

Industrially, transportation is very much and also to raw materials should be considered along with transportation for employees. Communications with customers and shipping facilities, inducements (of free land low assessment etc) should all be kept in mind.

Prof. Campbell explained that socially, potential plant planners should bear in mind characteristics of labor and living conditions for employees.

They should also remember that key personnel demand educational facilities for their children, said the speaker. Other points are government regulations, (pollution, traffic) clubs, swimming pools, ball parks etc) and residential facilities.

SHOULD ANALYZE SOURCES

Geographically, the soil, climate (topography and raw material resources should be analyzed.

The planners should also keep in mind present trends towards suburban plant location where there are the advantages of the large plant.

In designing the building itself, said Prof. Campbell, the layout will depend upon whether the plant will be mass production, custom manufacturing, lot fabrication with line assembly or ultimate the fabrication and line assembly.

In conclusion, the professor outlined some of the principles of production planning including the co-ordination of men, machines, materials and money for a given output for schedule.

Chairman at the dinner Chapter, C. J. Holmes B.A. was in the chair for last night's meeting.

Council Meetings For 1960 Favored by Majority

A possible return next year to the standing committee system of city council was seen as the result of a caucus meeting of next year's council members held yesterday afternoon at city hall.

Under the proposal the present system of committees of the whole on alternate Monday evening would be dispensed with, while separate committees for public works, finance, fire, and other phases of city administration would be set up.

There was no suggestion that the city manager system of government would be dispensed with, although it was agreed the authority and duties of the city manager might not be made until well into the New Year.

Council members for 1960 also favored holding regular council meetings during the afternoon instead of in the evening as at present. Only about three councillors favored continuance of evening meetings.

It appeared that the afternoon meetings, commencing at 4.30 would be given a trial period of at least three months.

The meeting presided over by Mayor-elect A. McLean Haig, with special committee on Aldermen Temple, Wishart, Ellis, Jarvis and Reid set up to re-draft the procedural bylaw to allow the setting up of standing committees and change from evening to afternoon meetings.

Also set up was a committee consisting of Aldermen Barlow, Bailey, Ireland and Temple to meet with officials of the Rawson Bus Company regarding possible continuance of bus service after the new year.

'Y' Clubs Hang Decorations All Through Building

Yesterday evening the members of the Belleville YMCA gathered for the annual ceremony of "Hanging of the Green." A large number of "Y" clubs were present to put up Christmas decorations throughout the building from top to bottom.

The Rangers' Corps decorated the Christmas tree in the main lobby as well as hanging many bells, boughs and streamers about the room. In the Board room on the west lobby the "Y" Senettes placed tree boughs on the walls and Christmas figurines and artificial snow on the mantelpiece.

In the basement the Girls' Hi-Y Club displayed many attractive items in decorations and very few points were not adorned with some form of embellishment. In the auditorium the Boy-Ed Club was busy hanging stars and ornaments as well as decorating the Christmas tree.

On the uppermost floor in the men's residence, there is a Santa Claus on each door with streamers and boughs throughout the place and a Christmas tree in the common room, of course.

During the decoration operations Christmas carols and music were played throughout the building. At the conclusion of the decorating everyone joined together for a snack followed by a social session with carol singing featured.

Board of Education Winds Up Business of Past Year

TRENTON — The final meeting of the 1959 Board of Education was held last evening in the Board Room at North Trenton Public School. Present at the meeting were: T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the board and members Mrs. E. Bedford, Paul Tripp, Mark Fillon, Cecil Hall, R. Barlow, F. J. Asi; Basil Brooks, representative of Trenton Separate School Board, J. McNally of the Separate School Board and E. T. Sullivan, principal of Trenton Public Schools.

Mr. Ketcheson thanked the members of the board for their co-operation during the past year.

With the exception of Colin Crews, who was not re-elected to the board, members of the present board will again serve in 1960. George Green, who has served on the board previously, was elected to the board for the coming year at the recent municipal elections.

The correspondence was read by the secretary, Mr. Y. F. Carswell. A letter had been received from Nora Hodgins of the Ontario Curriculum Review Committee, Toronto thanking the board for making it possible for Mr. K. J. Pearson, executive officer at Trenton High School, to attend a recent conference of association. She said that Mr. Ferren had been very helpful in group discussions of problems.

A communication was read from several prominent residents living in the Dufferin Avenue School, protesting the proposed grant from the board to the west of the school playground to the Welfare Department for the erection of a home for the aged. A. Gordon Dewell, welfare officer, had approached the board last month requesting the land. The residents pointed out that this type of building would not be compatible with the surrounding homes, and suggested that the site was "uphill from the Planning Board and the elderly persons who would occupy the home."

NEW WORK DOWN

Mr. Crews said that he had gone into the matter and that he had been told that Mr. Dewell had not cleared the proposed site with the Planning Board and until this was done, he could not see any reason for discussing the merits and drawbacks of the scheme.

Mr. Carswell read a letter from S. D. Rendall, superintendent of secondary education, concerning the cadet program at the high school. Mr. Rendall stated that the program would be reduced by 50 percent in the coming year. There will be more emphasis placed on citizenship.

D. S. Allison had written to the board advising the members that restitution had been made by one of the girls who was responsible for breaking windows in Trenton Memorial School to the extent of $31. The second girl involved had not paid her share of restitution but it was expected that she would do so in the near future. Mr. Atkins felt that the girls had learned their lesson.

C. E. McMullen, inspector of schools for this area, had written the board stating that the standard of teaching and upkeep in Trenton was up to par. Miss Beth School was very good. He remarked on the need for an opportunity class in the school, as some children were not able to keep up to the class standard.

E. S. Denyes, clerk-treasurer for the county of Hastings, had written to affirm the re-appointment to the board of Basil Brooks as a representative of the county.

Mr. McMullen, in making his report to the board, made the announcement that all students will be required to write the examinations to conform to the province system of scholarships and bursaries, which have been set up in the schools.

Mr. McMullen also announced that 90 percent of the girls at the high school had decided in favor of a school uniform. These will consist of a shirt, blouser and jacket. The wearing of the uniform will be encouraged, but they are not obligatory.

DISCUSS CAUSES

There was some discussion concerning the presence of pets in one of the schools and the advisability of retaining the services of a firm hired to exterminate these pests, at the termination of the first of the year. "Why do we have them?" asked the chairman. "The rats were the last we saw," asked Mr. Bedford.

A lengthy discussion followed as to the cause of the pests and their mode of entry into the school premises.

Mr. Carswell reported that he had received a bill from a firm hired to take away ashes and other garbage during the year. The bill had been removed from the agenda for the months of July and August and Mr. Carswell inquired this as the months in question were warm enough to eliminate the need for furnace fires.

An agreement compatible to the board members and the association of non-teaching employees had been drawn up by a Toronto firm versed in labor-management relations, and it was decided to accept the agreement on its merits. Among other items in the agreement that the employees would receive three weeks holiday pay after 10 years service.

Mr. Carswell asked the board to replace the "cleaning machine" which had recently been removed from College Street School.

The machine had been valued at $250. Mr. Allison asked if anyone knew of any local tradesman, who was handy-talking cleaning contractor, Mr. Ketcheson stated at this point if the boilers in the schools were inspected.

Mrs. Bedford commented on the Opportunity Class at the North Trenton School. She said that the pupils were coming along remarkably well, and said that every effort should be made to form another class next year.

Mr. Carswell was instructed to write to the Air Commodore at Air Transport Command and the proper educational authority requesting that a qualified member be appointed to the board from the airport.

The next regular meeting for the 1960 board will be held on January 13.

Two Wanted Men Now in Custody In County Jail

Two of Canada's most wanted men are in Hastings county jail today after being brought to Belleville Monday, to face charges of kidnapping and armed robbery.

The pair, Warren W. Durning, 26, of Economy, N. S., and Richard Madison, 17, of Boston, arrived at midnight last night escorted by two Ontario Provincial Police officers. Following their arrest in Bangor, the men said they would fight return to Ontario, but yesterday unexpectedly waived extradition.

They will be remanded today and are expected to make their first court appearance Thursday before Magistrate T. F. Wills.

The two men will face kidnapping and armed robbery charges in connection with the abduction last fall of five members of the Percy Moore family at Milltown who were taken to the Morrisburg area and there released. The men are also wanted at Niagara-on-the-Lake and Merrickville.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police put the men on their most wanted list after they had received a police dragnet as the result of kidnapping in the Niagara area and at Milltown.

Unemployed Persons Increase, Also Number of Jobs Decreases, But Not as Much as Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployed force compared with 3.8 per cent persons in Canada increased to 396,000 on Nov. 16 from 237,000 a month earlier but remained below the 382,000 figure of November of last year, the government estimated today.

During the month, the number with jobs dropped by 102,000 to 4,380,000 but stayed well above the 3,773,000 of November, 1958.

The unemployment rate is the statement on employment said the number of job-holders fell off in October and November by about the most marked in Ontario and the Maritime provinces.

In these regions, the statement said, the seasonal cold weather decline was accentuated by steel shortages in Ontario—caused by the United States strike in that industry—and by an early and severe winter in the East.

"Many areas in all of these regions also reported heavy layoffs in residential construction," the government said in its joint statement from the labor department and bureau of statistics.

TEMPORARY LAYOFFS

Apart from those listed as without jobs, the bureau estimated that at mid-November there were 31,000 on temporary layoffs compared with 14,000 a month earlier. The figure was 18,000 in November of last year.

At the same time, National Employment Service reported that 253,246 registered for work on Nov. 13, against 278,168 in the corresponding week and 308,275 a year before.

The number out of work was estimated by the bureau of statistics at 4.7 per cent of the labor

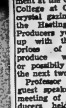
3 Best Entries In Safety Award



Entries from the No. 9 Ontario Provincial Police District in the Jack Hammell Highway Safety Competition were judged Saturday afternoon with the three best entries being forwarded to the provincial.

Final results are not expected to be announced for another week or ten days. Local entries were judged by Judge J. C. Anderson and Everett Paterson.

Entries in the special were invited from all parts of Ontario with prizes of $50 to be given to the winner in each of the 17 provincial police districts. Annual Dodsen winner will then be chosen, the winner to receive an additional $300.

Predicts Prices of Farm Products May Level off, Show Decline in Next 2 Yrs.

ROYAL BANK APPOINTMENT

J. H. COLEMAN

The Royal Bank of Canada has announced the appointment of J. H. Coleman, formerly Supervisor of Branches in the Saskatchewan District, to be General Inspector, with headquarters in Toronto. He succeeds C. B. Clark, recently named an Assistant General Manager. A banker with a broad background of experience, Mr. Coleman has served the Royal Bank in many parts of Canada, including Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Professor Ralph Campbell, head of the economics department at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, did some crystal gazing for members of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture yesterday and came up with the prediction that prices of farm products would level off or possibly decline slightly in the next two years.

Professor Campbell was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of county cheese producers held at the Ivanhoe township hall which saw close to 150 county farmers in attendance.

Looking into the future the speaker felt that milk prices in the next two-year period might show a little but might ease off slightly, while the outlook for pork was difficult to foresee.

Hector Gauthier, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers, outlined the program which the cheese marketing board had followed during the past year and noted that cheese milk production had shown an increase in Canada this year, mostly in the province of Quebec. He said that a good order of cheese remained with the United Kingdom last fall had resulted in a better pricing of cheese during the country.

After five years in the president's chair, Mr. Gauthier said Madoc township has retired as head of the county cheese making with Gordon Bailey of Rawdon taking over. Vice-president George Wright of Ivanhoe with Phil Carr of Stirling serving as secretary-treasurer.

Twp. directors were all returned to office for another term.

The meeting saw appreciation of the county producers expressed to two former cheese instructors, John Wilkinson of Tweed, who is now manufacturing equipment, Mary Glover, Elsie Shoemker, Rhoda Garrison, Donna Hamilton, Edna Patrick, Lillian Myers, Irene Boyle, Louise Hyatt, Audrey McFarland and Marg. Carr.

These officers will be installed at the January meeting.

A Good Reason for This Remark

About a fortnight ago a Toronto court awarded a woman $1,000 damages for an accident in which she suffered a permanent disfigurement. The disfigurement was a protruding bone in the shoulder, revealed only when the woman donned evening dress. The woman in question had done part-time cleaning work. The presiding judge remarked that this disfigurement was not as serious for her as it would have been had her station in life been different.

The award, and the judge's remarks, were given big "play" in Toronto newspapers. Not surprisingly, there resulted a flood of indignant letters to the editors of these papers. Was there, the writers demanded, one law for the rich and one law for the poor?

To date we have seen no attempt to explain the principle of law behind the judge's remarks, although many of the members of the editorial staffs of the papers printing these letters must be fully aware of it. This is a poor way to serve the cause of justice. Although we can well understand the reaction of the judge in question when he refused to comment when queried by a reporter for one of the papers, we think it unfortunate that he should have considered this attitude necessary.

Basically, the cause of this misunderstanding is the fact that the courts refuse, in general, to put a monetary price on any loss which is not a material one. Two women may lose their husbands in accidents. One of these men may have been a day laborer, earning $3,000 a year. Another may have been a successful, executive, drawing a salary of $50,000. The wife of the laborer may have loved him much more dearly than the wife of the executive loved her husband. But what court can put a price on love? Courts refuse to do so. The wife of the executive would be awarded damages several times that awarded the wife of the laborer, because her material loss would be greater. The executive, had he lived, would have earned more than the laborer.

To claim damages for the death or injury of another person, the plaintiff must have suffered financial loss. For this reason, awards to a husband or parent for injury to a child are likely to be higher than awards for death; it costs more to maintain a crippled child than it would to bury him.

If Gordie Howe, Fred Astaire and a $60-a week clerk all suffered similar accidents, in which each lost his right leg, the damages which would be awarded to Howe and Astaire would be much higher than the damages awarded the clerk. The clery, Howe and Astaire would all suffer the same pain and anguish, but whereas the clerk would probably be able to continue to hold his job with a little effort, Mr. Howe's hockey-playing days and Mr. Astaire's dancing career would be ended. Their financial loss would be much greater than that of the clerk.

As for the Toronto woman awarded $1,000, that protruding shoulder bone is not going to hamper her in her work, as a similar disfigurement would hamper an elevator girl or a model. The judge was right—her injury is not as serious as it might have been to a person in a different station in life.

Besides the effect of the injury on the woman's earning power, though, there must be considered its effect on her normal way of life. If her station in life had been such that normally she wore evening gown frequently, the occasions on which she would have been embarrassed by the injury would be much more numerous, and would have warranted higher damages.

That the woman who frequently wears an evening gown is likely to be wealthier than one who seldom does is purely coincidental. Courts can think of injuries which would likely result in a poor man receiving heavier damages than a rich man.

If a plaintiff in a small night club lost three fingers off his left hand, he might draw heavier damages than might a Supreme Court justice for a similar injury. The plaintiff would be unable to continue his work, the judge would find the injury little more than an annoyance.

It is possible to argue, of course, that the courts ought not to take into account differences of earning power and of station in life in awarding damages for injuries. But, as long as these differences exist, and as long as the law regards damage awards as an effort to recompense the victim for material loss, the amounts of the awards must necessarily vary in accordance with the circumstances.

Most people, we believe, will consider this reasonable.

What Brings Promotion?

New York Times

Governor Rockefeller was reported agreed at meeting that one of his big problems was "promotion"—finding the right man for the job. Recently, also, Crawford H. Greenewalt, the president of du Pont, stated that in choosing men to fill a higher post the "related head" was always a good guide. The character ingredients that together make the "related head" who will satisfaction for the employer and assure that employees are oriented undefined by both parties. Capacities for individual adaptability and growth should measurement. However, personnel departments, which have grown rapidly with their corporations during the last decade and more, have some good indicators of what marks out the man who succeeds beyond the man who inhabits the status quo.

• • •

The celebrated qualities of willingness and industry, though of course highly important, are not deciding factors in who goes up the ladder and who doesn't. Those qualities are to be found in abundance among head-up employes as well as men. Greenewalt indicated, they aren't enough to go on by themselves in making his choice. While we are discounting the negative side of the coin, we might continue by heralding a few of the more positive myths. It is not, in any simple sense, whom one knows either. Nor is it the passage of super-loyalty to his company is not thereby assuring his advancement.

• • •

The man who gets ahead, according to corporate personnel experts, is the man with a strong "competitive interest." He applies this to his company's welfare and to his own. He is the man who listens to solve a problem—who is not a mountain of work, ahead of another division of his company, or ahead of any other corporation. At the same time he's competing with his fellows—he is no doormat; he has a healthy selfishness. Further, this man is distinguished by a knowledge of the company, its problems, its goals and organization. He is not a narrow specialist. He is not a generalist with a superficial knowledge in addition to the knowledge of his particular specialty or skill.

• • •

Those are the most distinguishing characteristics — but adaptability and drive are also important qualities. The man who does his task well and is dissatisfied that switch him out of an accustomed groove because the company community is obviously not a man who can service his community, participate in it in a big way in a top-grade capacity. Adaptability — the ability to switch mentally from one point to another of moving physically from a plant to a plant, make one of the key factors found among corporation executives today. Such a man, incidentally, often is handicapped when he goes into a small company — it doesn't provide the means for the mobility he is capable of, and expects is willing to contribute. (Another advantage for executive employees type that the big corporation offers is a proportion of different work situations.)

• • •

Personnel experts of large corporations point out that though there are many industrial projects and services available from day to help the ambitious man succeed, the greatest factor in a man's career is the man himself. Training courses, programs, job interviews can help, but they are not what makes the difference between the employee who stops moving and the one who goes on up. Essentially all successful-forming qualities flow from the individual's knowledge of what he wants plus an ability to decide what the requirements are and of receiving it; and finally, of course, the capacity for effective action following thought.

Strictly Personal
Offers Advice, Comfort for New Parents

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

This is a little piece of advice and comfort for new parents, and that readers whose children have gone beyond the Crying Stage in the Night Stage will please look tightly over the following paragraphs.

One of the anxieties facing new parents is the crying child at night. Baby wakes, he/she bawls wailing, parents imagine it can be heard in the next block, it is nothing of the next house, and they usually become frantic with embarrassment and embarrassment apprehension and embarrassment.

But if your neighbors have young children themselves, they will be far from upset even when they hear your infant crying. In fact, they will be secretly glad and gratified — for nothing pleases a parent more than to hear a crying baby other than his own.

Some years ago, we shared a summer cottage with another couple who had a eight-month-old baby. This couple was mortified when the child woke up at night and began caterwauling, and the apologies were profuse the next morning.

But, having two small ones ourselves at the time, we purred with smugness at being roused in the middle of the night and realized that, for the moment, our child, it was music to our ears.

Now, we are always pleased and not to the parents of new children when the crying of a strange child. There is a feeling of relief — thank God it's not ours; or superiority — we have survived through the night; of comradeship — everybody has the same trouble with the night nurse; and of sheer animal satisfaction — how lovely to hear the back yike slumber while someone else is pacing the floor.

Besides, parents soon learn to tune out noise from foreign sources. The quietest whimper from one of our own far down the hall will bring us up with a start; but the loudest bleating of another child does not disturb us, and we have found people who live near airports hear the recurring roar of the planes overhead.

Young parents are generally too sensitive about the behavior and the noises of their toy too hysterically to prevent be baby hon — baby does not mind — which, of course, only makes things worse. They should realize that the noises of children will sympathize, while the fanatical silence of children will be grateful that they have never had to commune with 2 a.m. vigils on the cold floor.

When the baby next door begins to wail at night, we turn to each other with placid smiles, rearrange our heads on the pillows, and sink right back into the sweet slumber of parents with older children.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WOULD WE BE HAPPIER?

It may often seem strange to us that the Bible tells us so little about heaven.

But how much better off, spiritually, would we be if we knew more in detail about what heaven actually is like? Would it make us more devout? Would it help us to be more Christ-like? To be sure, we need to know that there is a glorious life after death as the consummation of our earthly careers. But details are not necessary — or at least not so necessary as we may think.

Probably the greatest reason why the Bible has little to say about heaven is because the human mind could not understand the things of heaven even if it were explained. In the concept of heaven, we are dealing with things which are beyond human categories of thought. In the first place, we are dealing with a realm of the spirit. Secondly, no one has ever gone and returned, excepting Jesus Himself. Also we are dealing with a spiritual realm which is beyond the range of human experience. Hence we have to rely upon revelation. And we should not complain that revelation gives us only a little information, for the not understand more.

HE LOVES HER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

He loves her, so he says,
And yet sometimes I doubt it;
For, every little thing she does
He makes a fuss about it.
Impatient he's with her,
Cross are the words he uses;
He loves his wife, and yet
His wife he most abuses.

Poor little woman. Oft
I've seen her teardrops start
When angry words that he had used
Had cut her to the heart.

His pleasure now comes first;
Her comfort matters not.
She is his wife, and so must be Contented with her lot.

He loves her, so he says,
For her, he'd quickly fight;
And once when she was ill
He nursed her day and night.

He would not stray or trifle,
So I'd like to know
Just what there is in love that makes
Man treat woman so.

Character Right Choice

Calgary Albertan

We're not much for slogans but we liked the one put out by the Canadian Council of the Salvation, while speaking recently to the meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Toronto, Ont., declared:

"The choice for America and the world," Scott said, "is not Democratic, is character, not color."

Canada has many admirable people in the world who advocate courses of action which are inimical to freedom, peace and friendship, but who are able to point to every human being "indecent" people who are more than little confused about racial tolerance.

We don't like being abjured to love people either because of or in spite of the color of their skin. It's quite unnecessary that we should count — character, not

Canadian PLACE NAMES

PICTOU, N.S.

A village, county and island. Origin of the name is uncertain but some think it is a corruption of Micmac "Pigtook" meaning entrance in France, and that the Indians was so-named by explorers. Rand derives the word from the Micmac Pitook, meaning "fire opened by the explosion of gas," due to the presence of nearby coal mines.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Without doubt the simplest invention out of Scandinavia since the days of the Vikings century, famous above all other centuries for the wealth of its productive imagination, is the wire coat hanger. Since its blood relative has been generated by this inferior device than all other gadgets together. Reach for one, and you get two. Get one of white felt, with your coat on it, and you knock three down, which also fell, with that most frustrating of all twentieth century sounds, tinkle-clitter-click, onto the clothes closet floor.

Many people have bowed, grovelled, groaned in the retrieval of wire coat hangers than ever bowed to Baal. More cigars have been burnt, more braces bust, more buttons blown, in the pursuit of wire coat hanger by the average than in any other twentieth century exertion.

There are billions of them. Every closet has them. The cleaners sometimes two to a garment. And often two to either because the body will throw the darn things back. It's the way they are bent, the way they go in every closet and on every door.

The nineteenth century coat hanger upon which this wrathful twentieth century monstrosity is modelled was of wood. It gave you a good grip. It wobbled, but it never sprang. If it fell, you could kick it. But you got no satisfaction from kicking it. It just lay there. In fact, you can't kick it. Nothing but hook, and all it does, as usual, is slither.

TENSION DEVELOPS WHEN COMPETITION BECOMES AN OBSESSION

"Dear Doctor: May I add my bit to your article about 'meditation can slow up people who don't relax'? It seems to me that our wonderful way of life, which is superior to that of the rest of the world, is a double edged sword. While we have so many advantages as a result of it, we also have a bad hyperdue: Tension. Competition is what makes our country so wonderful, but it also certainly a toll on people — emotionally.

"I've heard references to it, but not enough: We must stress the human values more.

"Ironically enough, I am a working wife, and mother of four children. I work to supplement our income, in order to share in our wonderful way of life, but I have a very relaxed personality, too. I can be dead serious when I have to be, but I also can play hard when I have time to play with them.

"Despite our more than adequate income, we don't have a new car, nor any other fortunate. We have those things we need, on a moderate basis — and no bills.

"If people would start accepting their own individual worth, they wouldn't have this mad pressure on them to get ahead of the Joneses'; or at least keep up with them.

"It's time we made the Joneses a symbol of tranquility and adequacy rather than one of insecurity and keeping up appearances. Yours for making serenity a point of competition.—Mrs. S. S."

The foregoing letter — from a lady of quality of considerable education. In a way, I'm not sure that it hits everything right on the head — but it comes close.

That is to say, I don't think competition is necessarily accompanied by tension — not to a harmful degree, that causes the tension (or so I suspect) is letting normal, healthy competition turn into a mania. Especially competition.

Keeping up with the Joneses, if you like, and trying to get ahead of them!

Healthy competition is fine. It keeps us lively. It makes us keen. It makes the difference — fretting, worrying and steering over coming in second, is something else.

Mrs. S. H.'s letter is a sane and reasonable one. I don't know when I've seen a better piece of advice than that closing one: "It's time we made the Joneses a symbol of tranquility and adequacy rather than one of insane and insane competition."

That is really sound thinking.

"Dear Doctor: Some of us would like your opinion about the effects of smoking and not inhaling. We are wondering if the statistics we read about the relationship between smoking and lung cancer apply to those who don't inhale?—M.J.P."

I don't know whether anybody has collected important statistics on this — but I think it may be begging the issue to some extent.

A certain amount is inhaled by all smokers, whether they intend to or not, but the important fact, is that, in the case of smokers, if they are heavy smokers, usually they inhale deeply, and the statistics indicate that the heavy smokers (two packs a day or more) are far more likely to acquire lung cancer.

It is true, of course, that some cigaret smokers puff lightly and don't "inhale" in the sense in which we are using the word. But I wouldn't count them as "heavy smokers" as a rule.

In short, I presume that smoking, but not inhaling would be relatively less pernicious, but I haven't too much confidence that a heavy smoker will do this.

Industry

According to a recent newsitem, Washington State fisheries department has bought 10,000 pounds of Canadian eggs. Washington-spawned salmon to bear Canadian crests. Good example of the North Pacific.

"Project Sue-Spangled Salmon" was begun, apparently, out of a derisive remark by a Canadian delegate to some international conference on salmon fishing. He said: "We haven't noticed any American flags on their fish . . ."

Well, that's the trouble with employing derision. Like irony and sarcasm, it's so darned liable to backfire. Look at the whole incautious Canadian bites the dust. Still, at least he now knows for sure that the noble principle of self determination definitely does not extend to fish.

And we must also admit that the incident shows that the mockings of some lovingly mercenary Yankees are wondering if the statistics we read about the relationship between smoking and lung cancer apply to those who don't inhale?—M.J.P."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD'S GREAT GIFT

One of the most inspiring brief books that have contributed to my happiness and peace, as have few others, is one entitled "Peace of Mind," by Joshua Loth Liebman. I would call it a classic, but it is. The author died few years ago, but left this inspiring book. "Peace of mind" is only the sweet writers of serenity. Give me the gift of the unruffled mind."

I have thought of this beautiful thing time and again. I should be the heritage of us all, engraved upon the mind of every human being. If it could be, it would revolutionize the spiritual experience of every man and woman. It would be and distribute it far and wide. What a gift from God is the "undisturbed Mind"! How it should influence us all in our daily lives.

Christ said: "Let not your heart be troubled." He knew the thoughtless things of life that disturb the mind, the peace of it, what a burden is released from the mind. And what a joy then, to behold. The calm of mind.

I read Thoreau largely to get his point of view. He was a deep before me his rule of life, or at least some of the striking lines, like that one of two words. "Simplify, simplify," he said. Great simplicity is the peace of all. But those blessings need to be made clear also. The most helpful words of kindness, and greatest praise. Encouragement and appreciation are better medicine than any you get from the doctor, or minister now greet that man may be.

Hard to Locate 100 Refugee Families With Only One TB Sufferer, Mercy Teams Find

By JOHN BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROME (CP) — Mercy teams have run into difficulties in filling the Canadian government's commitments to admit to Canada as immigrants 100 European tubercular refugees and their families.

However, Canadian selection teams to date have been able to find only 62 refugee families with one member suffering from the disease. Forty have been found in Italian camps and 22 in Austrian camps, but processing Austria in reverse at Salzburg, Austria.

Officials of the office of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees and the intergovernmental committee for European migration say it may be necessary to select families in German camps if the quota is to be filled. An alternative, they would require Canadian government approval, would be to select families with more than one TB patient, or single persons with the disease.

With the completion of the Canadian programs, there will be about 100 TB refugee cases in Italy involving about 300 persons. These patients will be one single or members of a family with more one TB case.

Meanwhile, Canadian officials today completed arrangements for the first flight of refugees due to leave Rome Tuesday and arrive in Toronto Wednesday morning. Sixty - three stateless men, women and children with seven infants will be flown to Toronto by Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Even as they packed their scanty belongings and prepared to leave Italy, most of the refugees could hardly believe they would soon be on their way to new lives overseas.

One of them is Ivan Yezetlich, 52, an Albanian married to an Italian of Turkish origin. After being released from a German prisoner-of-war camp, he spent 14 years in Italian refugee camps—the longest of any of the refugees going to Canada.

"I had no hope of going anywhere," he said, looking back on a history of wanderings by Norway, Belgium and Britain.

"We were completely abandoned—or so we thought. Many of our friends emigrated and we went away. No one cared about us. We were waiting and waiting and waiting at the mercy of we didn't even know who."

Ernest Zats Birles, a 47-year-old Yugoslav, has the largest family. They include his wife Vilvaria, 34, who completed her treatment for TB, three daughters and two sons.

The refugees will bring a wide range of skills to Canada. They include a jeweler, an electrician, a machinist, a qualified surveyor, a miner, a barber and woman expert in the manufacture of fishing rods.

Police Court

A Prince Edward County man from Cherry Valley pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences in city magistrate's court today and was remanded for sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The court was told the man had purchased a car from a local car dealer and had tendered a cheque for just over $200 as partial payment. The cheque "bounced" and the man was charged with false pretences.

The police reported a car stolen from where it had been parked in the corner of Bridge and Church Streets, although they indicated it still may have been a case of the owner forgetting exactly where he had left the vehicle.

TORONTO (CP) — Thirty-nine families from the squalor of European refugee camps will reach Canada in time for Christmas.

The first group of 19 families is due at nearby Malton Airport Wednesday.

One member of each family is a tuberculosis patient.

They are the first of 100 tubercular sufferers and their families being brought to Canada during World Refugee Year by the federal government.

The second flight is scheduled to arrive Christmas Eve in Halifax. Then St. John, N.B., carrying 20 families. There are 79 more to come on both flights. The third flight, not yet scheduled, will go to Quebec or the West.

The TB cases will be located in main centres where medical treatment is available, where families can find work and where arrangements can be made particularly to keep up the morale of the patient in hospital.

Responsibility for resettlement is being arranged with the aid of 40 national organizations participating in World Refugee Year.

The 40 national groups are carrying out programs of their own. The Junior Red Cross hopes to collect $50,000 during a blitz next February in Canadian schools for refugee children and programs for refugee children.

Another big event, June, 1959, to June, 1960, the United Church will raise its annual $140,000 projects with the aid of the Presbyterian Church and the Anglican Church of Canada will raise an extra $100,000.

PLAN $1,000,000 GIFT

Roman Catholic organizations have already completed their specific fo a campaign and plan to contribute $1,000,000. Lutherans will raise $50,000.

The Canadian Council of Jewish Women has received the federal government's permission to bring 1,500 families to Canada. The Czechoslovak Association will be raising some of its people from camps in Germany and Austria.

Much of the money raised in Canada will go into a central fund to be used by the United Nations high commissioner for refugees and the rehousing of refugees in the countries where they are.

The YWCA hopes to raise $250,000 from its adult members for the vocational training of young Arabs in Jordan.

SOUTH SASKATCHEWAN DAM SITE — This aerial photo shows the site of the South Saskatchewan River Dam, a $182,000,000 project 15 miles south of Saskatoon. Impact of Building Water, Power Project Being Felt by Many Saskatchewan Towns

CP YEAR-END REVIEW

SASKATOON (CP) — Work is well under way on a great water and power project which within the next 10 years should see the start of irrigation in dry, crop-killing lands of central Saskatchewan.

Farmland of the Palliser Triangle now is the site of construction begun in 1959 on the build banks of the muddy South Saskatchewan River.

The river, a ribbon of water flowing through a belt of dry land, is to be sent up by a giant earth dam about 80 miles south of Saskatoon.

WATER 300,000 ACRES

The dam will contain a lake 140 miles long. The water will irrigate 500,000 acres of surrounding land, though the full irrigation potential won't be realized for at least 25 years.

A secondary dam to be built across the Qu'Appelle Valley 12 miles northeast of the main site brings into focus the immensity of the $182,000,000 project.

This dam is being built mainly to keep the trapped water from flowing down the valley to Winnipeg, 450 miles east, and posing a flood threat.

The first year of construction has been an estimated 20 per cent of earth - moving contracts completed for $9,000,000.

More than $4,000,000 in machinery was used to push away the soft topsoil on which the main dam will be built and replace it with a more substantial foundation.

RIVER DIRKED

The river, except for a narrow channel, has been dirked and backfilled to form a foundation for the embankment, which will cover 210 feet and stretch nearly 17,000 feet.

The impact of the project is being felt in surrounding communities such as Outlook, Hanley, Loreburn and Dundurn. Business has taken strides in its 1958, 'There is plenty of expansion.

Applications to establish new businesses on the access roads carrying workers and machinery into the area are being turned down. The governments—federal, provincial and municipal — are promoting a slow growth rather than a quick boom.

Already a new community has blossomed. It comprises 40 houses and four operational buildings at the main dam site Primarily an irrigation project the dam will provide power and recreation facilities also.

The controlled flow of water through a $45,000,000 hydro plant and turbines will result in 375,000,000 kilowatt hours annually of power.

BOATING PARADISE

The 300 - mile shoreline of the lake will be a boating and camping paradise for Saskatchewan residents, two - thirds of whom will only be a two - hour drive from the dam.

In 1960, the 100-year-old vision will move a step closer to reality with the construction of five diversion tunnels, each 20 feet in diameter and large enough to carry a full-sized train.

Alberta irrigation expenditures have tailed off from a $30,000,000 program in the mid-1950s to $900,000 in 1959.

About $440,000 went for drainage and general work on the St. Mary - Milk Rivers development near Lethbridge, and another $310,000 was spent also for clearing work on the Bow River development near Brant.

Alberta's eastern irrigation district a syphon—a structure to carry water across a depression—was replaced for $150,000 across Antelope Creek.

NATO MUST PUT

tary solidarity will endure," Debre said in opening the annual meeting of the 15 NATO foreign ministers.

Taking note of the differences, Debre said of NATO:

"The basic traditions of each country, the awareness of the specific interests of each, sometimes lead to misunderstandings which, in turn, create serious difficulties.

"We are living in a world and at a time overhauling the great peril and, contrary to the hopes raised at the end of the last century, peace is not founded primarily on the rule of law, but on the balance of forces. As for allies, not only for our own sakes but to ensure the existence of a power which is essential to world equilibrium."

After 10 years the alliance appears to be in for heavy refueling. Secretary - General Paul-Henri Spaak told reporters he is convinced that "the alliance cannot live unless it adapts itself."

On Saturday President de Gaulle will host President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and Chancellor Adenauer in talks to prepare for the expected Eisenhower - Macmillan - de Gaulle meeting next spring with Premier Khrushchev.

The date, place and agenda of the East-West summit will be discussed by all the NATO powers. The date to be proposed to Khrushchev is expected to fall sometime between April 15 and May 31. Geneva is regarded as the likely place, although the French would be willing to have Paris picked.

The agenda is something else again. The big Western leaders will have to sort that out, with the man to bridge the conflicting views.

For the first time since the Second World War, a dip ial developing chance appears to exist for easing East-West tensions.

This in turn makes the defence burden shouldered by the NATO allies all the heavier to carry.

Or even more immediate importance, the lone hand de Gaulle is playing to revive France's status is causing strains in the Western defence system.

This was pinpointed last week when Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the U.S. Joint chiefs of staff, charged that the NATO partners with not assuming their fair share of the defense effort. He pointed a finger particularly at France.

France was stung. At a private meeting Monday Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville told State' Secretary Christian Herter Tuesday's remarks were of "an excessive and dramatic character." But later there were signs French tempers were cooling.

The West Germans moved cautiously toward the American position. Spaak took the line that frankness was a good thing and added that the facts—France's refusal to allow American stockpiles of nuclear weapons on her territory and her withdrawal from NATO command of her fighter force, her air warning system and one - third of her Mediterranean fleet — had been known for months.

Herter and Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd agreed to get going on preparations for the resumption in February of East-West disarmament negotiations, dormant for the last two years. They hope to arrange a meeting, probably next month, of the Western powers to co-ordinate disarmament policies into a single new disarmament plan.

The U.S.'s own disarmament policies are undergoing a new study, and this must be completed before there can be hard bargaining or exchanges.

Once the five — the U.S., Britain, France, Italy and Canada — get their own program in hand, they will be ready to sit down with the Communist members at the negotiations, planned for Geneva.

Gifts Requested For Patients in Mental Hospital

Can you imagine spending a Christmas without receiving at least one gaily wrapped present? Such has often been the lot of four fellow citizens who have had to spend a festive season in one of our—Special hospitals. This need not be the case this Christmas.

The Canadian Mental Health Association is for the second year launching operation "Lifting Shadows" — a gift for each of the 20,000 patients in our mental hospitals. We are asking for Christmas presents, not a cash donation. The fact that someone has given a few minutes of their time to purchase a personal gift will mean a great deal to these patients, like many of whom have neither friends nor relatives to keep them in touch with the outside world. Many will be encouraged by knowing that there is Someone Who Cares"; that the community is interested, working and hoping for their recovery.

Presents should be sent to 111 St. George Street, Toronto 5.

Anti-American Campaign Could Hurt Fidel Castro

"AT HOME"

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tucker, 8 Boswell Street, will be 'at home' to friends and relatives on Sunday, December 20th, from 2-5 and 7-9 p.m. on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Joseph B. Booth is a patient in the Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, undergoing surgery.

News has been received of the sudden death of Mr. Fred W. Garvin, of Hilton, N.Y., formerly of this city.

Mr. Richard (Dick) R. Smith, of Ingersoll, former superintendent of the London Life Insurance Company of this city, has completed 15 years of membership in the Merit Corps which was established to give special recognition to those attaining a high standard in their service and sales work. Mr. Smith is a charter member of this organization. The London Life has been pleased to recognize this special outstanding accomplishment. For several years prior to moving to Ingersoll, he was superintendent of the Alliance Tabernacle Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frederick Burke, are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Belleville. BURKE — PITT

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Belleville, was the setting for a very lovely late autumn wedding when Mary Elizabeth Pitt, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Ambrose Pitt and the late Mr. Pitt, became the bride of Robert Frederick Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burke, of Belleville. The Reverend J. J. V. Buckley performed the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The Reverend T. E. Reicland of Sioux was present in the sanctuary. Bouquets of pink and white carnations decorating the altar and sanctuary.

The Rev. Sister Mary Joan of Arc rendered the wedding music and, accompanied the bride, Mr. Ronald Cassidy, of Tweed, who sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "Shadow At Your Feet Is Kneeling" during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leo Pitt, of Belleville, the bride was charming in her full-length bridal gown of white chantilly lace and tulle, fashioned with lace bodice having a high neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt featured in the back chantilly lace long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt featured in the back chantilly lace long sleeves meticulously with tulle, cascading to a matching train. Her fingertip veil of silk tulle illusion, with scalloped, sequin-trimmed edge, was held in place by cap head dress dotted with sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade style bouquet of red Sweetheart roses misting with ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Theresa Pitt, of Belleville, wore a gown of royal blue taffeta accented with large back bow, draped neckline and short sleeves.

The bridesmaids, Misses Margaret Durkin and Eleanor Burke, were similar dresses, matching picture hats and shoes, and carried cascade bouquets of pink and white mums. Pearl necklaces and earrings, the gift of the bride, completed their costumes.

Mr. Robert Johnson, of Belleville, was best man, while Messrs. Michael Burke, brother of the bridegroom, and Jack Pitt, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Trenton Country Club. The bridal table was daintily appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom beneath white bells. The bridal bouquets completed a lovely nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a light-blue lace gown with dark blue accessories, and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother attired in a dress of royal blue lace with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Lake Placid, N.Y., and the Adirondack district, the bride chose a rose green suit with beige accessories, fur jacket and corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

Guests were present from Maynooth, Detroit, Mich., Trenton, Kingston, Ingersoll, Tweed and Toronto.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Joan Durkin, assisted with Miss Ursula Miller as co-hostess. The bride presented with an electric tea kettle and beautiful white bed spread by the ushers and Miss Jacqueline Smith.

The couple are residing at 44A Grove Street, Belleville.

W.A. Holds Party Meeting

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Woman's Association held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. Malfred Hardwick, in the form of a party on Thursday afternoon with a fine attendance.

The president, Mrs. C. J. Bruns, opened the meeting with a poem and the Lord's Prayer. The visitors and all members were welcomed and the hostess received thanks.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Bush with Mrs. F. Lapum, Mrs. K. Stickle, Mrs. G. Stickle and Mrs. A. Pattenham in charge of filling the bake table and Mrs. Arnold Henry the program.

BUSINESS SESSION

At the business session donations were made to the Retarded Children's Association of Trenton, also to Plainfield, The Church Board, Scott's Mission of Toronto, Save the Children Fund, and Indian Illiteracy.

Talent Money was handed in for the year. This was made in different ways — rummage sale, little sprout, a penny contest, sale of foam rubber flowers and articles, quilting and an aluminum party.

A fine candle-light service was put on by Mrs. Pattenham with nine ladies taking part, Mrs. Pattenham as leader, Mrs. Clapp as The Spirit of Truth; Mrs. Wm. S. Harry, The Spirit of Joy; Mrs. K. Stickle, The Spirit of Good-Will; Mrs. A. Harry, Peace; Mrs. W. Smith, Faith; Mrs. K. Stickle, Hope; Mrs. C. Curtis, Love; Mrs. C. J. Bruns, People, with Christmas carols sung in appropriate places.

Mrs. Alec Vandervoort read the Scriptures found in Luke 2, and Mrs. Bruns closed with prayer.

Gifts were exchanged after which a fine lunch was enjoyed.

CASH STOLEN CHEQUES

BRANTFORD (CP) — Seventy-five pay checks have been stolen from Gates Rubber of Canada Limited and 70 worth $2,500 already have been cashed, police warned Monday.

Woman Want Just Equality Says Senator

KINGSTON (CP) — Senator Elsie Inman of Prince Edward Island believes Canadian women could have a woman's world, but that they don't want it.

Women just want equality with men, she told a Farm Women's Union meeting here.

"Women have taken increasing responsibilities," she said. "They own property, spend more than 50 per cent of the household dollar and collect 85 per cent of the life insurance.

But all the woman of today wants is a roof over her head and the right to raise it."

Senator Inman recalled the fight to give women a vote and the right to hold public office. She said it is regrettable more women aren't in public office.

"The future hope of the world may depend on the faith and courage of women.

"In this fear age it is necessary to hold firm to moral and spiritual values to produce an age of progress instead of total destruction."

Workers' Union 715 Sponsors Yuletide Party

FRANKFORD — The Boot and Shoe Union, Local 715, annual party was held in Frankford Community Hall on the afternoon of December 9th, with Mr. William Lercombe welcoming the gathering of children.

The program consisted of Frankford Full Gospel Choir singing Christmas carols and solos by Mrs. Cecil Andrews, choir director, assisted by her husband, Mr. Cecil Andrews, who led the carol singing.

Mrs. Lenea Kormos, violinist, with Miss Helen Mikulicek, pianist, rendered several selections.

Colored cartoons were enjoyed and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Montgomery, Bonnie, gave several piano and banjo numbers.

A beautiful lighted Christmas tree adorned the platform. Santa Claus arrived with a clown. Visitors and children were welcomed and bags of candy were distributed to all in attendance.

MISS SAPPER 1960 — Chris Strawbridge of Bloomfield, was chosen "Miss Sapper 1960" at the Royal Canadian Engineers' annual ball at Picton Army Camp. A year bride from Edinburgh, Scotland, Chris is the wife of Sidney Strawbridge. She met her husband, a member of Picton Sappers Club, while he was serving with the R.C.E. in Edinburgh.

NEW RESIDENCE	FISHERS FLY HOME
TORONTO (CP) — A $250,000 contract to construct a new students' residence at the Ontario agricultural school at Kemptville has been awarded the Angus-Robertson Company of Toronto, Public Works Minister Comtois announced Monday. It is expected to be completed in about four months.	LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor arrived Monday by plane from New York where she had been in hospital since Nov. 25 with pneumonia. "I'm still a little weak but otherwise I feel all right," the actress said, looking pale, tired and thin. She was accompanied by her husband, singer Eddie Fisher.

Everyone joined in singing Christmas carols.

After the meeting closed, the hostesses, Mrs. Mildred Ketchason, Mrs. Harold Abbott, Mrs. Harry Slingerland, Mrs. Huse and Mrs. Doug Montgomery served refreshments.

Woman at 106 Spends Most of Day in Prayer

MONTREAL (CP) — At 106, Mrs. Louis Benoit is making a nodding acquaintance with her lifelong ambition to be a nun.

Mrs. Benoit, who celebrated her 106th birthday Dec. 8, is a guest at the Foyer d'Youville, a home for the aged maintained at Montreal by nursing sisters.

The youngest of six brothers and seven sisters, she said she wanted to become a nun when she finished school, but that her parents would not allow it. Instead, she was married and lived at Beauharnois where she was born.

After her husband died she lived with a niece for 46 years, but a year ago moved to the home provided by the sisters.

She said she spends most of every day in prayer.

QUESTION BOX

Question: If you receive a Christmas card which, aside from the usual greetings and the names of the senders, has a scribbled note "to drop by on the afternoon of December 26th for a glass of eggnog," are you supposed to answer it, or just go?

Answer: This is a very bad practice that has popped up more and more during the past few years. When a person is extending greetings for the Christmas season, the card should contain those and nothing more. If hospitality is to be offered during the celebration, a separate note, or perhaps a telephone call, should extend the invitation. It should not be placed on the Christmas card itself. If it is, however, you just go or not, as you see fit. No reply is expected unless specifically requested.

Question: When you are in high school and there is one particular girl that you like a lot (not going steady, by the way), what can you give her for Christmas that won't be too personal, or give her any "ideas"?

Answer: A record album, or just one record, or perhaps a book are excellent gifts in a situation like this. It shows the thought without being "too personal." Avoid anything for personal adornment, such as jewelry, scarves, et cetera. (Note: I suppose the "give her ideas" comment means that an expensive gift might indicate a desire on the part of the young man to "go steady"? Such conceit! For the record, I have always been against this "steady" business for those of high school age!)

Question: Are there any special hints to those who will be guests during the coming Christmas and New Year holidays?

Answer: Yes, plenty. Here are a few "hints" picked at random: Don't straggle in late, offering lame excuses that indicate that you didn't try to arrive on time or the first places; don't act like a hermit crab and refuse to help make any party you attend a success. If you go, DO go. Don't stay along to a party to which you haven't been invited just because a friend says: "Oh, come on, they won't mind!" If you have not been asked, don't go!; don't leave a function without expressing your appreciation to your hosts. Taking their hospitality for granted is most unfair; don't overstay your welcome. Leave before you wear it out.

You Can Make Chocolates

by Mary Moore

You can make chocolates if you are willing to obey the rules. A candy thermometer is a necessary piece of equipment.

Coating chocolate may be purchased—in large candy stores specializing in homemade goods or from a chocolate manufacturer in your own town.

TO PREPARE CHOCOLATE AND COVER CENTRES:

Shred the chocolate finely and heat in double boiler. Water below must not go above 120 deg. F. Melted chocolate must not go above 110 deg. F. Chocolate must be cooled to between 80 and 85 deg. for dipping centres. The more the chocolate is stirred while melting the better. Drops of water should never touch it.

When centres (below) are ready for dipping, take one with your left hand and lower into melted chocolate; when covered lift out on stirring spoon and with thumb and second finger of right hand, pick it up, allow to drip, place on new tin tray or wax paper. Make string decoration or swirl from chocolate which runs from finger or spoon. Work at room temperature of 67 to 70 deg.

CREAM CENTRES:

A fondant base is used for almost all cream centres. Vanilla, pineapple, peppermint, orange, cherry being favorites. When made the cream is kneaded until soft, a hole pushed in it, the flavor and color added, and worked through the cream. Break off small portions, roll into balls or desired shapes, dust lightly with powdered sugar and dry on wax paper at least 2 hours.

FONDANT:

Into a 2-quart saucepan put 1 lb. granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup (8-9 cup) hot water, fitted with wooden spoon until it starts to boil. Remove spoon, stir no more, wipe sides of saucepan with wet cloth to remove remaining sugar crystals. Insert thermometer and boil to 238 deg. F. (soft ball). Pour boiling syrup into square tin pan or cloth or marble slab brushed with cold water. Cool until hand may be held comfortably on syrup. With wooden spoon or paddle work slowly through syrup, turning it over and over from centre, until it changes and forms into a lump of cream. Leave where it is, cover with damp cloth (not touching cream) let stand 12 to 24 hours. It is now ready for coloring and flavoring.

BUTTER CREAMS:

Knead 1-2 lb. fondant (above) until soft, push hole in centre, add 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons butter and, if desired, 1 tablespoon breakfast cocoa. With a bread knife work them in thoroughly. Roll small pieces in hands, dust with powdered sugar, let dry on wax paper to form a crust before coating.

CHOCOLATE-COATED MARASCHINOS :

Drain well as many maraschino cherries as needed. Judge amount of fondant needed and heat it in double boiler — water below never exceeding 150 deg. Stir constantly, adding 1 tablespoon butter. When hot and thinned, add vanilla sparingly if desired. Dip drained cherry in fondant to completely cover. Allow surplus to drain off, deposit on wax paper. Let stand until set. Coat with dark sweet chocolate (dipping instructions above). The acid in the cherry soon causes the cream to liquefy.

VARIATIONS :

For orange or peppermint or chocolate cherry creams add to portions of fondant orange extract and orange food coloring; peppermint extract and green coloring; pineapple extract and yellow coloring; cherry extract and pink food coloring .

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two lawyers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. J.: My daughter wants me to give up the widows' club.

Lillian T. — She can do better things.

Mrs. L. J. — I am 65 and lost my husband two years ago. We were a very devoted couple and I feel I wouldn't be able to go on without him.

She recently ago I met another widow who invited me to join a club of widows in our community and since then I have been much happier. We spend three or four evenings a week together, playing cards, going to the movies or just going to dinner and an evening shopping trip. It is certainly nice to have companionship again in the evenings.

My daughter thinks I'm making a mistake hanging around with those women. She thinks I ought to marry again, I certainly don't know how to go looking for a husband at my age.

* * *

Lillian T. — My mother looks a good ten years younger than her age and she has more energy than I have. She worked for ten years before her marriage and is an accomplished secretary. The women she has been going around with are dull and can't do anything better with themselves than gossip and play cards.

I feel that my mother could be much happier if she were more active. She has been well provided for, but if she went back to work she could get into the swing of things and meet more people. My friends' mother married again at age 68 last year. I don't see why it can't happen to my mother.

Mother seems to feel that she has one foot in the grave. That's far from true.

The Council: We agree with Lillian that a healthy, energetic woman of 65 shouldn't think of herself as close to the grave, although it is natural for her to have such a tendency if she has recently lost her husband.

The widows' club isn't a bad idea. We think that all of the women in this group are making a mistake by taking up too much of one another's time and building up an interdependence within such a small, special group. These women will very soon become sick of one another's company and the group will break up because of boredom and petty bickering. Then the women won't want to see any more of one another. If they restricted themselves to weekly or twice-monthly get-togethers, they would enjoy themselves more on those special occasions and move around in a larger social area at other times.

Mrs. L. J. is fortunate in having a daughter who encourages her to make the most of her assets. Her energy, youthful appearance and ability are riches that shouldn't be washed down the drain. However, Lillian can't set goals for her mother and expect her mother to carry them out. It is up to Mrs. L. J. to decide what she wants to do in order to participate in life more fully.

Mrs. L. J. may find that club or volunteer work is more suitable than a regular job at this stage of her life. She may find this work plus the companionship of family and friends sufficiently fulfilling. We wouldn't discourage the search or a second husband if this is what she really wants, but she should make her own decision. We agree that Mrs. L. J. has limited her life too much. She should seek new objectives and new horizons.

W.A., W.M.S. Hold Meeting

CENTENARY — Mrs. Mac Nobes opened her home to the December meeting of the W.A. and the W.M.S. of Centenary United Church last Thursday. The W.M.S. president, Mrs. B. Harder, conducted the worship service which opened with quiet music. The Christmas hymn, "Gentle Mary," was sung. Mrs. R. Hart gave a reading "Precious Gift". Mrs. A. Christopher read the Scripture from Luke 2: 1-20.

Mrs. Aikens read a poem "Just a Little Town"; Mrs. Harder gave a reading, "The Roon," which was the story of the keeper of the Inn where Jesus was born; Mrs. E. Hart read a poem, "That Same Bright Star," after which Mrs. Lloyd Pearson and Mrs. Phil Ray sang a duet "Star of the East," which was much enjoyed; Mrs. Roy Thrasher gave a reading "When He Knocks," followed by a reading by Mrs. Harder, "At the New Gate".

Mrs. P. Sutherland invited all W.M.S. members to the December meeting of the Mission Band on Thursday afternoon at the school.

W.A. PORTION

The W.A. meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. R. Edmondson, reading the W.A. motto, Psalm 90: 17.

Six calls were answered, and 6 letters of thanks for flowers and cards were read.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. Hart, gave a splendid financial report of the year's work.

Donations were given to the Missionary and Maintenance of the United Church and to the Temperance Federation. Gifts were made for the usual Christmas baskets.

Mrs. John Best and Mrs. Byron Harder were appointed to act as auditors for 1959 books. Mrs. B. Harder W.M.S. president, and Mrs. Reg. Edmondson W.A. president, thanked all those who had co-operated so willingly during their term of office and hoped the new Federation would retain. Mrs. Hart would receive the same co-operation.

Mrs. Fred Aikens moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers who had faithfully given their time and service during the past two years of office and also hoped the new organization would be successful.

The Rev. Roy Rickard B.A. closed the meeting with prayer.

Argos Get Nobby Wirkowski In Player Deal With Stamps

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union announced Monday a five - player trade which sends quarterback Nobby Wirkowski to Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four.

Key player the Stampeders get in return is Canadian quarterback Jerry Doucette, a six-year veteran with Argos. Also coming to Calgary, are defensive halfback Clare Exelby and defensive end Morgan Clark, both Canadians.

Going to Toronto along with Wirkowski is Canadian middle guard Walter Radzick, rookie of the year in the WIFU in 1958.

In a simultaneous announcement in Toronto, an Argonaut spokesman said Wirkowski will take over the job of assistant coach under Lou Agase, signed to head coach earlier this month. The ex - Argo quarterback, who piloted Calgary to its last Grey Cup in 1952, will play only if required, the spokesman said.

KINDS SPECULATION

Wirkowski had been the centre of speculation since Agase announced he was hired coach and assistant with experience in Canadian football.

Neither Wirkowski nor Radzick are strangers to Toronto. Wirkowski, born in the United States but now a Canadian, quarterbacked Argos when they last won the Grey Cup in 1952. Since then he has played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and has spent the last three years with Calgary.

Radzick formerly played with the University of Toronto and Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. A standout in 1958, he saw little action this year after reporting 40 pounds overweight.

Doucette at various times during the last six years has been Argos' first-string quarterback usually for brief periods after U.S. quarterbacks failed to live up to expectations.

Exelby, also an offensive flanker, has played two years with Argos. Clark comes to Calgary after one season in Toronto. He previously played for Sarnia Golden Bears of the OIFU and University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Jim Trimble Will Remain With TiCats

HAMILTON (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football union, said today that coach Jim Trimble has no intention of accepting a coaching job with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Speculation that Trimble might be planning a move was aroused when Sid Gillman resigned as head coach of the Rams Saturday and the Hamilton coach turned up in Los Angeles.

Gaudaur said he expected some speculation but added that Trimble "was there to watch the Syracuse - UCLA game, to talk with Syracuse players and the McKeever twins who play with Southern Cal."

He said Trimble now is in Syracuse, N.Y.) to sign three players and is expected back here shortly.

Trimble has just completed the first year of a five-year contract with the Ticats.

Higher-scoring University of Toronto halfback Tim Reid, recent recipient of a Rhodes scholarship to attend Oxford University in England, has been eliminated from the Hamilton Tiger-Cats draft for the 1960 season, Gaudaur said.

"He would have been included in our plans next year if he hadn't won the scholarship," he said.

Reid, who scored more than 100 points for the Blues in the Intercollegiate Football League before he graduated in 1958, was a Tiger-Cats' first choice in last January's annual college draft.

Football League May Face Player Revolt

NEW YORK (AP)—The deep-entrenched National Football League, seeking to avoid any collision with the new American League in the bidding for talent, faces the possibility of a player revolt within its own ranks.

The first indication that some of the NFL's players might jump to the rival circuit came Monday when Sam Huff, a member of New York Giants said they want to check the possibility of moving to the AFL.

Defensive specialist Dick Modzelewski and R. C. Owens were the first NFL players to make a public declaration of any such intentions. Two others, Chuck Fred Dugan and Jim Ridlon, expressed a desire to play with another club but not necessarily in the AFL.

The reason for all four was the same: They are not playing salaries and figure they can do better elsewhere. However, they have no intentions of jumping their contracts.

Vic Morabito, president of the Chargers, said: "We are not going to release them and we're not going to trade them." The American Football League. We want competitive players. We can't see any reason for their dissatisfaction because they are not playing more. We would start worrying if they were complacent about sitting on the bench."

Officials of the two leagues have said they will honor each other's contracts.

In Philadelphia, acting NFL commissioner Austin Gunsel said "as far as I know there has been no serious talk of players jumping to the new league . . . as for the future that takes a crystal ball to see."

Meanwhile, the opponents in the NFL's championship game—Baltimore Colts and New York Giants—checked their injured list before starting workouts for the title contest here Dec. 27.

Backfielder Alex Webster of New York, feared lost due to a spinal injury, was certified for action after X-rays came up negative. The Colts will be without the services of fullback Jim Brechibar, who Monday underwent an operation to repair a knee injury.

Warren Spahn Tops Among National Hurlers

CINCINNATI (AP)— Sam (Toothpick) Jones, San Francisco Giants' fourth straight earned run titleholder, but Milwaukee's Warren Spahn won the major share of honors among National League pitchers in 1960.

Jones, 21-game winner, took the earned run crown with a 2.83 average, official statistics released today showed. Stu Miller, rangher Giants' righthander, who finished with 2.84, Bob Buhl of Milwaukee Braves 2.86 and Spahn 2.96. Miller was the 1958 leader with 2.47.

Spahn, 39 - year - old southpaw, led the league in complete games with 21, innings pitched 292, batters faced 1,303 and tied with Jones and teammate Lew Burdette for most victories.

Spahn, by winning at least 20 games for the 10th time, extended his major league record for lefthanders. Only pitching four shutouts increased his National League standing for most games won by a southpaw.

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's relief ace, established a big league record for winning percentage. He won 18 games and lost one for a .947 mark.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles had the most strikeouts, 242.

Patterson Will Stick With Cus D'Amato

MONTREAL (CP) — Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Monday night he intends to stick with his manager Cus D'Amato "come what may."

Patterson declined comment, however, when asked if he has any association with the controversial D'Amato is an obstacle to a rematch with his Swedish conqueror, Ingemar Johansson.

D'Amato's license was revoked in New York State after an investigation into manipulations behind the Patterson-Johansson bout last June.

Patterson said he would prefer to have the rematch in New York "because I lost the title there."

As far as Cus is concerned, our four-year contract still has two years and a half to run and, when it expires, I am going to sign for another four years."

Patterson was interviewed before hosting a pair of boxing exhibitions Monday with his sparring partners, Billy Tibadie, 155, and Tom Bethea, 216, both of Bridgeport, Conn.

The former champion looked exceptionally sharp as he knocked Norton down twice in the final round of the 10th preliminary.

His Canadian poker - rooney tour takes him to Ottawa next week. He fights in North Bay Wednesday night in Brantford Thursday night and winds it up in Windsor Saturday night.

NEW GREENHOUSE

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Carlo Fournier officiated at the opening of the 11th greenhouse in the parks department forestry centre. The greenhouse was named in honor of the late Louis Dupire, a newspaper man who was devoted to municipal affairs and parks.

On The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—Thoroughbred horse racing showed considerable over-all gains in attendance, parl - mutuel betting and revenue in the United States during 1959.

Wagering and revenue fell off in six states and there was a slight drop in attendance in 10 states as compared to 1958.

Not counting the trotters, and with estimates from several states where racing is still going on, an Associated Press survey shows the 1959 total attendance was 30,494,907. Attendance last year was 29,472,325.

The pari-mutuel turnover totalled $2,381,647,324, a boost of 7.07 per cent over the $2,253,720,-318 reported a year ago. Revenue to the 34 states where the mutuels are legal was $180,382,950, a gain of 7.49 per cent over the $167,817,533 reported in 1958.

There were 3,523 rating days in 1959, compared with 3,136 in 1958.

TORONTO (CP) — A 1960 thoroughbred racing season opening at Fort Erie Saturday, April 9, and closing at Toronto's Woodbine on Thursday, Nov. 24, was approved Monday by the Ontario racing commission. Also approved was a 53-day harness racing meeting at Old Woodbine July 1-Aug. 31, four days longer than this year's.

Will Be Ready For Title Bout Says Sugar Ray

BOSTON (CP) — "I've got a lot of work to do to get back," Sugar Ray Robinson said Monday. "I'll be on time (be ready) for the title fight."

Robinson, who has held one version or another of the world middleweight boxing championship five times, had just finished his first fight in 20 months — a second-round technical knockout of hopeful Bob Young.

He bashed Young off his feet on five occasions in the second round Monday night, but was far from satisfied with his first performance since losing the world title from Carmen Basilio March 25, 1958.

RING-RUST

"I missed a lot but I guess that 20 months makes a difference," Robinson said. "I'd planned to go six or seven rounds with the boy, but I just slow. But he hurt me in the first when he hit me in the head. That's what changed my attitude completely. I had to get in close with as fast a fight as Young. New England light-heavyweight champion from Providence, R.I., caught Robinson with a solid left hook late in the second round of the scheduled 10-rounder. He spent most of the rest of the fight on his back.

Referee Eddie Bradley didn't even start his count on the last knockdown — just waved his hands over Young and raised Robinson's hand. The time was 1:18.

Robinson, now 39, appeared lean and hard at 161½ pounds. Young weighed 168.

Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., who fought on the card in a co-feature, is the National Boxing Association's seventh challenger, and fights Robinson for the Massachusetts-New York version of the middleweight champion in Boston, Jan. 22.

Mixed Brawl Erupts Before Patterson Bout

MONTREAL (CP) — A chair-swinging brawl erupted between Negro and white spectators at ringside Monday night before Floyd Patterson's exhibition bouts at Mont St. Louis gymnasium.

Several spectators suffered cuts and bruises. Policeman broke it up quickly but made no arrests.

The central combatants appeared to be a number of white spectators and a group of Negro men who entered the gymnasium escorting two white women.

One of the women became engaged in an argument with a white woman and blows were exchanged, starting the fracas.

At least a dozen of the 600 spectators joined in, throwing punches and swinging chairs.

Photographers leaped into the ring to take pictures of the brawl. At least one has his camera smashed.

The former heavyweight champion was in his dressing room at the time.

TRAIN DOOR

LONDON (CP) — A road safety council in the Dagenham district employs a dog trainer to teach the animals road safety.

SIGN PITCHERS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Three young pitchers, sightseers Bob Gibson and Bob Duliba and left-hander Marshall Bridges, have signed their 1960 contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals, the first of Redbirds to do so. Bridges, 28, had a 6-3 won-lost record last season, Gibson, 24, was 5-6 and Duliba, 26, was 0 and 1.

HERE STAR

OSHAWA (CP) — Officials of the Oshawa Ski Club announced Monday former Austrian Olympic star Hans Eder will instruct at the club this year. Eder represented Austria on the 1948 and 1952 Olympic ski teams, and was formerly a member of the Kitzbuehel Ski School at Mont Tremblant, Que.
